Freshmen Receive M. C. A. Handbooks

Valuable Information Contained in Volume Given to New Men

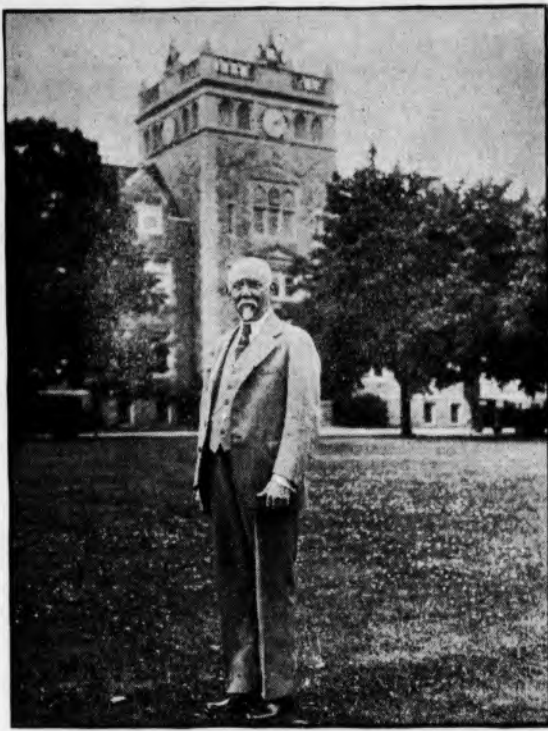

The 1935-36 edition of the freshman "M" handbook, published annually by the Muhlenberg Christian Association made its appearance on the campus last week. A copy of the new book was given to each new man at the time of registration.

This year's volume was edited under the direction of Julius Kish, '36, president of the M. C. A. and was dedicated to Paul O. Hoepfner, member of the class of 1936, who died this summer. Mr. Hoepfner was elected editor of the book last spring, but was succeeded by Mr. Kish when the former's health prevented him from further duties. Kish was assisted by other members of the M. C. A. cabinet.

With the publication of this volume, the staff has continued the policy of presenting in compact form vital information about the activities of Muhlenberg. The new book differs considerably in layout and arrangement, although the material included is essentially the same as other years.

Outstanding among the items listed in its pages are the Freshman Week program, college calendar for 1935-36, and greetings from President Haas and Dean Horn.

Begins Last Year As President

The Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas, who last Friday morning officially opened the college year for the last time as head of the institution. Muhlenberg this fall starts its sixty-ninth academic term. Last spring President Haas tendered his official resignation to the Board of Trustees to become effective at the end of the current school year.

List Rulings For Weekly Will Again Chapel Attendance Issue Supplement

Rev. Cressman Announces New Regulations for Weekly Services

New regulations for weekly chapel attendance this year have been announced by the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain. The new ruling will go into effect next Monday morning.

The major change in this year's regulations over that of former terms requires members of the senior and junior classes to attend services on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings, while sophomores and freshmen will go on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. In other years all students were required to attend chapel three times a week, but they had the choice of what days they wanted to go.

The full list of regulations for 1935-36, given out by the Rev. Mr. Cressman, is as follows:

1. Seniors and Juniors will attend chapel on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Attendance on Sunday afternoon may be substituted for one of the days designated above.

2. Sophomores and Freshmen will attend chapel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. Attendance on Sunday afternoon may be substituted for one of the days designated above.

3. No credit will be given for attendance on any but the days designated for particular classes unless special permission has been granted by the chaplain.

4. Students making up cuts, unable to attend on the day designated for their class or desiring to attend more than the required number of days per week to gain the voluntary attendance privilege for the following year must make

A regular pictorial review of the news of the college world will be featured each week in The Collegiate Digest section of The Muhlenberg Weekly, the first issue of which appears with this edition of The Weekly.

Featuring exclusive lively features written especially for its wide collegiate audience in addition to the regular news of the week "in picture and paragraph," Collegiate Digest brings to the readers of The Muhlenberg Weekly the most complete pictorial review of college news available.

A new and outstanding feature of the issues this year will be the unusual Speed Graph photos taken with the "Magic Eye" camera and depicting the continuous motions of athletes in action. The remarkable photos have been made possible recently by the invention of a camera which "stops" the various movements of people in action.

Then, too, Collegiate Digest will continue in The Spotlight, its bright and lively stories of the great and near great who graduated from or attended college. The first issue features the biography of America's greatest humorist, Will Rogers, presenting many heretofore unpublished facts about his life.

20 Graduates Receive Diplomas at Summer School Commencement

Muhlenberg's twenty-first annual summer school session was brought to a close on August 9, when Dean Robert C. Horn conferred degrees upon twenty graduates who had completed their work.

Since the elimination last year of the annual College Day exercises in the fall the college School of Education has been holding its own graduation ceremonies at the close of the regular summer session. Dean Horn, using the Latin form of conferring bachelor degrees, bestowed the honors upon the graduates as they were presented by Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, head of the School of Education.

Dr. Horn, Dr. Wright and Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean-emeritus of the college, lent color to the setting in the chapel of the administration building by wearing their cap and gowns with the col-

Cardinal and Gray Football Squad to Open Friday Night

Muhlenberg Eleven Will Meet U. of Baltimore; Game Starts at 8

MARYLAND SCHOOL TO SEND FIGHTING ELEVEN

Coach John L. Utz and his Cardinal and Gray gridiron warriors will pry off the lid of the 1935 campaign this Friday night, meeting the University of Baltimore eleven under the lights on Muhlenberg's field. The opening kickoff of the season is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The college officials are making every effort to see that nothing is left undone to make this year's opener a gala event. Director Henry Soltys will be on hand with his 40-piece Cardinal and Gray band, the freshmen are being taught the school cheers, and Maxie Kohn will be there with his assistants to lead the entire student body in cheering the team on its initial triumph.

Names of the officials announced this week are H. R. Witwer, (Franklin and Marshall) referee; J. Cooper French, (Penn State) umpire; J. E. Gallagher, (Georgetown) head linesman.

The several thousand students, alumni, and other followers of the local team will have their first opportunity to see Muhlenberg play on the newly enlarged and inclosed athletic field. Placed around the field this summer was a new cyclone wire fence to replace the boards which had inclosed the gridiron and track for many years. The new tri-entrance gateway, being erected by the class of 1916, is expected to be finished by Friday and will be used for the first time.

"Out To Take Muhlenberg" Few are the predictions being made as to the outcome of the battle with the Maryland gridders. Little is known of the strength and ability of the Baltimore squad, while the real of power of the Muhls in itself is a question mark. Moravian College, in Bethlehem, last fall smothered the southern boys under a 46 to 0 score, but this can scarcely be considered a comparison when looking over 'Berg's inexperienced but plucky team.

A clipping from the Baltimore News and Post indicates that Coach Ray McRobie will bring a fighting bunch of players here this week. Quoting McRobie, the Baltimore paper writes as follows:

"We are out to take Muhlenberg in our opening game"

Dr. Haas Participates In Cornerstone Laying

President John A. W. Haas was one of the guest speakers last Sunday for the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. John's Lutheran church on South Fifth street in this city. Included among the articles placed in the copper box which was put into the stone was a poem written by President Haas and dedicated to St. John's congregation. The new structure is expected to cost slightly more than $250,000.

Other Muhlenberg men who took part in the service last Sunday were the Rev. Corson C. Snyder '17, of Slatington, president of the Allentown Conference of the Ministerium; Judge James F. Henninger '21, superintendent of the Sunday School; and the Rev. Dr. Paul Z. Strodach '96, editorial writer in the Lutheran Publication House.

ELECT GREGORIUS NEW SECRETARY OF M. C. A.

Frederick Gregorius '37, has been elected secretary of the Muhlenberg Christian Association to replace Paul Hoepfner '36, who died following an operation this summer. A special meeting of the organization was held last week.

The association will meet the third Monday of each month during the school year. The purchase of magazines and literature to be placed in the recreation hall was authorized as was also the purchase of leaflets which will be distributed on the local campus. Theodore Fisher '36, was instructed to organize the Associate Cabinet for immediate work.

ALUMNUS OF '33 SPEAKS AT LOCAL ANNIVERSARY

An inspirational program marking the tenth anniversary of the reorganization of the Luther League took the place of the regular evening service on Sunday in St. Luke's Lutheran church of which Rev. William L. Katz '13, is pastor.

The address was delivered by Christian Schenk, graduate of Muhlenberg College in 1933 and at present a senior student at the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

Dr. Robert Conklin Assumes Post Here

New English Professor Fills Position Vacated by Professor Coder

With the opening of the 1935-36 college year one new professor assumes a position in the English department. The new man, added to the faculty this term, is Dr. Robert J. Conklin, elected last spring to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. William D. Coder. Dr. Conklin has taken residence at his home just outside of the city along the Emaus road.

The new teacher's thesis for his Doctor of Philosophy degree was favorably received this summer by Columbia University in New York City and it is now being printed at the University of the Philippines where Dr. Conklin spent several years as a member of the English staff.

Dr. Conklin comes to Muhlenberg with teaching experience covering a period of ten years after having attended three different colleges and universities in this country and abroad.

He was born at Montclair, New Jersey, and after completing his elementary education in the public schools, enlisted in the army and served overseas with the American Expeditionary Forces. After the signing of the Armistice he studied French at the University of Toulouse in France.

Taught at Purdue

Returning to this country after the World War, Mr. Conklin enrolled at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., from where he was graduated in 1921. Here he was awarded the Gilkey scholarship and a fellowship to Clark University in Worcester, Mass. He received his Master's degree from this institution in 1922. He then began his teaching career at Penn State College where he was an instructor in English composition for two years. Following this term he assumed a similar position at Purdue University in Lafayette, Indiana, where he specialized in work with sub-freshman groups. In 1928 he began work for his Doctor's degree in English at Columbia University.

Before completing the work at Columbia, he was elected to and accepted the position as head of the English department at the University of the Philippines in Manila. Here he remained until 1932 when he went to England to complete work for his degree. For the past two years he has been teaching English in Union County Junior College, in Roselle, N. Y.

Dr. Conklin will teach four freshman English groups this year in addition to conducting classes in the college's Extension School.

Athletic Field Enlarged as New Fence and Gateway Are Erected

With the erection of a new wire fence around the college athletic field this summer workmen are now busy in attempt to complete the installation of a gateway in time for the opening football game with the University of Baltimore here Friday night. Barring bad weather, Registrar Benfer stated that he expected the work to be finished by Friday.

The gateway is being placed here in accordance with the wishes of the class of 1916, which voted to donate $500 for that purpose. The class committee met with the members of the Athletic committee and approved the design submitted by Ruhe and Lange, Allentown architects.

The gateway, made of brick and structural iron construction, is located at the northeast corner of the field at Liberty and Twenty-fourth Streets. Two ticket offices

150 Freshmen Enroll As Muhlenberg Opens For Sixty-ninth Term

Rev. Robert R. Fritsch, D.D.

Using for his theme "The Bible as the Revelation of Truth", the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of Religion, opened the year of college activities in the Science auditorium last Friday morning. The following are several statements made by the speaker during his address:

"If an institution such as ours is definitely Christian, it is because the individual faculty man and the individual student is definitely Christian."

"There have always been those in the world who deem it to be a mark of intellectual superiority to ignore the fact of God. Such persons are the ungodly, because the thought of God is not in their hearts. Another group will speak rather vaguely of a supreme being or of an intelligent personality resident somewhere on the periphery of the universe, somehow presiding over its intricate movements and determining its ultimate destiny. David, one of the outstanding thinkers of all time, represents a third group when he says O God, Thou art my God!"

"The Bible is not a text-book in the realm of science, yet it is intensively scientific, because true to fact. No laboratory can tell us anything as to the origin of matter, of life or of man, but it is at exactly these three points that we find the statement on the first page of the Bible."

"There are, no doubt, many who would relegate a college classroom in Bible to a far corner in the sub-basement, but figuratively speaking, they would be right, for it is the textbook which is foundational in the realm of true wisdom, therefore necessary to a complete education."

"In Jesus Christ, as revealed to us in the New Testament, in fulfillment of the Old Testament prophecies, we find the explanation of the meaning of life. Without Him education is always inadequate, incomplete and therefore unsatisfying."

"The Bible was not given to us as a textbook on matters of the

1939 Class Guest of M. C. A. at Parties, Reception Last Week

REV. FRITSCH DELIVERS ADDRESS TO STUDENTS

With 150 freshmen enrolled, Muhlenberg officially re-opened for its sixty-ninth academic year last Friday morning. Registration of upper classmen was held open until today at noon. The 1939 class is slightly larger than last year's freshman group which numbered one hundred and forty-one.

The opening address of the college year was made last Friday by the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of Greek and English Bible, who spoke on the subject, "The Bible as the Revelation of Truth." At the conclusion of his speech, Dr. Fritsch, with brief remarks, paid tribute to the Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas, who this year begins his last term as president of the college.

The Rev. Russell W. Stine, religion professor, and the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain, also participated in the opening exercises which were held in the Science Hall auditorium.

Informal ceremonies marked the greeting of the new men in the assembly room of the administration building Monday of last week after the new students had registered their names with Harry A. Benfer, registrar.

George R. Koehler, of Bethlehem, president of the student body, took time off from his football duties to explain the class organization to the "greenies," freshman regulations, and the workings of the student council, governing body of the students.

Attend Chapel Service

After the meeting the boys got their first taste of the rigors of college life when they took the English examination in the Science auditorium. Prof. Ephraim Everitt and Dr. Robert Conklin, the new instructor in English, were in charge of the examination which is used to classify the boys according to groups.

THE 1935 SEASON OPENS

Muhlenberg's Cardinal and Gray clad gridiron machine opens another season this week meeting a new foe in the University of Baltimore. Nine other games follow this tilt on the local schedule. Regardless of the outcome of the present campaign it can't be more dismal than last season.

For the past two and a half weeks Coach Johnny Utz and his assistants have been laboring to mould a formidable squad to carry through the 1935 schedule which is by no means an easy one. Students, faculty members, and other followers of the Muhls meanwhile have been speculating and conjecturing as to what will be the fate of this year's team. The consensus of opinion seems to be that no one is "taking anything for granted."

When the season opened in 1934 a more optimistic outlook could not have faced the coach and his squad. The previous season they had experienced one of the best campaigns in Muhlenberg's gridiron history, winning six contests while dropping but three with two of these being to a powerful Fordham crew and Lafayette. Included in the victories were triumphs over Lehigh and Penn State, the latter of which made the sporting world sit up and take notice. This was in 1933. Last fall seventeen senior lettermen came back presumably to place Muhlenberg near the top in gridiron circles. The dismal record of two victories and one tie against six defeats is now history. Whatever may have been the cause, the fact remains that the 1934 season was one of the poorest in Muhlenberg history.

It is little wonder this year that followers of the Cardinal and Gray are taking nothing for granted. On paper the 1935 outlook is pessimistic compared to that of a year ago. The chances of breaking even during the year are scarcely worth considering when one stops to think of the loss through graduation of a virtually entire senior line along with three or four regular backfield men.

In addition, several freshmen stars last fall will not return this year due to injuries and a dislike of such things known as examinations. 'Berg's coaching staff can count on only about twenty-seven men to play out the 1935 schedule, but barring injuries this will not be such a difficult problem since two full teams will be available. However, in case of injuries or ineligibilities, lack of reserve material will cause the Cardinal and Gray mentors plenty of trouble.

One of the major causes of worry to Coach Utz and his assistants is the lack of experience of this year's sophomores in collegiate games. If the proper balance is established between this group and the few lettermen on the squad the team should gain confidence in the first few games.

A spark of enthusiasm added to the squad this fall is the work and coaching of Bill Gutteron, former University of Nevada athlete, who has been placed in charge of the backfield men. Thus far the squad has been high in their praise of Gutteron's efforts and he may provide the answer to the vacancy left wide open upon the resignation of Albert (Pop) Kreuz two seasons ago.

Despite the small number reporting for the squad and the lack of experience which many of them face, the squad as a whole has been working hard and appears eager to carry out the orders of the coaching staff. A fine cooperative spirit is prevalent at each day's practice sessions and by the end of November this young squad may completely surprise themselves.

One thing is certain—the players and coaching staff realize they are "on the spot" this year and will do all in their power to move off it. The team has given strong indications that it will be in there fighting every minute of the game and will not exhibit lackadaisical tendencies.

WELCOME TO THE 1939 CLASS

One of the largest freshman classes to ever enter Muhlenberg College was enrolled here last week. This year's increase not only indicates a financial upward trend, but points to the fact that Muhlenberg is fast becoming one of the most popular smaller colleges in the Eastern part of the country.

With the opening of the new term The Muhlenberg Weekly, on behalf of the faculty and three upper classes, extends a cordial welcome to the men in the 1939 class. It is the earnest hope and desire of both faculty and students to have cooperation between the new men and their superiors.

President Haas struck the keynote for this year in his remarks at the college's official opening exercises last Friday when he said "let this year, my last as head of Muhlenberg, be the best I have ever experienced." The entire student body will do well to remember this statement throughout the year in gratitude for the long years of service which Dr. Haas has given to the school.

It is with a note of helpfulness that the freshmen are reminded to take full advantage of the opportunities presented them here and to consult the proper advisers when in need of counsel.

There have been few times when major disturbances have arisen on the local campus. Only with proper cooperation between faculty, students, and alumni groups can this pacified state be maintained. May the remaining years of college life be happy ones for all of you.

DR. FRITSCH DELIVERS OPENING ADDRESS

planets formation and inhabitation. The Bible deals with man and his relation to God, the problem of sin and redemption, a theme that interests even the angels of Heaven. It is not the least concerned with a supposed missing link between man and the animal world, but is profoundly concerned with the link at the other end of the chain, the Divine Son of God.

"There are three universes in which the human mind is interested, the universe of being, which is from the infinite God by way of the angelic beings to finite man, mortal as to his body, but immortal as to his spirit, down through the vast range of the animal world and then through the botanical world into the realm of inanimate matter; the universe of space, which includes the building of speed stream-line trains and rocket ships to overcome the gap between, where man's restless spirit of always wanting to be where he is not; and the universe of time, included in which idea are its infinite aspect, eternity, and the time as we experience it here and now.

"Is Muhlenberg Christian? It will be if we are not merely satisfied with granting that Jesus of history, as portrayed in the Gospels once lived on earth, but if the Jesus of history becomes for each of us, teacher and taught, the Christ of experience and the Lord of our lives, yea, our very life itself, as Paul writes for me to live is Christ."

Albert Herzenberg 1935 Net Captain

Senior Given Honorary Post Following Close of Successful Year

Following the close of college last June a dinner was given for members of the 1935 college tennis team by Dr. John V. Shankweiler, head of the biology department, at his home, Allentown, R. D. 4. Dr. Shankweiler is faculty manager of tennis here.

During the dinner party it was announced that Albert Herzenberg, Franklin, N. J., had been elected honorary captain of the varsity tennis team for last season. Herzenberg, a senior, was twice winner of the tennis tournaments held here and gave way in the one last spring to Earl Koch, playing manager. Both players alternated at playing number one singles in the matches of the 1935 season.

The Muhlenberg netmen scored the best record of tennis history at Muhlenberg in winning nine matches and losing three. Herzenberg dropped only three singles matches in the twelve contests against collegiate opposition.

Only one member of the tennis squad, William Young, Coopersburg, will be missing when the team lines up for action next spring. All the other players are seniors with two juniors.

Those present at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Koch, Albert Herzenberg, William Young, Theodore Fischer, Ernest Seegers, Charles Kline, Dean Zweier, Francis Knauss, Dr. and Mrs. John V. Shankweiler.

Cardinal and Gray Team Opens Friday

on the night of September 27 if possible. It's a big order and we may fail. But we are going to try—we are going to point. That is, to say, we are going to follow a pre-season training program, which, by the last week in September, will have us far enough advanced to cut loose with a full complement of plays. In short, we shall go into that first game with more than the customary opening of a buck, a tackle slant, a punt, and an elementary pass."

This week Coach Utz was hesitant about announcing a starting line-up, but said he felt reasonably sure that the following men would be on the field for the kick-off: left end, Jack Blair; left tackle, Johnny Young; left guard, Henry Satsky; center, Ralph Eagle; right guard, Ken Poust; right tackle, Milt Bloom; right end, "Eva" Bartleson; quarterback, "Bull" Geschel; left-half-back, Bill Laing or Henry Gutekunst; right-halfback, "Jiggs" Koehler; fullback, "Scraper" Farrell.

Coach Utz, assisted by Bill Gutteron, former University of Nevada star, and Charles Evanosky, who played here a few years ago, has been putting the Cardinal Crusaders through more than two weeks of steady drills. The mentors are none too optimistic about the opener Friday, but feel confident that the good spirit the players have shown in scrimmage is an indication that they will be fighting for victory against the Baltimore lads.

JOHNNY YOUNG NAMED COACH OF EMAUS A. C.

Johnny Young, varsity tackle on this year's 1935 Cardinal and Gray eleven and former Allentown High athlete, has been named football coach for the Emaus A. C. gridders for the coming season. Young saw plenty of service here last fall with the freshman team.

Johnny Deitrich, Former Cardinal-Gray Athlete Named Coach at Prep School

Muhlenberg Graduate of Last Spring to Assist Head Coach Garverick; 'Berg Frosh to Play Purple and White

Coach Charlie Garverick will have as his football assistant this season John A. Deitrich, former Muhlenberg College athlete, who will coach the Purple and White line and will also have charge of the junior team which the institution hopes to place on the field this fall.

For three years Johnny played on the Cardinal and Gray varsity football squad and was one of the most popular boys on the local campus. He won his letter on the Muhlenberg baseball team in his junior and senior years.

Other collegiate activities included membership to Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, and Kappa Phi Kappa, national educational fraternity. He was president of the Science Club and belonged to the student council. He was graduated last spring.

The election of Garverick, former Gettysburg College grid star, as head coach at Prep to succeed Lloyd "Red" Pekelsma is an indication of increased interest and enthusiasm prevalent at the nearby school. A game between Muhlenberg's freshman eleven and the Prep School varsity is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, October 26, the day the Cardinal and Gray varsity travels to Gettysburg.

The Prep football schedule as arranged to date follows:

October 5—Albright Freshmen, at Reading.

23 Students Attend Prep Summer School

Summer school sessions for twenty men and three women students at the Allentown Preparatory school were brought to a close on August 16. Of the twenty-three enrolled for this term, 80 per cent. took courses for advanced standing rather than repeating work they failed to pass during last winter at their respective prep schools and high schools.

Courses offered by regular members of the school faculty included Latin, German, American history, English, chemistry, biology, algebra, physiology and economic geography. The policy of the instructors was to teach the pupils how to study a particular subject and to ground them in the work through personal work in small classes.

The summer session was conducted by Paul J. Gebert, assistant headmaster at Prep.

Dr. Haas and Wife Flee Cottage Fire

College President Has Narrow Escape This Summer; Sister Trapped

Dr. John A. W. Haas, college president, and his wife narrowly escaped being burned to death last month in a fire that destroyed their rented summer cottage at Paradise Falls, in the Poconos. The fire which claimed the life of Dr. Haas' sister, Mrs. W. B. Tetamore, of Staten Island, N. Y., occurred on the morning of August 12.

Dr. and Mrs. Haas, who had made their escape from the building were of the belief that Mrs. Tetamore had also left the blazing structure.

However, her cries for help were heard as Dr. and Mrs. Haas were seeking her in neighboring cottages and futile efforts were directed by volunteer firemen to rescue her.

All of the personal effects of the occupants of the cottage were destroyed, including a partially completed manuscript by Dr. Haas. Damage was estimated at $10,000 to the building, which is covered by insurance.

It is believed the blaze started when Herbert S. Dunham, a servant at the cottage, built a fire in the kitchen stove and then went out to the shed to complete other chores.

Books Are Burned

When Dunham returned to the kitchen, he found the entire room in flames. He roused the family at what was still a very early hour, and Dr. and Mrs. Haas ran from the cottage in their night clothing.

Three chapters on the system of theology were lost in the fire by Dr. Haas, who had been writing a new book. He also lost valuable papers, including insurance policies that can be replaced.

The first chapter of the book, sent to the Lutheran Church Review for publication was entitled "What is Revelations," the second was "Why a System of Revelations" and the third was as yet unnamed.

Funeral services for Mrs. W. B. Tetamore were held at the graveside in the German Lutheran cemetery in Philadelphia with the Rev. Dr. Emil E. Fischer, former pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, this city, and now a professor at Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, officiating. Interment was made in the Haas plot on the cemetery.

NEW FENCE, GATEWAY PLACED AROUND FIELD

an entrance has been provided for students to south stands and a gate has been constructed for the use of teams and also as a ready exit after games.

The erection of the new fence has added space to the field, since the campus side has been extended to run parallel with the edge of the south stands. Previously the wooden stands were about twenty feet in, with part of the stands overlapping in the air over the fence. On the east side the new lines run down to the roadway which wound its way from Twenty-fourth and Liberty Streets to the campus.

This roadway has been eliminated entirely, as the boundary of the fence extends to more than three-fourths of the roadway.

In addition to erection of the fence which is of bethonized steel and is seven feet high overall, the Muhlenberg Athletic committee set carpenters to work on the stands. New posts have been placed where needed and reinforcements made.

Members of the Athletic committee who have been taking an active part in overseeing the details of the construction and making the plans for the gateway are Registrar Harry A. Benfer, Dr. Isaac Miles Wright and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, who is also alumni secretary of the college and was also instrumental in securing the backing of the class of 1916 in the construction of the proposed gateway. Melville J. Boyer, '16, member of the Allentown High School faculty, is chairman of the class committee.

Natoli Lost to Grid Squad Through Injury

Head coach Johnny Utz, who has been drilling the Cardinal and Gray grid candidates for more than two weeks, suffered a blow to his football fortunes this season before the team even arrived for pre-season practice on September 9.

Last month he received a short letter from Thomas Nataoli, husky 180-pound, 6 foot tall tackle of last year's freshman team that an injury suffered July 10 in his home town would keep him from returning to college.

Natoli wrote: "I was working for the New York, Ontario and Western railroad and hurt my left foot. It proved so serious that part of the foot was amputated. It has weakened me considerably and I thought I should let you know as you were expecting me September 8."

Natoli lives in Norwich, N. Y., and was considered one of the finest prospects for the varsity football team. Besides his athletic ability he was rated better than average in his first year studies.

At the University of Arkansas (Fayetteville) the average students spend about 4 hours a week reading newspapers, magazines and books.

Students Invited to Hear Dr. Irving Fisher's Address

CHAPEL CHOIR TO SING ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Guest speaker for the occasion is to be Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale University. Students of the college and the public in general are invited to hear Dr. Fisher's address which will be given in the Science Hall auditorium on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The conference sessions are to open on Friday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock with registration in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel. The gathering will hear an organ recital by Dr. Harold K. Oxford Group at Geneva Conference

Dr. Buchman and Followers Plead for Peace Among Nations

With a following of six hundred members of the Oxford group, the Rev. Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1899, spent the past month in Geneva in an effort to bring pressure to bear upon the League of Nations to deal "spiritually" with the Ethiopian problem.

The group at Geneva represented twenty-eight nations, according to the New York Times, and all the members, including some Americans, had come at their own expense.

They were listed as "one team of tap dancers from Copenhagen, a bishop from Rangoon, a former Communist leader from Scotland, a British peer, a French marquise, an Oxford college president, a former member of the Wilson administration, a daughter of the head of the Bank of Egypt, a honeymoon couple who had come 8,000 miles and a Burmese lady whose name signifies "cool, calm, pleasant mist." The member of the Wilson administration is Carl Vrooman, of Bloomington, Ill., who was an assistant secretary of agriculture.

The group had an exceedingly active press bureau and held many dinners, which were well attended. The prevailing argument at these was that world problems will be soluble when bad men can be made good and good men better on a grand scale. Our lives must be changed by spiritual means so strong that they will reconcile conflicting forces and produce brotherly love and solidarity.

"A FOUNDATION"

The letter "Education—A Foundation for Business" found on page 2 in this issue of The Muhlenberg Weekly was written by W. S. Farish, chairman of the board of directors for the Standard Oil Company, in response to an inquiry as to the chairman's views on the underlying principles upon which education in the United States should be based. The author is a graduate of Fordham University where he served as editor of "The Ram", official student paper.

The majority of students entering high school and college naturally are guided in their choice of courses by what they believe to be useful to them in the business or professional world. As a business man Mr. Farish believes that teaching people to think and giving them a thorough grounding in fundamentals are two of the most useful services which education can perform.

Muhlenberg Professor Visited Interesting Places on 5-Week Trip

Muhlenberg's faculty and student body last Friday welcomed back to the classroom Dr. Preston A. Barba, German professor, who has returned from a five-weeks trip to Germany and other European countries. Dr. Barba boarded the "Hamburg" steamer of the Hamburg-American line on August 8 and reached New York last Thursday on the "Europa" of the North German Lloyd line.

While in Germany Dr. Barba had the opportunity to attend the Goethe celebration, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the Goethe Society, of which Dr. Barba is himself a member. The main sitting was held in the National Theater of which Goethe at one time was director. There were three days of programs and festivities. The gala performance was the presentation of Goethe's "Torquato Tasso," before an audience, including the highest official of Thuringia and the French ambassador to Germany. In the session there were about four hundred scholars and admirers of Goethe from various parts of the world. The principal purpose of the assembly was to open twenty-three new rooms in the German museum. This affair was attended by the high officials of the Nazi government.

Dr. Barba also spent a few days in the German palatinate, the home of the ancestors of the Pennsylvania Germans. Here he visited many scholars and museums for the purpose of collecting historical and literary material relative to Pennsylvania German history and literature. Dr. Haas Replies to President

Last week President Franklin D. Roosevelt had letters sent to the outstanding clergymen of the country asking for their opinion on the recovery methods used by him since taking the office as chief executive of the United States. The reply sent to President Roosevelt by Dr. John A. W. Haas, college president and one of the leading figures in the Lutheran church, is printed below.

"Office of the President Muhlenberg College September 26th Allentown, Pa. 1935

"His Excellency,
"President, Franklin D. Roosevelt,
"Washington, D. C.
"Honorable Sir:—

"In reply to your request for an opinion about your policies, I would say that I believe that we need certain social regulations, but I cannot approve of the methods which you have employed. I hold that it would have been possible to have a slower evolution of social legislation. Some of your actions were too radical and I know from personal experience that your plans have not only stopped unjust procedures, but have also hampered the just men engaged in business and industry. You seem to have treated this problem in a judicial spirit. Perhaps you do not realize, and your friends have not told you, that you are fast losing the sympathy of many people here in the East. You have not shown sufficient consideration for all classes of people, and you have unjustly penalized the men whose thrift has helped our country, and whose wealth we need for constructive advance.

"Yours sincerely,
"JOHN A. W. HAAS."

MUHLS ANXIOUS TO GAIN SEASON'S 2ND TRIUMPH

Muhlenberg's Christian Association will again this year sponsor the annual pep smoker and student parade on Friday night prior to the grid game with Lafayette College at Easton the following day. The event is scheduled to be held in the Science Hall auditorium starting at 8 o'clock.

Members of both Senior and Junior cabinets of the M. C. A. are cooperating in making preparations for the activities at the smoker proper. The Freshman Tribunal has been left in charge of the parade to see that all freshmen are out for the annual trek downtown.

The first year men will be clad in pajamas as usual before the parade, headed by the college band, leaves the campus for the 17-block march to Center Square. The frosh are asked to report in the Science building at 7:45 p. m.

Present at the smoker to speak will be Head Coach Johnny Utz, assistant coach Bill Gutteron, and Charlie Eyanosky, freshman mentor. "Haps" Benfer is also expected to be on hand to give one of his well-known pep talks. Cheerleaders along with the band will whoop up things in anticipation of a victory over the Maroon eleven on Saturday afternoon.

Not over-confident from the fact that Moravian upset the Easton warriors last Saturday, the Cardinal and Gray gridders have settled down to a hard week of practice in an effort to chalk up 'Berg's first victory over the Leopards since 1918. The Cardinal Crusaders came out of their opening tilt with Baltimore in good physical shape and, barring injuries in scrimmages this week, should enter the fray Saturday in top form.

The local coaches and team are not unmindful of the fact that Lafayette will be on the rebound

Journalism Class To Hear Lectures

"Morning Call" Fund Again To Be Used by Newspaper Group

Students in Prof. Stephen G. Simpson's journalism class will again this year have the opportunity to hear outstanding speakers in the field of journalism and newspaper work during their regular bi-weekly class periods according to an announcement from Prof. Simpson this week.

A series of lectures by practical newspaper and magazine writers was started here last fall when the Morning Call, local newspaper, donated a fund to the journalism department for that purpose.

The journalism classes meet each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 1:15 o'clock. It is planned to have the lectures given at intervals of about every two weeks.

Six speakers were included on the schedule last year which was brought to a close in May. The editors and columnists to appear here were David A. Miller '94 and Percy B. Ruhe, '01, both members of Morning Call Staff; W. H. Wilson '21, city editor of the Harrisburg Patriot; Harry W. Huey, editor of the American Ice Cream Trade Journal; William D. Reimert, managing editor of the Allentown Chronicle and News; Eleanor Morton, noted columnist for the Philadelphia Inquirer.

THE REGISTRATION PROBLEM

Once again this year the problem of completing student registration here assumed major proportions. Freshmen and other students started registering on Monday of Freshman Week. Not until Wednesday of the following week had all the students turned in their cards and were ready to start class work. This same condition, existing year after year, has caused no end of worry to the already over-taxed Registrar's department.

In short, nearly a week and a half were required to register a few more than 400 students while at a neighboring college the enrollment of 1400 was completed within three days.

One naturally looks to the system used by the Registrar when placing the blame for such delayed registering, but investigating this department we find very little cause for the trouble. A part of the blame rests with the neglect of students in the three upper classes to register before going home in the spring. Another reason for the hold-up is the inability of the men to locate faculty members to sign their cards.

The registration could be completed with less difficulty if the professors would meet at one place on a day set for that purpose alone. Should the students then not report to have the blanks signed they would be liable to a fine which the office would feel justified in enforcing.

The suggestion given above is but one solution to the problem, but it would greatly alleviate past conditions. Individual students then would not have to spend hours looking for professors nor call at their private homes for signatures. We suggest that such a system be put on trial in the future.

RUSHING SEASON

In a short time the official fraternity rushing season will emphasize another important phase of college life. To some freshmen this will mean no more than a series of smokers and dances at which they are the guests of honor. The more thoughtful realize that a decision must be made which will exert a major influence upon their four years at Muhlenberg.

Fraternities have long learned that misleading a man by means of so-called cut-throat rushing or high pressure sales talks proves unfortunate for both the individual and the organization. With this in mind, fraternities at Muhlenberg, through their council, strictly regulate social policies by a code of behavior. Never consider pledging to a fraternity that violates this set of rules.

To those of you who are interested in these social groups, consider that the good fraternity will examine you in the coming two weeks just as carefully as you study the fraternity, because it wants good men rather than many men. Remember too, that a fraternity membership is not a luxury, but an investment that can pay high dividends through fine friendships and its opportunities for those who enjoy a broad social life.

DO YOUR PART!

Fire Prevention Week is to be observed from October 6 to 12. And here is a thought worth considering in the meantime:

Friendly fire—fire under control—is one of man's greatest boons. It keeps us warm, cooks our foods, motivates our industries, and serves us in countless other ways.

Unfriendly fire—fire out of control—is one of man's greatest enemies. It destroys property—causing irreparable loss. It menaces life. It hampers progress. It threatens community development, and industrial activity and employment.

A building for example, represents something beside money. It represents energy, achievement, labor. If it is a factory building, it represents creative, productive wealth. When fire destroys that building, insurance will give back part of the money it cost, but nothing can give back the energy that was wasted. Nothing can make up for the work lost, the jobs destroyed, the diminished purchasing power the fire caused. The indirect costs of fire—costs which cannot be put into a balance sheet—are the real measure of our national fire waste. Those indirect costs are many times the direct costs.

Muhlenberg has been fortunate in not having a fire loss at any time, but such has been prevented only through extreme carefulness. Now is no time to become neglectful in doing your part.

Education - A Foundation for Business

By W. S. FARISH,

Chairman of the Board, Standard Oil Company (N. J.)

You raise an interesting and important question when you ask what aims or objectives should be emphasized in the schools and colleges of the United States.

Here in New York we have seen a great many skyscrapers grow up in the past ten years or so. They vary in architecture from classical to ultra-modern. But the foundations are pretty much the same. Contractors still have to blast down into the earth and lay the rough, homely stone, steel and concrete which form the base of the skyscraper, then raise the steel framework before they can work on the marble and friezes and interior murals which decorate the building. The passer-by may never see what a foundation looks like. But every builder has to learn that as an ABC, for his whole structure rests on it.

I think we have been forgetting about foundations in our educational work, paying too much attention to "gingerbread," as the architects call it.

After the war, as you know, we had a wave of "modernism." The style was to label "out of date" and "old-fashioned" anything not a contemporary creation. The fundamental lessons of life, the solid, homely principles which were bred into us as children and upon which as a solid foundation all our beliefs and actions as mature men and women were grounded, were junked in many of our schools and colleges in favor of "modern psychology" and "advanced" theories of life, religion and economics. We are experiencing the fruits of that educational trend in some of the ill-considered, unsound and impracticable proposals being advanced today.

It is my conviction that the two most useful services which our schools can perform are to ground the incoming generation in fundamentals and to teach them to think.

I'd like to set down a few of those fundamentals here. I believe—in the principles of individual initiative, stimulated by the profit motive and free from regimentation, upon which our civilization was built and which were embodied in the Constitution and Bill of Rights;

—that the home and family are the foundations of the State and that our children should be taught to respect them;

—in church membership and conservative living; —in the homely virtues of self-denial, thrift and self-control;

—that the business of running the State should be considered as great and honorable a career as engineering, medicine or law, and that our young people should be trained in the science of government;

—that we shall never have thoroughly competent government or a bench completely free from corruption until our judges are appointed for life and not dependent upon a political machine for reelection, and our legislators chosen from those who are trained for the responsibility of governing and inculcated with the constitutional and moral principles according to which the American people have indicated that they wish to be governed.

I believe that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule are as changeless as truth itself—that they and the other fundamentals of living which I have attempted to describe above are just as true today as they were nineteen centuries ago and will be centuries hence.

We all know that as the college graduate steps off the campus into the real battle of life he is going to run into a world of competition, selfishness and disillusionment, a world in which too often there are few principles, too much loose thinking and hasty conclusions without regard to the facts.

I believe our institutions of learning could perform no greater service for the century than to build under the feet of the men and women of tomorrow a solid foundation of unassailable truth upon which they can erect their superstructure as changing times and conditions may suggest—to teach them the value of time in settling human problems, the habit of getting the facts first and then thinking things through."

ly article concerning the history and literature of Pennsylvania Germans.

Other places visited by Dr. Barba were the Hanseatic city of Lubeck, Berlin, Dresden, Leipzig, where the world-famous Leipzig fair was in progress; Weimar; Nurnberg, where preparations were being made for the great Nazi celebration; Stuttgart; the old university town of Heidelberg; the Rhine palatinate, where he visited a number of old castles and abbeys, the cities of Neustadt, Zweibrucken and Kaiserslautern; the Rhineland and Westphalia.

Comparing modern Germany with that of the Germany of 1931, the last time he was there, Dr. Barba noted a great change. Everywhere he saw the greatest courage and enthusiasm for the present government. New houses are being built and many old cathedrals are being restored. Sports have most decidedly increased. Much attention is given to tourists. Through the organization "Kraft durch Freude," common laborers are sent to tour Germany at very moderate prices. True, there are a few small organizations hostile to the present Nazi government, but being in the minority they create no disturbance.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

OF LITERARY ERRANDRY

This present column might bear the name "An Apologia"; at least it is a justification for the weeks that are to follow. Through the kind permission of the editor a column devoted to belles lettres has again been established. During the ensuing weeks the reader will find book reviews, critical studies, and would-be literary essays. Here the reader will discover a Lambeau bent—a penchant for old books. This writer loves the taste of rich old wine, loves to feel the run and throb of serpentine limbs through his thirsty veins, loves to touch hands with men of eras long past, men in whom still exists "the stir, the genius, the sentiment of their period." This does not mean, however, that we will completely eschew modern literature. If a contemporary writer catches our fancy, if he cogently proves his right to consideration, we shall speak of him. In our minds three such men immediately appear: Thomas Wolfe, Luigi Pirandello, and W. Somerset Maugham. Theirs are determinate figures; figures that demand instant attention, whose strident voices, as they sound down the endless corridors of time, must ever ring with the imperious tone of truth.

What shall be our criteria, what principles shall we follow? Only those of accurate sincerity, tempered, perhaps, by instinctive personal appreciation. As with Pater, "to know one's own impression as really is, to discriminate it, to realize it distinctly" shall also be our bourne. For "to define beauty, not in the most abstract but in the most concrete terms possible, to find not its universal formula, but the formula which expresses most adequately this or that special manifestation of it, is the aim of the true student of aesthetics."

Finally, this purposes to be a chatty column. Should anyone disagree with any of the writer's assertions this same writer will gladly endeavor to adduce the authority of his words or will openly acknowledge the truth of the dispute. All contentions, all quibbles, are welcome. And should anyone wish a certain book reviewed let him express his desire, and at the earliest expedient moment the writer will try to satisfy the request.

200 Present For Auxiliary Meeting

Organ and Vocal Numbers on Program in College Chapel

A program of organ and vocal music marked the opening meeting of the fall-winter season of the Women's Auxiliary of the college held last Tuesday afternoon in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel. The session was attended by 200 members of the organization.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor, graduate of Allentown high school last June, sang several soprano solos during the program and was accompanied by Dr. Harold K. Marks, college organist. Dr. Marks also played a number of organ numbers during the afternoon.

The opening prayer was offered by Dr. John A. W. Haas, president of the college, after which Mrs. Dewey Fuller, auxiliary president, welcomed the gathering after the summer interval and conducted a brief business session.

Emphasis was placed upon the work of the magazine subscription committee, a group of members who secure subscriptions, the proceeds being added to the chapel organ fund. Mrs. Schroyer is chairman of the committee, now taking new subscriptions and renewing former ones. Announcement was made also of the next meeting, on October 29, at the Mosser home at Trexlertown.

The musical program presented was as follows:

Organ selections, "If Thou But Suffer God to Guide Thee," Bach and "Chorale in A Minor," Cesar Franck by Dr. Marks; soprano solos, "As the Rain Cometh Down," MacDermid and "O Lord Most Holy," Francis by Miss Taylor.

Organ solos, "The Prize Song," from "Die Meistersinger," Wag-

Campus Chatter

A new, motorized sensation appeared on the campus with the opening days of college. A rakish, streamlined Ford model "T", vintage of 1923, rattled onto the parking grounds under the struggling manipulation of George S. Boyer '37, to defiantly take its place among other shocked and amazed vehicles.

"Bill Gutteron, new assistant coach, has a novel and unusually striking method of instructing the 'Muhl' backs how to tackle. Punctuating his explanations by suddenly dashing to some light and unsuspecting player, 'Bill' tackles him about the waist and then lugs the poor victim about the field, just to show how easy it all is.

Overheard of a frosh concerning a certain professor, outside the dorms one evening last week, "... and the guy must be a genius. He has a funny look in his eyes as he lectures to us and you feel as if you were in the presence of a great power."

So beware, frofs, the frosh are already sizing you up with expertly critical eyes.

As a result of his vicious tackling on the dummy last week "Punchy" Laing's proboscis has assumed the appearance of a freshly ground end of hamburger. It is reported that the feminine population of the college district is lodging a complaint with "Johnny" Utz concerning the unwarranted abuse of their hero's fair visage.

Muhlenberg Men at Lehigh Ceremonies

President Haas and Prof. Fasig Attend Founder's Day Exercises

President John A. W. Haas and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, secretary of the college alumni association, are today representing Muhlenberg at Lehigh University's annual Founder's Day exercises in Bethlehem. The exercises are being featured with the inauguration of the new president, Clement Clarence Williams.

The exercises were opened this morning with the usual academic procession in which the entire faculty, members of the board of trustees, and candidates for degrees marched from the Alumni Memorial building to Packer chapel where the ceremonies took place.

President Williams, former dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Iowa, was introduced by Eugene G. Grace, president of the board of trustees, and was formally inducted into office at the Packer chapel ceremonies.

The Founder's Day address was delivered by Luther P. Eisenhart, dean of the Graduate School of Princeton university. His speech included a tribute to Asa Packer, Lehigh's founder, and treated on some of the significant educational trends of the present era.

After a consultation in the college store it was decided to save the new smoke pipes with the small bowls for the sympathetic use of erring freshmen who are feeling the frosh collegiate tendency to indulge in the demon-tobacco. The pipes with the long stems are for the use of upper classmen who wish to hang the bowls out of the window and enjoy a smoke in "Tee-dee's" classroom.

"Bill" Ritter's new physical education card in the matriculation book has excited a lot of wiled goings-on in the "ad" building. The card requires shoe sizes, arm lengths, etc. A stranger, hearing students dash about and consulting on waist sizes would have received the impression that the college had opened a new department of corset manufacturing.

CARDINAL AND GRAY DOWNS BALTIMORE, 20-0

Muhlenberg Gridders Open Season Under Floodlights With Impressive Victory Over Plucky Maryland Team

Long Runs by Laing and Gutekunst Pave Way for First Two Scores; "Jiggs" Koehler Appointed Captain for Initial Tilt

VISITORS THREATEN IN SECOND HALF ATTACK

Muhlenberg's gridiron warriors made an auspicious opening of the 1935 season in the Lehigh Valley last Friday night when they outplayed and out-fought a plucky eleven from the University of Baltimore to win the season's opener by the score of 20 to 0.

The Cardinal and Gray machine, its success or failure a question mark in the minds of many of its followers, took the field for the opening whistle with just two seniors in the line-up. The remaining nine players included five juniors and four sophomores. The entire line was made up of second and third year men.

The game was not long under way before this crew of scrappy youngsters left it to be known to the crowd of nearly 4000 assembled that they will go places this year.

This season's opening crowd was considerably fewer in numbers than that which witnessed the West Chester battle here last September. Threatening skies and the doubt in some people's mind as to 'Berg's ability this year after the 1934 episode probably accounted for the decrease in attendance. But the Cardinal and Gray clad band was there to pep things up before and during the fray, while the team itself showed complete rejuvenation. The backfield men fairly "hopped" into position as the signals were barked.

George "Jiggs" Koehler, regular halfback last year and one of the two seniors to start against Baltimore, was appointed captain for the opening fray.

Muhlenberg Scores Early

Two brilliant runs, one of thirty-five yards by 'Punchy' Laing, and the other for forty yards by Henry Gutekunst, former Perkashie High star, paved the way for the first two Muhlenberg touchdowns, while the third Muhlenberg tally was a gift in the form of a fumble by Baltimore deep in its own territory.

Several times the Baltimore 'Bees' were deep in Muhlenberg territory in the third and fourth quarters, but each time the Muhlenberg defense stiffened when a score threatened and repulsed the Baltimore attack.

First Period

Muhlenberg won the toss and elected to receive. Geschel took the kick and ran it back fifteen yards to his own forty-five. After two forward passes were knocked down, Farrell kicked, the ball going out of bounds on the Baltimore thirty.

An exchange of punts followed, and then "Punchy" Laing, Muhlenberg back, skirted right end, and with Farrell offering fine interference, galloped thirty-seven yards to the Baltimore thirty yard stripe before Shippley brought him down.

On the second play here Koehler hit off tackle for eight yards, and Geschel went for four and a first down. Koehler hit the line for six more, and a five yard penalty for offsidess gave the Mules a first down on the five yard line. From here Laing went across for the first touchdown. Farrell place-kicked the extra point to give Muhlenberg a 7-0 lead.

Near the end of the first quarter, Gutekunst, who replaced Laing in the Muhlenberg backfield, went around right end for thirty yards for a first down on the Baltimore thirty. Here a forward pass was intercepted by Shippley on the Baltimore eight yard line, and the Bees immediately kicked out of danger. The Mules came back, however, and on a series of line smashes carried the ball up to the 20-yard line as the first quarter ended, Farrell tearing off twelve yards for the longest gain. Score: Muhlenberg, 7; Baltimore, 0.

Second Period

On the first play a forward pass, Gutekunst to Koehler, was good for nine yards, and Hunsicker made it first down with a three yard off-tackle smash. A fumble cost Muhlenberg five yards, but a pass, Gutekunst to Geschel, was good for eight yards, and then Gutekunst took it over from the two yard line for Muhlenberg's second touchdown. Koehler place-kicked the extra point, and the score was Muhlenberg, 14; Baltimore, 0.

Following an exchange of punts, Porter recovered a Muhlenberg fumble on his own 45-yard line, but the Bees could get nowhere and were forced to punt.

With Hunsicker and Gutekunst tearing off nice gains, the Mules ripped off two first downs in a row in mid-field, but then the Bees tightened up and forced Hunsicker to kick for the Mules.

Neither team was able to break through until Green intercepted a Baltimore pass late in the period on Baltimore's thirty, and from here Gutekunst snaked his way through tackle for twenty yards to the ten yard line as the first half ended. Score: Muhlenberg, 14; Baltimore, 0.

Third Period

Early in the third period, Shippley fumbled on his own fifteen yard stripe, and Blair, Muhlenberg end, recovered.

On two plays Farrell and Laing picked up nine yards, but after Koehler was stopped and Farrell held on the two-yard stripe, Laing went over for Muhlenberg's third touchdown. Farrell's kick hit the cross bar and dropped back, leaving the score, Muhlenberg, 20; Baltimore, 0.

On the kick-off, Harry Stem took Bartleson's kick and ran it back fifty yards to Muhlenberg's thirty-eight, the longest gain of the game for the Bees.

Here the Bees tossed a short pass and Shippley hit the line for six yards and a first down on Muhlenberg's thirty yard line. A pass was intercepted by Koehler, of Muhlenberg, to end Baltimore's most serious scoring gesture of the game.

The balance of the period was devoted to punts until Will Shippley, Baltimore back, took one of the Muhlenberg kicks and ran it back sixty yards to Muhlenberg's ten yard stripe. On the next play, however, Farrell broke through and tossed Shippley for a ten yard loss, and then on fourth down a pass grounded. The period ended with Muhlenberg leading 20 to 0.

Fourth Period

Lackey, who replaced Hecker in the Baltimore backfield at the start of the final period, swung around left end for fifteen yards on the first play of the quarter to reach the twelve yard line before being downed.

Here the Muhlenberg defense tightened, however, and the Bees were forced to surrender the ball.

Baltimore had the ball in Muhlenberg territory through most of the fourth period, but every time the Bees threatened to score the Muhlenberg defense tightened.

Then, late in the period, Koehler got away to a twenty-five yard gain, but the play was called back and Muhlenberg penalized fifteen yards for holding. On the next play Gutekunst heaved a forty-five yard forward pass to Thomas, who was downed on Baltimore's forty. A Muhlenberg forward was intercepted by Hecker, but Green intercepted a Baltimore pass on the next play.

With the ball in mid-field Muhlenberg's possession, the Bees forced a punt and an exchange of kicks followed before the whistle ended the game. Final score: Muhlenberg, 20; Baltimore, 0.

Admit 3 'Berg Men To Football Assoc.

Utz, Holstrom, and Lisetski Also Speak at Meeting in Easton

Head football coach Johnny Utz and two Muhlenberg graduates were admitted to membership in the Eastern Pennsylvania Association of football officials at a meeting of the organization held last week in Easton.

In addition to Coach Utz, the new applicants given membership were George R. Holstrom, '23, and Michael Lisetski '35. All three spoke briefly during the evening.

Holstrom, an outstanding athlete during his undergraduate days as a student here, returned as head coach of athletics some years ago and held this position until the spring of 1933 when he was succeeded by Coach Utz.

Muhlenberg students and sportsmen throughout the Lehigh Valley are well-acquainted with Lisetski's work both as an athlete and athletic official. He was regular shortstop on 'Berg's baseball team for the past three years and played with Northampton in the Lehigh Valley league during the summer months. He officiated for a number of the Muhlenberg freshman basketball games last winter and acted in that capacity for several Lehigh county high school cage games.

College Decides To Pay Amusement Tax

Football fans attending the games on Muhlenberg's field this fall will not have to pay the extra one-cent tax levied upon admissions to all amusements within the State. College authorities have announced that the school will pay this extra fee out of its own receipts as a saving and convenience to those who attend games here. Fifty-cents will be the regular price of admission, including tax, this season.

The ruling, sought since passage by the legislature of the levy upon admissions to all amusements, stipulates that colleges, universities and private schools that charge tuition fees must pay the tax of one cent on each 25 cents.

'Berg's Opponents Won 4, Lost 3 on Saturday

Four wins against three defeats was the record compiled last Saturday by teams Muhlenberg's football squad will meet during the coming season. Gettysburg and Albright, two elevens on the Cardinal and Gray schedule this year, do not open their season until this coming Saturday. Following are the scores of games in which 'Berg's opponents played with those teams being listed in heavy type.

Football Game With Lebanon Valley Changed to Friday Night, October 12

College Officials Move Up Date When Conflict Occurs With Allentown-Steelton High School Tilt Following Day

Students and other followers of Muhlenberg's football team will have another opportunity to see the Cardinal and Gray gridiron warriors perform in a night game this season. The Muhls opened with Baltimore University last Friday night.

The tilt here with Lebanon Valley, originally scheduled to be played on Saturday afternoon, October 12, has been changed to the preceding night, due to the playing of the Allentown-Steelton high school game in Jack Coffield stadium the next day.

The schoolboy game with Steelton is considered one of the outstanding battles on the Allentown high schedule and college authorities thought it would mutually benefit both schools by moving up the Lebanon Valley game to Friday night.

Last year two night games were included on the Muhls' card, these being with West Chester State Teachers' College and Albright from Reading. The 1934 Lebanon Valley tilt was played on a Saturday afternoon.

this week after suffering a defeat last Saturday, the first opening game loss in many years for the Easton lads. That team is more determined this year than ever to make a good showing since their coach, "Herb" McCracken, is starting his twelfth and final season as head grid mentor at Lafayette.

Both elevens are light and somewhat inexperienced which makes the outcome a toss-up, although 'Berg's showing in its opening tilt may give the Cardinal and Gray a slight edge. The Leopard's line will average 180 pounds while the backfield has an average of 170.

Virtually the entire student body will accompany the team to Easton to witness the fray in Fisher stadium. The opening kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

CICO, BULLET STAR BREAKS COLLARBONE

John Cico, Gettysburg College quarterback, received a broken collarbone in a practice game last Saturday afternoon that will keep him on the sidelines for probably a month. The loss of Cico field general, leading blocker and passer, is a severe blow to the battle-field institution.

The Bullets will open with Juniata next Saturday and will play Army one week later.

SHORT ODE TO A PRETZEL

Oh thou, golden-brown, tempting dish
That together with some sparkling ale,
Is all that even a king could wish
To complete his pleasures.
Come again, fill the measures,
Bring on the golden treasures.

Your graceful curves and artful twist
Bespeak an aesthetic, master of touch
Of long experienced whirl of wrist.
What poetry of form
As a sail-ropes in a storm,
Or an excited worm.

With dull-white diamonds on your back
Your beauty, your grace, your form and poise
Entice one's teeth to crunch and crack.
Be you slender or fat,
Long or thin, or just like that,
To you, say, here's my hat.

74 Students Given Work Here Through College NYA Funds

National Youth Administration Replaces FERA on Campus This Year

NEW ORGANIZATION IS BRANCH OF WPA OFFICE

National Youth Administration assistance has been extended to 74 Muhlenberg students, or approximately 18 per cent of the student body, for the 1935-36 term according to a report given out this week by the Registrar's office.

Aid given this year by N. Y. A. replaces the assistance given students here last year with funds received from the Federal Emergency Relief Association. Under the new set-up thirty-four more students are receiving aid this term than at the end of last semester.

On the local campus each of the 74 given jobs work approximately 25 hours a month at the rate of 40 cents per hour, thus giving the men on the average of $10 each month. Jobs assigned to students include positions in offices, the library, and laboratories. Research and clerical work are also done by the men.

This year, the second when federal funds have made possible part-time student employment on the Muhlenberg campus, the National Youth Administration, a division of the Works Progress Administration will control all funds. The work was originally organized and conducted by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and later by the State Emergency Relief board.

Student aid in colleges all over the country is one of a four-fold policy of the NYA, which President Franklin D. Roosevelt organized late in June. The State Youth Administration in Pennsylvania is part of the Department of Education.

Muhlenberg's share of the 50 million dollars sent to the NYA by the WPA is determined by the total registration in the college. The funds for 1935-36 show an increase over those for 1934-35.

Chapel Choir Has Membership of 35

College Musicians Make First Appearance at Sunday Service

Muhlenberg's vested chapel choir of thirty-five voices, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, made its initial appearance of the college year last Sunday afternoon at the first of the regular vespers services held in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

The choir sings at each of the Sunday afternoon services and, in addition, presents a number of concerts in churches throughout Eastern Pennsylvania during the year. A number of engagements have already been made through the efforts of Theodore Fischer, manager of the group this term.

Rehearsals for the musicians are being held three times a week with the hours being Wednesday at 6:45 P. M.; Thursday, 4:15 P. M.; Sunday, 2:30 P. M.

Try-outs for positions were held during Freshman week and the personnel of the organization to date is as follows:

First tenor—Mark Lauchnor, John Gander, George S. Boyer, Karl Reinhard, Fred Frantz, Richard G. Miller, Luther Bealer, Thomas Williams, John E. Sylvester and Whitson Seaman.

Second tenor—Wayne Holben, Theodore L. Fischer, Charles Kern, Gordon Treibach, Ralph Ebert, Herman L. Helm.

First bass—Richard Bausch, George Ostermayer, Philip Parkinson, Walter Kistler, John Brown, Alexander Senofsky, William Coleman, Gordon V. Christy, and Harry Curl.

Second bass—William Grasley, Luther H. Vogel, Joseph Schantz, Wahl Pfeifer, William Pfeifer, Russell Zimmerman, Russell Derr, Paul Heffner, Rollin Shaffer, and Robert Schenck.

Cardinal and Gray to Renew Rivalry with Lebanon Valley

Johnny Utz's Cohorts Eager to Chalk Up Season's Second Win After Lafayette Defeat; Game to be Played Under Lights

BLUE AND WHITE HAVE 9 LETTERMEN ON SQUAD

Lebanon Valley and Muhlenberg College football teams renew their gridiron rivalry for the twenty-third year on Friday night when Coach "Jerry" Frock brings his Blue and White warriors here for a tilt under the floodlights.

Since the series started back in 1900 Cardinal and Gray teams have managed to win eleven games from the Annville collegians while dropping ten encounters. A win for the Lebanon county lads this year will even the series at 11-all while a triumph for Coach Utz's players will add one more in the advantage column.

Following the 7-0 setback suffered at Easton last Saturday, the Muhlenberg gridmen are expected to be on a sharp rebound this week and will enter the fray determined to chalk up their season's second win.

Muhls Won Last Year

After dropping their two opening battles last year to West Chester and Lafayette, the Cardinal Crusaders came back in a blaze of glory to smother Lebanon Valley under a 25 to 7 count. Followers of Johnny Utz's eleven this year are looking forward to a duplication of the feat again on Friday night.

All may not be roses for the local gridgers, however, for last Saturday Penn State had no easy time winning over the Annville crew. The final score was 12 to 6 which is an indication that the visitors may cause plenty of trouble before the final whistle blows on Friday.

Frock Pessimistic

At the start of this season Coach Frock daily cried the blues as he looked over his small and inexperienced squad. Its record to date shows a 19 to 6 win over Kutztown Teachers and the 12 to 6 setback last week, so perhaps the Blue and White mentor is wearing a poker-face these days. Speaking before the season had opened Frock said:

"Things are tough. Look at that schedule! We open with Kutztown

Frock walls loud and long. Thirty-five men are thirty-five men but not thirty-five football players. He has his troubles and they are plentiful. Nine of those thirty-five are lettermen.

Boyd Sponaugle, shifted from guard to end last year, is from Hershey. He is a senior. Boyd is a typical end, strong and aggressive. A mighty fine terminal.

Charley Bartolet is a Harrisburg William Penn star of scholastic days. He is a tackle who did not come up to expectations last year. He is a certain starter this year, however.

Frank Rozman is a Steelton lad. He is an outstanding tackle, a fine aggressive lineman.

Pete Klipa is another Steelton lad. He was the lightest lineman to earn a letter last year at guard and center. He's a good charger for his weight—168 pounds—and a fine tackle.

Ross Sheesley is a Harrisburg John Harris lad. Last year he ran ninety-nine yards to a touchdown against P. M. C. He's a fleet-footed halfback, a fine triple-threat man.

O.D.K. Plans Dance Here November 1st

Honorary Fraternity to Hold Event as Part of Homecoming Celebration

Alpha Epsilon circle of Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity will sponsor the first dance of the college year it was announced this week following a meeting of the national honorary society held Monday evening.

The dance this year will be one of the features of Muhlenberg's annual homecoming celebration on November 2 when Franklin and Marshall's football team comes here to meet the Muhls.

The social event is scheduled to be held in the College library ballroom on the Friday evening preceding the F. and M. game. The committee in charge of arrangements will be announced at a later date.

Preliminary plans for the dance and the possibility of raising funds to help pay for blinds in the reading room of the library were the principal items of business discussed at the two meetings of Omicron Delta Kappa held within the past week.

At their first meeting last week, members of O. D. K., acting upon a suggestion made by Dr. Henry R. Mueller, decided to raise half the cost for the placing of blinds for the east, south, and west windows of the first floor room of the library. Student Council was requested to place the remainder of the cost in the student body budget which was adopted last Wednesday morning. The approximate expense for the shades will be $120.

Officers for the local chapter of O. D. K. this year are: Leonard C. Hodgkinson, president; Joseph S. Keiper, vice-president; Richard G. Miller, recording secretary; Harry A. Benfer, corresponding secretary; Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, treasurer.

Warning to Freshmen

Your conduct last Friday night, after the parade, was truly disgraceful, and brought dishonor upon the college. It is no longer customary, in decent colleges, to stage such riots. Your actions show that you do not know what is the present attitude and conduct in colleges which stand for certain principles. You will not be permitted any further parades, and all fines must be paid by your parents. Any further disturbances on your part will submit you to severe disqualifications in the college. You owe an apology to the owners of the theatres and to the college for your ungentlemanly mob-action. You are hereby warned that any further such behavior will meet a very severe discipline.

JOHN A. W. HAAS, President.

City Police Kept Busy as Freshmen Display Pre-Lafayette Enthusiasm

Sensing the possibility of a football victory over Lafayette for the first time in 17 years, Muhlenberg's student body, and freshman class in particular, gave vent to their enthusiasm one day too soon. As a result Allentown's police force was given some employment Friday night and five frosh landed behind the bars.

The trouble all started when the students, headed by the college band, began their annual pajama parade downtown following a lively pep smoker in the Science Hall auditorium.

Things went well until the spirited frosh and followers turned into Hamilton street from Fifteenth. This seemed to be the signal for a general good time. Several pranks were committed before the paraders reached Center Square where cheers for the Cardinal and

Students to Hear Vocal, Harp Music In Assembly Today

Hazel Heffner and Dorothy Knauss Guest Artists on Program

MUSICIANS ARE BOTH ALLENTOWN RESIDENTS

Students and faculty members of the college have an unusual treat in store for themselves this morning when a program of vocal and instrumental music will be presented in the Science Hall auditorium by two outstanding Allentown musicians.

Miss Hazel H. Heffner, contralto, and Miss Dorothy R. Knauss, harpist, are the two local artists to be heard here today.

Harp and voice selections will be used entirely by Miss Knauss and Miss Heffner for their recital. There will be a number of selected compositions presented as solos by the harpist and singer, with the former furnishing the accompaniment for Miss Heffner.

Miss Knauss is an accomplished harpist and is well known not only in Allentown but in Pennsylvania and New York states. She is a teacher of both piano and harp.

The contralto, who also teaches voice, possesses good vocal quality, a voice of genuine beauty, and is an accomplished artist with a wealth of experience in concert, opera, oratorio and radio work, as well as appearances with orchestras. She excels as a "Lieder" singer and in the interpretation of folk songs. Her repertoire includes works of both the old and modern schools in English, French, Italian, Russian and German.

The program will be as follows: Contralto solos, "Temple Bells" and "Kashmiri Song," from Indian Love Lyrics by Amy Woodford Faden; "Gypsy Wild Flower," "Zamecnik," and "Were My Song with Wings Provided," Hahn, by Miss Heffner; harp solos, "Valse Caprice," Verdalle, and "Marche Militaire," Hasselman, by Miss Knauss.

Group of three German numbers, "Der Asra," Rubinstein; "Ein Schwan," Grieg, and "Heiden Roselein," (Hedge Roses) Schubert, by Miss Heffner; harp solos, "Danse Orientale," (Chinoise) Cady, arranged from the piano score for the harp, and "Ar hyd Y nos," Welsh air, by Miss Knauss.

Adopt Budget for Elect John Stump College Activities

Adoption of the 1935-36 student budget at the sum of $1250 was the principal item of business acted upon by the student body at its first meeting of the year held last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium.

The budget, drawn up by the Student Council, was originally presented to the assembly with the figure set at $1200. This sum represented a decrease of $25 for forensic activities as compared with the $75 allotted for debating in former years.

Before a vote was taken on the proposed budget, Richard G. Miller, president of the college Forensic Council made an appeal that the forensic activity fund be raised to $100 because of a larger program which the organization had planned to put into effect this year. He also pointed out that several students paid their own expenses last spring when the debating team went to New England as the result of the forensic fund not being large enough to finance the trip.

A new motion, placed upon the floor to increase the budget to $1250 and thus give the Forensic Council an even $100 was passed and the budget adopted at the new figure.

Other important changes in the budget this year are an additional $10 for the purchase of a new campus flag, $60 to cover part of the expense in supplying blinds for the reading room of the library and an additional $25 to the $100 given last year for dramatic productions.

Seventy-five dollars, allotted to the Claria, junior class yearbook, was deducted from the budget this year since the management for the past several years has been

FRESHMAN MISDEMEANORS

A somewhat unruly pre-Lafayette celebration by the college freshmen last Friday night caused no little worry to city policemen and theater owners downtown.

The trouble all started when the annual freshman pajama parade was dismissed from Center Square. As in former years the frosh charged one of the city theaters, but found a policeman barring their entrance.

The "greenies" went to another show house where again they were turned away. Being foiled on two attempts was too much for the ambitious lads. Consequently they began to unscrew lights from their sockets around the theater and smashed them upon the pavement. Glass panels were broken and lobby plants destroyed.

By this time several policemen had banded together to chase the trouble-makers in what presented the picture of a childish game of "cops and robbers". Matters progressed until five members of the class were nabbed in one of the theaters and taken to the police station. These, in brief, were happenings that caused much embarrassment and consternation to all parties concerned.

President Haas promptly and properly took the freshmen to task for their misdemeanors, banned any more parades this year, and asked the frosh to voice their apologies to the theater owners where damage was done.

The story, however, is not all one-sided. Behind the scenes there were blunders and undiplomatic tactics displayed by both theater owners and the police.

First of all, the five men taken into custody by the police at the one theater had in no way done any damage. They were the victims for deeds committed by others in the group. Nevertheless they were held at the police station for more than twelve hours. Neither food nor bed clothing were provided for the night. One of the party was clad only in the pajamas he had worn in the parade. Three of the quintet were put in a cell where there was room for only two to sleep—and this on hard benches. Another in the group was refused permission to telephone his family residing in a nearby community. The police gave no thought of the parents who spent an uneasy night when the student did not return home.

Bail of $12 each was asked before the men could be released. Yet these students had in no way done any damage. The college offered to pay the amount, but city authorities refused to accept the check; they demanded cash. By 10 o'clock Saturday morning a college authority was found to pay for the release of the men who were warned by the police to avoid any such happenings in the future. They came back to college wearing the marks of whirling clubs and black-jacks.

Bills turned in for damage done at the city theaters seemed far in excess of the damage done and witnessed by an unbiased observer. The college will no doubt make good any damage that was done, but this does not insure a non-repetition of future pranks.

Numerous times it has been suggested that some local theater invite the freshmen to attend its show after the parade which is held annually. When there would be no reason for "crashing the gate" the freshmen would naturally not resort to such activity.

Perhaps the show-owners do not care how often the damage is done as long as the college pays the bill. But the time has come when the funds of the college no longer permit it to pay for any grafting schemes by theater or police authorities. Muhlenberg students and administration authorities can scarcely be expected to respect the local police after their tactless exhibition last week-end.

Good Turn-Out for Lafayette Smoker 100 Enrolled For Prep School Term

Charles M. Bolich '22, Guest Speaker Here Last Friday

Students and friends of the college who attended the Lafayette pep smoker held in the Science hall auditorium last Friday night termed it the best in the past five years as cheers, yells, and unlimited enthusiasm fairly shook the spacious room.

More than 300 students and alumni were present for the gala celebration which was sponsored by the Senior and Junior cabinets of the Muhlenberg Christian Association. Chairman for the evening's program was Theodore Fischer, vice-president of the college M. C. A.

The principal talk of the program was given by Charles M. Bolich, Muhlenberg graduate of 1922. Mr. Bolich, an Allentown attorney, attended college here in 1918 when the Cardinal and Gray last scored a victory over the Easton eleven. Other speakers, preceding Attorney Bolich were Head Coach Johnny Utz, Assistant Coach Bill Gutteron, and freshman mentor, Charles Evanovsky. Max Kohn, head cheerleader, also spoke briefly.

One of the greatest tributes ever accorded a Muhlenberg athlete was heard when "Haps" Benfer, the first speaker of the evening, called upon the student body to give Thomas Natoli, freshman star last fall, a rousing cheer. Students, alumni and visitors, stood and applauded for fully two minutes when Natoli's name was mentioned.

Natoli, a resident of Norwich, N. Y., was an outstanding lineman on last year's freshman squad and was looked upon as a certain starter this fall. During the summer, however, he suffered a severe injury to his left foot which caused part of it to be amputated.

Martial music by the college band and untiring work-outs by the four cheerleaders added to the pep meeting. Pipes, tobacco, cigarettes, apples and pretzels were distributed to the crowd in attendance.

Dr. Fritsch Speaks on Bible's Anniversary

The 400th anniversary of the printing of the first complete English Bible was brought to the attention of students attending the M. C. A. chapel service here last Friday morning when a brief history of the first Bibles was given by the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of religion.

Tracing the early Bible translations by men like Wycliffe, Tyndale and Luther, Dr. Fritsch stated that neither of these men gave a complete translation of the Bible. He cited the many hardships and struggles they had to endure in order to carry on their work and the horrible deaths which they suffered at the hands of their enemies who were opposed to the placing of the Bible into the hands of the common people.

In 1535, continued Dr. Fritsch, a man by the name of Miles Coverdale gave a complete translation of the English Bible. This was the first complete translation prepared at this time and was written in the language of the continent. Dr. Fritsch stated, that although this was the first complete English translation, it was not written upon English soil but in a European country. Two years later, 1537, there appeared another original translation known as the Matthew translation.

Bi-Monthly Exhibits Of Art To Be Shown

The bi-monthly exhibits of art work done by artists in this vicinity are to be continued this year according to Miss Helen Richards, librarian. The exhibits, held regularly in the college library, will include a number of new artists in addition to those who placed their work here last year.

This term there is a possibility of having exchange exhibits with Lehigh University in Bethlehem. In a letter recently received from Dr. Garth Howland, of the Department of Fine Arts at Lehigh, it is stated that the Bethlehem school would favor the exchange of such exhibits during the coming winter season.

Upward of 18,000,000 people are playing basketball throughout the United States.

Four Girls Registered as Institution Becomes Co-educational This Year

An increase in enrollment of thirty students is reported at the Allentown Preparatory School this term according to Prof. Louis F. Hackemann, headmaster. Last year 55 students were registered in the day school while 15 took work in the night classes. This year's figures show 75 attending day sessions and 25 at evening school. Sixty-two of this year's 100 enrolled are first-year students as compared with 90 new men last term.

Co-educational for the first time in its history, the school has engaged a woman with wide experience in educational and business fields to act as advisor to girls. Four girls have enrolled for the 1935-36 term.

Miss Marguerite Rogers, who holds a bachelor of arts degree from Mount Holyoke college and a master's degree in arts from Columbia university is the new supervisor. For the past two years she has been teaching commercial work in the Alden Secretarial School and the Merchants and Bankers school in New York.

An opportunity to earn credits toward a high school diploma is offered through the facilities of the Preparatory school night classes. Classes are arranged in accordance to the needs and desires of the respective students under a system of instruction that assure personal attention. The classes meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday night of each week. Among the courses offered are chemistry, biology, English, algebra, plane geometry, Spanish, and German. All courses of the business department are also given.

Campus Chatter

Donald Fry, poet laureate, of the locker rooms, has again blossomed forth into inspired poetic verse. At a special recital last week, for freshmen only, Donald held his audience spellbound as he vividly portrayed the character of love in his own, inimitable fashion. The yearlings are now engaged in research on the topic: as the renowned upper-classman characterized love variously as a pig, a cockatoo, and a little devil; a naive description for the disillusioned frosh.

The football players weren't the only individuals who practiced long and hard for the Baltimore game. "Teeny" Frankenfield and "Ollie" Gruver, junior cheerleaders, were secretly observed working themselves into a frenzy over a practice session behind closed doors and drawn blinds last week, and then "Ollie" was two laps behind in one of the cheers at the game.

It is this column's guess that Max Kohn, head cheerleader, will never again try to put the freshmen through their paces at a game unless well protected. It was a truly inspiring sight to see the spirited freshmen run down the stands and charge poor Max. For a time his fate was in doubt as his gigantic form was concealed by the surging crowd, but a little later he appeared on the crest of the wave as the mob romped off toward the gates with him.

At that the freshmen made quite a show at their initial presentation to Muhlenberg followers at the night game. In their first appearance behind the footlights, or under the spotlights, their well-guided antics proved a splendid attraction for the appreciative audience in the grandstands. The stunt of playing leap frog backwards took the figurative prize.

Paul Heffner has made a challenge to the supremacy of George Boyer's model "T". Paul has appeared on the campus in an ancient Franklin touring car. It is also only fair to give mention of the celebrated Nehf "brown bus", a familiar sight for several years at our institution.

A philanthropic group of shocked freshmen were stopped in the midst of a campaign to buy a shirt for trainer Renwick. "Scotty" seems to be oblivious of the present low temperatures as he appears on the fields and in the buildings wearing only a football undershirt on the "upper-half." Rest assured, frosh, "Scotty" has his idiosyncrosies.

3 Muhlenberg Men Pass Examinations

Alumni Successful in Passing Bar Tests Given in July

Three Muhlenberg graduates, all residents of Lehigh county are listed among the 223 persons who passed the state bar examinations in July, according to an announcement made from Philadelphia last Saturday. Candidates taking the exams numbered 442.

The Muhlenberg men successful in the tests, were Forrest E. Gotthardt and Kenneth H. Koch, both of Allentown, and Donald V. Hock, Catsaqua.

Mr. Gotthardt, son of Alderman and Mrs. William A. Gotthardt, 404 North Sixth street, an alumnus of Allentown high school, class of 1927, was graduated from Muhlenberg college in 1931, spent one year in the office of First Assistant District Attorney Alfred K. Hettinger, his preceptor, after which he studied at Dickinson School of Law from which he was graduated last June. At Dickinson he was president of the Corpus Juris club and at Muhlenberg was affiliated with the Alpha Sigma Rho fraternity.

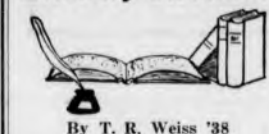

Mr. Koch, a graduate of Allentown high school in 1928, and from Muhlenberg college in 1932, completed his law studies at Dickinson in June of this year. He has been serving his law clerkship with District Attorney John H. Diefenderfer. At Muhlenberg, Mr. Koch was a member of the Omicron Delta Kappa Senior honorary fraternity and the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and at Dickinson was a member of the Corpus Juris society. During the past week he was selected to teach the commercial law course at the Allentown Institute of banking local chapter, at the administration building each Thursday night. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Koch, 338 North Twelfth street.

Mr. Hock, '31, who was graduated from Catsaqua High school in 1927, was president of his class there, and at Muhlenberg college, of which he is an alumnus, he was captain of the debating team, coach of the Freshman debating team and a member of the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity. State Senator Henry L. Snyder secured a scholarship for Mr. Hock at the University of Pennsylvania, from the law school of which he was graduated in June. He was a member of the John G. Johnson law club at the university. Judge Ethan Allen Gearhart was Mr. Hock's preceptor.

They say it began last spring at some eastern school, but at any rate, the idea seems to have swept throughout the collegiate world. Men students have found that they can polish up their white shoes very neatly with the chalk dust from a blackboard eraser.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

"SIX CHARACTERS IN SEARCH OF AN AUTHOR"

By Luigi Pirandello

Commencing in most capricious fashion, this book reviewer observes that his initial review must concern a play, "Six Characters in Search of an Author". Why? Because its stark beauty still lingers provocatively in his mind; because the sincere heat created in and emanating from an active matrix yet stirs him to the thrilling realization of a brain's verve; because the bitter taste of truth still tingles on his tongue.

The accountments of the play itself are not colorful. This drama does not display gaudy gowns; nor is it announced into our presence by the flowery tones of flamboyant attendants; its words are not gayly-plumed birds that fly far, far away into the empyrean regions of imagination. The naked profile alone, removed of all excess cumbersome flesh, stands before us. Plainly the author, who recently won the coveted Nobel Prize, has something he ardently desires to say. On this account, unlike many authors who present all clothes and no body, Pirandello strives not for soothing cadence but for brusque reality. To him many of life's arcana have been revealed; accordingly, in his wish to give them to us he becomes at times even harsh, yet sweetly so for those who love the truth.

This brings us to a consideration of the play itself. Its theme is a brilliantly pessimistic display of the inability of man to appreciate the thoughts of his neighbor. Ironically, Pirandello brings his product to the very home of creative art. Daringly, he takes his play to that fundamental station of human endeavor wherein the worker—more creator than the worker anywhere else—is definitely supposed to know the inmost thoughts of his children. Does he not regulate their every move? Pirandello, by the clever utilization of a play within a play, of characters who are intended to stand before us as such and not as living human beings, shows to us that even the author, once he has freed his creation from himself, can no longer be cognizant of its newly acquired meanings; by connotation it has gained an independence all its own. The theme carried to the height of generalization then signifies that no one can actually define, interpret, or understand life or any part of it. And he who attempts this is bound to find himself struggling in the quagmires of doubt, disillusionment, and even dismay.

The play bears no humor; the author has not intended his effort merely for amusement. Yet considered as a whole, it contains the grim humor of life itself—that dour joke which so few of us can see.

What then, finally, is the value of this humorless, caustic, gloomy drama? Briefly this; it makes one think; no more thought-demanding play have I met on the modern stage. On the waves of purging contemplation it rears the reader, leaving him a bit wiser, a bit sadder perhaps, but, greatest of all, a bit sweeter.

Reflections

William J. Leifeld '36

IN OCTOBER

There's blue in the sky
With soft clouds piled high;
There's an Artist there
With colors most rare,
Who paints all the leaves
When they die
So slow.

That quiet rustle
Is not the world's bustle.
Take time to reflect
And your path deflect
From all that deceives—
Man's tussle
Below.

It's a happy day
When cares are away;
And we float as the clouds
Away from earth's shrouds.
Ah, then nothing grieves,
And we say,
Adieu.

MUHLS FALL BEFORE LEOPARDS, 7-0

Golden, Maroon Back, Runs 84 Yards In 3rd Period to Score Winning Goal; Both Teams Put Up Stubborn Defense

Cardinal and Gray Tallies 12 First Downs Against 7 for Easton Team; Aerial Attack Features Play of Both Teams

'BERG ON TEN-YARD STRIKE AS GAME ENDS

It's beginning to look like an almost impossible task for a Muhlenberg football team to chalk up a win over any eleven Lafayette College may put on the field against the Cardinal and Gray. Once again last Saturday Coach Johnny Utz took his gridders to Easton and brought them back the same day with a stinging 7 to 0 defeat.

For the past 17 years local gridiron teams have been gunning for a triumph over the Leopards and this fall looked like the longed-for victory was nigh at hand. Having one of the most inexperienced eleven in its history, Lafayette, the previous week-end, had dropped a 6-0 decision to a fighting Moravian aggregation.

With this as a basis for argument, many of the Nation's sports writers picked the Muhls as a favorite over Coach McCracken's boys last week-end. But when the final whistle blew 'Berg was still looking for the expected win and pounding at the goal line of the victors.

Muhlenberg's hopes were blasted as the result of an 84-yard run by Frank Golden, Lafayette halfback. This sensational run, coming like the unexpected crash of a thunder-clap in a summer storm, dazed Muhlenberg and Lafayette followers alike, as they watched the fleet Maroon back weave his way through the Muhlenberg defenders down the side line and over the goal.

The placement kick that Joe Smith arched over the cross bar aroused scarcely a ripple of applause, for the Lafayette followers were still cheering Golden's great run. The six points produced by Golden were sufficient. The seventh was for good measure.

It was this single play that gave the Maroon her victory. Muhlenberg more than held her own in gaining ground from scrimmage, picking up 12 first downs against 7 for Lafayette.

Although both teams resorted to an open game in the first period and continued to toss passes with considerable frequency, it was not until the third period that the lateral pass play was called.

Pushed back into her own territory as the result of a punt by Farrell, the Maroon chose this moment for her first lateral. Curran started out as if to circle his right end and as a Muhlenberg tackler was about to bring him down pushed a short pass to Golden, who was in the clear. Golden lost no time in heading down the field and he was in the midst of the Muhlenberg secondary before they realized what had happened. Golden did a nice job of side stepping several tacklers as he wormed his way into the open.

Muhlenberg refused to concede defeat until the final whistle. Starting from her own 20-yard line after Fulmer had kicked over the goal, the Mules filled the air with passes both forwards and laterals. They refused to be stopped and with Lafayette trying desperately to gain possession travelled 70 yards to within 10 yards of the Maroon goal. It was Gutekunst who featured this drive and it was the same player who planted the ball on the ten-yard line as the whistle ended the game.

Lafayette knocked at the Muhlenberg goal twice in the second period but each time found it barred. On the second play of the quarter Golden was stopped one yard from the scoring stripe, and again just before the intermission, Muhlenberg denied him entrance into scoring territory at the same point.

Muhlenberg's best chance for a score came in the third period. Farrell, who was the sparkplug of the Muhlenberg attack most of the afternoon, broke through the line and raced 28 yards before Golden dragged him down from behind. Then Koehler dropped a perfect pass on the goal and his failure to hold the ball cost Muhlenberg her chance for an even break.

Muhlenberg gambled on a passing game all afternoon. The Mules

36 Frosh Report For Grid Practice

Many Candidates Have Outstanding Records from High School

Three states are represented in the group of thirty-six freshmen who responded to Freshman Coach Evanovsky's call for football practice last week. Many of the men were of championship calibre in their high school days and it is hoped that the boys will be able to equal the record of last year's freshman squad which went through the season undefeated, scoring wins over the Lafayette and Lehigh frosh. The yearlings will, at least, give the varsity plenty to worry about during the practice scrimmages. A lot of the new boys look mighty big and tough and can be counted upon to make their presence felt during the sessions with the varsity. Following are the names of those who have reported:

Benny Cohen, South Philadelphia; Harry McDonough, West Orange, N. J.; Frank Tracy, Montclair, N. J.; Karl Meyers, Allentown; H. John McKee, Brown Prep; Adam Matusa, Swoyersville; Carlton Wermouth, Nanticoke; Sammy Snavely, Lititz; Herbert Koernko, Robert Thompson, Claude Figgis, Lansdowne; Richard Dawe, Pen Argyl; Gordon Christy, Roxborough; Edwin Smith, Catasauqua.

William Mellick, Stroudsburg; Raymond Sprow, Wyoming Sem; Johnny Burian, Allentown; Wilson Dietrich, Reading; Stauffer Heffner, Hamburg; William Hay, Carson Long, Military; Max Maranuk, White Haven; Murray Iobst, Emmaus; John Chalupa, Lansford; Fred Snyder, Allentown; Neil Laidman, Bethlehem; Walter Kistler, Pittston.

Wahl Pfeifer, Leeburg; R. Henry Ahlum, West Quakertown; Harry Depew, Easton; John Fickes, Catasauqua; George Richards, Franklin, N. J.; Francis O'Neil, Barnsdale, Mass.; Charles Harper, Ridley Park; Oakley Blair, Andrew Gadek, Woodbridge, N. J.; Ivan Handwerk, Slatington.

Dave Booth is manager of the freshman team.

Opponents Impressive In Saturday's Games

Muhlenberg's gridiron opponents for the remainder of the season came through with fine records last Saturday and chalked up scores which indicate plenty of trouble ahead for the Cardinal and Gray warriors. Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall, Lehigh and Albright were all impressive in winning their games last week-end. The Reading collegians completely surprised their followers with a one-touchdown victory over a strong Georgetown eleven. The scores of the games are as follows:

Lebanon Valley	6
Penn State	12
Ursinus	0
Bucknell	20
Gettysburg	14

Vespers Begun in Chapel on Sunday

Rev. Albert Shumaker, Philadelphia Pastor, Guest Preacher at Service

With the Rev. Albert W. Shumaker, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, as the guest preacher, Muhlenberg resumed its regular vespers services here last Sunday afternoon in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

The speaker emphasized the need for Christians to follow the old prophetic type of religion in their relations with each other today.

"Be like the prophets of old," said the Rev. Mr. Shumaker, "who went into the battle against sin for their own ideals; who wanted to transform the world from what it was into what they thought it should be. Battle for righteousness; do not compromise or bicker with the world . . . Prophetic religion is the force which gives the world its only hope of that after life . . . Prophetic religion is not a selfish religion. A prophet cannot be satisfied with saving his own soul, but he must reach out to everyone and give them the things he has.

Prophetic religion is sacrificial. The way of the prophet with ideals is the way of the cross . . . Religion cannot reach its peak until it changes everything as a whole and it is dependent today upon people who have heard the prophet calling. Anyone who has taken Jesus as their Lord and Master, should follow the prophetic road to everlasting life."

The vested choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, sang the cappella anthem, "I Need Thee Every Hour" by Gould. The Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas and the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, chaplain, officiated at the service.

Choose Questions For Debate Teams

Prof. Everitt Represents Muhlenberg at State Meeting Saturday

Questions to be debated by Pennsylvania colleges and universities this year were selected last Saturday at the annual meeting of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania colleges held at the Penn-Harris hotel in Harrisburg.

The subjects for argument selected in the order of their importance are as follows:

1. Resolved, that congress should be empowered to over-ride by a two-thirds vote the decisions of the United States supreme court declaring acts of congress unconstitutional.

2. Resolved, that the constitution should be amended so that Congress may control intra-state commerce.

3. Resolved that married women holding positions should be replaced by individuals with no other means of support.

Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt college debate coach and Muhlenberg's representative at the Harrisburg meeting has decided to concentrate the efforts of the local debaters on the second question which he believes will prove to be the most popular one this season. Prof. Everitt was a member of the committee this year which selected the three arguments.

Representatives from twenty-six colleges were present at the session last Saturday. Attending the meeting with Prof. Everitt was Dr. Robert Conklin, assistant professor of English here.

Officers of the association elected for the coming year were: Hurst R. Anderson, of the speech department of Allegheny college, president; John A. Tallmadge, of the English department at Cedar Crest college, vice-president; John Frizzell, of the English department at Penn State college, continues a secretary.

Dr. Haas Explains Society Diseases

Declares the Only Cure Lies in Observance of Golden Rule

"The trouble with society lies in the fact that today it is beleaguered with many illnesses; namely, financial fever, economic edema, political palsy, moral malaria, and religious rickets," said Dr. John A. W. Haas at the chapel service last Monday when he addressed the upperclassmen on the timely subject of "A Cure for the Ills of the Present Day Social System."

"Scheming politicians," continued Dr. Haas, "instead of helping society along, serve the purpose of gratifying their own pleasures. The only cure for the ills of society lies in the Golden Rule and not in the imaginations of men supposed to be financial geni. Instead of the love of one's fellow man, the love of God, and the recognition of the moral principles of the Ten Commandments, we find the Golden Calf."

"A crusade of love led by a prophet of friendship," concluded Dr. Haas, "would revolutionize the world and administer the nostrum needed for our ills."

The Verein will be host to these students at its regular meeting next Monday and on the following meeting the initiation will take place.

It was decided at the meeting to revise the constitution to meet present day needs. The committee to work on revision consists of Warren C. Schlegel '36, chairman; Chester H. Woodring '35, Frederick J. Gregorius '37, and George Machajdik '37.

The following committees were also appointed: refreshment committee—Chester H. Woodring '36, chairman; Clarence A. Holland '36, and Julius Kish '36.

Famous Paintings May Be Shown Here Soon

Muhlenberg this year may have the opportunity of securing the "One Picture Exhibitions" of famous paintings from the galleries of the New York Museum of Modern Art if present plans now under consideration are carried out.

Last year the New York headquarters placed the local college on a waiting list along with a number of other schools when the number requesting the exhibitions became too great for the number of days allotted to the showings. Application has already been made this term by Miss Helen Richards, librarian, and in all probability the exhibits will come here this year. The pictures are shown for a ten-day period.

more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Yale Professor To Speak Friday For Annual Conference

College Faculty Members Will Hear Address by Dr. Fisher

PLAN DINNER MEETING AT COLLEGE COMMONS

Students and faculty members of colleges in the Lehigh Valley will have the unusual opportunity of hearing Dr. Irving Fisher, Yale professor, speak on the local campus this Friday evening in connection with the annual conference of Lehigh Valley faculties.

Dr. Fisher will speak at the closing session of the conference which starts at 8 o'clock in the Science Hall auditorium. This will be preceded by a dinner meeting in the college commons at which one person from each of the six colleges represented will give a brief talk.

Efforts are being made to have Major J. C. Shumberger, vice-president, part-owner, and controller of the Allentown Morning Call present for the evening's activities. Major Shumberger is a close friend of Dr. Fisher and recently reviewed one of the professor's latest books on political economy.

The conference sessions are to open on Friday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock with registration in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel. The gathering will hear an organ recital by Dr. Harold K. Marks, college organist, and several selections by the college vested choir. At 6 o'clock the faculty members will assemble in the Commons for the dinner. Reservations are being made for more than 200 guests.

Following this the delegates will proceed to the Science auditorium to hear Dr. Fisher speak on the subject "The Depression—Its Cause and Cure".

Pfattheicher, president of Ministerium of Pennsylvania. Three other speakers, prominently affiliated with the brotherhood work, will be announced at a future date.

Two meetings are to be held in the chapel during the day's activities. The first of these will be at 10 o'clock in the morning with the delegates convening again at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon. Luncheon will be served in the college commons at noon.

Invitations have been sent to approximately 400 persons who are expected to be enrolled at the convention as official delegates. These will represent the ten synods within the Ministerium proper.

Officers of the Ministerium brotherhood are as follows: President, Herman L. Bishop, of Lansdale; vice-president, J. Myron Shimer, Philadelphia; secretary, Earle W. Bader, Bethlehem; treasurer, Dr. Clarence C. Billy, of Shamokin.

Gutteron Has Narrow Escape in Accident

William A. Gutteron, assistant football coach, escaped serious injury when the car he was driving skidded from the road at Millers-town early Monday morning, and struck a fireplug, causing considerable damage to the machine.

Gutteron had driven his wife to their home at Bellefonte and was returning to Muhlenberg, when the accident occurred, about twenty-five miles west of Harrisburg. The assistant coach suffered only slight lacerations of the head.

INTRODUCING DR. FISHER

Dr. Irving Fisher, guest speaker for the meeting of college faculties here Friday night, has had a wide experience in many fields of activity. He was born at Saugerties, N. Y., on February 27, 1867. He was graduated from Yale University with the degree of B.A. in 1888, and received his Ph.D. degree from the same institution in 1891. He received an LL.D. degree from Rollins College in 1923. Since 1898, he has been a professor of Political Economy at Yale.

He is at present a director of the Automatic Signal Corporation, the Buffalo Electric Furnace Corporation, the United Endowment Foundation, and the Sonotone Corporation. He formed the Advisory Committee of Economists for the Committee for the Nation in the spring of 1933.

Professor Fisher's most recent books are: "Booms and Depressions", published in 1932; "Stamp Scrip", "Inflation?", and "After Reflation, What?", published in 1933; "Stable Money, A History of the Movement", published in 1934, and "100% Money" just off the press.

For the past two years he has spent a great deal of time in Washington, appeared before many committees of Congress and had conferences with people in the Administration in reference to the anti-inflation and reflation legislation.

Rev. Schwenk Preacher At Vespers on Sunday

Guest preacher to fill the college chapel pulpit for the third vesper service this coming Sunday will be the Rev. Dr. Elwood Schwenk, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Lebanon. The Rev. Mr. Schwenk is a Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1917.

While a student here he was an honor man and active in extra-curricular work. He served as president of his class while a sophomore and won the Junior Oratorical contest the following year. In his senior year he was president of the Muhlenberg Christian Association. He was also a varsity football player.

Faculty Group To Speak At Churches

Muhlenberg Professors Taking Active Part in New Campaign

Seventeen members of the college faculty and administration will this Sunday address Lutheran congregations throughout the Ministerium of Pennsylvania in behalf of the campaign to raise $25,000 for the further support of Muhlenberg and the Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

Efforts to cut down a gathering deficit in the current expense funds of both Lutheran institutions are being made by the Ministerium. Reformation Sunday, which this year falls on October 27, has been set aside for a synod-wide offering for the cause of higher educational institutions. Last Sunday a number of Lutheran pastors throughout the Ministerium area exchanged pulpits to arouse the interest of all churchmen to support the worthy undertaking.

Personal letters have been written by Dr. Haas, president of the college, and by the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Jacobs, president of the Seminary, to 215,000 Lutherans of the Ministerium. Professors of the Seminary have also undertaken speaking engagements.

Freshman, Sophomore Classes To Resume Scraps This Year

Related class scraps between the sophomores and freshmen are to be held here in the near future according to Harold Weiner, chairman of the Freshman Tribunal.

Members of the two groups will this year engage in a water fight, pushball contest, and a tug-of-war, the first and last of which will take place along Cedar Creek opposite Chew street. The freshmen will be allowed ten more men in these two scraps than are in the sophomore ranks.

Should the frosh win two of the three contests they will be allowed to use the first floor entrance

Muhlenberg, Ursinus Game To Open Conference Season

Cardinal and Gray Renew Rivalry with Bears on Collegeville Gridiron; Local Eleven Holds Edge in Series

OPENING KICK-OFF SCHEDULED FOR 2 O'CLOCK

Muhlenberg and Ursinus College football teams will this Saturday officially open the 1935 season of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference when these two elevens meet on the Collegeville gridiron for a renewal of relations which started at the beginning of the present century.

Gettysburg jumps into conference competition next week-end against the Muhls while Franklin and Marshall opens still one week later when the Diplomats come here for Homecoming Day. Dickinson does not enter the race until Saturday, November 9, when the Gettysburg eleven is entertained at Carlisle.

Defending the conference championship this fall as co-champions are Franklin and Marshall and Gettysburg. The latter's loss to F. and M. last year coupled with Ursinus' win over the Lancaster collegians accounted for the tie at the end of the season. Each won three games against a single defeat to deadlock the race.

On paper this year Coach Alan Holman's team appears as the best in the circuit, especially after holding Fordham to a 14 to 7 score a few weeks ago. Any one of the other four schools in the conference may, however, upset the dope and crowd out the favorite.

The Cardinal Crusaders expect to be at their full strength on Saturday when they take the field against the Ursinus Bears. Coach McAvoy's teams have not won over the Muhls since 1931 and will be out to get that long-awaited victory.

Last fall the Cardinal and Gray upset the dope by holding a favored Bear eleven to a 7-7 deadlock after that team had won from the University of Pennsylvania and F. and M. earlier in the season. The year before the local collegians managed to eke out a 3-0 win over their opponents as the result of "Red" Weiner's field goal.

The kick-off on Saturday afternoon is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

State Dept. Rules Fraternities Need Not Pay New Tax

Dues for Social and Honorary Groups Not Classed
Under Amusements

MUST SECURE PERMITS TO CHARGE ADMISSION

Dues for membership in any college social or honorary fraternity are not subject to taxation through the new amusement tax act according to word received from John C. Morlock, chief adviser for stamp and amusement taxes at the State Capitol in Harrisburg.

This decision is contrary to articles appearing several weeks ago in a number of college newspapers throughout the State which said that fraternities were classed as social clubs and would have to pay a tax at the rate of one cent for each twenty-five cents upon any payment made for initiation fees, membership fees or dues.

In order to set fraternities straight upon the matter Chief Morlock last week mailed out the information to heads of all colleges within Pennsylvania. The rulings set down by the State department are as follows:

1. Dues for membership, board or lodging are not taxable, and no permit is required.
2. Admissions charged for an amusement, whether a show, dance, or other entertainment, as defined by the Act, are taxable, and a permit is required (the charge for each permit is $1.00). However, if the entire proceeds (after payment of reasonable expenses) received from admissions to any such amusement, inure exclusively to the benefit of the university or college, then such proceeds are exempt from the tax. In such latter case a permit is required, and an application for exemption must be filed with the Department of Revenue, together with the application for a permit, and when filed the exemption will be granted.
3. The Department will furnish permit and exemption applications immediately upon request.

Alumni To Gather For Fordham Game

Various Groups Planning Big Celebration in New York City

One of the most enthusiastic gatherings of Muhlenberg alumni ever held is being planned for the week-end of November 15 and 16 and will be held in connection with the football game with Fordham University at the Polo Grounds in New York City on the afternoon of the 16th.

The reunion will mark a gathering of 'Berg alumni both at the game and afterwards at the Hotel Lincoln. The event is being sponsored by the Northeastern Jersey alumni group in connection with the alumni groups of New York City and several other New Jersey organizations.

The reunion promises to be a red-letter day in alumni activity away from home such as has not been witnessed for many years. While this is the first announcement to the alumni group of the idea, many who have heard about it have signified their intention of going to New York and spending the afternoon and evening with their fellow alumni. The North stand at the Polo ground will be

THE $25,000 CAMPAIGN

Administration authorities for Muhlenberg College and the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia are this month conducting special services in churches throughout the Ministerium of Pennsylvania in order to raise funds to decrease the indebtedness of both institutions.

Aiding the administrative heads of these two schools are faculty members, professors, and pastors of the congregations in the Ministerium. The latter group exchanged pulpits last Sunday in the interest of the campaign.

When such a great amount of time and effort are given to any undertaking it is seldom a failure and this worthy project will prove no exception. Followers of the drive are awaiting only the results to be announced following the special offerings taken on Reformation Day, the last Sunday in this month.

While it is not the purpose of this paper to stress sectarian work we do wish to remind those students here, of the Lutheran faith, that they too have an important part to play in this work. There are many enrolled at Muhlenberg who are being aided financially either directly through the funds of the college or by their home congregations. The least these men can do is to encourage their home churches to carefully consider this plea and contribute to such an extent as their means will permit.

Having done this small share toward the betterment of their college, these students can rest assured they will continue to receive their share of the college's benefits.

WORLD PEACE AGAIN ENDANGERED

War, the dreaded actuality that we have tried to avoid for the last few months, is now hovering over the whole world. Through the entangling sides made by the League of Nations, just as the entangling alliances present in the World War because of jealousy and personal prejudice, the whole civilized nations of the world may again be involved.

Although the war at present is only being fought between Italy and Ethiopia, there are enough disputable points involving the different peoples of the world to set all the nations into a seething melting pot that will only cool off when entire countries have been devastated.

When, in the years that we are now going through, one man sets himself up as a dictator and says that his country is ready for any one that comes along, it is time for the organized nations to put a stop to it. A person that lets his personal power lead him to believe that he fears no one, must meet a crisis in a short time. Thus, Mussolini's policy of the subjection of the Ethiopian people in his new colonization projects is contrary to the present beliefs of the nations. In his attempt to carry out a stand that he had to take in order not to lose his prestige among the nations, he revealed that he would stop at nothing; not even the undivided efforts of the League of Nations to arbitrate would halt him.

Frank H. Simonds a few weeks ago in the Current History for October entitled "The Drift to War" stated that "A European war in the next few months is entirely likely, but peace beyond the middle of next summer must be excessively precarious" expressed the views of millions of other people. But he could not look below the dark exterior of a man determined to act at any price. Now we see what a cruel despot this really is who even against the appeals of his own people as well as against those of the Pope, head of the largest religious sect in the world, rushes on in his blind terrorizing methods.

Although the situation looks dark, we can still have hope for peace. We can thank God for the millions of youths in all countries of the world today, who remembering the vivid stories of that last terrible conflict, have declared openly they are against war. For every minister, at the time of the world war who declared himself against war, there are today a hundred sharing his views. All those people who do not have interests that might be developed through such a conflagration, have likewise expressed their desires of "peace at any price."

Let us then live, remembering that if all the people won't fight there can be no war. If there are enough of earnest daring citizens to uphold their desires, civilization can be preserved. If all cooperate in one determined effort they can thwart the "god of destruction". Every effort toward peaceful lives, although accomplishing nothing openly, is building; every hopeful gesture of peace is helping to destroy the dregs of oblivion. If we let what we have already accomplished serve as an incentive to greater energy for peace, we can accomplish our goal on a seemingly insurmountable height.

THE NATIONAL YOUTH ADMINISTRATION

Educators in our own college and elsewhere have time and again scornfully criticized the "brain trusters" for their expensive bureaucratic agencies, uneconomic policies, and socialistic regimentation. Instead of being broadminded, as befits an academic atmosphere, we are prone to either tear down or support all that an administration has accomplished according to our own party membership.

Granted that Franklin D. Roosevelt has made many blunders in his bold but courageous attempt to reduce hardship to a minimum in this depression, let us examine a program which vitally affects our college as well as other educational institutions throughout the land, the National Youth Administration.

President Roosevelt with the millions at his disposal did not think of the big corporations alone; he thought also of young men, in these trying times, who were making great sacrifices to enter our colleges. To this cause he appropriated $50,000,000. In Muhlenberg College alone, seventy-four deserving students are enjoying this aid.

The National Youth Administration may be questioned from a "practical, hard money viewpoint." In the minds of a few it might even be unconstitutional for the state to help young men to better themselves and society, but to the more liberal thinkers, whose consideration reaches beyond dollars in a time of despair such as this, it is truly a progressive and democratic policy.

Humility Is Theme Of Vesper Speaker

Rev. J. F. Stolte Preaches on "Spiritual Foundation for Social Contacts"

"To do justice, love mercy and walk humbly—these are the three things the Lord wants us to do with our lives," declared the Rev. Dr. J. F. Stolte, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church in Bangor, in his sermon on "Spiritual Foundations for Social Contacts" at the vesper service last Sunday afternoon in Egner-Hartzell chapel.

In answering the question, "What does the Lord require of thee?" the Rev. Mr. Stolte compared life with the famous words of Damascus whose makers used a fire to give the blades a true and lasting temper, then dipped them in oil and finally in water.

The fire of justice is not enough, said the speaker, but must be tempered with the oil of mercy and finally the water of humility. The three make of a man a tempered soul. "If a man be humble, his walk through life becomes more than a parade or strut—it becomes a quiet walk with God and fellowship with Him. It builds the foundation for the whole superstructure of character."

Opening and closing devotions were conducted by the Rev. H. C. Cressman and the Rev. Russell W. Stine, both of the college faculty. The chapel choir, directed by Dr. Harold K. Marks, sang Ramsden's "Lead, Kindly Light." Dr. Marks, chapel organist and director of music, presided at the console and played two Bach chorale preludes, "Lord Hear the Voice of My Complaint" and "If Thou Suffer God to Guide Thee"; "Offertoire," Galetti, and Loret's "Allegro Maestoso" as the postlude.

Cheerleaders Add New Yells For Grid Games

A new college cheer, used for the first time at the Lafayette game on October 5, has been added to those already in use here. The yell was introduced to the student body by Max Kohn, head cheerleader, at a pep meeting nearly two weeks ago. Kohn also announced that two more new cheers will be added in the near future. Motions for several other cheers are also to be changed. The new yell appears below:

Barnard Senior Is Winner of Contest

Si Podolin '35, Sought Prize Won by Elizabeth Hall

ELIZABETH HALL

A Barnard senior, Elizabeth Hall, is the winner of the National College Short Story Contest held by the magazine "Story" in which 224 universities and colleges, representing every state, participated. Miss Hall's manuscript which was awarded the first prize of one hundred dollars is called "Two Words Are a Story" and appears in the November issue of "Story" published yesterday.

Miss Hall is twenty-one years old and a native New Yorker. Before attending Barnard she studied at Shore Road Academy and Swarthmore. She worked for one year as an advertising copy writer in a department store basement, an experience which she says "was probably more educational than any formal training."

She describes her favorite occupations as "swimming, cooking and receiving large checks from editors which seldom happens to me."

Muhlenberg was represented in the contest with a story by Si Podolin, graduate in 1935.

By T. R. Weiss '38

During the past few years I have devoted myself to a rather close study of Decadence, of Symbolism with its so-called neurotic writers. This has naturally carried me far into the realms of intricate fantasy, of whimsicality actually converted into serious regularity and everyday acceptance. To me have been fascinatingly revealed grotesque plants, insects of strange iridescence, odd flowers unknown to common soil, and secrets—the products of peculiar minds steeped in mysticism and esoteric practices. Accordingly, when Henry Seidel Canby, accepted dean of American Literature, in a recent magazine article concludes: "Great literature is not nervous," presumptuous though I may seem, I must confute him. This I shall attempt to do in sequacious steps.

By his above words Mr. Canby wishes to imply that literature to be great must concern itself with the healthy side of life, with the sunshine and the well-known flowers, with the fresh air and the peace of optimistic thought. Now to refute this systematically:—An age determines its literature (to repeat an old cliché); its writers are the focal result of its many influences, and naturally they reflect its variegated scenes, simple or complicated as they may be. But in turn each age has certain literary exigencies, exigencies which must be fulfilled by its greater writers who, though the products of this age, are yet clairvoyant and introspective enough to penetrate its weaknesses. Whereas particular periods need a Browning, others need a Baudelaire. Just as at one point in literary history it is logical and necessary to find Homer, so at another it is pertinent and proper to come upon Heine. Such men as Browning and Homer serve as tonics, as bottled sunshine; but men of the Heine-Baudelaire genre are of a corrective nature—perhaps not as blithe, perhaps not as buoyant and bright, perhaps not as fresh, yet quite as effective. For they divulge to the age its blemishes, its sins and its ignominies. Indirectly and unknowingly they are the real reformers of worldly corruption and frequently the fuglemen of new forms and new thought. By existing as the very core of the age—rotten and wormy though it may

J. F. Gehr Successful In Bar Examinations

J. Frederick Gehr, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. Franklin Gehr, of Salem Lutheran church, Bethlehem, has been successful in passing the examinations of the state board for admission to the bar.

Upon being admitted to the supreme court of Pennsylvania he will have fulfilled all of the requirements of a candidate for admission to the Pennsylvania Bar and will become a full-fledged attorney.

Mr. Gehr was graduated from Liberty High with honors in 1928 and received a scholarship to Muhlenberg college, where he was among the first in his class, receiving the A.B. degree in 1932.

Since that time he has studied at the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, and the degree of bachelor of laws was conferred on him this past spring.

HILTON WINS LEHIGH TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

"Herbie" Hilton, former Muhlenberg student and one-time tennis ace here, last Saturday won the tennis championship of Lehigh University where he is now enrolled. Hilton won the title and gained a leg on the Fritz Mercur tennis trophy by beating Johnny Dietz, Lehigh's 1936 net captain, in a hard-fought match on the Lehigh courts.

The match, the final of the fall Mercur tourney, was plenty exciting. Hilton lost the first set and then came back to take the next two. Dietz, apparently beaten, rallied to win the fourth set and then dropped the final, 2-6. The summary: Hilton defeated Dietz 1-6, 6-1, 9-7, 2-6, 6-2.

RETURNS FROM TOUR OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

Thomas W. Lantz, graduate in the class of '22, has returned from a three-months tour and study of the recreational and cultural opportunities of young people in Germany and Austria. Lantz was selected for the survey by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

He will report his findings to the National Recreation Congress and to the American Physical and Health association. The trip was made possible through the Oberlander Trust, which is supervised by the Carl Schurz Foundation.

Lantz is a son of the late Rev. Henry K. Lantz '97. He was graduated from the Old Central High school, Harrisburg, in 1918. He has been supervisor of recreation in Reading for the past six years.

ALBERT ELY WORKS ON EXCAVATION PROJECTS

Word has been received of the work of Albert Grim Ely in New Mexico where he is assisting in the excavation of abandoned pueblos and missions as part of his archaeological undertakings.

Mr. Ely, although only 23 years old, has traveled extensively and has directed several excavations of old missions. He attended Muhlenberg college, and in June, 1934, he received his master's degree in archaeology from the University of New Mexico. In 1933 he received his B.A. degree from the same institution.

Last month Mr. Ely, a resident of 214 Lehigh street, visited friends and relatives in this city.

First Engagement For College Choir

Musicians to Sing at Christ Lutheran Church on December 8

December 8 is the date for the first appearance of the college choir off the campus according to an announcement made yesterday by Theodore L. Fischer, student manager. On the evening of that Sunday the choristers are scheduled to sing in Christ Lutheran Church, corner of Thirteenth and Hamilton streets, this city.

The concert to be given before the local congregation will be held in connection with annual College Day service sponsored by Christ Church of which the Rev. Dr. G. Harold Kinard is the pastor.

A capella concerts have also been announced to be given at churches in Myerstown, Pottsville, and Philadelphia. The dates for these engagements will be made known in the near future, Manager Fischer said.

Dr. Harold K. Marks, director and organist, has announced the addition of one new member to the list published last week. The new man is John Brown, a member of the sophomore class.

PHYSICS PROFESSORS AT COLLEGE MEETING

Dr. Ira F. Zartman and Prof. Homer C. Knauss, members of Muhlenberg's physics department represented the college at a meeting of physics professors from all sections of the State held last Friday and Saturday at Penn State College.

Accompanying the two Muhlenberg men were Bernard Blackman and Alfred Schaeffer, both seniors, who attended, during the conclave, a program for college seniors especially interested in physics.

be—they disclose its actual essence. Moreover, these "Bad Masters" plumb depths for us otherwise inaccessible, recesses directly attainable only to peculiarly attuned minds—recesses such as the red-blooded "Good Masters" could never even apprehend. What a great legacy man would lose, were someone suddenly to destroy as the undesired Apocrypha of the literary Bible all the writings of Poe, Heine, De Quincey, Nietzsche, Coleridge, Proust, and a host of other like geni! True, they may be indicative of abnormal conditions, just as the gangster was and is. But these circumstances are entities whose actuality cannot be evaded but must be met squarely and completely for resolution.

Theological Club Has First Meeting

Dr. William Schaeffer, St. John's Pastor, Guest Speaker at Session

The church must revamp its systems of religious education in the future if it expects to reach those people who desire God's message, the Rev. Dr. William Schaeffer, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, this city, told members of the Pre-Theological club at its first meeting of the year last Thursday evening in the assembly room of the administration building.

Speaking from seventeen years experience among all classes of people in his work in this city, the Rev. Mr. Schaeffer emphasized the mistake of making class distinction in the church and the error of "renting" church pews. "The open church for all people should be the pastor's objective, but many forget and build the structure around a few wealthy persons," the speaker said.

He also pointed out the fault of keeping churches closed during the week and open only on Sunday when the practice should be one of continuous activity.

During the business meeting of the Club, President Walter Guigley announced that the weekly discussion hour, started last year, would be continued again this term and that Deputation teams would function at nearby churches. Music on the evening's program included a saxophone solo by Lawrence Reese, accompanied at the piano by Stover Crouthamel.

Guest speaker announced for the November meeting will be the Rev. C. P. Hattery, secretary of the Board of Education for the United Lutheran Church.

Coach Utz Speaks To 4-Square Club

Members of the Allentown Four Square club, meeting last Tuesday evening in the Americus hotel, had as the guest speaker Muhlenberg's varsity grid coach, Johnny Utz. The meeting was the annual Football Round-up of the local organization.

Another speaker of the evening was J. Birney Crum, head football coach at Allentown High School and Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1923.

A Harvard professor, W. Y. Eliott, would divide the country into 12 regions and drop the present federal system of states.

LEBANON VALLEY WINS OVER MUHLS

Tindall, Visitors' Back, Runs 75 Yards In Second Quarter to Score the First Touchdown as 'Berg Goes Down, 19-6

Cardinal and Gray Offense Fails to Function Until Closing Minutes of Game When Geschel Catches Forward Pass

3000 BRAVE RAIN TO SEE FINAL NIGHT TILT

One of the smartest, fastest, and best-drilled eleven ever seen performed on Muhlenberg's gridiron came here last Friday night, representing Lebanon Valley college of Annville, and completely humiliated the Cardinal and Gray team to win by the score of 19 to 6. Incidentally it was the same score the "Flying Dutchmen" chalked up against Kutztown Teachers two weeks before.

The game was the second night tilt played under Muhlenberg's lights this season and marked the end of floodlight battles for the year. 'Berg's opening fray was played under the lights against the University of Baltimore with Johnny Utz's squad emerging victorious.

A crowd of more than 3000 spectators braved a cold, steady drizzle, which began falling shortly before game time, to witness what turned out to be a sorry spectacle as far as the Muhls' rooters were concerned. Time and again the speedy Lebanon backs ran through the entire Cardinal team almost at will, while any offense of the home team was completely stopped. The Annville collegians rolled up thirteen first downs to Muhlenberg's six.

Runs Seventy-Five Yards

The only real scoring spree of the Muhls came in the closing minutes of the fourth period when a long forward took the ball to the visitors' 36-yard strip from where Geschel went across after receiving another aerial heave from Farrell.

After threatening several times in the opening period, the Flying Dutchmen crashed through for a brace of touchdowns in the second quarter, and the first of these was a real spectacle.

Johnny Tindall, 166 pounds of dynamite hailing from Dutch Neck, N. J., standing on his own twenty-five yard line, took a punt from the toe of "Scraper" Farrell, cut across the field, then reversed his steps and galloped seventy-five yards through the entire Muhlenberg team for a touchdown, the first score of the ball game.

Tindall was given perfect interference on his wild gallop up the field, and twisted and squirmed away from every would-be Muhlenberg tackler. It was one of the prettiest gallops unleashed on the local gridiron in a long time.

Visitors Add Another

A short time later in the same period Eddie Kress, a youngster hailing from Minersville and who came in to replace Tindall, snared a Muhlenberg pass deep in Muhlenberg territory, and raced fifteen yards to Muhlenberg's ten-yard line before being downed. After Muhlenberg held for three downs, Farrell intercepted a Lebanon Valley pass on the one-yard stripe, and brought the ball out thirty yards before being downed.

On the second play here, a Muhlenberg lateral pass grounded, and Lebanon Valley regained possession on the fifteen yard line. On the third down Ken Hance, the Tampa, Fla., freshman, took the ball and wiggled his way through the Muhlenberg defense for fourteen yards and a first down on Muhlenberg's one-yard stripe. After two line smashes, Hance carried the ball over to make the score 12 to 0, where it remained until the first half ended.

Shortly after the third period opened the "Dutchmen" ripped off four first downs on a march that took them from their own thirty-eight to Muhlenberg's twenty-eight, but here a long pass grounded over the end zone.

Visitors Put Game On Ice

A decision by the officials gave Lebanon Valley possession of the ball on Muhlenberg's thirty yard stripe shortly after the fourth quarter started. Lebanon Valley had kicked from deep in its own territory, but a Lebanon Valley and Muhlenberg player both touched the ball before Sponaugle, end for the Dutchmen, fell on it.

On the first down here Tindall slid off tackle, wiggled his way through the Muhlenberg defense for twenty-nine yards to the one-yard line. On the first play Walmer, a substitute for Hance, went over for the touchdown, and T. Rozman added the extra point with a placement kick to make the score 19 to 0.

Muhls Score Touchdown

With the score 19 to 0 against them, Muhlenberg's backfield started to show its best form of the night, electrifying the crowd with a series of long forward passes that netted a touchdown in short order.

With "Scraper" Farrell on the heaving end, Muhlenberg opened up with a forty-yard toss to Brown, and then immediately shot another for thirty yards to Bull Geschel, who went up to the six-yard line before being downed.

After a line smash failed to gain, Farrell dropped back and shot a short, rifle-like pass to Geschel out to the right, and Geschel crashed over the line for Muhlenberg's only score of the game. Farrell's try for extra point, a placement kick, was smeared.

The Lebanon Valley team threatened to score again in the closing seconds of play as they carried the ball deep into Muhlenberg territory, but the whistle ended the game with the visitors in possession on Muhlenberg's twenty-five yard line.

Evanosky Loses In Guessing Game

Loyalty to his Alma Mater cost Charlie Evanosky, freshman football coach, a pair of free tickets to the Muhlenberg-Lebanon Valley game played here last Friday night.

Charlie's loss came as the result of picking the Cardinal and Gray to win over Lafayette at Easton the week before and sent in his choice to the Morning Call newspaper office which each week conducts a guessing contest on the coming grid games.

When the scores were all in Charlie had hit some of them right on the nose, but the Muhls had dropped a 7 to 0 tilt to the Leopards. The conservative frosh mentor had picked his Alma Mater to win 7 to 6.

The loss of the two passes mattered little to Charlie for he was virtually assured of a place on the bench last week.

Ursinus Won First Muhlenberg Battle

Collegeville Eleven Smothered Locals 41-0 Thirty-five Years Ago

Muhlenberg alumni who attended college at the start of the present century will no doubt recall the first grid battle with Ursinus played just thirty-five years ago last Wednesday.

Back in the 1890's 'Berg took to football, but when one of the players received two broken legs in scrimmage the college authorities outlawed such rough procedures. However, after a lapse of several years the game returned to its own here and the Collegeville team was placed on the schedule. Incidentally the Bears won this one, 41 to 0.

The faculty and trustees at that time had withdrawn their opposition to athletics and at a wildly enthusiastic mass meeting an athletic association was formed with enough money on hand to purchase the necessary equipment. Twenty-five students responded to the initial call for football candidates.

It is noteworthy that a Lafayette college player was the first coach of a Muhlenberg eleven. Schmidt, guard and substitute center of Lafayette's team, was secured to coach the Cardinal and Gray team.

PREP GRIDDERS PLAY ARMY PLEBES TODAY

Coach Charlie Garverick and his Allentown Prep gridders today engage in their second game of the season meeting the Army Plebes at West Point this afternoon. Although the Purple and White have usually won over the military eleven, this year's Prep squad is rated the underdog. The local squad opened its season on October 5 by dropping a 33 to 0 tilt to Albright freshmen.

The oldest car on the campus at Ohio State University (Columbus) is a 1913 Ford roadster, with illumination provided by kerosene lamps.

Cardinal and Gray Yearlings Perform Brilliantly Against Academy

MATUSA, END, FIGURES IN BOTH TOUCHDOWNS

Muhlenberg's freshman football team, under the tutelage of Coach "Charlie" Evanosky, opened its season, last Saturday afternoon at Blairtown, N. J., with a 12 to 6 triumph over Blair Academy. The game marked the first time a freshman team has journeyed out of the state for its opening game.

Two scores, one for each eleven, were accounted for in the first five minutes of play. Blair tallied first when Jones, right end, intercepted a lateral pass thrown by Smith and ran forty yards for a touchdown. Four plays later Matusa, 'Berg left end, blocked a Blair punt which was recovered by Heffner, who ran twenty-five yards for the first Muhlenberg touchdown. In the last quarter a pass of thirty-five yards was thrown by Cohen to Matusa; a play which put the "Little Muhls" in scoring position. The ball was taken over by Cohen, on a line buck, for the second 'Berg touchdown. None of the attempted conversions were good.

Thirty-three players and members of the coaching staff made the trip to the game which was witnessed by about three hundred people. The Blair Academy band added color to the occasion.

Matusa, Muhlenberg end who figured in both of the Cardinal and Gray touchdowns, was the outstanding player of the afternoon, performing equally well on the defense and offense. Summary:

TO AN ORGAN
On thou celestial sublimity,
Exalted range of dulcet tone,
Which elevates to reverence
The inner soul of those alone,
Oh come, sweet sound, come, lift us hence
To the infinite spheres beyond
The heart-aches of our earthly bond.

August, awesome harmonies,
Swelling from the depth of time,
Majestic, solemn, dreadful,
Transcending place and clime;
Yet mellow, kind and tuneful
Lift man—lift him high above
His place—high, to God-like love.
Hollow, resounding and resonant,
Or noble, rich and soothing,
You boom out our joy or sorrow,
Your grandeur is so appalling,
Your musical height you borrow
From the distant stars that shine,
And make it into music fine.

Pleasurable pulchritude of sound,
Exceeding by far the one who sits
Before thy maze of stops and keys,
Who comprehends not, by his wits,
Your awful power to please,
Come swell your sound tender and soft,
And raise us mortal men aloft.

Campus Chatter

An idea of what Muhlenberg might appear like, were it co-ed, was afforded the student body last Wednesday during the assembly program in the science auditorium. A large number of young women were attracted by the Knauss-Heffner recital and presented an unusual sight, seated in the usually all-male audience. The illusion was even carried so far as to have an announcement by a young lady from the audience.

"Bing" Seegers has reformed. After being a disciple of celibacy for all these years the boys at the A. T. O. house discovered that certain, scented letters were arriving with astonishing regularity from Swarthmore college near Philadelphia—and they bore the address of "Mr. Jim Seegers". What hath been wrought over the summer vacation, Bing?

In tune with the bustling activity around the athletic field, which has been renovated with the addition of a fine, new brick gateway, is observed a general awakening on the campus of the famed rah-rah college style of life. Students, upper-classesmen at that, are appearing in snorky, vivid yellow shirts and clashing ties. The freshmen are getting themselves into trouble in the good, old-fashioned way. Even "Scotty" has purchased one of those cagey, new, collegiate pipes which are sold in the co-operative store and he is now trying to figure out what he'll carve on the new boiler. In short, Joe College has come to dear old Muhlenberg.

Some campus wits have recommended to Rollin Shaffer, sky-scraping drum major, that he purchase himself an anchor for the tassel on his hat. While leading the band down the field at Lafayette, Rollin twirled the baton so vigorously that he clipped the tassel clean off the top of his hat. But that stunt of throwing the baton over the cross bar of the goal posts drew a good hand from the spectators.

The Lafayette "leopard" also attracted a lot of attention from the stands with his antics while leading the Lafayette cheers and songs. It would be a good stunt if Muhlenberg could find a gray mule, somewhere, to parade before the stands in company with the band.

The boys in "Tee Dee's" journalism class have developed a tricky, leg-changing technique. Every time "Tee Dee" changes his position by swinging a different leg over a different knee the entire class changes likewise. The result is that the class looks like a backfield practicing shifts. Who knows but that journalism might yet produce a Frank Merriwell back?

Student tennis players need no longer have any fear of not being able to tell whether their balls went over or through the net. The former, sieve-like nets have been replaced by new, "air-tight" barriers.

Some of the frosh, at least, are respectable gentlemen. One was observed in a trolley car, going downtown the other day, tipping his hat to a complimented upper-classman.

Fans Pleased With New Athletic Gate

Spectators at Friday Night's Game Use New Entrance to Field

Numerous were the complimentary remarks made by the several thousand spectators who filed through Muhlenberg's newly-erected gateway to the athletic field last Friday night to witness the Lebanon Valley game.

The new structure will serve as the only entrance to the field for football games this fall. Other gateways surrounding the field are to be used as exits.

Forces of extra men, including student labor, were put to work last week in order to have the new entrance completed in time for the second game of the season. Macadem has been laid from the Liberty street curb to the steps of the grandstand to facilitate the handling of large crowds during wet weather. Parking space has also been provided on the vacant lot east of the field along the college grove.

Officers of the class of 1916, donor of the gateway, are planning to officially dedicate the new entrance at college Homecoming Day on November 2.

Funeral Friday For Former Instructor

Dr. John Lear, for eleven years instructor of biology at Muhlenberg, died last Monday afternoon, October 7, at his home at Spring Creek. Funeral services were held Friday from the funeral parlors of C. Donald Bachman, 1032 Walnut street, this city.

Dr. Lear, who conducted a general practice for a number of years, taught biology at Muhlenberg from 1899 to 1910 in conjunction with his practice. Later he became affiliated with the Allentown hospital as pathologist which position he occupied until about ten years ago.

Born in Easton, the son of John and Catherine Sandt Lear, he was educated in the Easton academy and later the Keystone Normal school in Kutztown. In 1884 he was graduated from Lafayette college and secured his degree in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in 1889. He was at one time a member of the faculty of an Iowa college and the health officer of Allentown.

Edward F. Harrison Speaks Here Today

Reading Railroad Official to Give Illustrated Talk in Assembly

Edward F. Harrison, official photographer for the Reading Railroad and a member of the company's claims division and publicity department, will be guest speaker at this morning's assembly program to be held in the Science Hall auditorium at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Harrison's illustrated lecture is the first in the series of lyceum programs which have increased in popularity each year with the student body.

Mr. Harrison will show several reels of motion pictures visualizing the apple industry, Niagara Falls in summer and winter, a coal dumper in operation at Port Richmond terminal, a grain elevator in operation loading boats, and shipment of steel to the Golden Gate bridge.

Starting next Wednesday the assembly period will be devoted to the first in a series of four Rehrg Foundation lectures which are to be delivered this year by the Rev. Dr. E. E. Fischer, professor at the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

Dr. Wright Addresses Students in Chapel

Cooperation, friendship, and understanding are three pillars required for a good college and are just as important as the pillars which supported the great temple of Solomon in Old Testament days, Dr. Isaac Miles Wright said in his chapel address on Monday morning.

Dr. Wright's topic was "The Building of the Temple" which he compared to the erection of the Pennsylvania Power and Light structure in this city. In both instances cooperation was of vital importance, but the chief difference lies in the fact that Allentown's building reached a time of completion while the "Temple" is still being formed.

"David built a temple in his heart," the speaker said, "but because he was not allowed to erect it, he turned over the designs to his son Solomon. It is in the heart where the foundations of Christian brotherhood are laid."

Appoints Committees For Business Club

The Muhlenberg Business Association held a short business session in the Administration building last Thursday afternoon. Plans for the academic year were outlined and two committees were appointed by President James W. Turrell.

A membership committee was appointed to study the qualifications of prospective members with David Booth, chairman, Alfred Geschel, and Walter Heintzelman. A committee composed of Joseph S. Keiper, chairman, Alvin Roy, and Richard Heckman was appointed to arrange for a regular meeting to take place later in the month.

Professor Roland F. Hartman, advisor of the Association, urged the club to be more stringent in the requirements for membership this year.

"The idea of a superior race is preposterous, scientifically speaking," Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, head of the department of anthropology of the University of Chicago, declared recently.

Dr. Fischer Begins Rehrig Foundation Talks In Assembly

"Christian Character in the Modern World" General Theme of Lectures

SPEAKER IS PROFESSOR AT MT. AIRY SEMINARY

Muhlenberg's student body will again this year have the opportunity to hear the Rehrig Foundation lectures which open this morning during the regular assembly period in the Science Hall auditorium.

The lectures this fall are to be presented by the Rev. Dr. Emil E. Fischer, professor of ethics, dogmatics, and apologetics at the Lutheran Theological seminary in Philadelphia. The Rev. Mr. Fischer was pastor of Christ Lutheran Church in this city for seven years prior to accepting the position at the seminary in 1920.

The speaker has chosen as his main topic for the group of four talks "Christian Character in the Modern World". In his opening address here this morning he will answer the question "Is Our Culture Becoming Non-Christian?"

In this lecture the Rev. Mr. Fischer will explain the diminishing difference between the Christian and the non-Christian; the tendency to ignore Christianity as a religion and to rely on other cultural forces; also the church's attempt to meet the growing secularization of life.

The series of four lectures last year was given by the Rev. Dr. G. H. Bechtold, executive secretary of the Board of Inner Missions of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania and adjacent states.

Selects Male Cast For Dramatic Play

Mrs. Conklin Announces Four Students Picked in Try-Outs

Members of the male cast for Mask and Dagger's production "Laff That Off" have been announced by Mrs. Robert Conklin, dramatic coach of the college. Mrs. Conklin, who has already begun rehearsals for the production, was delighted with the wealth of material that she found during the try-outs two weeks ago. The play will be given December 11 and 12.

The cast includes: Charles Diehl playing the part of "Robert Elton Morse," affectionately called "Remorse" by his two friends, "Arthur Lindon," played by Luther H. Bealer (sophomore) and "Leo Mitchell," played by Frederick Gregorius (junior), secretary of the Mask and Dagger club. A character bit, "Mike Connelly," an Irishman true to his countrymen's love for potent beverages is played by John Sylvester, a freshman.

Dr. John D. M. Brown and Dr. Joseph S. Jackson are assisting in the direction of the play.

Female members of the cast will be announced in the near future.

Pennsylvania's Governor Will Speak at Convention of I. N. A.

Definite announcement was made this week that Governor George H. Earle will be the featured speaker on Friday, November 15, at the Intercollegiate Newspaper Convention to be held on the campus of Pittsburgh University next month.

Ellis H. Tumpson, president of the I. N. A., received word last week stating that the Governor would be glad to address the convention that week-end.

One other notable speaker in addition to those announced last week will be John K. M. Tibby, former editor of the Pitt News, the University's official publication. Efforts are being made to hold one session of the convention on the Carnegie Tech campus either Friday or Saturday.

Colleges and universities in addition to Muhlenberg who are planning to send representatives to the conference are: Barnard, Hood, Lehigh, Bucknell, Carnegie, Erie Center, Elizabethtown, Drexel, Dickinson, Alfred, Elmira, Gettysburg, Haverford, Westminster, Georgetown, Juniata, Johns Hopkins, Cooper-Union, Brooklyn Polytechnic, West Chester Teachers, Washington and Jefferson, Delaware, Franklin and Marshall, Stevens Institute, Susquehanna, Swarthmore, Temple, George Washington, Ursinus, Wilson and New Rochelle.

Alumni Of College Return Nov. 2 For Homecoming Event

Football Game With F. and M. Will Feature Day's Program

CLASS OF 1916 PLANS TO DEDICATE GATEWAY

Alumni and friends of the college will gather on Saturday, November 2, to mark the annual Homecoming Day celebration. Graduates from all sections of the country come together at this time to renew old acquaintances and relive their college days in the space of a few hours.

The Homecoming festivities will open on Friday night when a number of the fraternity alumni groups are planning to hold stag parties in this city and vicinity.

The feature of the next day's celebration is to be the annual football game with Franklin and Marshall's highly-rated eleven from Lancaster. Prior to this members of the class of 1916 will officially dedicate the new gateway to the athletic field which was erected here this fall.

The gift is one of the finest memorials ever given to the college by an alumni group. Melville J. Boyer, Allentown resident, heads the committee in charge of the dedication.

College authorities are hoping the weather man will smile more kindly upon the festivities this year than was the case last fall when a steady rain turned the athletic field into quagmire for the grid tilt with Gettysburg. The Bullets emerged victorious by the score of 12 to 2.

Further plans for the celebration will be announced in the next week's issue of The Muhlenberg Weekly.

Kappa Phi Kappa To Study Local Business

Psi chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national honorary educational fraternity, has planned for the completion of a local business survey which was begun by the organization last year.

The survey will be held as a basis for the report of a faculty committee to the college board of trustees to determine the advisability of establishing a certified business course at Muhlenberg which will be recognized by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Questionnaires have already been drawn up and will be distributed to business men in this locality. The purpose of the questionnaires is to find out what attributes local business men deem most necessary in a college graduate whom they may employ.

The fraternity has long recognized the need of a certified business course here, and for this reason it is making the business survey its main work for the present school term.

Officers of the fraternity for this year are: President, Albert L. Erdosy; vice-president, Earl A. Koch; secretary, Warren F. Schlegel; treasurer, Donald A. Hausman.

Plan Improvements To Library Room

Blinds to be Placed at First Floor Windows; Lamps on Reading Tables

Students who make use of the college library as a reading room to any great extent are delighted with the improvements begun there within the past week.

Funds received through personal subscriptions from the college faculty, an allotment of $60 from the student budget, and additional money from the Cooperative Store has made it possible to secure blinds for the windows and modern lamps for the reading tables.

The project was undertaken several weeks ago by Alpha Epsilon chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity. Acting upon suggestions from faculty advisers, the group solicited funds necessary for the new additions.

Blinds will be placed at windows on the first floor facing on the east, south, and west sides. None was purchased for the large rotunda window over the front entrance to the library since reading tables are not directly in line with this section. Two reading lamps are to be erected on each table.

The college student body is reminded of the two pictures to be taken this morning following the address in the Science Hall auditorium. One picture is to be taken of the entire student body while another will include only the freshman class. Students will assemble on the steps of the library building for the photographer.

College Choir To Broadcast Nov. 15

Vested Group Will Appear on City Legion Program Over WCBA

Once again this year the college vested choir will appear on the American Legion program to be broadcast over Allentown's radio station WCBA on Friday evening, November 15. This is the second year the choristers have sung on the local Post's program, the broadcast last fall being held in the form of a Thanksgiving service.

Arrangements for the broadcast next month are being made by Dr. Carl W. Boyer, assistant in the school of education, who will announce that evening. Dr. Boyer is a member of the city Legion Post.

The college musicians are also scheduled to sing at a rally meeting of the Federation of Churches of the Lehigh Valley on the afternoon of November 3. The regular vesper service, scheduled to be held in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel, will be omitted on that Sunday. The joint meeting of the Lehigh churches will be held in the Allentown High school auditorium starting at 3 o'clock.

This engagement will mark the choir's first appearance off the campus this year instead of the program at Christ Lutheran Church on December 8 as was announced last week.

Last Friday afternoon Dr. Marks presented his organization in a half-hour concert before representatives present at the annual conference of the faculties of Lehigh Valley colleges and universities on the local campus.

Committee Decides To Postpone Dance

Homecoming Activities Conflict with O. D. K. Affair November 1

Members of the committee appointed by Leonard C. Hodgkinson to plan for Omicron Delta Kappa's dance here on November 1 have discontinued all arrangements for the affair due to a number of stag parties planned by campus social fraternities on the same evening, it was announced this week.

The dance was to have been held Friday evening in the library in connection with annual Homecoming activities on the campus the next day. However, when the committee learned of the fraternity functions, which will precede Saturday's event its members decided to cancel the date since it would interfere with the alumni plans.

At a recent meeting of O. D. K., national honorary activities fraternity, Dr. Henry R. Mueller, member of the history department, was elected faculty advisor for Alpha Epsilon chapter, the local organization. He succeeds Dean Robert C. Horn whose resignation has been accepted.

Dr. Mueller was made an honorary member of the fraternity last spring at the initiation ceremonies held in the Penn-Stroud hotel at Stroudsburg.

Members of the committee who had been appointed to investigate the possibility of an O. D. K. dance were Edward T. Horn, Theodore L. Fischer, and Joseph S. Keiper.

Ministerial Group Plans For Meeting In H. S. Auditorium

Lehigh Valley Pastors Denounce Opening of Movies on Sabbath

PRES. HAAS WILL SPEAK AT SERVICE ON NOV. 3

Muhlenberg students along with administration and faculty members of the college will join with all Protestant congregations of Allentown in a mass rally on November 3 against the present effort to allow the opening of movie houses on Sunday.

Preliminary plans for the meeting, which will be held in the city's high school auditorium on the afternoon of the above date, were made at a meeting of the Lutheran Pastoral association held in the college library last week. In resolutions passed at the meeting the clergymen unanimously went on record as being opposed to all encroachments on the Sabbath by commercial interests.

Dr. Haas to Speak
The Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas, college president, has already postponed the Sunday afternoon vesper service scheduled here for that Sunday afternoon in order that the students may join in the rally. Mu-

College Faculties In Annual Meeting

118 Delegates Hear Dr. Fisher Speak on Recovery Systems

One hundred and eighteen members of faculties of colleges and universities of the Lehigh Valley were registered here last Friday afternoon for the annual conference of the group on the local campus. Schools represented were Lehigh, Lafayette, Moravian for Men, Moravian for Women, Cedar Crest, and Muhlenberg.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale University. Dr. Fisher, in speaking about present methods for recovery from the country's financial turmoil, said he was out of sympathy with the new deal program which destroys wealth, but that he was fully in sympathy with that part of the President's monetary policy which will eventually bring back normal times. A resume of the speaker's address is printed elsewhere in these columns.

The day's program was opened with a musical program in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel on Friday afternoon. The program included an organ recital by Dr. Harold K. Marks, college organist, and a concert of four numbers by the college vested choir.

Dr. Haas Honored
This entertainment was followed by a supper meeting in the college commons addressed briefly by representatives of the various colleges.

REV. J. C. MATTES GUEST PREACHER ON SUNDAY

The Rev. Dr. J. C. Mattes, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Scranton, will be the guest preacher to fill the pulpit in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel next Sunday afternoon for the regular vesper service. Muhlenberg College conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon the Rev. Mr. Mattes in June 1925.

His presence here will be especially significant since he is one of the outstanding scholars of the Reformation period which anniversary the church observes this coming Sunday.

Four Leading Figures at Valley Faculty Conference

The annual conference of the faculty members of the colleges and universities of the Lehigh Valley was held last Friday on the local campus. The main speaker was Prof. Irving Fisher, internationally known professor of economics at Yale University. The four leading figures at the conference are pictured above. They are as follows: Dr. John A. W. Haas, president of Muhlenberg College and chairman of the evening; Prof. Irving Fisher; Major J. C. Shumberger, member of the board of trustees of Cedar Crest College; and Dr. William F. Curtis, president of Cedar Crest College.

STARTING THE SEASON OVER

Muhlenberg's football prestige reached a new "low" last Saturday when the Cardinal and Gray eleven went down to a humiliating defeat at the hands of Ursinus College on the Collegeville gridiron.

The score of 21 to 0 does not tell the whole story since three touchdowns do not always reveal the strength of either team. To anyone who saw the Mules play last week-end it was one of the worst exhibitions of football ever put on by any college squad. Any offense on the part of the local club must have been left on Muhlenberg's campus.

On their defensive stand the Mule gridders seemed at a loss to know what to do while substitutions on the part of the coaching staff only added to the "comedy of errors". Aside from the offensive and defensive tactics of a team there is little upon which to base judgment.

What made the situation appear even worse was the fact that the players' morale had shown a steady decrease starting with the Lafayette game two weeks before. With the easiest part of the 1935 schedule completed it seems scarcely possible for another victory during the remainder of the season unless drastic measures are taken immediately.

Realizing that something must be done to remedy the trouble prevalent here for the past two years, the Board of Athletic Control has decided to enforce stringent training rules for the remainder of the season. If members of the squad will not obey orders put forth by this body they are to be dropped from the team, it was stated after a special meeting of the Board this week.

An effort has also been started to eliminate "cockiness" among a certain group of players which element is actuated to a great extent by an outside influence which never has and never will be of any benefit to the school. Any coach having a small squad to work with has to contend with players who feel they have their jobs cinched, but there is no room for superiority complex after the last two massacres.

These are two of the major problems which have confronted Berg's athletic council for sometime. With their elimination and the correction of several minor defects it is hoped the Cardinal Crusaders will eventually find themselves.

Both the players and coaching staff are "on the spot". As far as the student body and alumni are concerned they will remain there until a team is placed on the field that will at least make an effort to play.

At the start of the present season this newspaper pledged its support to the 1935 grid squad which was expected to have learned a few things from the previous year's experience. Evidently the lesson was not learned until now when it becomes necessary to apply the pressure. If the proposed changes produce the desired results, this publication will be the first to back up the movement.

Members of the faculty committee of the Athletic Board feel they have struck at the roots of the evil. Registrar Benfer, Dr. Wright, and Prof. Fasig, members of the board, all expressed marked optimism following their meeting here Monday with the coaching staff. What was said and done at that session will long remain a secret, but they are looking forward only to this Saturday at Gettysburg when the Mules reach the turning point of the season.

In closing we make an earnest appeal to the student body and faculty members to give their support in trying to remedy the situation. The changes to be made are expected to iron out the difficulties and we hope they will. It is to be regretted, however, that any definite attempt to thwart the trouble was so long in making its appearance.

Rev. Schwenk Urges Scouts Keep Oath

College Alumnus, Lebanon Pastor, College Chapel Speaker

Speaking to a large congregation of Lehigh Valley Boy Scouts, their parents and friends at the community vesper service in the Egner-Hartzel Memorial chapel last Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Elwood Schwenk, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Lebanon, outlined a practical religion for youth of today.

Using numerous illustrations taken from personal experiences and contacts, he emphasized that Christianity is a true religion, a practical religion and an optimistic religion.

He urged that the scouts take most seriously the two planks of the scout law—the Scout is true to God and the Scout is reverent—declaring that if they measure up to those laws they are true Christians.

Christianity, he said, is not only practical for a man in danger but for everyone in the age of today as well as in past and future ages.

He told the Scouts they were Christians in Christ, aroused their highest interest and kindled the spark of their inmost zeal, and, if their minds turn toward Christ.

At the service the chapel choir, directed by Dr. Harold K. Marks, sang "On Great Lone Hills," by Sibelius-Matthews. Dr. Marks played "Cathedral Shadows" by Mason, "Cantilena," by Demarest, and "Maestoso, Molto Moderato," by Gounod.

The liturgical service was conducted by the Dr. John A. W. Haas, president of the college, and the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain.

the past week gave proof that the annual rush banquets and smokers were under way. All kinds of entertainment were provided for the "alien" freshmen. One house even went so far as to import a floor show from one of the local show places for the wind-up occasion.

Congregations Will Hear Faculty Members

Twenty more Lutheran congregations in the Ministerium of Pennsylvania will be addressed this coming Sunday by members of the college faculty on behalf of the Ministerium's proposed plan to reduce the indebtedness of the college and Philadelphia seminary.

At Sunday's services the churches will take special offerings in the attempt to raise $25,000 which will be contributed towards the funds needed here and at the theological school. All four Sundays of this month were set aside for talks to the congregations by faculty members from the college and seminary.

Churches in which Muhlenberg professors are to appear this Sunday are: Trinity (Danville) Dr. Jackson, Grace (Shamokin) Prof. Everitt, Emanuel (Lancaster) Dr. Zartman, St. Mark's (Lancaster) Prof. Seaman, Friedens (Myers-town) Rev. Stine, Grace (Roxboro) Prof. Knauss, St. John's (Trenton) Rev. Stine, Mohnton Parish, Dr. Reichard; Hope (Reading) Dr. Boyer; St. James (Reading) Dr. Horn; St. Paul's (Reading) Dr. Brandes; St. Luke's (Reading) Prof. Koehler; Robeson Parish, Dr. Corbiere; Shoemakersville Parish, Dr. Wright; Strausstown Parish, Dr. Mueller; Nescopeck, Prof. Miller; Trinity (Palmerton) Dr. Bowman.

Schlegel Appoints Senior Ball Group

Charles Kline Named Chairman of Committee to Arrange Dance

CHARLES KLINE

Charles H. Kline, Jr., resident of this city, has been named chairman of the Senior Ball committee by Warren C. Schlegel, newly-elected president of the senior class.

Other members of the committee include Karl Lehr, Henry Wagner, Warren Schlegel, Clarence Ritter, Joseph Schantz, Paul Mattheisen, James Turrell, Theodore Fischer, Bernard Blackman, Joseph Keiper, Louis Varrichio, and Albert Herzenberg.

Last year's Ball was held at Mealey's auditorium on March 1 with George Duddy and his Hotel Bethlehem orchestra engaging in a "battle of music" with Milton Lowy '35, and his band.

Dr. William N. Schwartz, of Moravian college; Dr. Edwin J. Heath, of Moravian College for Women; Dr. George Fickes, of Lafayette, and Dr. Adelbert Ford, head of the department of psychology at Lehigh. President John A. W. Haas presided. Many of the speakers paid tribute to Dr. Haas, who with this college year is bringing to a close his presidency of Muhlenberg.

The lecture following the supper was delivered in the science building auditorium. Maj. J. C. Shumberger, a member of the board of trustees of Cedar Crest college and vice-president of the Allentown Morning Call, introduced Yale university's internationally recognized economist, speaking of him as a man who has gleaned a wealth of experience and through his books and university work makes that wealth available to his fellow man.

Dr. Buchman May Bring Noted European Figure To Campus

Muhlenberg College in the near future may be honored with a visit to its campus by C. J. Hambro, president of the Storting, the Norwegian parliamentary body according to proposed plans now under consideration.

Preliminary arrangements for the engagement here were made last Thursday when Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the Oxford movement, visited the campus to confer with President Haas on the matter.

Dr. Buchman, who returned about a week ago from London, told Dr. Haas that he planned to bring the Storting president to the United States and was anxious to have Allentown listed among the cities to hear the Norwegian representative.

Explains War Situation

The Oxford movement has changed conditions in England, Dr. Buchman told President Haas, as well as in Norway, where President Hambro who is second only to the king of the country in power is the leading exponent of the First Century Christian Fellowship expounded by Dr. Buchman.

If arrangements can be made, it is planned to have President Hambro speak at the Muhlenberg college chapel service in the morning and then have a general meeting in the evening at the Allentown High school.

Dr. Buchman told Dr. Haas that in England there was a prevailing feeling that that nation would be drawn into war with Italy. "It can't be prevented," said Dr. Buchman. "The two biggest developments in Europe today are war and the religious movement, even among the diplomats of all nations as I spoke to many of them several times at luncheons in Geneva."

Dr. Buchman, a Muhlenberg graduate in 1899, visited the campus during the college term 1933-34. He founded the noted Oxford movement fourteen years ago.

Exhibit Commemorates Anniversary of Bible

In commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the printed English Bible, the library recently showed in the lobby, a set of facsimiles of the Bibles printed between 1525, the time of Tyndale's New Testament, and 1611, the time of the King James' Version. This series also included two little pages of the Coverdale Bible, the first Bible printed in English (1535), and of the King James' version. Below the facsimiles was given a brief history of the English Bible.

The library now has on display, as the first of the bi-monthly exhibits of local artists, a number of charcoal sketches by Mrs. Dorothy Leonard of Allentown. Mrs. Leonard is a graduate of the German-town High School and of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. While in that city, she studied under Matthew Sharps. Previously she had exhibited her work at the Pennsylvania Academy.

MY LITTLE CLOCK TICKS ON

Standing on my dresser
There is a little clock,
Ticking out the seconds
As any little clock,
Hating idle moments
As any careful clock.

Scarred and showing usage,
As all, when time moves on;
Merry, active daily,
As time moves on, and on;
Busy in his efforts
My little clock ticks on.

While on this cosmic rock,
Measuring man's existence
Closing doors behind me
Each tick, a tiny lock,
Putting past behind me
As any careful clock—

Clouds may dark my daylight,
May hide the rosey dawn;
Even though some friendships
That last through years, are gone—
Yet, truthful to His purpose
My little clock ticks on.

AN AMERICAN COLOSSUS

Each man must write his novel in his own way....

Through the winds that blow and the rains that drench his clothes of presence and the time, the daedal time, that watches him and washes his right of jeremiad and dithyramb; he must see the tiny light of life in his own way.

Through his mother's mind and his father's will, through his grandfather's body and his grandmother's eyes, through the endless synecdoche of the shades before him—those who have made a composite of him, who have given him his present look upon the passing waves of change, who have given him the right of single concentrated consciousness—he must shake his head, raise his hand, write his name, and catch the protean scenes of pulsation in a way, a delightful, curious way, such as has never been done before or after....

Each man is a knot, a transient entwining of ten thousand far-flung strands otherwise touchless and alone; each man is the flash, the friction of two meteors passing in space. And yet he is a knot and a flash and a friction such as has never before appeared....

Yet, alike, we are weary and angry and taut, by inexplicable desire torn apart; for in our bodies flows the living blood of ten million men, dead these many years. And this desire that we do not know and cannot hope to answer or fulfill is the distracted result of interminable interlacings: we are the fine points, the central shades of sinuous light, wavy and broken yet brilliant and wondrous, evoked by many strange and silent combinations....

For $3, Wesley Webb, former swimming team captain at the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis), swam 225 feet under water, or three lengths of the Gopher tank. His time was 55 seconds.

For we are the singular sparks of the infinite fire; from the roaring flame we hurl forth, crackle a moment, and then fall back, forgotten, into the main oblivion-begging heat....

Each man must write his novel in his own way....

In the above manner does Thomas Wolfe, literary Titan, express himself through me. This way do the notes of his Anacreontic song sound through my body as instrument. To rid myself of some of this haunting Wolfian fire which has irremediably seared my vitals, to palliate at least to some degree the Wolfian malady whose germs have completely overcome my susceptible mentality; I have given these above words, words constantly reverberating in my brain till now indelibly inscribed on that tiny, adamant substance called individuality.

Wolfe, in my estimation, must rank as one of the greatest—if not the greatest—of all American writers. Indeed, eventually, when time with its all-leveling hand has extinguished the indiscriminate fire of contemporary prejudice and has torn away the veil of proximity, Wolfe should stand in clear outline beside the integral figures of the all-time great. For he is actually the first to succeed in presenting the entire American scene, in discovering the quintessence of the highly varied American life from which he has prepared the peculiar perfume of a new people. In truth, were we able to find several American contemporaries like Wolfe we might conclude that the United States was finally undergoing its long bruited but sadly belated Renaissance—a Renaissance in Elizabethan dress.

URSINUS SMOTHERS MULE TEAM 21-0

Collegeville Gridders Run Roughshod Over Cardinal and Gray Eleven To Capture Opening Tilt In Conference

Bears Gain 14 First Downs To 4 Registered By Losers

WINNERS SCORE SECOND GOAL ON INTERCEPTION

An Old Timers' Day crowd of more than 3000 spectators assembled on Patterson Field in Collegeville on Saturday afternoon to see the Ursinus Bear and Muhlenberg's Mule officially open the 1935 gridiron season of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate conference. The Mule was there to kick the Bear out of the picture, but the grizzly left out a hoarse growl and did an about-face to kick a somewhat lifeless Mule almost off the map, giving Ursinus its first win of the season by the score of 21 to 0.

Several hundred students and followers of Johnny Utz's Cardinal and Gray eleven journeyed to the scene of battle to witness a real "comedy of errors" with Muhlenberg having the leading part in the drama.

Both the Bear and the Mule changed color somewhat before the start of the game to enter the fray as "dark horses". Both elevens had unimpressive records thus far in the season. Ursinus had not won a game while losing to Villanova, Bucknell, and LaSalle. The Mules, after winning from Baltimore University, had dropped tilts to Lafayette and Lebanon Valley. It seemed the matter of a toss-up as to who would emerge victorious Saturday.

Mule Passes Work

When the smoke of battle had cleared, however, there was no doubt in anybody's mind as to which team should be declared winner for Coach McAvoy's crew had won the initial conference tilt in addition to handing 'Berg its most decisive licking by Ursinus since 1908.

Three forward passes by Muhlenberg in the early stages of the game were completed in rapid succession for a gain of twenty-five yards. They worked so quickly and so easily it seemed as though Muhlenberg were about to race up and down the field on the wings of the aerials and score a flock of touchdowns.

But then one of the passes was intercepted by a Ursinus back who ran the ball back to Ursinus' 40 yard line. And from that time on the Mules put their wings under cover and failed to show them the light of the glorious sun and the beautiful blue sky for the rest of the afternoon. And the lateral pass plays which have worked so well in practices weren't even tried.

After the flurry of the Muhlenberg passes in the first quarter the game settled down to a punting contest between Ed Farrell, Muhlenberg's quarterback who was doing most of the plunging also for the Mules, and Bonkowski, a small, chunky Ursinus back, who was placing his kicks carefully.

Ursinus Scores First

Then in the second quarter after another exchange of kicks Ursinus took the ball on their own 45 yard line and started a drive toward the goal line. With Herman Bassman, co-captain, senior 176 pound full-back doing most of the work the Bears made it first down on Muhlenberg's 31 yard line. Dresch lost several yards and then Bassman on a direct plunge through his own left guard carried the ball to the 33 yard line. He was stopped four yards short of the goal line only by the speediness of Henry Gutekunst, Muhlenberg back who snagged him from the rear.

With the next play losing ground Bassman was again given the ball and smashed through the same guard hole for the first touchdown of the season for the Bears. Bonkowski converted on a placement.

Porambo Intercepts Pass

Within three plays after kicking off Ursinus had another score. Gutekunst ran back Rinehart's kickoff for 35 yards to the 38 yard line. Then on an attempted end run the Mules lost 15 yards. At this point Farrell tried a pass which was intercepted by John Porambo, a Summit Hill lad playing center for the Bears.

Sans interference and molestation by the Mules Porambo hauled tail for goal and scored standing up after a 25 yard run. Again Bonkowski converted via the placement boot.

In the second half Bassman and a raft of regulars were benched as Coach McAvoy decided to save them for the Albright game next week. Coach Utz also made several substitutions. But the Ursinus substitutes in the backfield, Andy Jakomas and Marlin Brandt more than made up for the regulars. Jakomas did most of the gaining for the Bears as the Mules stood idly by.

Number Three

Starting on their own 39 yard line, the Bears marched up the field with Jakomas, Brandt and Lipka alternating at spinners, direct smashes and simple reverses with three first downs until Ray Costello, another sub, ran the ball around the left end for ten yards and scored standing up. The trusty toe of Bonkowski was again called in play and Vincent obliged with his third perfect placement.

Nothing much happened after that until the waning moments of the game when the Mules put on their only determined drive of the game to get two first downs in their own territory before losing the ball.

The Bears had 14 first downs to the Mules 4.

Little Muhls Hold Lehigh Frosh, 0-0

Frosh Gain 8 First Downs To 4 for Brown and White Team

Playing the second game of the current season Muhlenberg's freshmen battled to a scoreless tie last Saturday afternoon in their game with the Lehigh frosh played in Taylor stadium in Bethlehem.

Coach Evanovsky's yearlings came through victorious in their first tilt on October 12 with Blair Academy winning by the score of 12 to 6.

Throughout the contest last Saturday both teams resorted to forward passes with neither threatening the other's goal line seriously.

Muhlenberg kicked off to Lehigh at the opening and after a thrust at the line, the little engineers returned the punt. Muhlenberg early in the second period took the ball on their own 18-yard line and with a varied assortment of off-tackle smashes, reverses and forward passes took the ball to Lehigh's 9-yard line. It was the best offensive demonstrated during the game.

Throughout the second half, the teams battled in midfield, with both intercepting a number of passes. Muhlenberg had the better of the fracas in rolling up 8 first downs to 4 for Lehigh. The lineups:

Frosh Tennis Play Nears Completion

Twenty-One Men Entered Tourney Held Here This Fall

Two men have reached the semi-finals in the freshman tennis tourney and five others are now in the quarter-final stage. John Dry reached the semi-finals by virtue of a 6-3, 6-1 decision over Fred Hasskari and Henry Walter won over Jim Smith 6-3, 6-4 to take a position in the pre-final class. Maranuk, Hay, Klick, Stewart and Iobst are the five men now in the quarter-finals.

Twenty-one freshmen were entered in the annual tournament which is held to uncover potential material for the varsity and also to supply the personnel of the freshman team. In this manner the freshman tourney serves much the same purpose as that of the freshman football squad.

The men who were originally enrolled are: McDonough, Maranuk, Parkinson, Behler, Hay, Butz, Dietrich, DeEsch, Dry, Blair, Hasskari, Hemmerle, Hodgkinson, Klick, Stewart, Hollenbach, Walter, Esterly, Gadek and Smith.

PREP, BROWN ELEVEN TIE 0-0 IN GRID GAME

Allentown Prep school and Brown Prep battled on fairly even terms in a game which was slowed considerably by an overabundance of off-sides penalties, on Muhlenberg field, last Saturday afternoon. Each team was credited with three first downs. Allentown was charged with 60 yards in penalties compared to 55 yards against Brown Prep. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

George Graner, who has been captaining the Allentown eleven, received a leg injury in the first few minutes of play. He was taken to the Allentown hospital where he was placed under observation.

Cardinal-Gray Eleven To Play Gettysburg Saturday

Hen Bream's Bullets Rule Heavy Favorites To Win Over Unimpressive Mule Team in Conference Tilt On Battlefield Gridiron

ORANGE AND BLUE RIVALS HOLD CO-CHAMPIONSHIP

Coach Johnny Utz's dejected football team will journey to Gettysburg on Saturday to play its second conference tilt of the present season.

Little optimism is prevalent among the Cardinal and Gray warriors as they prepare for the coming battle with the Bullets for the Mules realize that only a miracle will save them from another crushing defeat when they march on the field of battle this week-end.

Thus far in the season the Cardinal Crusaders have met two of the easiest foes on their schedule—Lebanon Valley and Ursinus—with two decisive setbacks being the result. Every team from now on is much tougher than this pair, so the local squad has little to smile about. Not since 1921 have the Mules won on the Gettysburg gridiron.

Coach Hen Bream's crew won its opening fray with Juniata, but fell the following week before a powerful Army machine by the score of 54 to 0. Last Saturday the Bullets were held to a 7-7 deadlock by Mount St. Mary's, but when the Conference season rolls around the battlefield boys are always up in the front ranks with victories.

Ten Lettermen Remain

This fall the Bullets' stock has soared to a new high. The Orange and Blue is well fortified with veteran material, although the 1935 edition is one of the smallest squads in the history of Gettysburg.

Ten lettermen from the 1934 eleven, which tied Franklin and Marshall for the East Penn championship, reported on September 16 to begin pre-season training.

Seven lettermen graduated in June, but only Tony Kozma, captain and end, and Harry Nye, and Bill Brown, guards, were varsity players. Thus, Hen Bream has virtually last year's entire team back in the fold.

Veteran Backfield

Several sophomores who were fine performers on the Bullet freshman team last fall, have crashed into the line-up, and the veterans have found it a tough job to subdue the sophomore aspirants.

Johnny Cico, the former Steelton High School flash; Joe Superska, the fleet broken field runner; Bobby Sassaman, quarterback, Bob Shadle, and Bill Cook, fullbacks,

Frosh Gridders To Play Prep Friday

Little Mules Eager to Chalk Up Second Win of Season

Muhlenberg's freshman football team will close its season on Friday afternoon, against Allentown Preparatory School on the local field. The Little Mules have a record of one win and one tie thus far, the win being against Blair Academy and the tie with the Lehigh frosh. The Purple and White has lost two and tied one, losing to Albright frosh and the Army plebes, while tying Brown prep.

The game has become traditional and keen rivalry is displayed between the two neighboring institutions. Matusa, former Swoyerville star and all-scholastic end, has been playing consistent ball all season and is looked upon to cause plenty of trouble for the prep backs.

Fall From Tree Fatal To Rev. Floyd Shupp

The Rev. Floyd E. Shupp, Muhlenberg graduate with the class of 1920, died last Thursday evening in the Palmerton hospital as the result of injuries received Tuesday noon when he fell from an apple tree in the yard of his home at Cherryville. He was 42 years old. Funeral services were held yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Shupp was pastor for three parishes of the Lutheran denomination. Since his ordination twelve years ago he had served the Lutheran congregations at Indianland parish, Christ church in Moore township and Emmanuel church at Petersburg.

He received his early education at the old Fairview Academy, Brodheadsville, and matriculated at Muhlenberg college. He prepared for the ministry at Mt. Airy Seminary, Philadelphia. He was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Dr. N. Wiley Thomas '83 Dies In Philadelphia

Dr. N. Wiley Thomas, of Wallingford, Muhlenberg college alumnus of 1883, and former chief of the bureau of gas in Philadelphia for many years, died Friday at his home after a long illness. He was 74 years old.

Dr. Thomas, the son of the late Rev. Samuel W. Thomas, who was district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church and editor of the Philadelphia Christian Advocate, received the Bachelor of Science degree at Muhlenberg. He received the master's and doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

While at Pennsylvania, Dr. Thomas founded the Tau chapter of Alpha Tau Omega, the first chapter of that fraternity chartered north of the Mason and Dixon line. He was elected chief executive officer of the fraternity in 1884. Muhlenberg has the Alpha Iota chapter of the fraternity on the local campus.

SCIENCE DEGREE GIVEN FORMER STUDENT HERE

sic for the program is to be supplied by the college vested choir of 35 voices.

Guest speaker for the afternoon's service will be Dr. R. H. Martin, of Pittsburgh. Dr. Martin is head of the National Reform Association and editor of the "Christian Statesman." Addresses are also to be given by President Haas and Judge Frank M. Trexler '79. The meeting will open at 3 o'clock.

Judge James F. Henninger '21, is to be acting chairman for the occasion, while Judge Richard W. Iobst will serve as honorary chairman.

Need Sunday Influence
Pastors of the Ministerial League of Allentown who are members of the committee in charge of arranging the program are: Rev. Leon T. Moore, pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church; the Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, pastor of St. Andrew's Reformed; the Rev. Dr. George A. Greiss '96, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran; the Rev. M. F. Klingaman, pastor of Dubbs Memorial Reformed; the Rev. Frank G. Yost, pastor of Grace Evangelical Congregational.

Those back of the movement point out that "the breakdown of Sunday will hurt not only the religious and moral, but also the social and economic life of the American people. Sunday has been one of the great moral influences in our civilization."

The pastoral group urges that all voters cast their ballots against the proposition of opening theatres on Sundays.

Surgical Society To Honor Dr. C. H. Trexler

Dr. Clifford H. Trexler, prominent Lehigh county surgeon and high ranking member of the staff of the Allentown hospital will receive the highest honor that can be bestowed on one of his profession when, on November 1, he will become a fellow of the American College of Surgeons at the annual congress of the college to be held in San Francisco. He will be given his degree in general surgery and gynecology.

Dr. Trexler, a member of the major surgical staff of the Allentown hospital and associate in charge of the surgical out patient department at the institution, has his private office located at 349 North Seventh street.

He prepared in the schools of Allentown, was graduated from the Allentown High school with the class of 1918 and from Muhlenberg college with the class of 1922. In 1926 he completed his medical course at Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia and in the following two years he served his internship at the Protestant Episcopal hospital in Philadelphia.

REAPPOINT GARDNER TO COMMISSIONER POST

Attorney Theodore R. Gardner of this city, has been reappointed United States Commissioner for another four-year term.

Attorney Gardner is a graduate of Muhlenberg in the class of 1928. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Dr. Fisher's Address

At the faculty conference of the colleges of the Lehigh Valley held in the Science Hall auditorium last Friday evening, Professor Irving Fisher said in part:

"There is danger, especially in the impending political campaign, that the public will become the victim of the many misrepresentations and misunderstandings in regard to money which are so evident in partisan propaganda and will align themselves too sharply either in wholesale approval or in wholesale disapproval of the so-called 'new deal'."

"It is incumbent on the scientific students of this little understood subject to keep their heads and to insist on telling the public the truth as they see it without fear or favor."

"For myself, I find both good and bad in the New Deal. I disapprove heartily of those new deal policies which have destroyed wealth on the false theory that we are suffering from over-production. We have not suffered from over-production. Our main trouble has not been too much goods but too little money to buy them with, or rather to buy them with at the pre-depression price level. We have suffered from a money-shortage."

"And when I say 'money' I include not only visible tangible pocket-book money, consisting of coin and paper, but also the money which we have in the banks as recorded on the stubs of our check books. This money, the most important money of all, I have called 'check-book money'. It is also called credit currency."

"Eight billions of this check-book money, out of 23 billions, was destroyed by liquidation of bank loans. That was the nub of the depression. It has now been restored. And that is the nub of recovery."

"This restoration might have been accomplished by much better methods and far more quickly than President Roosevelt has accomplished it. But we may be thankful that it was accomplished at all. Had the administration followed the advice of Senator Glass and the average banker it would not have been accomplished. We would still be in the same throes as the gold bloc is today."

"One of the most partisan critics of the President ridicules the so-called Warren plan as a 'palpable piece of monetary hocus-pocus', claiming as it did, that 'marking up the price of gold would raise commodity prices pari-passu'."

"As a matter of fact this critic is entirely wrong; for this price raising is precisely what happened and it not only happened in America, but it also happened in Belgium and, without exception, in every other country which marked up the price of gold. I have carefully traced the available records as shown in index numbers."

"This is one basic fact which the public is entitled to know and it should not be hidden from the people by wool pulled over their eyes, even if, as I believe to be true, the Republicans have many other and more just criticisms to make of Mr. Roosevelt."

"More important to know though, in actual fact, less widely known, are the facts about the Eccles Banking Act of 1935. If this act is to be administered as it should be and can be, we shall complete our escape from deflation, avoid the credit inflation which otherwise may soon overtake us, and, in future, avoid great depressions like that from which we are emerging."

"We are emerging from the depression through overcoming the money shortage just as has been true of Japan, Argentina, Australia, England and sterling countries."

"Overcoming the money shortage is called reflation. The essential need almost everywhere has been reflation and stabilization. As to stabilization, little Sweden has set the record. For over 200 weeks in succession her price level has been kept stable; that is, the purchasing power of her krona has

German Club Host To Prospective Members

Prospective members of the Deutscher Verein were the guests of the organization at the bi-weekly meeting in the college commons last Monday evening.

The program for the evening, under the direction of Rollin G. Shaffer, was as follows: piano solo, "Frühlingsrauschen" by Donald A. Hausman; report on Johann Sebastian Bach, by Alvin H. Butz; poem "Es war ein alter König", by Chester H. Woodring; poem, "Das Schloss am Meer" by William D. Coleman; Ernst Beutler's impressions of America, by Charles F. Diehl.

The meeting came to a close with the serving of refreshments under the direction of Chester H. Woodring and the singing of a few popular German songs.

not varied over 1 1/4% and usually not over 1/2 of 1 per cent.

"At first this seemed too miraculous to be true and many opponents of stable money and of Mr. Roosevelt's monetary policies, said that, even if true, it had done no good. But no one says so today. Today Sweden has only 500 people on the dole."

Norwegian Statesman To Address Students In Chapel On Monday

Carl Hambro, Head Of Storting, Will Be Honored Guest

"Spiritual Statesmanship in Europe Today" is Subject

COLLEGE INVITES CITY OFFICIALS TO MEETING

The possibility of having Carl Joachim Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliamentary body, visit Muhlenberg's campus this fall as mentioned in this newspaper last week, became a reality last Wednesday when President John A. W. Haas definitely announced that the Storting head would come here to address the student body on Monday, November 4.

During his visit here President Hambro will speak in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel at 11 o'clock in the morning. Men and women, prominent in the life of the city and the eastern part of the state, will be invited guests of the college at the meeting which will be open to the public. Among these will be Mayor Fred E. Lewis, of this city, presidents of neighboring colleges, and judges of the Lehigh county courts.

One of the foremost statesmen in Europe today, President Hambro will speak on the subject, "Spiritual Statesmanship in Europe Today".

International Figure
Mr. Hambro, in addition to being president of the Storting, Norwegian parliament, is a representative of his government to the League of Nations and serves on the most important committees of that international body.

His visit to Allentown, arranged by Dr. Haas and Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, '99 founder of the Oxford movement and a native of Allentown, is a decided honor to the College Organizes Personnel Branch

Committee of Six Members to Study Student Problems

A college Personnel Committee of six members has been formed on the local campus as another step in Muhlenberg's program to give its student all the personal attention that is possible in a small college.

Plans for the new undertaking were formulated last year when evening classes, taught by seniors majoring in education work, were started to help freshmen who were delinquent in their studies.

The duty of the new committee will be to keep in constant contact with departmental heads and their assistant professors to check on any student who may have difficulty in one or more subjects. Three administrators and a like number of advisors have been named to the group to carry out this work.

The administrators are Dean Robert C. Horn, Registrar Harry A. Benfer, and Dr. Carl W. Boyer, professor of education. The Rev. Russell W. Stine, will serve as adviser for A.B. student, Prof. Luther J. Decker for B.S. men, and Dr. J. Edgar Swain, has been put in charge of those taking the Ph.D. course.

Each adviser has been supplied with student analysis blanks on which he compiles a complete report of the student seeking advice from him. This in turn is checked with the instructor's personnel report in order to discover in what activities that particular student is deficient. Checks of this type are to be made after the posting of delinquent lists every six weeks. The work here this year will be with freshmen only, but starting

No Sunday Service

In order that the students may join in the mass rally of Protestant congregations of Allentown against the opening of movie houses on Sunday, President John A. W. Haas has postponed the vesper service in the chapel for this coming Sunday.

The Rev. W. Paul Raumann, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Lansdale, had been announced as the guest preacher on November 3.

Guest speaker at the rally in the Allentown high school auditorium will be the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, of Pittsburgh, head of the National Reform Association and also editor of the "Christian Statesman." Addresses will also be delivered by President Haas and Judge Frank M. Trexler '79. The meeting will open at 3 o'clock.

Frosh Win Scrap As Sophomores Default

The freshmen scored one victory over the sophomores by a default last Wednesday afternoon, when the timid sophs failed to show up at Cedar Crest where the tug-of-war was to take place. The enthusiastic frosh were in the mood to fight, but when the time for battle arrived only one loyal soph, in the person of Saul Keller, came upon the scene of conflict. Naturally, the frosh, whose ire by this time had reached a high pitch, did not wish to withdraw without showing some sign of victory, so they advanced upon poor Mr. Keller, and gave him a thorough bath in the creek. The frosh went on their way rejoicing and anticipating the next contest.

The two other scraps scheduled are a push-ball contest and a banner fight. These scraps are under the supervision of Harold Weiner, chairman of the freshman tribunal.

PROF. BROWN SPEAKS TO BETHLEHEM CLUB

Dr. John D. M. Brown, member of the English department of Muhlenberg College, last Monday afternoon addressed a meeting of the Bethlehem Woman's club held in the Trinity Episcopal Church Parish in that city.

The subject was "Dorothy Wordsworth, the Poet's Sister."

Muhlenberg Family Rates Philadelphia Inquirer

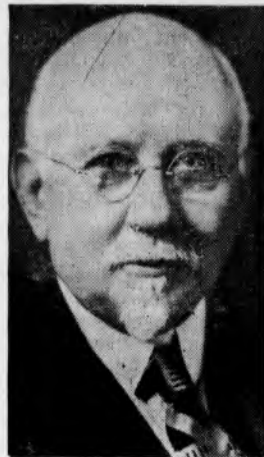

Readers of the Philadelphia Inquirer read with interest last Thursday morning of Muhlenberg College in Girard's column "Talk of the Day". In the article were the following references to the college and to the Muhlenberg family:

"News from Reading suggests that if John Keim Stauffer fails of election as mayor of that city for a second time, it will not be the fault of Republican County Chairman Frederick A. Muhlenberg."

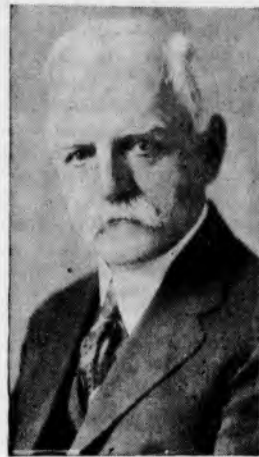

"Who ever saw a Muhlenberg fail? If precedents are worth a dunked pretzel Mr. Stauffer and the whole ticket will march into office."

"No other Pennsylvania family ever produced such a great number of eminent men as that founded by the Rev. Henry M. Muhlenberg, who came to Philadelphia 193 years ago."

Speak at High School Sunday

DR. JOHN A. W. HAAS

HON. FRANK M. TREXLER

—Call Courtesy.

President John A. W. Haas and Judge Frank M. Trexler '79 will be among the speakers at a meeting to be held in the Allentown high school auditorium on Sunday, November 3, in protest against the encroachments upon the Sabbath by commercial interests. The principal speaker of the afternoon will be the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, of Pittsburgh, head of the National Reform Association and editor of the "Christian Statesman." The meeting has been planned by the ministerial group of the Lehigh Valley in direct protest to the proposed opening of movies on Sunday. Muhlenberg students, along with administration and faculty members of the college, will join with all Protestant congregations of Allentown in the mass rally.

PEP MEETING TOMORROW

Apparently unaware of the fact that the country's financial depression is gradually lifting, the college football team is sinking further and further into the depths of defeat. Last Saturday was no exception as the Mules went down before Gettysburg by the score of 27 to 0.

Realizing that something must be done to increase enthusiasm among the team members, President Haas has asked the student body to meet in the Science Hall auditorium at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning for a pep rally before the game with Franklin and Marshall here on Saturday.

The administration is conscious of the splendid support given the squad so far this season and it seems scarcely possible that another pep meeting will help a team which has put on such shameful exhibitions for apparently no good reason.

However, President Haas again appeals to the students to give all the support possible until such time when the real trouble can be remedied.

SEMINARY STUDENTS HOLD VESPER SERVICE

Students of the Lutheran theological seminary, Philadelphia, last Sunday evening conducted the vesper service at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, North Seventh street, this city. Pastor of the church is the Rev. William L. Katz '13.

The evening's sermon was preached by Richard Garnet, Muhlenberg graduate in 1933 and now a senior at the seminary. He is also a member of St. Luke's congregation. The Mt. Airy choir, many members of which are Muhlenberg men, furnished music for the service.

PICTURES TODAY

Weather permitting, pictures of the student body and the freshman class are to be taken this morning immediately following the Rehrg lecture in chapel. The photographer was here last Wednesday morning, but rain prevented taking of the pictures. Students are asked to assemble promptly in front of the Science Hall.

TRAINING SCHOOL TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Plans for the Allentown Community Training school which will be sponsored by the Lehigh County Sunday School association on the local campus, beginning next Monday, were made at a meeting of the group held last week. The Rev. Russell W. Stine, newly-elected president, presided at the session. The training classes, designed for Sunday school teachers and leaders, will meet each Monday night for six weeks. Competent teachers will be in charge of the work. The next meeting is to be held November 18 in the college buildings.

BROADCAST NOV. 20

The college chapel choir will present its concert over Allentown's radio station WCBA on Wednesday evening, November 20, instead of November 15 as had been previously announced. A special program is to be sung at this time in connection with the weekly American Legion broadcast.

Plans Completed For Homecoming Program Here This Saturday

Freshman Contest

Freshman class members last week completed their first six-week period of college life. Realizing that many members of the class of '39 have encountered new experiences and have met with unusual circumstances since entering school, the editorial staff of The Muhlenberg Weekly has decided to sponsor a contest for the new men in which they will have an opportunity to give their impressions of college.

Those wishing to enter the contest are asked to write a story of not more than 500 words based upon the topic "My First Six Weeks at Muhlenberg". November 8 is the closing date for the stories. The essays are to be placed in the college post office, box 106 and winners will be announced in The Muhlenberg Weekly on November 20.

Pre-Medical Society Will Elect Officers

The college Pre-Medical society will hold its first meeting of the year this evening at 8 o'clock in the Science Hall auditorium. Members and their guests are to assemble in Room 305. Election of officers for the current year and the acceptance of those men who wish to join the society are the principal items of business to come before the club tonight.

Members of the three upper classes who are taking the Pre-Medical course and who have obtained a passing grade in freshman chemistry are eligible for membership. Students who have been members and wish to resume affiliations with the society are asked to give their names to Russell H. Derr or Edward T. Horn, both senior class members.

"M" Club Members Adopt $200 Budget

Earl Koch Gives Report on Dance at Luncheon Meeting

Members of the college "M" Club, at their luncheon meeting last Tuesday, adopted this year's budget with the sum fixed at $200. This amount is realized from the sale of athletic field books at football games played here.

The budget, presented by Theodore L. Fischer, club treasurer, includes $125 for the annual dance, $50 for the Recreation Hall, $10 for the award to the outstanding senior athlete, and $15 for miscellaneous expenses.

Earl A. Koch, reporting for the "M" Club dance committee stated that the affair will be held some time in December either at the Hotel Americus or at the Traylor. Bud Rader and his orchestra will probably be engaged for the event. George R. Koehler, president, presided at the meeting last week.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Visits Local Campus

Harry C. Gintzer, student secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association visited the campus last Thursday afternoon to meet with officers of the Muhlenberg Christian Association relative to the Y. M. C. A. conference at Lebanon Valley college December 6, 7, and 8. Meeting with the group was the Rev. Russell W. Stine, of the college faculty.

The theme for the December conference in Annville will be "Practical Christian Leadership". A number of distinguished men are to be present at the sessions to act as leaders and speakers for meetings.

Cardinal Gridders Will Battle With Franklin-Marshall

Class of 1916 to Formally Present New Gateway Prior to Game

FRATERNITIES TO HOLD PARTIES FRIDAY NIGHT

Formal dedication of the new gateway to Muhlenberg's athletic field will be the feature of the annual Homecoming activities here on Saturday.

Completion of the new entrance marks the fulfillment of a pledge made almost twenty years ago by members of the class of 1916 upon their graduation. The brick structure has been erected at the northeast corner of the field although original plans designated that it should be placed on the south side of the gridiron near the recreation hall.

The dedicatory ceremonies are to start at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon and will precede by 15 minutes Muhlenberg's annual football game with Franklin and Marshall's eleven from Lancaster.

Officers of the class of '16 together with the committee in charge of building the gateway, will formally present the structure to the college. President John A. W. Haas and members of the college Athletic Board of Control will accept the brick memorial on behalf of the school.

Special announcements of the dedication have been sent to all members of the class of '16 urging them to attend this year's Homecoming Day celebration. Members of the committee in charge of building the new entrance are Thomas Brennan, chairman; Melville J. Boyer, Edward Zimmerman, Edward Schlechter, and Ralph Wetherhold, all of Allentown. Mr. Wetherhold is class president while Mr. Boyer is the secretary.

Memorial Service For Paul Hoepfner

Rev. Stine Will Preach Sermon in Tribute to Student

Students, faculty, and administration members will join in a memorial service Friday morning to the late Paul O. Hoepfner, '36, of Norristown, who died this summer in a Philadelphia hospital as the result of an operation performed for a tumor on the brain.

Tribute will be paid to the passing member in a sermon to be preached by the Rev. Russell W. Stine, professor of philosophy and religion. He will be assisted by Julius J. Kish, president of the Muhlenberg Christian Association, which organization has planned the service.

The departed student was in ill health most of last year and in early June was admitted to Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia for an operation. He died on June 18. Paul, who would have been graduated next spring, was a member of the M. C. A. Cabinet, the Deutscher Verein, Ciarla, and the Muhlenberg Weekly staffs. He was also on the dean's honor list while a student here.

OPEN HOUSE AT PREP SCHOOL NOVEMBER 1 - 3

The Parent-Teacher organization of Allentown Prep school has completed plans for an Open House program, November 1 to 3, at the school.

The program will open Friday night, November 1, with a football game between the Prep school eleven and York Collegiate Institute on Muhlenberg field. Saturday afternoon will feature the Muhlenberg-F. and M. game on the local college gridiron.

GENTLEMANLY CONDUCT

The intense whispering and general disturbance during chapel last Wednesday was a disgusting exhibition of rudeness and unmannerliness. The acoustics of the Science auditorium are such that the slightest whisper, scraping of feet, or rustling of paper is magnified and vibrates audibly throughout the hall. Undoubtedly the lecturer was hampered greatly and placed under an unnecessary strain by the thoughtlessness of many members of the student body. Such action can only be ascribed to ill-breeding.

Unfortunately the thinking of many college men does not progress beyond football and hilarious week-ends; but even the ignorant can learn to conduct themselves properly.

Perhaps the desire to gossip was increased by the appearance of the "Weekly." For the next three weeks it will be distributed after the chapel period. Compulsory chapel attendance on Wednesdays brings there many who have no interest in the Rehrig lectures. It might be well to remove this compulsion for a trial-period at least. This, however, is only an attempt to excuse something that is inexcusable. The fact remains that if a man does not know and practice the social amenities by the time he is of college age, there is little hope that he will acquire the gentlemanly attitude.

YOUTH DOES NOT WANT WAR

The college youth of America definitely does not want war, and can be expected to oppose vigorously and actively any effort to drag the United States into the general European war many experts predict will arise out of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

This is the belief of Associated Collegiate Press correspondents who have just completed a survey of student opinion on the subject.

Outstanding among the conclusions reached as a result of the survey are these:

1. While most American students are in decided sympathy with Ethiopia in the present undeclared war in Africa, opinion is divided as to the wisdom of the United States joining the League of Nations in the application of aggressor penalties against Italy, only a minority in support.
2. Today, more students than ever before are prepared to view with cynical skepticism the flag-waving jingoism and propaganda so successfully used to drive America into participation in the World War.
3. The flood of books, pamphlets and magazine articles exposing the origins of past wars, and particularly the World War, has found a wider circulation among college students and instructors than among any other group of the American public as a whole.
4. The number of "conscientious objectors" and pacifists in the colleges and universities, both those who would refuse to enlist for a foreign war and those who are pledged not to fight for any reason, has vastly increased during the past few years.

What collegiate America thinks of war is best expressed in the following editorial from the Northeast Missourian, student publication of Northeast Missouri Teachers' College. The article has been widely reprinted in the college press: "We, the young people of today, are faced with a world preparing for war. Italy is rapidly forcing the issue in Ethiopia; Great Britain is rushing her navy to the Mediterranean; the United States is steadily increasing its military expenditures and following policies which threaten to plunge us into the melee. The League of Nations is a peace organization in name but is powerless to avert war unless Italy retracts, and Italy will not retract as long as there is a possible chance to gain land and resources. War in Europe seems inevitable.

"The United States must not be drawn into the mess. The young men of America are too valuable to waste in a squabble between selfish nations in Europe; American resources are too valuable to blow up in gun powder.

"We feel the need for constructive and dramatic demonstration against the rising war tendencies of our nation. We must bear down strongly on peace education. We must demonstrate our determination not to be cannon-fodder for future wars."

RED CROSS ON THE CAMPUS

The college student who pins on the Red Cross membership button in this year's annual membership Roll Call links himself with an organization he remembers at home or sees in projects of relief and rehabilitation throughout the country.

After graduation he will find that there are many calls for college trained young people in all phases of the work of the American Red Cross. If the graduate likes excitement he can find it in Red Cross disaster and emergency operations everywhere. Last year there were 128 disasters—floods, fires, tornadoes, shipwrecks, epidemics of disease, hurricanes and storms. The man whose mind and body are geared to the quick thinking and effective action of the gridiron or diamond is invaluable in disasters of these types. The quarterback who works with the coach to develop the football plays that will be used this year will be a valuable member of the civic group which meets in advance of possible disasters to map the community action which would be taken in an emergency.

A program of health and safety education supplements the Red Cross services of relief and rehabilitation, and volunteers can find work here that will be valuable to the community and of great benefit to their own careers.

Courses of instruction are given in first aid and life saving, and with the nationwide interest centered in programs now under way which are planned to cut down the high total of fatalities through accidents on the highways, in industry and in homes, graduates who volunteer in these fields will find ample opportunity to use their trained brains and hands.

Instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick goes along with the bedside nursing in the Red Cross public health nursing program, and college trained young women will find a special field of activity here, as well as in many other projects developed because of the needs of the last few years.

Case work offers opportunities for those trained in social service, and braille transcribing, volunteer work in the Chapter office or in Roll Call headquarters, the production of garments and surgical dressings, motor corps and canteen service, offer further opportunities for young people who want something worth while to do in the months that follow graduation.

Membership in the Red Cross keeps the student in touch with the world-wide activities of that organization and may be the key which will open a wide door of opportunity for service in the future.

The Roll Call period begins on Armistice Day and continues through Thanksgiving. The Red Cross calls on those who will be its future leaders to join the organization now and begin to prepare for the work of the coming years.

Alumni Seek Mayor's Office

MALCOLM W. GROSS
Democrat

HARRY R. DUBBS
Republican

—Call Courtesy.

Two of the candidates for mayor of the city of Allentown this fall are Muhlenberg graduates. They are Harry R. Dubbs (Republican) and Malcolm W. Gross (Democrat). Muhlenberg alumni will follow with interest the results of the voting next month when one of these men is virtually assured of the city's highest office.

Mr. Dubbs was born on December 23, 1897. His father was Aaron Dubbs, who resided at Trumbauersville and his mother was Ida Titlow, a daughter of John Titlow, of Chestnut Hill, this county.

His parents early moved to Denver, Colo., where the Republican candidate for mayor was born. His parents returned east in 1905, settling at Quakertown, where Harry was graduated from the high school in 1915.

He then came to Muhlenberg college graduating in 1919. He worked his way through college by selling advertising specialties.

Gross' Career
The political career of Mr. Gross has been one of the most interesting in this city and his success has been the envy of many of his fellow politicians.

To have been elected to a county office early in his career and to have had three successive terms as mayor of the city is an honor that has been equaled by only one citizen, that is the present Mayor Fred E. Lewis, who served in congress and is now rounding out his third term as mayor.

Mr. Gross came by his political inclinations through inheritance. His father, the late George T. Gross, was one of the political leaders in the county for a number of years and served as postmaster of this city.

Former City Mayor

After graduating from the Allentown Preparatory school in 1890 and from Muhlenberg college in 1894, Mr. Gross took up the study of law under the late Judge Edward Harvey. In 1897 he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of his profession. Soon, however, the political atmosphere proved alluring and his first venture was a successful one. He was elected Register of Wills and served one term. From 1910 to 1919 he served as city solicitor and in 1920 he was elected mayor, succeeding the late Alfred L. Reichenbach, who was one of the city's most popular chief executives. This was the beginning of his first term and marked the beginning of a term of twelve years as he was reelected twice serving from 1920 to 1932.

Campus Chatter

The prize boner of the week must be laid at the door of a freshman member of the band. Every week the college band drills on the athletic field in preparation for the week-end game. An important part of this drill is the formation of the letter for, or the name of the opposing college. While practicing the drill for the formation of the letters for Fordham, last week, a freshman was observed by the leader as being distinctly unaware of what was being done. Finally the leader asked the frosh to explain his actions. The frosh replied that he thought the band was forming the word, Fordham. Upon being assured that he was correct in his assumption he then wished to know what letters were desired for the formation of the name.

What well-known B. S. Junior was observed in the library, recently, reading an article in Harper's entitled, "Getting Along with Women?"

A new member was added to the class in journalism when "Magie" Levine addressed it last Thursday. A strange, dirty-white dog appeared in the classroom, just as the lecture was beginning. As little attention as possible was paid to the intruder. The canine seemed to sense that he was being snubbed and also seemed to resent the attitude of the class. He immediately began an excursion of the room, wandering about under the seats and down the aisles. Finally he decided upon the supreme effort. He calmly walked up to the raised platform, upon which the speaker was standing, walked up the one side, stood for a moment gazing at the lecturer, and then, just as calmly descended the platform steps on the other side and laid down in a corner for snooze.

The class in oratory numbers at least one honest individual on its roster. A junior town-student, upon being asked by the instructor to give his reason for having chosen public speaking as a part of his curriculum, boldly exclaimed that he had chosen the subject to fill out the eighteen hours on his schedule.

Estimating about seventeen hours a week of study, and about thirty-five weeks of study in the school year, it has been roughly concluded that the cost per study hour, to the student, is about fifty cents. Thus every time a professor cuts a class it costs each individual in the class about fifty cents. If there are thirty members in the class the wayward instructor causes a fifteen dollar loss of knowledge. If he cuts five times each semester he is the cause of the loss of one hundred and fifty dollars a year to the students. And all this leads us to wonder why the defrauded student body doesn't arise in righteous indignation and demand that the professors never, never miss a class. And to think that this condition has been existing for years and years. Tsk, tsk, tsk!

Private Lives — Strange Interludes — Well! Maybe the Co-ed Is Kidding!

The private lives of seventy-five Barnard College girls almost got the editors of the Columbia University Jester into trouble last week.

The Jester is a humorous campus publication. The new "football" issue was put on the stands, and a large part of the issue was devoted to a questionnaire taken among the seventy-five girls at nearby Barnard College.

School officials read the magazine and at once ordered it off the stands. They decided, however, after further consideration that to try to suppress the magazine would give it wider publicity than ever. They ruled that it could be sold.

The questionnaire showed that—of 75 Barnard girls—72 smoked, 60 drank, 50 had been intoxicated, 60 had been kissed, 34 had kissed as many as ten men—and 20 had had dates with married men.

School officials pointed out that the magazine is a humorous publication, and that what was printed as fact might have been only fun. The editors stuck to their guns. They maintained that they had printed only the facts.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

AN AMERICAN COLOSSUS

Last week I claimed for Thomas Wolfe a foremost position among the greatest American writers. Now, through the medium of his two main creations, "Look Homeward, Angel" and "Of Time and the River", the first of a promised hexad, I shall attempt to substantiate my seemingly-rash allegation.

The books themselves are massive things, impressive tomes fraught with a heavy omnipresent longing to catch the elusive substance of life. They are the works of a scholar—necessarily desultory, one who has rummaged long and furiously in myriad books, one who has literally consumed libraries. But herein lies the difference. Imbued with the Faustian desire, Wolfe has no pedantic pretensions; he is not concerned with study and culture as such, but as means to an end. Therefore does he ever keep his ear to the academic ground, hoping—vainly, yet still hoping to hear the rumble of approaching truth. Filled with a singularity of purpose—common enough in theme—the books give the minutiae of an American boy's life with all its wild, purposeless tangents. (Wolfe is undoubtedly using his biography, thinly veiled, the lettuce of his actual life spread over with a dressing of imagination and hyperbole.)

The first volume, "Look Homeward, Angel", deals with the predecessors and early life of Eugene Gant. We see his parents and his older brothers and sisters, whose troubled faces we do not soon forget. We see the child, already driven by the fury of his hunger-haunted brain, swallowing a fly he has just caught. We see him in the dim light of early morning delivering papers to the negro section of his town.

Then gradually we follow him through what Cabell calls . . . "discoveries, made daily, as to mankind and religion and biology and literature and the approved routine of seduction". We accompany him to college; we meet his professors with their petty, all-knowing ways. We pursue him in his devious journey through the cloistered existence, his submergence into the welter of college life: his wish to join every fraternity, every activity; his inchoate attempts at writing, which eventually earn for him the caption of literary oddity; his despair at the obvious disparity between himself and his comrades; and so on, to repeat but a few of the multifarious incidents present. One episode, however, because of the author's ingenuousness in narrating what might easily be labeled affectation, I must relate.

During his vacations Eugene feels impelled to make long nowhere-leading trips through all parts of the country. At night coming to odd little towns peculiar only to the American scene, he registers at insignificant inns under the names of such men as John Milton or Jeremy Taylor or William Wordsworth. Or ringing the bell of an obscure home, he asks whether his friends, Samuel Coleridge—Samuel Taylor Coleridge—resides there. And answered negatively, he expresses surprise and insists that this address was given him. Or, again, simulating hunger and exhaustion, he rings a door bell and begs a glass of water. The acts of a poseur, a madman, you say? Not if you know Thomas Wolfe. Here, in the semblance of his chief character, he perpetrates deeds which he—as you and I—had probably often wanted to do but had never had the courage.

COLLEGE CLASS WRITES BOOK REVIEWS FOR CALL

Book reviews written by students of journalism here, are to appear shortly in the Allentown Morning Call. The local city paper distributed several recently published books among members of the class in order that they might write book reviews of them. These are to be included by the newspaper in a regular column of book reviews carried in the Sunday edition.

Book reviewing is one of the phases of journalism taught in the regular course by Professor Simpson. The invitation offered by the Morning Call affords a splendid opportunity for members of the class to gain practical experience in this field.

F. AND M. HOMECOMING GRID ATTRACTION

Mules Drop Second Conference Battle To Bullets, 27-0

Superka Runs Wild Against Locals to Score 3 Times

FIRST LEAGUE VICTORY FOR GETTYSBURG TEAM

Johnny Utz and his Cardinal Crusaders played their second conference game of the season last Saturday against Gettysburg on the latter's field, but the Mules came out battle-scarred and dragging a stinging 27 to 0 defeat after them.

It was the second straight week the Muhlenberg warriors invaded a foreign field as the gridiron attraction for their hosts' Homecoming celebration, and for the second consecutive Saturday the local eleven left the Cardinal and Gray colors sink deeper and deeper into the muck and mire. The previous Saturday Utz's cohorts were the Homecoming visitors at Ursinus only to be sent home with a 21 to 0 setback.

Evidently Gettysburg thought the Mules were Confederates for the Bullets played as though inspired by the scent of victory over a hated rival. Gettysburg made ten first downs to 'Berg's four and one of these was the result of a penalty.

Gettysburg clearly showed its superiority on the first few plays after the opening whistle, and thereafter kept the ball in Muhlenberg territory practically the entire game.

The Mules had the ball in what might be considered scoring position only once during the battle, that being late in the last quarter, when they had the ball within the 20-yard line. The Bullets forced them to kick without any further advance, however.

Twice in the first quarter 'Berg put up a stubborn defense and prevented the Gettysburg players from scoring, once stopping them on the four-yard line and before the quarter was over again stopped them with the ball only inches from the scoring stripe.

Joe Superka Stars

The Bullets started to add punch to their thrusts and drives with the opening of the second quarter when the Orange and Blue coaches sent Joe Superka into the line-up in place of Yevak. The boy from Lehigh county scored three of the touchdowns before he went out in the last quarter. Much of Superka's ability, however, was due to the able assistance given by his teammates, the other members of the backfield, with the ends and tackles taking out the Muhlenberg players in fine style.

Bartleson kicked from behind the line, Superka receiving the ball in midfield. The Bullets started a drive with Superka taking the ball on almost every try. His last try in this drive was from the 4-yard line from which he went through the center for the first touchdown and added the extra point.

LAFAYETTE WILL PLAY YALE ELEVEN NOV. 16

The Yale football team will play Lafayette at Yale bowl on November 16 of this year, Malcolm W. Farmer, chairman of the Yale Athletic association, has announced.

In preparing the Yale schedule originally an open Saturday was left between the Brown game on November 9 and the Harvard game on November 23.

GERMAN PROFESSORS PLAN RADIO PROGRAMS

Plans were completed for broadcasting high German programs over radio station WEEU, Reading, at a meeting of college professors held in Reading last Wednesday. Dr. Preston Barba, of the German department, represented Muhlenberg at the conference which was attended by professors from Cedar Crest, Lebanon Valley, Albright, and Franklin and Marshall.

The programs are to be broadcast during class hours in order that students within a hundred-mile radius of Reading may hear the finest German.

Princeton university administrators recently announced an expansion plan that calls for the raising of $7,750,000.

Score Touchdowns

JOE SUPERKA - BACK

BILL MCCAHAN - CENTER

These two members of the Bullets' grid squad scored the four touchdowns Saturday against the Mules on the Gettysburg field. Superka, flashy back, tallied three times while the G-burg center intercepted a pass to dash across the line with the fourth counter.

Gettysburg added two more touchdowns in the third quarter. The first of these came about the middle of the quarter. With the ball on his own 7-yard line, Bartleson booted the ball out of danger, but it rested in the arms of Joe Superka on the Mule 40-yard mark and he raced through the entire Utz team for a touchdown. Again his toe added the extra point.

Passes Aid Advance
Soon after the resumption of play, Sassaman intercepted a Mule pass in midfield. The Bream men then started a passing attack, Cicco tossing one to Superka that was good for 25 yards. Superka next heaved one to Cicco, that put the ball on the 8-yard line. The next play was a reverse, Sassaman to Superka, which put the ball down on the 1-yard line. Superka went over, but this time his toe failed him for the point.

The last score came in the final quarter when McCahan, Gettysburg center, intercepted a Mule pass on the Gettysburg 35-yard line and with no visiting players near him, took the ball down the field and over the line. Sassaman kicked the extra point.

The playing of Ken Poust and Henry Gutekunst stood out for the Mule eleven.

Coach Alan Holman To Bring Powerful Squad Here Saturday For Conference Battle With Cardinal and Gray Team

Dedication of New Gateway to Athletic Field Will Precede Tilt With Lancaster Collegians; Opening Kick-off Scheduled for 2 O'clock

NEVONIANS RULE FAVORITES OVER MULE ELEVEN

Alumni who return here Saturday to take part in the annual Homecoming celebration will see their Cardinal and Gray gridiron team tackle one of the strongest elevens in the Eastern part of the country when Franklin and Marshall college sends its squad on the local field.

With the single exception of Fordham university, which Muhlenberg plays at the Polo Grounds in New York, November 16, the Lancaster lads are the biggest and toughest bunch of players against which Johnny Utz's team will line up this season.

The opening kick-off is scheduled for 2 o'clock and will follow the dedication of the new athletic field gateway, presented by members of the class of 1916.

Virtually the entire varsity roster of 1934 is back in the Nevonians den again this fall to boast the largest squad in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate conference. Incidentally Saturday's fray will be the first conference battle for the Lions.

Mike Karvasales, halfback, and Omar Cannon, guard, co-captains last season; Jack Roddy, tackle, and Stan Wrigley, end, are the absentees this year, but Coach Holman has little to worry over, as only Roddy and Karvasales were regulars in 1934. Veterans who are linemen again fall for the Lancaster collegians are: Charles Apple, George Pew and John Stolarz, ends; Tom Musante, Tom Beynon, Milt Goldberg and Eddie Dinsmore, tackles; Carl Ehrensberger, Bernard Santaniello, Ewald

George Holstrom '23, Former Coach, Would Change Rules

Suggests Grid Games Be Played With Intermission at Half

SCORING CHANCES LOST

A change in the football rules that would divide the game into four quarters instead of two halves and keep the ball in play throughout the game is what George R. Holstrom, assemblyman and former Muhlenberg football coach, thinks would add interest to the game from both the spectators' and players' point of view.

"In an effort to make the game of football more exciting and interesting and giving a team that has fought hard, all that it deserves, I believe that instead of starting the second half of a game, with the customary kick-off, the ball should be given to the team that controlled it at the end of the first half, and be put in play at the exact spot, where play terminated at the expiration of the first half," said Holstrom.

"As it is now, the game is really two distinct football games. The first half consists of thirty minutes, divided in two quarters of fifteen minutes each, with one minute interval. The same is true of the second half. It has often happened that a team successfully marched down the field during the closing minutes of the first half, only to lose their opportunity of scoring by the expiration of time. I believe they should be given credit for this successful football, and allowed to continue from that spot at the start of the second half.

"In addition, it would tend to keep the excitement of the spectators at a high pitch, as everyone would anticipate a scoring play from the offensive club when they came out to start the game after the fifteen-minute rest period.

"Football is a sixty-minute game, but as it is now, it is in reality two contests of thirty minutes' duration. The coach would have the opportunity of devising ways and means of scoring, provided, of course, he was in scoring position, and the defensive club coach would have his boys all pepped up to stop the anticipated plays. The fans would await the opening of the second half with keener delight."

Holstrom was graduated from the local college in 1923, having been an outstanding athlete here during his four years as a student.

The average football suit weighs 34 pounds, which is about the weight of a trotting horse sulky.

Freshmen Win, 7-0 Over Prep School

Gadick Goes Over for Only Score in Second Period

Playing their third and final football game of the season, Muhlenberg's frosh eleven last Friday afternoon pushed over a touchdown in the second period to win over Allentown Prep school by the score of 7 to 0.

The season just ended by the Mule yearlings was a highly profitable one which saw Coach Evanovsky's lads chalk up a triumph over Blair academy, in addition to Friday's win, and play a scoreless tie with a strong Lehigh frosh team.

Friday's scoring play occurred near the end of the second period, Gadick taking the ball on Prep's fifteen yard stripe and worming his way through the entire Prep team until he broke into the clear. Once free, he raced the remaining twelve yards to the goal-line and chalked up the only touchdown of the game. The point after was scored on a pass, Smith to Meyers.

The Little Mules might have scored several other times during the first half of the game, but for the alertness of several of the Prep players.

city and to the college inasmuch as it will be his only visit to eastern Pennsylvania with the exception of Swarthmore.

He will come to Allentown from Princeton where he will speak Sunday, and will return there on Monday afternoon to be the guest, with the governor of New Jersey, at a dinner in his honor Monday evening.

Immediately following his address at Muhlenberg he will be entertained at a luncheon to be given by Dr. Buchman at which he will be formally presented to prominent residents of the community.

Muhlenberg is indeed fortunate to have such a distinguished visitor appear on its campus since he is making addresses at only eleven other colleges and universities in the United States. These will be University of Pittsburgh, Princeton, Harvard, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Stevens Institute, Swarthmore, Northwestern, Wisconsin University, and Illinois.

All classes after 11 o'clock Monday morning will be omitted.

Paul Dietz Interprets German Works Before Student Gathering

Unusual interpretations of drama and poetry were given in the Science Hall auditorium last Friday morning by Paul Dietz, distinguished actor of the American and European stage.

Mr. Dietz included a scene from Lessing's "Nathan der Weise" in which Nathan, in answer to Saladin's question to which religion was of most value—whether the Jewish, Christian, or Mohammedan—replied by relating the story of the three rings; a scene from "Mina von Barnhelm, also by Lessing, in which Marliniere, a Frenchman, speaks to Mina, the heroine, the soliloquy of Wallenstein, spoken before Wallenstein deserted the Kaiser, taken from Schiller's "Wallenstein's Tod"; the soliloquy of Wilhelm Tell, upon the incident before Tell shot Gessler, the governor, taken from "Wilhelm Tell" also by Schiller; a scene from Schiller's "Miria Stuart" in which Sir Mortimer passionately addresses Maria; a scene from Goethe's "Faust" in which Faust, having become weary of his studies, goes out and mingles with the crowd; the last scene from Hauptmann's "The Weavers."

Journalism Class Hears Max Levine

Lutheran Publicity Director May Address Group Next Month

Max Levine '35, former supervisor of the Muhlenberg Press Bureau and now a reporter on the staff of the Allentown Morning Call, last Thursday addressed the journalism class on the subject, "Getting the News; Writing the News."

Mr. Levine's address was a combination of interesting personal experiences in newspaper work, advice on getting and writing of news, and descriptions of various phases of putting the news into print.

Discussing first the getting of news, Mr. Levine described the manner in which it was necessary for him to secure correct information on two local stories, one concerning W. P. A. projects, and the other a shortage of funds, to meet the payroll, in a city councilman's department. In both these cases the story had to be checked from several angles to insure the truth of the various statements, and secure a true picture of the action. Along this line the speaker warned the class to, "be a skeptic; doubt everything you hear."

The speaker told how the news story must contain the essentials in the first sentence and then allow the interest to decrease as the story progresses. It is not possible to express one's own opinion in a news story, as in the report of a news event. It was also shown how the volume of advertising on a given day limits the amount of news able to be printed.

The Rev. C. K. Fegley of Weehawken, New Jersey, director of publicity for the National Lutheran Council of America, is expected to address the class on November 14. His subject will deal with the means by which publicity is handled in the church.

Two steps toward the betterment of Muhlenberg's athletic teams have been taken with the recent organization of a Student Athletic Council and an Alumni Advisory Committee on athletics.

The second group, the alumni advisory body, was appointed by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees several weeks ago upon the recommendation of the Muhlenberg alumni association. Its function will be to give suggestions to the college administration for the improvement of

Eleven Out For Debate Team Here

Varsity Group Starts Work on Two Questions for This Year

One senior, six juniors, and four sophomores responded to the first call for candidates of the debating team, issued last week by Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, coach of debating.

The varsity groups this season will debate two questions with teams of other colleges and universities. The first question is, "Resolved, that the constitution should be so amended that Congress may control intra-state commerce." The second question is: "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to override by a two-thirds vote decisions of the United States Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional."

The opening debate has already been slated with Lafayette college on the first question to take place late in November. This debate will be a dual meet with three men on each team.

Announce Female Cast For "Laff That Off" Production

Announcement of the female cast for the Mask and Dagger play, "Laff That Off" was released this week by Joseph L. Schantz, president of the theatrical club. The play is to be given here December 11 and 12.

All of the female roles are to be played by young women prominent in local and collegiate theater circles. She is remembered best for the leading feminine role in "The Return of Peter Grim"—last year's outstanding success of the local theater movement. Miss Miller is to portray the part of Peggy, a captivating and affectionate girl, adopted by the three young men as a sister and housekeeper after finding her destitute and homeless on the streets.

Cardinal Crusaders Meet Lehigh Gridders Saturday

Muhlenberg Eleven to Play Twenty-fifth Engagement With Brown and White Team in Taylor Stadium; Kick-Off Scheduled for 2 O'clock

ENGINEERS HOLD SLIGHT ADVANTAGE OVER MULES

Muhlenberg's Cardinal and Gray gridiron eleven will once again journey to Taylor stadium in Bethlehem on Saturday afternoon to meet the Brown and White team of Lehigh university. The opening kick-off is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Both squads have had only mediocre success during the present season and the outcome of the fray is virtually a toss-up although the Engineers may hold a slight edge in power alone. Geschel, Gutekunst, Laing, and Kennedy, all of whom saw service in the backfield against F. and M. last Saturday, will be handicapped somewhat due to injuries received in the last game and may not be able to play up to par. However, the 'Berg line should be in top-notch condition and give the Lehigh forwards a good battle.

In the twenty-four engagements between the two schools to date, Muhlenberg has only been able to win six times, the last victory being scored two years ago by a 10 to 0 score.

The Mules will find plenty of trouble getting through the Brown and White line when Captain Scobey and "Fritz" Bayer are in there. Bayer is a transfer from Princeton where he was classed as possible. All-American material by Head Coach Fritz Crisler. When Lehigh takes to the air Heller is generally found throwing the passes with Walton and Milbank on the receiving end.

Records thus far show the Brown and White having victories over Upsala, Haverford and Dickinson while losing to Penn State, Rutgers, and Gettysburg. The Mules have won but one game against five consecutive setbacks.

Pay Tribute To Paul O. Hoepfner

Students Honor Deceased Member at Memorial Chapel Service

A spirit of reverence and inspiration marked the memorial service held in the Egner-Hartzell memorial chapel on Friday morning, for Paul O. Hoepfner, who died June 18, following an operation in the Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia.

A fitting sermon was preached by the Rev. Russell W. Stine who eulogized Paul and paid respect to his courage and faith in the God who had called him to prepare for His work.

"If Paul could stand in this pulpit this morning," the speaker said, "he would assure us of the fact that God watches over us, in life or death, in sickness or in health. He would quote Tennyson's poem, 'Crossing the Bar' and ask that our faith be strong enough to lift us from the world of sorrow to a life of light."

"The heroes of the Bible show that God takes care of us. Paul," he said, "suffered in silence and did his work well. He exemplified the ideal scholar. He realized that God had a plan here on earth for him to do."

The Rev. Mr. Stine was assisted in the service by Julius J. Kish, president of the Muhlenberg Christian Association of which Mr. Hoepfner was a member.

In attendance at the memorial service were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Begler, sister and brother-in-law of Paul; Ernest Hoepfner, Mrs. Karl Hoepfner, and Mrs. A. Ellison, all of Norristown; and Mr. and Mrs. Franz Pummam and Ella Pullman, of Allentown.

A letter was read to the student body from the Rev. Harvey Hoepfner, brother of Paul, from Brooklyn, New York.

THINKING WITH THE PAPERS

Most people let the newspapers do their thinking for them. It is rather amusing to observe how vigorously one man asserts his opinion and how strenuously he is opposed by another man. It is discovered that neither man is doing more than echo the paper he reads. His partisan bias grows out of what his paper says. He does not, or he cannot, think the matters through and come to his own independent conclusion. There is no way of changing this condition. Probably it is not desirable to think of changing it.

But one suggestion is desirable and that is that the papers stick to the truth, and do not distort facts or state them in such a way as to support a preconceived notion or policy.

The rank and file of persons are bound to think with the papers they read. We assume that the writers of these papers are in position to see and understand and interpret better than we can. We are at the mercy of what we read; we have no way of getting back of the statements. We have not the time, the money or the occasion to make our private investigations. However, we can be alert to detect deliberate fraud in what we read. We can exercise our best judgment in accepting or rejecting what the papers say.

Always we are in danger of becoming zealots for a cause merely because some paper advocates it as a means of increasing circulation. Being a zealot in this fashion has a tendency to undermine independent thinking and to turn people into puppets. It is true that we can hardly avoid thinking with the papers we read, but we can be at least particular about the selection of the papers we read.

SWEEPSTAKES

Again agitation for legalized gambling has come to the front with another running of the Irish Sweepstakes. Several millions of American dollars are now resting in Irish pocketbooks as a result with no return in goods or services, except the possible thrill some people may gain on being notified that their horse ran the wrong way. On the small portion that returns in winnings, the Irish government has exacted a healthy tax.

The rank and file are too busy reading the headlines of the few lucky winners to consider these facts. Instead, they clamor for legalized gambling which would allow them to lose more money. In all its forms, gambling is a racket in which a few profit at the expense of the man on the street, who is very seldom a competent judge of what is good for himself. It is altogether incompatible with ethical and Christian principles, and neither has it any economic justification. It is a popular partner to crime and other degrading social influences.

Perhaps if our gambling laws were still more extensive and rigidly enforced, more bread and clothing would be purchased instead of lottery tickets and loaded dice.

Artists Exhibit Work In College Library

A choice exhibition of the works of pupils of Alexander Finta, Hungarian sculptor and illustrator, who conducted classes in Bethlehem during the summer months, is on exhibition on the main floor of the college library.

The exhibits of persons from this vicinity show an unusual arrangement of colors and shading and also includes one clay model of a proposed monument to steel being made by Finta who has studios in New York city.

The exhibiting artists are Mrs. Eleanor Barba, wife of Dr. Preston A. Barba; Garth A. Howland, professor of fine arts at Lehigh university; Laci de Gerenday, and E. M. Davies.

Through the cooperation of Lehigh university the exhibit has been loaned to Muhlenberg for two weeks.

MY HAIRITAGE

O Virgil, my handsome, winsome mustache,
Whose bushiness causes the other fellows their teeth to gnash
I truly admire you from afar.
You are ever my guiding star.
Always firm, trim, bristly, erect,
You look better than the pies my mother has baked
Happiest of mortals are the lips you adorn,
Without you they indeed would be forlorn.
You're much prettier than any girl I shout
You who doth abundantly beneath my nose sprout.
I certainly must hand it to you, you're fancy.
A fellow without a mustache is a pansy.
Shyly from under that schnozzle you peek
You used to be invisible but you grew up queer,
From looking at you I can't stop
I must admit you're the top.

The height of rushing procedure seems to have been reached up in Easton. It seems that last week one of the Lafayette fraters, was seen chasing balls for a freshman rushee who was practicing golf shots.

According to a professor of psychology at Oregon State University, the fellows who receive "A's" are usually the meek and submissive type who can be molded to suit the prof's will. The independent and defiant type averages a C. Hi boys!

Prof. Everitt, instructor of English, last week was handed a new course to teach by several playful juniors. The gentlemen in question strode into the instructor's classroom as another class was leaving, seated themselves in the front row, and produced large, important-looking notebooks and pencils. The prof gazed at the earnest and serious-looking individuals in front of him and perplexedly rubbed his chin. Finally he gathered the courage to ask the why and wherefore of the invasion. Whereupon one of the jokesters informed him that they were in the class to pursue the study of Semitic poetry under Mr. Everitt's tutelage. Upon being asked how they got that way the juniors replied that a notice had been posted on the bulletin board by the president to the effect that a new course in Semitic poetry would be taught by Mr. Everitt. And were the students surprised when the still perplexed instructor explained that he didn't understand?

What dormitory freshman went to see the burlesque at the Lyric three times in two days last week? And that's not all. He sat in the orchestra section and then had the nerve to use field-glasses.

Charles K. Fegley To Address Class

Journalists to Hear Publicity Director Speak on Nov. 14

The Rev. Charles K. Fegley, publicity director for the National Lutheran Council of America, has definitely been announced as the next speaker to address the college journalism class here on Thursday, November 14. The Rev. Mr. Fegley will speak on "Getting the Church into the News."

He is a member of the Muhlenberg graduating class of 1900 and was one of the founders of the Delta Theta fraternity. His home is in Weehawken, New Jersey.

Another newspaperman who is expected to come here to address the class taught by Prof. Stephen G. Simpson is W. H. Wilson, of Mechanicsburg. Mr. Wilson is city editor of the Harrisburg Patriot and a Muhlenberg graduate in 1921. He addressed the journalism group here last winter.

The lectures are made possible through a fund provided by the Allentown Morning Call. The classes meet regularly each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 1:15 o'clock.

Edward Horn Heads Pre-Medical Group

Club Announces Names of New Members Following Meeting

Edward T. Horn, Jr., was elected president of the Pre-medical club at the business meeting held last Wednesday evening in the Science building. Other officers elected at the first meeting of the current school year were Frederick Gregorius, vice-president; George S. Boyer, secretary; and Frederick A. Dry, treasurer.

Applications for membership were received. A committee consisting of Frederick J. Gregorius, James H. Rogokos, and J. Ritner Weaver was appointed to pass on the eligibility of the applicants. A grade of "C" in some pre-medical subject is required for admission.

The following men were accepted for admission. Eugene Martin, Richard Held, Joseph Osman, Charles Herwig, Edgar Ernst, Thomas Williams, Thomas Natoli, Ray Bergenstock, Kermit Kistler, Saul Keller, James Hays, John C. Miller, Walter Reinhart, Bernard Wilker, Charles Garretson, Harold Nehf, Frank Boyer, Edward Agnew, Allen Uhler, and Max Kohn.

Another meeting of the club will be held tonight in the Science building. All new members are asked to be present. At that time Dr. John V. Shankweiler, faculty adviser, will present plans for the year. A large number of trips and featured lectures have been arranged. A special program is being planned by the initiation committee for the new members.

The usual worried looks were carried by the upperclassmen during the past week as the first spasm of subject quizzes and tests were given by the pros. This most peculiar phenomena is visible six times during the school year during test periods. The effect only lasts for a few days and the attitude is then discarded until the postings appear; it then reappears for a short time. The frosh can't understand it; they study all the time.

And then some freshman asks, "What is the posting you talk about?" Live and learn, frosh, live and learn.

Crest dances are beginning to take their toll of Muhlenberg undergraduates. The last two dances sponsored by the institution across the valley looked like a convention of Muhlenberg men. But then the Cardinal and Gray always has supplied a goodly bunch of social lions.

And the column cannot close without at least calling attention to the peculiar persons who have been darting about the campus recently wearing tiny hats with long feathers in them. The poor things arrive before school opens and then hide in the locker-rooms to dart away to waiting trolley-cars as their classes arrive at an end. It is said the German Club has something to do with their plight.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Muhlenberg students who wish to see their own college illustrated in pictures such as appear above are asked to make voluntary contributions to "Campus Camera" through the Associated Collegiate Press. Interesting traditions, humorous anecdotes, or stories about unusual events on Muhlenberg's campus are suitable for this series. Such information is to be sent to Frederick J. Noer, Associated Collegiate Press, Postoffice Box 472, Madison, Wisconsin.

Rudolph Mattson In New York Production

Rudolph Mattson, Muhlenberg graduate of last spring, is appearing in the cast of "Jumbo" which opened Saturday night at the Hippodrome theater in New York City.

The cast of "Jumbo" includes Jimmy Durante. The book was written by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur and the musical numbers are by Rodgers and Hart. John Murray Anderson staged the production.

Mr. Mattson has been most fortunate in thus winning an opportunity in a Broadway show and one that is predestined to be the big extravaganza hit of the season. He is elated also by the fact that the company has been signed to go on the air from WEA-F at 9:30 o'clock every Tuesday evening.

The former student last spring was elected life president of the 1935 class and was president of his class during his senior year in college. He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, and of Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity. He is tenor soloist for Christ Lutheran church choir of this city and has appeared in the casts for several Little Theater plays.

REV. TREXLER SPEAKS AT BETHLEHEM RALLY

The Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, Muhlenberg graduate in the class of '96, was guest preacher for the annual union Reformation service held last Sunday evening in the Bethlehem High school auditorium. All Lutheran congregations in Bethlehem and vicinity participated in the worship.

The Rev. Mr. Trexler, resident of New York City, arrived at his home last Saturday from Paris, France, where he addressed the Lutheran World conference.

Marion Schaeffer Wed To Charles L. Shimer

The marriage of Miss Marion Crawford Schaeffer to Charles Llewellyn Shimer took place in the Moravian church, Nazareth, on Saturday afternoon, October 26.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Schaeffer of Nazareth. She was graduated from Hood college, Frederick, Md., and took graduate work at Cornell university. For the past four years she taught in the Nazareth public schools.

Mr. Shimer, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Shimer, of Nazareth, is a graduate of Muhlenberg college, class of '29, where he was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is also a graduate of Harvard law school. At the present time he is practicing law in Nazareth. He is a member of the Northampton County Bar association and is solicitor for Nazareth borough.

TWO MUHLENBERG MEN ADMITTED TO CO. BAR

The ambitions of two Muhlenberg graduates were realized last month when Kenneth Koch '32, and Forrest Gotthardt '31, were admitted to practice before the bar of their native county. The two youthful lawyers were admitted to practice in the courts of Lehigh county by President Judge R. W. Iobst.

The nomination of Attorney Koch was presented by Attorney M. P. Schantz, secretary of the Lehigh County Bar association. The nomination of Attorney Gotthardt was presented by Assistant District Attorney Alfred K. Hettlinger '21, in whose office Attorney Gotthardt has been studying.

The nomination of the two young lawyers have the endorsement of the Lehigh County Bar association.

Pre-Medical Students Take Aptitude Tests

Of interest to pre-medical seniors is the coming aptitude test to be given by the Association of American Medical Colleges to all students expecting to enter medical schools next fall.

Acceptance to medical school is based partly on the results of this test by approximately 90 per cent of the approved medical schools of the United States. The date has been set for the afternoon of December 6. Dr. John V. Shankweiler has charge of the tests at Muhlenberg.

The test is designed to measure how well a student can understand and retain the principal facts in medical passages met with in his work and is based on a student's ability to learn specific material in a given length of time.

Kappa Phi Kappa To Study Graduate Work

The local chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national educational fraternity, has begun a survey among Muhlenberg alumni to determine the advisability of establishing graduate work here.

Questionnaires have been distributed among four hundred alumni of the local institution. The purpose of the questionnaires is to determine the degrees of interest, among the graduate body, in reference to establishing graduate work at Muhlenberg.

Graduate courses form an important phase of work at the larger colleges and universities. The Kappa Phi Kappa survey is expected to provide an interesting basis for further action by the administrative bodies.

Will Publish Diary Of Henry Muhlenberg

Dr. Henry R. Mueller, professor of history, has been named a member of the committee to arrange for the bi-centennial celebration of the arrival in this country of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg which occurs in 1942.

Through the committee the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania has arranged to publish, edit, and translate the diary of Muhlenberg as well as all letters which its members are able to secure.

Other members of the committee, including college alumni are: The Rev. Dr. William H. Cooper, '91; Prof. Luther D. Reed, the Rev. John W. Richards, '87; the Rev. Theodore G. Tappert, and the Rev. John W. Doberstein, all of Philadelphia.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

AN AMERICAN COLOSSUS

Following the plan established by Thomas Wolfe I now find myself confronted with a rather difficult task—a consideration of his second book, "Of Time and the River". Difficult I call it because of the body of the book itself. Apparently it contains no cohesion. Indeed, its form (or lack of form), "en rapport" with Wolfe's conception of life, is like varied lightning—flowing life and death; grasping, branched brilliance—brilliance of the many arms; a crooked tree whose sap is blood and molten gold. And to carry the analogy further—reading Wolfe's work is like being tripped by lightning.

"Of Time and the River" picks up the thin thread of story where "Look Homeward, Angel" closes. After a comparatively uninteresting prolegomenon the book catches the infectious swing of the first novel and carries on in familiar strain. Although "Of Time and the River" records but five years of Eugene Gant's life, as contrasted with the eighteen years transcribed in the first novel, the former is a good deal longer. But this specious paradox is natural enough. Formerly the writer was dealing with distant material, the obscurity of birth and childhood and adolescence; now he is traversing well-known ground, the most vivid years, those which have just passed. Accordingly he can treat them in detail.

In a work of this type the train of events is of little importance. To maintain an appearance of order, however, I give them briefly. Eugene is graduated from junior college; he goes away to Harvard (which, for one of Wolfe's power, appears in too limited scope). He enters the renowned dramatic school and meets Frank Starwick, an assistant instructor of the class—soon Eugene's best friend, but ultimately his worst enemy (at least so Eugene deems him). Starwick is an unusually striking character. Graphically drawn, strong in his weakness, he fosters in us an ever-increasing curiosity and dislike. Someone, I believe, has tried to identify him with the sybaritism, the debasement, of an 'highly' cultured age. I do not wish to carry the inference that far, but I must confess that in him I see many traces of Huysmans' Des Esseintes; leastwise he is the result, the ineffectual product of an extremely artificial period.

Upon graduation Eugene encounters the question of a livelihood. He tries his hand at writing; rejection slips are the only returns. (Indirectly Wolfe may be deploring the plight of a Vachel Lindsay, of the modern artist who has no Maecenas other than the vacillating fancy of the crowd.) Finally he secures a minor position as an English professor in a New York college. But the fury in him, his 'Anabasis heart', allows him little peace; jobless, he finds himself on a wild tour of Europe with Starwick and two women. Hundreds of adventures befall him in his endless pursuit of life and his exhausted effort to obtain a strangle hold on time. But because of these European escapades I prefer "Look Homeward, Angel". For Wolfe is at his best when he speaks of his own country. As if aware of this, beset by an insuperable nostalgia, he returns to America.

MULES STUBBORN BUT F. and M. WINS, 32-7

Lancaster Collegians Too Strong For Cardinal and Gray Eleven; Gutekunst Goes Over For 'Berg In Third Period

Diplomats Score in Every Quarter Except Third When Locals Tally

DEDICATE NEW GATE

Johnny Utz's gridiron warriors lost their fifth straight game last Saturday when the husky eleven from Franklin and Marshall college came here to down the Cardinal and Gray squad by the score of 32 to 7.

There were thrills in the hearts of both the coaches and spectators, however, as the Mules in this game went down fighting to the last whistle. It was a rejuvenated team that took the field against the heavy Lancaster collegians as compared with the less impressive showings in the Ursinus and Gettysburg tilts.

It was Muhlenberg's annual homecoming game and the fray was preceded by elaborate ceremonies. Col. C. J. Smith and Captain Lee Israel reviewed the Muhlenberg band in military fashion. Following this there was a genuine battle of music as the Muhlenberg band, the F. and M. band and the Allentown American Legion drum and bugle corps vied for honors.

John "Beans" Dietrich, former Muhlenberg star and at present a coach at Allentown Prep school, ran a team of 110-pound juniors through signals as an added spectacle. The Muhlenberg Mule, robed in a gray blanket with a huge cardinal "M," was led about the field by its owner dressed like Uncle Sam.

Immediately before the game, Melville J. Boyer made a presentation speech through the Smith and Peiffer amplifying system, representing the class of 1916 which has presented the new gateway to the field as a class gift. President John A. W. Haas, accepted the gift in behalf of the college.

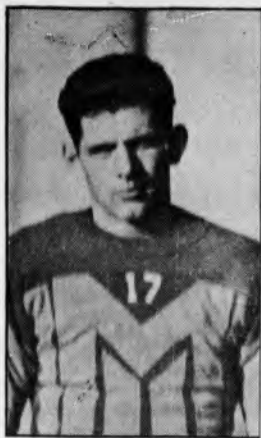

F. and M. had its own way from the opening whistle, scoring in every period but the third. It was in the third period that Muhlenberg made its big attempt to win. Yaeger, of the Diplomats, had kicked to Berg's 30-yard line where Gutekunst took the ball and ran it back to the 42. A pass then, from Gutekunst to Grant Brown gained a first down for the Mules on the F. and M. 48-yard line. From this point Gutekunst carried the ball to F. and M.'s 44-yard line on an off-tackle play. Al Erdosky gained three more yards for Berg on the next play and then Henry Gutekunst skirted his own left end and galloped 32 yards, being thrown on the Diplomats' 12-yard stripe.

"Jiggs" Koehler hit the center of the line and gained three yards to place the ball on the F. and M. 9-yard line and then a lateral, Gutekunst to Erdosky was good for enough yardage to give Muhlenberg a first down on the Diplomats' 2-yard stripe. Koehler tried a plunge but failed to meet with success. On the next play, however, Gutekunst crashed off-tackle and gained the only Muhlenberg touchdown. Koehler's place kick for point was good and the score stood: F. and M. 19; Muhlenberg, 7.

That was midway is the third period and Muhlenberg fans were beginning to wake up. Ralph Eagle kicked off for Muhlenberg following the touchdown and sent the ball over the Diplomats' goal-line where Langford picked it up and raced to the 16-yard marker. Royer, an F. and M. sub backfield man, was stopped dead on the first play by the Berg linemen so the visitors elected to kick. Gutekunst took the punt on the F. and M. 40-yard line and ran it back to the 27, but from there on Muhlenberg's chances were nil.

The entire Diplomat first string was sent into action and stopped Muhlenberg cold. Not only that, but a few minutes later, after the goal posts had changed, the invading squad marched to its final two touchdowns.

The first F. and M. touchdown was scored near the end of the opening period. The Mules had the ball on their own 20-yard line and Bartleson was instructed to kick. The Berg line failed to hold and a group of F. and M. players streamed through to block the kick and Muhlenberg lost the ball on fourth down. From this point of vantage-Morocco faded and heaved a short pass to Apple who found no trouble running 20 yards for the touchdown. The try for point, a place-kick by Apple, went wide.

The second touchdown followed one of the most beautiful runs of the game, early in the second period. Bartleson punted for Muhlenberg and Medwick took the ball on his own 35-yard line. Medwick weaved his way along the sidelines, returning the ball to Muhlenberg's 23. Directly after that Morocco hurled a ten yard pass to Sielski who trotted 12 yards to score. This time Apple's kick was good.

Not long after that play, Langford, a ten second man, broke away for the visitors' third touchdown, crashing off-tackle and worming his way through a broken field for thirty yards to count the six points. He tried to convert the point but failed.

The first touchdown in the final period was not unlike the first touchdown of the game. Bartleson attempted to kick but once again the Mule line failed to hold and the kick was blocked. Royer, of F. and M. recovering the ball on Berg's five-yard line. Langford tried to score but he was stopped short, losing two yards, but on the next play he rounded his own right end and tallied. Dinsmore's place-kick was good.

Not long after that F. and M. concluded the attack with its fifth touchdown. F. and M. had worked the ball down to the Muhlenberg 32-yard line when suddenly Hummer caught the Mules off guard and smashed through to register. Veri's kick was blocked.

Gutekunst Scores Touchdown for 'Berg

Number 12 is Milt Bloom; number 10, Grant Brown; number 89, Langford, Diplomat back who scored two touchdowns, and number 9 is Johnny Young, Muhlenberg tackle. Gutekunst is submerged in the goal line pile-up and cannot be seen. Basketball Practice Will Start Here Next Monday

With the 1935 football card just a little more than half completed the college athletic authorities are turning their thoughts to the coming basketball season with the announcement of practice to start next Monday afternoon.

These preliminary work-outs are being scheduled only for those men who are not engaged with grid practice and will include at least four of last year's squad. Last season's varsity five was composed of seniors who played most of the games, but included on the reserve team were Joe Santapauli, Dean Zweier, Francis Knouss, and Gene Grossman. None of these are football men and are expected to report for the early practice.

Profit Of $805.36 From 5 Grid Games

Profit Realized on 3 Tilts While Others Result in Deficit

A net profit of $805.36 was gained from Muhlenberg's first five football games of this season according to the financial statement issued recently by Registrar Benfer, treasurer of the college athletic committee. Two of the games resulted in deficits while the others brought in profits.

Guarantees paid to Baltimore university and Lebanon Valley which played on the local field amounted to $550 and $600 respectively. At Lafayette 'Berg received 50 per cent of the net gate receipts which amounted to $201.73 while at Ursinus a guarantee of $800 was paid the local school. Gettysburg paid the conference guarantee of $750. The statements of receipts and expenses are as follows:

William Hay Wins Frosh Tournament

Former Carson Long Athlete Downs Walters in Net Finals

William Hay, former Stroudsburg High and Carson Long Academy athlete, is winner of the college freshman tennis tournament conducted here this fall by Donald Redden.

Hay and Henry Walters, of New York city, met in the finals on Monday, October 28, with the final scores being 6 - 1, 6 - 1. The outcome of the match was never in doubt as Hay pulled away from his rival at the outset of the fray and remained ahead for the rest of the play.

Twenty-one frosh were entered in the tournament this season which is held annually to stimulate interest in the game and to uncover material for the varsity squad in the next three years.

The freshman net schedule has not yet been released, but Manager Redden states it will be every bit as tough as last year's card when the team won six, lost four, and tied one.

Biochemist Hector Mortimer told the American Neurological Association recently that our skulls got denser as we grow older. And the condition is ten times more common in women than in men!

BIRNEY CRUM NAMED BOYS HAVEN TRUSTEE

J. Birney Crum, graduate in the class of '23 and now coach of athletics at Allentown High school, has been elected to the board of trustees of the city's Boys Haven at a recent joint session of the house and senate of the institution.

CARDINAL CRUSADERS TO MEET LEHIGH TEAM

For the second consecutive week members of the freshmen class have strolled about the campus with printed placards upon their backs and around their necks urging the Mules to get back their "old-time kick" and put 'Berg in the win column again. Every frosh turned out for the F. and M. fray with the signs which evidently had their effect upon the players and students who in turn put up a real scrap both on the field and from the stands.

Dr. Fischer Gives Lecture In Chapel

Mt. Airy Professor Presents Second Rehrig Talk to Students

"What Is Christian Character?" was the subject of the second Rehrig lecture delivered by the Rev. Dr. Emil E. Fischer, professor at the Mt. Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, last Wednesday morning in the Egner-Hartzell memorial chapel.

The speaker said that today Christian life is set against a background of communism and social order. To find the characteristics of the Christian life, we must turn to the life of Jesus Christ.

One of these characteristics is a life of good-will—a life without distinction of race, color, or creed. The weakness in Christianity today is the lack of a strong good-will.

A second characteristic of Christian life is its inwardness; it works from within rather than from without. Many good speeches today are those relative to social justice, but these are of no Christian value if the speaker is not behind his words. This inwardness is the chief characteristic of Christian character.

The Christian life is also a life of freedom, because it acts in accordance to the will of God. Freedom in life is accomplished by communion with God. With such a life, concluded Dr. Fischer, Christianity will meet all its rivals.

DR. FRITSCH SPEAKS ON CONVOCATION PROGRAM

The Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of religion and Greek, was guest speaker last Wednesday at the convocation program at Moravian Seminary and College for Women in Bethlehem. Offer Special Rates For Winter Concerts Offering special season rates of $2.50 to students, the Allentown Community Concert association has listed for one of its performances the Joos Ballet, winner of the 1932 International prize in Paris. Although three concerts are guaranteed each season, not less than four have been held for the past seven years.

With the exception of the ballet-drama presentation of "Ballet of the Green Table," the program for the season has not been arranged, but the remaining concerts to be held at the Lyric theatre in Allentown will be of a musical nature. Along with these performances, the holder of a season ticket of the Allentown organization is entitled to attend any number of community concerts in Easton, Lancaster, and York. Through these other city organizations, a person has an opportunity to attend as many as eight concerts.

Arrangements for a subscription should be made with Dr. Harold K. Marks.

REELECT DR. CORBIERE HEAD OF FRENCH CLUB

Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, head of the romance language department of the college, was reelected president of the Lehigh Valley chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French for his seventh consecutive term at the fall meeting of the organization held recently at the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity house.

Members of the chapter, almost all of whom were in attendance, were the guests of the romance language faculty of the college. Mrs. Corbiere and Augusta Seaman, sister of Prof. Walter Seaman, prepared and served the refreshments enjoyed at the conclusion of the program.

STUDENTS BAG GAME AS FALL SEASON OPENS

Two Muhlenberg students and a party of six others, after a steady hunt along the northern boundaries of the Allentown city limits, accounted for fourteen pheasants and four rabbits last Friday when hunting season officially opened. Those in the party were Clarence Holland, senior; Richard Dawe, freshman; four brothers of Holland: Arthur, Charles, Richard and Herman, and Will Gower and Reed Hart. Dale Posey, junior, bagged a bunny in his hunt just north of the city limits Friday morning.

PRES. CARL HAMBRO WITH OXFORD GROUP

President Hambro was introduced to the large gathering by the Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas, president of the college who also closed the service with a prayer and the benediction. The chapel choir sang Mozart's "Gloria" from the Twelfth Mass.

At noon more than 200 students, faculty members, and followers of the Oxford movement gathered at the Hotel Traylor, Fifteenth and Hamilton streets, to be the guest of Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the Oxford group, and who was instrumental in having Mr. Hambro come to this country. Dr. Buchman is a Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1899.

After-dinner speakers here included Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean-emeritus of the college; President Haas; H. Alexander Smith, professor of international law and formerly executive secretary at Princeton university, and President Hambro. All were introduced by Dr. Buchman.

Monday afternoon the party was shown in St. John's Lutheran chapel, South Fifth street, the celebrated pictures from Metrotone news reels of Oxford house-party demonstrations last July. This film was released in Great Britain on August 4, commemorating in a national call to peace the twenty-first anniversary of England's entry into the World War. It appeared in motion picture theaters throughout the United States and Canada in September reaching an estimated public of fifteen millions.

In the evening another dinner was held at the Hotel Traylor followed by an Oxford group meeting in the ballroom.

Expansion of the University of Michigan graduate school is being made possible through the recent gift of $5,000,000 from the trustees of the Horace H. and Mary A. Rackham fund.

Alumni Will Gather In New York City For Fordham Grid Battle

Cardinal-Gray To Play Rams at Polo Grounds Saturday

Banquet, Dancing at Hotel Lincoln, Headquarters for Week-End

EXCURSION BUSES WILL CARRY GROUP TO CITY

Muhlenberg's growing family of students, alumni, and administration members will join for their biggest reunion in recent years at New York City this coming week-end when the Cardinal and Gray football team is scheduled to play Fordham's eleven at the Polo Grounds.

For nearly two months college alumni of the North Jersey and New York districts have been looking forward and planning for this event. Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, alumni secretary, has spent a great amount of time planning the reunion and for the bus excursion which will carry students and alumni from this section to the metropolis on Saturday.

Headquarters for the alumni groups will be at the Hotel Lincoln, corner of Eighth avenue and Forty-fourth street. Following the game Saturday afternoon the Muhlenberg team, band members, alumni, their wives and friends will dine at the hotel, the banquet scheduled to start at 7 o'clock. One hundred and fifty covers have been reserved for the party to be held in the private dining hall on the third floor of the Lincoln.

Muhlenberg's section at the Polo Grounds will be on the north side of the field along the third base line, first tier. General admission grandstand tickets may be purchased at the Registrar's office or at the gate the day of the game for $1.10.

Alumni members planning to attend the reunion are asked to register at the hotel as soon as possible after their arrival in the city. Prof. Fasig, Registrar Benfer, and Paul Weston '24, will be at the hotel to greet all comers.

To Live Christian Life Is Possible

Rehrig Speaker Says Christ's Examples Can Be Followed

"If the practicability of Christian life means putting it into practice immediately, then Christian life is impracticable, because its ideal is an absolute ideal of goodness which calls for a divine and therefore perfect life," declared the Rev. Dr. Emil E. Fischer, professor at the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, in speaking on the subject, "Is Christian Life Practicable?" last Wednesday morning in the Egner-Hartzell memorial chapel.

"There are some who say that Christian life is not practicable at all. This group includes politicians and business men whose selfishness is cut down by the requirements of Christian life. There are also sincere Christians who will declare its impracticability. These are the ones who accept everything, but when it comes to the requirements as portrayed in the Sermon on the Mount, they say that to live a real Christian life is impossible. There is still a third group—the young, serious-minded Christian men who say that Jesus' way of life should be fulfilled realistically. They will say that if business does not act in harmony with these principles, then revamp business. If they were required to go to war they would reply in the negative because the great requirement of Christian life is good-will to all, in all time and in all places."

Butland Speaks As Students Join In Armistice Service

Veteran Tells of Horrors Encountered in World War Conflict

FACULTY MEMBERS TAKE PART IN MON. PROGRAM

Muhlenberg's students left their class room work last Monday morning at 11 o'clock to join with the Nation in honoring the World War veterans in a special Armistice program held in the Science Hall auditorium.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Sergeant Ralph A. Butland, Chef de Gare of Voiture 920 of the Forty and Eight of the American Legion in Lehigh county. He was introduced by Dr. Carl W. In the St. Mihiel drive, there was a greater concentration of artillery than any time during the war. After six continuous hours of firing, by the Allied forces, the Hindenberg line was broken. The Germans retreated, leaving 18,000 prisoners behind.

Sergeant Butland was stationed at Verdun on November 11. He described the fierce firing of guns until 11 o'clock. Gradually the roar died down. Finally there was

ROBERT C. HORN,
Dean.

PASSES 75th MILESTONE

DR. GEORGE T. ETTINGER

Dr. George Taylor Ettinger, dean emeritus of the college, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary last Friday. No elaborate ceremonies marked the event, however, as the former dean reported for his regular class work. Among the faculty members who extended their congratulations were several who as students had listened to him teach a few years ago.

Dr. Ettinger has been associated with the college since, as a boy of twelve, he entered the academic department of the school at Fourth and Walnut streets. Graduating from the preparatory school in 1876 he entered the college from which he was graduated in 1880 to become a teacher in the preparatory school. In 1884 he became associate principal of the school with E. S. Dieter, in 1892 was elected professor of pedagogy and assistant professor of Latin at Muhlenberg, later became professor of Latin, in 1904 was elected dean of the college, in 1917 relinquished his work as professor of pedagogy but continued as professor of Latin, in the chair he holds today.

Dr. Ettinger resigned as dean in 1931 and was succeeded by Dr. Robert C. Horn. Upon his resignation he was elected Dean Emeritus. He was granted the degree of Doctor of Philosophy by New York University in 1891 and in 1920 was honored by Muhlenberg with the degree of Doctor of Letters.

The dean has no special plans for the future—nothing more than "to mind my own business and continue as a teacher as long as I am able."

Dual Debate With Lafayette To Open Forensic Schedule

Teams Will Argue Congressional Control of Intra-State Commerce

AFFIRMATIVE SPEAKERS JOURNEY TO EASTON

Muhlenberg's debating team will officially open its season on Thursday evening, November 21, in a dual debate with Lafayette college of Easton. The question to be argued is: "Resolved, that the Constitution Should Be Amended so that Congress May Control Intra-State Commerce."

The local affirmative team will debate at Lafayette while the Easton college will send its affirmative team here. Berg's affirmative speakers will be John P. Stump, Herman L. Heim, and Alvin H. Butz. The negative speakers remaining at home are Donald Schlicher, Alfred D. Wert or Saul Keller, and Israel Yost.

No decision will be given since the meeting is primarily to give new candidates practice for the forthcoming season, Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, coach, has announced.

A debate with Ursinus college on the same question has been scheduled for the evening of February 13, 1936. For this argument the affirmative team will remain at home while the negative speakers will journey to Collegeville.

Prospects are bright for a successful forensic season here this year since only two members of the squad were graduated with the senior class last spring. Among the schools that are likely to appear on the schedule this term will be Lehigh, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg and Susquehanna in addition to those mentioned above. Several colleges and universities outside the state of Pennsylvania are also being contacted for possible meets.

Aiding Prof. Everitt in his work this year are Richard G. Miller '36, varsity manager, and Charles F. Diehl '35, assistant manager.

Freshman Class High In Scholastic Rating

Muhlenberg's freshmen this year attained the highest scholastic average ever achieved by a first-year class here according to figures recently announced by Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, head of the Department of Education. The standing is based on entrance tests given this fall to 20,491 freshmen in 97 colleges.

The average of the local group is higher than that for the other schools reporting. Thirty-five freshmen here registered 75-100; thirty-three, 50-74; twenty-six, 25-49; thirty, 0-24. Thus sixty-eight, or more than half the class enrollment, are above the average rate made by other frosh. Fifty-six of the local students are below this mark.

The figures listed above were derived from the scores made in the psychology exams given the entering class during freshman week in September.

CHAPEL ATTENDANCE AGAIN

A discussion or argument on the question of chapel attendance is nothing new to the students and administration of Muhlenberg.

Some have howled loud and long for the abolition of compulsory attendance altogether; others have requested more leniency in the requirements. The present writing is not concerned with either of these arguments.

The real purpose now is to ask for a return to the system used in past years. At the start of this term a new system was put into effect whereby seniors and juniors would attend chapel on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday while sophomores and freshmen were required to go on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday.

This system we understand was to be tried as an experiment to create better habits of attendance on the part of the students. So far it has not remedied the situation and has caused no little trouble for some who find it impossible to attend on their required days. Not being able to receive credit for the days they are not supposed to attend, the students are now unable to make up any cuts, a privilege they did have heretofore.

Certain members of all four classes enjoy the organ and choir concerts, others the speakers, while still others come especially for the song services. These persons are not given credit for attending their particular program if held on a day they are not required to attend chapel. A plan has been tried whereby the various programs are presented twice a week, but this repetition is absolutely useless when it would be possible to return to the old system.

Again we are reminded that the system is only an experiment and we must always be ready for new ideas, but the present set-up has proved to be a great inconvenience to the students whose interest should be primary in this problem. We make an urgent request that a return to the old system be made immediately. Eight weeks have proven the present system decidedly unsatisfactory.

SUNDAY MOVIES BANNED

The Sunday movie battle has been fought and won or lost depending upon the individual's point of view. But the vote was clean and decisive with voters balloting according to their individual consciences.

The church people deserved the victory if only for the vigor of their campaign. The election eve telephone canvass in some cities and the rally held locally in the Allentown High school were master strokes carried out by leaders who are awake to the fight the church must wage against encroachments upon the Sabbath.

Among those cities who joined Allentown in voting down the issue were Harrisburg, Lebanon, Lancaster, Altoona, Bethlehem, Carlisle, Gettysburg, Lewistown, and Pottsville. Only in the real large municipalities have the movie doors been thrown open for the public on Sunday.

Sunday sermon pleas plus election day's open churches in many cities called attention of a large number to a religious duty. Many non-church goers are quite as highly pleased with the verdict as the church goers. Despite the let-down in Sunday observance many people who think nothing of a Sunday drive or baseball game or other outdoor relaxation cannot bring their consciences around to the point where they condone commercialization of the Sabbath.

Remember the Sabbath to keep it Holy continues to carry scriptural meaning to many residents of Pennsylvania as evidenced in the past balloting and though they may be called old fashioned, behind the times, sticks in the mud, they do not feel the slightest resentment. On the contrary they are to be admired for the courage of their convictions.

THE ALUMNI HAVE THEIR CHANCE

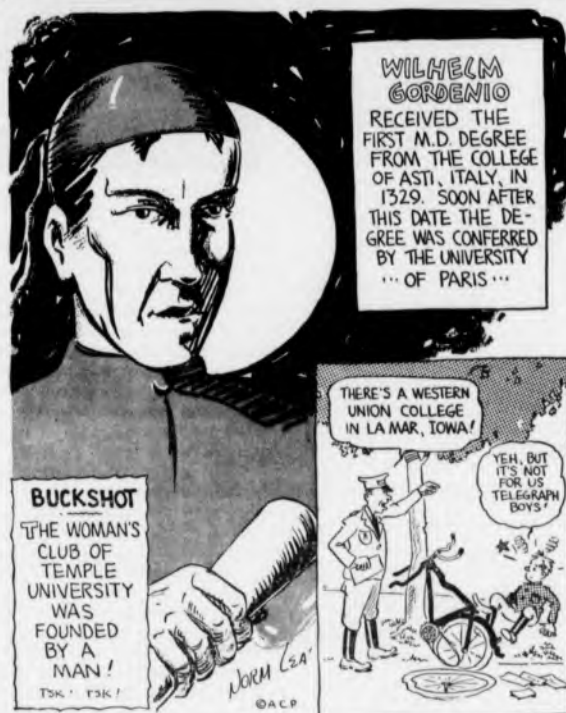

This issue of The Weekly carries a letter written by Walter L. Reisner '15, of Philadelphia, who has been appointed temporary chairman of the new Alumni Athletic Advisory Committee. Followers of the college's athletic program will eagerly await the outcome of the committee's first meeting called for this coming Sunday.

The task of straightening out the college athletic problems is not a small one and the group called to do this work realizes the careful consideration that must be given the subject before them. The Board of Trustees and the alumni organization itself have failed somewhat in enacting any constructive measures for the betterment of sports here. The college Athletic Board of Control has also been unable to solve the problems which seem so evident and yet so far from a solution.

A great many evils exist within the athletic system which have not been made public and which are capable of being solved in conference if only someone or some group of persons is willing to take the initiative and responsibility to unhesitatingly differentiate between good and bad athletic policies.

It is hoped that the new committee members will meet, as their chairman says, with no chips on their shoulders and definitely bring about the long-awaited athletic reforms so needed here during the past several years.

CAMPUS CAMERA

THERE WAS A REASON

The article printed below appeared in a recent issue of the Albright college paper and is reprinted here with an explanation which is hoped will set straight our Reading neighbors on the matter so vague to them.

"The cancellation of next year's football game by Muhlenberg is another serious blow to our hopes of ever getting into the Conference. The Allentown authorities gave no reason for the severance of relations, but our winning football team may have been the direct cause. Even so, another defeat to this year's oft-beaten Mule eleven should not be cause enough to break off relations. Perhaps this is merely a long-awaited excuse. Who knows? Having some firsthand dope on the attitude of other athletic teams, one minor sport organization in particular at the Allentown school, this cancellation does not surprise us too much. We still contend, however, that it is a shame for any group of well educated, responsible adults to be so narrow-minded as to break off friendly relations for purely selfish reasons. After hearing examples of this sort, we begin to wonder if all this trash about the de-emphasis of football is not a step in the right direction after all."

Certainly no college would simply sever athletic relations with another school and fail to give a good reason for such action. The Muhlenberg athletic authorities have given their reason to the Albright school and have asked that they be printed here so students and alumni may have a clear understanding of the case at hand.

This year the football team is playing a 10-game schedule which local authorities believe too big an undertaking for as small a squad as Coach Utz has to work with this fall. In an effort to cut one game from the 1936 schedule it was necessary to drop one team originally carded. Drexel will come into the Conference next year which means the Mules will have five league games to play; two more with Lehigh and Lafayette in addition to the Army and Penn State tilts fill out next year's card. If it were defeats we were trying to avoid there would be little sense in dropping Albright and scheduling Army and Penn State.

The fact that Albright is having a somewhat fortunate year from the standpoint of winning games had nothing to do with the cancellation of next fall's meeting, since the letter notifying the Reading school of the schedule change was written before the 1935 season had opened. Incidentally two other conference teams have dropped the Berks county school from their schedules for next year.

The writer of the article in the Albright paper says no reason was given for the cancellation. Surely one who calls himself a sports commentator would not write without knowing the facts as was the case here. And by the way, he picked Albright to upset Moravian "by at least four touchdowns and that the goal line will still be uncrossed." Albright did win from Moravian, 12 to 6.

M. C. A. Will Sponsor Illustrated Lecture

The educational committee of the Muhlenberg Christian Association will sponsor an illustrated lecture portraying the Cathedral of St. John the Divine of New York City, in the Science Hall auditorium next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. All students and friends are invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

NATION NEEDS TO PRAY

"President Roosevelt should be asked by the clergy of the nation to set aside a day of prayer and meditation, in order that we might be led away from a material consideration of the problems confronting us, to a greater realization of the spiritual elements involved." So declared Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette college, in addressing a meeting of the Ministerial Union of Philadelphia.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor
Muhlenberg Weekly
Muhlenberg College
Allentown, Pa.
Dear Mr. Editor:

As temporary chairman of the Alumni Athletic Advisory Committee recently appointed by the Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College, I am happy to announce that this new committee will hold its first meeting in the very near future.

I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of all our Alumni in expressing my appreciation of the cordial and prompt response given the Alumni Association's resolution requesting the appointment of this new Advisory Committee, by the Board of Trustees.

This appreciation is definitely reflected in the response I have received from individual members of this committee. The fact that these men, widely scattered geographically, answered the call immediately and will travel from distant places, at their own expense, to go into session, indicates the finest type of loyalty to their Alma Mater, and will serve as an inspiration to hundreds of others, eager to rally to Muhlenberg's cause.

College athletics furnish the most direct contact the college has with its Alumni and friends. Particularly is this true during the football season when men scattered to the far parts of the compass eagerly search the papers for news of their college team.

Alumni ties are strengthened and the old college spirit kept alive when the college maintains an aggressive leadership in the class in which it participates.

We are hopeful that this new committee can be helpful in the direction of a sane and wholesomely planned policy of athletics at Muhlenberg around which the student body, the alumni and friends can rally with whole hearted approval and support.

Yours for a GREATER MUHLENBERG in fact as well as fancy.

Sincerely,
WALTER L. REISNER, 1915
Temporary Chairman
Alumni Athletic Advisory Committee.

CAMPUS CHATTER

The following is from the Ciarla of 1934, here reprinted for the education of the modern men of Muhlenberg.

"Advice to the Inexperienced"

"People will kiss, but not one in a thousand knows how to extract the maximum of bliss from ruby lips, and yet the art is simple. Follow these directions for best results:

First, know the one with whom you are clinching. Don't make a mistake, although it may be a good one. Don't jump like a cat at a mouse and smack the dainty thing on the ear or the nose. She won't appreciate it and neither will you. Do not be in a hurry!

The gentleman should be a little taller, although it is not absolutely necessary. He should have a clean face and kindly eyes and youthful expression.

Don't be anxious to kiss in a crowd; there are plenty of dark corners. Do not be in a hurry!

Take the left hand of the female in your right. Throw your left arm over the lady's shoulders, slip it around to her left side and below her arm. Do not be in a hurry!

While her left hand is in your right let there be a faint pressure on that, not like the grip of a vise, but a gentle grasp full of thought, respect, and electricity. Her head is slightly on your shoulder. You are heart to heart. Look down into her half closed eyes; firmly press her to your heart. Do not be in a hurry!

Her lips are almost open. Take careful aim, the lips meet, the eyes close, the heart opens, and the soul rides through the tempest. Do not be in a hurry.

Heaven opens about you. Earth flies from under your feet. You are like a buzzing rocket across the evening sky. Don't be afraid, no noise, no fuss, no bother, no fluttering, no squirming should be your motto. You are twanging the golden chords of ecstasy. Do not be in a hurry!

WOODMAN, SPARE THAT POE-TREE

You are a very grand dame.
Words to describe you are tame.
You have an angelic face
Which always has me in a daze.
What wonders carved that nose?
Or those half-score ruddy toes?
Your ears resemble a coral shell
Days without sight of you are a living hell
Your hair is of home-spun gold
Which has me over completely bowled.
The excellence of your trim figure
Makes me drunk as if I drank ligure.
As the heroine of a movie you are starred
In the picture I carry ever in my heard(t)
The sound of your dainty step
Fills me perpetually with pep
How I'd like to hold you in my lap
In my dreams I take you to a dance
Making jealous all the other mans.
Then I take you to a theater
Happier than ever was St. Peater
O my tender buoyant turtle-dove
Let me instruct you in the art of love.
In matrimony united we'll never miss
The comforts of idyllic bliss.
Later on we'll have a cozy home
Topped by a peachy ducky dome.
With garden, fountain, kitchen, and maybe
A rubby, chubby, bouncing jouncing baby.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

AN AMERICAN COLOSSUS

There are some few unfortunate—among whom I count myself—who favor a critical study of a story and its writer rather than the writer's story itself. For these I indite the following. Thus far I have commented on but the bare structure of Wolfe's books, their naked plots in briefest outline. Now I shall examine their salient features, their characteristics, their style—the flesh and blood encompassing the meager skeleton, and finally, most important of all, their author.

First, in such an appreciation of Wolfe, we must understand that he is a word juggler, a word trapezist, a word tamer; in the aggregate his pages form a verbal circus. And occasionally Wolfe is even a word Sadist; he beats these dear friends till they fairly dance in a fine frenzy of frothy-like pain. Indeed, at times, to penetrate Wolfe's work, we must force our way through dense, deeply colored jungles, hewing a path out of lush undergrowth. His pages are palatial many-passengered steamers rapidly crossing illimitable oceans; lumbering trucks freighted with the traffic of the states, thundering to unknown destinations; thirty-two cylinder cars racing over endless white ribbons of road, stopped only by a telegraph pole or another car; brightly shining fire engines speeding to myriad fires, their sirens ever shrieking, rending the viscera with uncertainty; six motor transport planes piercing varied clouds, restraining time, taunting death. In these selfsame leaves we feel the 'static' of the radio, the rumble of the electric drill, the pounding of the steam roller, the thud of gangsters' machine gun bullets in the victim's flesh, buffeting, tearing, lacerating.

He erects lofty word skyscrapers—often fantastic affairs—now aslant in Pisa-like manner, now futuristically serrated, disappearing into virginal clouds and highly rarefied air; or he makes of these words a bathospheric train, sending them down far into the depths of unique seas until they are beaten into nothingness by mighty confounding waves; or, by a converse process, he coins his words from pyrotechnics: sky-rockets bursting into brilliant flare of nacreous, interwoven color; giant firecrackers detonating with a bewildering din; Roman candles vomiting fiery sparks.

True, at first Wolfe may seem bombastic; his style with its serried adjectives may appear verbose and extravagant. But wholly he differs from the customary word monger in that his repetition, his adjective upon adjective, "this disposition—to crowd the palette, to stretch our language to its fullest expressiveness", is not affected or forced but natural with him. Dare we condemn a man for being himself? Shall a man pervert and belittle himself to be consonant with the mediocre? Shall he open his rich red arteries to be anaemic with the rest?

ETA SIGMA PHI WILL MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

New members will be initiated into Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in the seminar room of the library.

At the meeting, George Machajdik, chairman of the program committee, will present an outline of the programs for the next three meetings of the fraternity. The theme of these programs will be, "The Greek Genius and its Meaning To Us."

EDUCATION HELD VAIN IN COMBATING CRIME

"Our present system of education is of practically no value in combating crime," declared Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, recently.

He said, "The little red school house was almost an ideal education instrumentality, when compared with the modern schools of today."

Dr. Butler went on to say that most of the serious crimes of today were committed by men and women in our schools, and many of them students in colleges as well.

MULES DROP ANOTHER TO LEHIGH, 26-6

Three Touchdowns In Third Quarter Smother Crusaders

Erdosy Takes Lateral Pass to Score in Fourth Period

UTZ TEAM HANDICAPPED BY NUMEROUS INJURIES

A badly crippled Muhlenberg football team fought gallantly throughout the first half of its game with Lehigh's eleven at Bethlehem last Saturday, but at the start of the third period the Mules could not stand up under the pressure and the Engineers crossed the goal line three times to finally win out by the score of 26 to 6.

Before the game was many minutes old Lloyd Zimmerman was clipped from the rear and left the game with a twisted knee. Toward the end of the second quarter Ed "Scrapper" Farrell was taken from the fray with a slight injury, but before he could return to the field the Brown and White had tallied three touchdowns. Numerous other injuries caused Coach Utz no end of worry as substitutions had to be made constantly.

The winners outscored the Cardinal and Gray in the matter of first downs, 17 to 9, and gained 380 yards in rushing to the Mules 105. Lehigh was penalized three times for a total distance of 45 yards while Utz's squad was given two penalties amounting to 6 yards.

Scoreless First Period

Early in the first period Muhlenberg had Lehigh deep in its own territory when after a long Farrell punt, the Engineers were penalized fifteen yards for holding and Heller was forced to return the kick from his own 9-yard line.

Toward the close of the period, Muhlenberg was defending with Lehigh making its first serious bid for a touchdown. This came when Hoppeck broke through to block Farrell's punt on fourth down. The "Scrapper", who was playing a bang-up game for the Crusaders, recovered the ball, but it went to Lehigh on downs on the Mules' 42. Muhlenberg threatened to hold when on three rushes the Engineers clicked for only 6 yards, but on the punt Muhlenberg was off-side and Lehigh profited to the extent of a first down.

The Crusaders were caught flat-footed when on an end around play, Walton, Lehigh's left wingman, went to the 18 and two plays later a pass, Berg to Peet, was good for a first down on the Mules 7-yard stripe. Blackton hit the line for two yards and then Bayer, on guard around, went to within 3 yards of touchdown territory. However, the Mules held and took the ball on downs.

Lehigh Gets Going Again

The touchdown was not long delayed for immediately after Farrell kicked from behind his own goal line, the Engineers launched another offensive, this time not to be denied.

Coach Harneson rearranged his backfield, shifting Bayer from guard to right half and injected Pazzetti and Peet into the backfield. From the 26-yard line Pennauchi, a substitute back, and Pazzetti crashed through for a first down on the 16. On the next play, Bayer went off tackle to the 2-yard line. Muhlenberg was penalized one yard for offside and then Pennauchi hit off centre to carry it across. Scobey's attempt for the extra point failed.

Lehigh put on its big push in the third period when the game was clinched and victory assured.

Immediately after the kickoff starting the second half, and with Lehigh in possession on its own 38-yard line, Harry Milbank, sophomore ball totter, electrified the crowd when on a reverse he dashed 30 yards to Muhlenberg's 31. On the next play Lehigh converted when the visitors were caught napping on an end around end with Walton going 31 yards for the touchdown.

The crowd had scarcely settled in its seats before Lehigh adherents were given another chance to cheer. This time, after Heller ran a punt back to Muhlenberg's 34-yard line, Chet Bennett, plunging fullback, substituted for Pennauchi, cracked through the centre of the line and although several times was knocked off his balance, shook himself loose to go the distance to the goal line.

These Rams Will Meet The Mules

For the third touchdown it required exactly two plays. Milbank went and slid off tackle for 32 yards and then around end again caught the defenders unaware and for the second time Walton scampered for 30 yards and a score. Captain Scobey converted two extra points by place-kicks. With this touchdown Lehigh was done and Muhlenberg collected its only score in the last 15 minutes of play.

The single Mule touchdown was registered on a long march, after "Scrapper" Farrell had returned to the Cardinal and Gray backfield. It was the direct result of a well executed forward-lateral pass, Farrell tossing to Tommy Thomas, who turned and whipped the ball into the arms of Al Erdosy, who crossed the final white line with the score.

Dickinson, F. and M. Lead Conference Race

One of the biggest football upsets of the present season saw Dickinson's up and coming eleven completely rout Gettysburg on Biddle Field at Carlisle last Saturday by a 32 to 12 score and virtually eliminate the Bullets from a chance at the Conference title.

While the Red Devils were pulling this surprise Franklin and Marshall's powerful machine smothered Ursinus under a 59 to 0 score in a game played at Lancaster. It was the winners' first victory over the Bears in the past six years.

As a result of these two games F. and M. along with Dickinson remain undefeated while Ursinus and Gettysburg each have won one game while dropping one. The final league game for the Mules will be played on the local gridiron with Dickinson on November 23. Conference standing:

Ninety-three persons were present at Eta's chapter house last Friday evening for the covered-dish supper held by Phi Eta, the mothers' sorority. At a business meeting of the mothers plans were made for the annual Christmas party and founders' day celebration to be held at the house on Friday evening, December 13.

A number of the chapter members are planning to spend the coming week-end in New York City at the home of Frederick Gregorius '37. While in New York they will attend the Muhlenberg-Fordham grid game at the Polo Grounds.

The chapter announces the pledging of Allen Boyle, Allentown, on Wednesday, November 6.

The Mothers' Club held a tea for mothers of the new pledges on Saturday, November 2.

A pool tournament has been started to determine the champion of the home. It will be completed before the Thanksgiving recess.

Theta Kappa Nu

Seventy-five members and guests attended the sauer kraut supper given by the Mothers' Club last Wednesday evening.

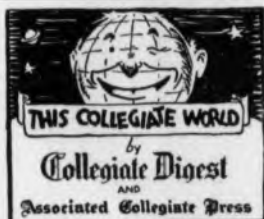

A large delegation of members and alumni attended the annual Lehigh game on Saturday. In the evening the Chapter sponsored a victory dance and the music was supplied by Arsel Repp's orchestra of Lehigh.

Plans are being made for the annual Christmas formal.

Alpha Tau Omega

A few of the members attended the banquet given by fraternity brother Frank N. D. Buchman, class of 1899, in honor of Carl J. Hambro at Hotel Traylor on Monday, November 4.

Godfrey Muth's orchestra supplied the music for the annual Lehigh victory dance held at the chapter house last Saturday. A large number of alumni were present.

"This world is suffering today from uncoordinated thought. Never was there more brilliant thinking and never was brilliant thinking more productive of accomplishment, but the thinking and accomplishment of one group are entirely detached from the thinking and accomplishment of another." Thus saith the president of Dartmouth college, Dr. Hopkins.

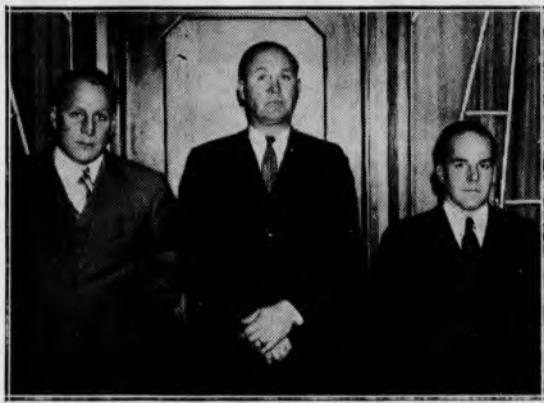

Now that we have you thinking upon this sad situation, let us transfer the scene to Harvard university and demonstrate to you that truer words were never spoken by a college president. We will show you the swiftest piece of unconnected thinking that ever moved cogs within a university.

Not so long ago, the Rockefeller Foundation began sending literature out to the many halls of learning here and there, hinting about establishing campus departments devoted to the training of public servants—which is the newest wrinkle in the handling of political economy work. The politics department at Harvard thought that would be swell; they would like to have such a project. So did the business school. So did several other branches of the great university.

Result: The amazed gentlemen at the Foundation received eight letters from eight department heads at Harvard, all asking for the project—and each department head unaware that his colleagues were doing the same thing!

We were telling you last week about the levels to which colleges have fallen in the procurement of students, especially good athletes. Comes this tale to light: In 1933 a state university in the south discovered and trained a brilliant halfback through his freshman year. In the fall of 1934 he did not return. An intensive search found him on the squad of a western school. A prominent political figure whose heart was with the

"Call" Pays Tribute

In Sunday's edition of the Allentown Morning Call appeared the following editorial written as a tribute to Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean emeritus, who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday last Friday.

DR. ETTINGER AT 75

"There are many compensations for a life well spent. When Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean emeritus of Muhlenberg college, reached his seventy-fifth birthday last Friday, he remarked that the greatest compensation for him after half a century of teaching was the fact that so many of the boys who were taught by him have come into their own and made good.

"A teacher's job is much like that of the farmer who sows and awaits the seasons and the ripening of the grain; for the teacher trains and plants ideas into the minds of the young people and often, after many years, sees the fruition of his work. This is their compensation.

"When one has served faithfully for so many years, as Dr. Ettinger has, it must be a real pleasure to see many of the men who have attained success were ones who sat at his feet as scholars. To have these men come back and tell one how much they appreciated the privilege of having been his pupil is a compensation that makes one rich indeed.

"After all, riches are not the result of the accumulation of gold and silver, but rather to live in the hearts of those among whom we mingle and whom we serve. The Morning Call, which is composed largely of his boys, desires to add its well wishes and hopes that their teacher may be able to continue his splendid service as long as he may choose."

southern team notified the boy that if he did not return, his father would lose his position with the state highway department.

A degrading spectacle? A perplexing problem for the boy? Take another chaw and listen closer: The whole darn family of the lad was transported en masse to the western university, where his father got an even better position in the highway department in that state.

To you natural-born wallflowers: Don't grieve and wince with envy as you watch a gifted pair of dancers glide by, floating effortless as peanut shucks in a mud puddle. They may be in love, but on the other hand—ah, watch:

A criminology class at Syracuse University (N. Y.) has discovered that morons can dance as well, if not better, than most people of normal mentality. They are gifted with an abnormally developed sense of rhythm, the students declare.

Not contenting itself with aiding undergraduate students in financial need, the federal government is now supplying millions to make it possible for postgrads to keep on their work for higher degrees.

Graduate students in their first years of study for advanced degrees may earn from 15 dollars a month up to 30 dollars. The quota for each school is 20 per cent of those awarded masters' degrees and 75 per cent of those awarded doctors' degrees in 1934-35.

Speaking of federal students, a study made at the University of Southern California shows that these students get, on the average, better grades than those who do not have to work their way. While the "college aptitude" rating of the former group was scarcely higher, their records after a few months in college went 'way up. Which leads one to the conclusion that they show more earnestness of purpose instead of more brain power.

BUTLAND SPEAKS AT ARMISTICE SERVICE

a silence—a tremendous silence.

When news of the Armistice came, there was mingled sorrow and joy—sorrow because of a buddy's dead face that came momentarily to view and then faded forever, and joy because the war was over.

Sergeant Butland's descriptions of the horrors of war were graphic. He mentioned the soldiers crawling on their stomachs, over dead bodies, masses of rotting flesh, amid the screaming of rockets and guns.

At the conclusion of the address those members of the faculty who are veterans of the War stood facing west in salute while taps were played. These members include the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, Dr. John V. Shankweiler, William H. Ritter, Dr. Robert Conklin, Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, Dr. Carl W. Boyer, Dr. Henry R. Mueller, and Dr. George H. Brandes.

Indication of returning stable business conditions is seen in the increasing amount of gifts to colleges and universities.

Final Rehrig Lecture Given This Morning

The fourth and concluding Rehrig Foundation lecture is to be presented this morning in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel by the Foundation speaker, the Rev. Dr. Emil E. Fischer, professor at the Mt. Airy Seminary in Philadelphia. The speaker's topic will be "Christian Ethical Leadership."

In the address the Rev. Mr. Fischer will speak of the challenge of the present need of leadership, the method and cost of leadership, and the expectation with respect to results.

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY POSTPONES MEETING

The regular meeting of the Pre-Medical society, originally announced to be held this evening, has been postponed to Wednesday evening, November 20. The session will be held in the Science Hall auditorium.

Charles Goldsmith has been elected vice-president of the society instead of Frederick Gregorius as announced in the last issue of this paper.

TO LIVE CHRISTIAN LIFE IS POSSIBLE

"If we were to judge Christianity by what it has accomplished socially and morally," continued the speaker, "then Christian life is a failure. But we should get away from pragmatism and think of the Christian life in terms of the communion of the soul with God. The ideal will probably never be attained, and in this case we can think of Christianity as a religion which is never to be exhausted. The Christian life is a way of living, and at the end of the way is God. In this way one practices the Christian life; one meets many obstacles, but his goal is to get to the end. The guide of a sincere Christian is Jesus Christ, and by walking with Christ, he will be taking the realistic way.

"What is required of us," concluded Dr. Fischer, "is to obtain victory of spiritual over the material wealth, and of the Spirit over the flesh."

Sittig Musicians Will Give Program Here December 4

Noted Trio Has Gained Wide Recognition for Renditions

STUDENTS WILL HEAR VIOLIN, CELLO NUMBERS

A musical treat is in store for Muhlenberg's students and faculty members during the first Wednesday assembly program following the Thanksgiving vacation when the Sittig trio will appear here for a concert on the morning of December 4. This musical group last made an appearance on the local campus in the fall of 1931 and at that time gave a highly entertaining program.

The family consists of the father, Frederick Sittig, a noted pianist who has had a remarkable career in concert work. Margaret, his daughter, was so talented that at the age of 8 years she performed an entire concerto from memory in Berlin. She was one of the pupils of Auer, the great violin teacher. Her career has been a series of successes having appeared with the Philadelphia Orchestra and having given recitals both in this country and in Europe. Edgar, the son, plays the cello and has been with the New York Symphony orchestra. The work of this group has been highly praised by leading musicians all over the country.

The program to be presented includes the following numbers:

1. Trio in C minor, opus 5, Arthur Foote.
2. Violin selections—Vocalise, Rachmaninoff; Gypsy Serenade, Valdez; Hungarian Dance, Brahms.
3. Cello—Air, Mattheson; Gavotte, Popper; Andante, Goltermann; Tarantelle, Squire.
4. Violin—Concerto in A major, opus 20, Saint-Saens.
5. Trio—March Miniature, Kreisler; Old Folks at Home, Foster; Danse Phantastique, Juon.

Fraternity Again Postpone Date For Honors Corbiere

Professor Re-elected Historian, Editor for Phi Sigma Iota

Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, professor of French, was re-elected to serve as national historian and editor of the journal of Phi Sigma Iota, national romance language fraternity, at the biennial convention of the society held last Friday and Saturday at Bloomington, Ill. He has already served three terms of two years as national historian and editor of the magazine and this year was elected for three years.

Dr. Corbiere was the official representative of Lambda chapter at the convention. He is president of the local society. The main business at the convention was the completion of a merger with Alpha Zeta Pi, a Romance Language honorary society with chapters situated west of the Mississippi where as most of the chapters of Phi Sigma Iota are east of the Mississippi.

The journal of Phi Sigma Iota is mailed from Allentown to about 1500 active members and alumni living in all the states of the union and in eight foreign countries. Dr. Corbiere's experience in the publication field dates back to the years 1914-17 when he was a student in the School of Journalism at the University of Washington, when he was on the staff of the University Daily, and did some writing for the Seattle newspapers and for the Chicago Lumberman.

In the field of languages, he was recently elected on the executive council of the Pennsylvania State Modern Language association, his term expiring in 1938; he has been president of the Lehigh Valley chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French for seven years; and he is serving his second term as vice president of the Easton branch of l'Alliance Francaise.

Coach Everitt Calls For Frosh Debaters

A call for freshman class members interested in debating has been issued by Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, coach. Prof. Everitt has announced a meeting for interested freshmen on Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock in his room on the third floor of the Administration building. At this time the question for intramural debating will be decided upon and organization plans discussed.

The debate with Lafayette to be held here last night was postponed by the Easton school due to a conflict in dates. In its place a practice debate was held between the affirmative and negative speakers of the local team. The Lafayette meet will be held on December 15.

The first college dance of the year, the Sophomore Hop, is scheduled to be held tonight at the Hotel Traylor. The affair will start at 9:30 o'clock.

Advance ticket sales for the social function give indications that a large number of students and alumni are planning to attend. Bud Rader and his orchestra have been engaged to furnish music for the evening with Vince De Bellis and Roy Minninger providing the vocal numbers.

Reservations for group tables may be secured by contacting Joseph Osman, chairman of the dance committee. The affair will be semi-formal.

Other members of the class helping to promote the dance are Bernard Wilker, Thomas Thomas, John Young, Frank Boyer, Edgar Ernst, Paul McGinley, Thomas Williams, Valentine Burkhauser, Richard Bausch, Bernard Krell, James Ware, and John Gander.

Joint Christmas Service With Cedar Crest on Dec. 11

Christmas festivities will begin on the campus December 11 when the student body will unite with Cedar Crest for the annual Christmas program to be held in the Egner Hartzell Memorial chapel.

The Omicron Delta Kappa "tapping" ceremony, originally scheduled for the morning of December 11, has been moved to one week later in order to have the joint service before the Crest students are dismissed for vacation on December 13.

The vested choirs of both colleges will take part in the service presenting Christmas music in the form of anthems and solos.

Mules Fall Before Fordham But Goal Posts Come Down

Had Muhlenberg's football team beaten Fordham's eleven last Saturday it would not have been surprising to see a section of bleachers from the Polo Grounds resting on the local campus the next day.

As it was the Rams rolled up a 45-0 score against the Cardinal and Gray and home came the vanquished with Fordham's goal posts. The ones bringing back the white strips explained they did so since the New Yorkers had scored less than 50 points against the Mules.

Two years ago a strong Muhlenberg team went to New York to play Fordham. Those were the days when the great Ed Danowski was running wild up and down the opponents' gridirons. The Mules came home that year with a 57-9 trouncing, feeling anything but jubilant over the defeat. Not so the 1935 delegation.

Last week-end a small and crippled squad journeyed to New York hoping to hold the powerful university team to a somewhat decent score. Forty-five points were evidently considered "better than decent" for when the final whistle blew Muhlenberg students and alumni charged across the field to tear down the uprights. A moral victory was claimed because Fordham was held to less than 50 points. Will wonders never cease?

ONE MORE VICTORY

If comparative scores mean anything it would seem that the Cardinal and Gray grid team is better than its season's record indicates.

Tomorrow Dickinson's eleven will trot upon the local gridiron determined to hand 'Berg another setback. But it's going to be your day, Mules. It's your turn to spring an upset and tomorrow afternoon is the time set for it.

Listen Mules—You scored on Lehigh; Dickinson didn't. You crossed the line against a powerful F. and M. squad while it was scoring but 32 points. You lost to Ursinus 21 - 0, while F. and M. smothered the Bears, 59 - 0. Look—Ursinus didn't score on the Lancaster eleven.

In the last few games you Mules have fought hard but the breaks have been tough. We don't like to alibi, but we must face the fact that you were a small squad riddled with injuries.

But tomorrow some of those injured players are going to be back in the line-up determined to move from the red column into the blue. Gutekunst, Laing, Farrell, Geschel, Poust and some of the other injured members will probably be able to go into that fray. We're not looking for miracles but that well-known "hunch" is haunting us.

LECTURE TONIGHT

Muhlenberg students are invited to attend a special meeting in the Allentown High school auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock when Fred B. Smith, chairman of the executive committee of the World Alliance for International Friendship, will give an address on "World Outlook, 1918-1935". No admission will be charged although a silver offering will be taken following the lecture. Tickets may be secured from the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman.

Sophs Default All Contests To Frosh

Freshmen May Now Use Outside Steps Leading to Ad Building

It seems that class fights between the freshman and sophomores have become taboo on Muhlenberg's campus.

This fall the Freshman Tribunal, under the direction of Harold Weiner, attempted to carry out three frosh-soph scraps as called for in the freshman handbook. After a delay in starting the contests and several postponements the announcement is made that the sophs have defaulted all three fights to the first year men.

A tug-of-war across Cedar creek, a push-ball contest, and a banner fight were all planned to determine the superiority of one group over the other. The first resulted in a free bath for Saul Keller, the only soph to report at the creek, while none of the second-year men risked their scalps to show up for the two remaining fights.

Because they have been declared

German Club Members Tell Life Histories

Short biographies of their lives were given in the German language by the nine newly-initiated members of Deutscher Verein at the bi-monthly meeting of the society on the evening of November 14. Among those who spoke were Alfred Ayres, Ray Bergenstock, Ralph Ebert, Charles Naugle, Lloyd Nelson, Donald Pichaske, Floyd Schlosser, William Leifeld, and William Fluck. Leifeld gave out the information that he "was born when quite young". Warren Schlegel, president of the Verein, also gave a brief sketch of his life.

Following the meeting members of the club motored to the Allentown-Bethlehem airport and climaxed the evening's entertainment with a ride in the Chamberlain plane which was visiting the city at that time.

Dr. Seifriz Speaks On Tropical Plants

Students Hear Noted Botanist During Wednesday Assembly

Dr. William Seifriz, eminent botanist and physiologist of the University of Pennsylvania, gave an illustrated lecture Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium on the subject, "Tropical Plant Life From Jamaica to Java." Opening his lecture with a few illustrations of the plant life in the United States, Dr. Seifriz described the Spanish moss of South Carolina, the palm of Florida, and the Washington palm of New Mexico and Arizona.

Of the various palms mentioned, the cocconut, royal date, ratan, and traveler's palm were included. The latter, however, is not, in reality, a palm, but it is a relative to the banana. It is called the traveler's palm because water, which thirsty travelers can drink, collects at the base of the plant.

Among the most interesting plants were the Jay fruit, which

Mule Eleven Will Play Albright On Thanksgiving Day

Cardinal and Gray in First Turkey Day Game Since 1929

FIVE SENIORS TO END COLLEGE GRID CAREER

There is no rest for the weary— not even on a holiday.

Tomorrow afternoon Coach Utz's gridders close their home season with Dickinson but a game with Albright remains to be played at Reading on Thanksgiving day.

The coaching staff and Mule squad fully realize the tough assignment they face in attempting to down the strong Lion gridmen in their first year under the tutelage of Coach Clarence Munn. Munn won All-American honors in 1930 when he played guard position for the University of Minnesota.

The game next Thursday will be the first Thanksgiving Day tilt for the Mules since 1929 when Western Maryland played on the local gridiron.

The Muhlenberg-Albright series dates back to 1902 although only fourteen games have been played between the schools in that span of time. The Mules have come out victorious ten times with four wins going to the Reading eleven.

A large number of Allentown and Berks county alumni are planning to attend the game on Thanksgiving day as well as a majority of the student body. The college band will also be present to play for the afternoon.

The Lions have one of the strongest teams in the school's history this year and a victory for the Mules would be somewhat of an upset. Georgetown, Lafayette, Ursinus, Moravian, and Lebanon Valley have fallen before the mighty Albright squad while only West Chester Teachers have been able to win by a 7 to 6 margin.

Five seniors will play in their last grid game for the Cardinal and Gray when the Mules line-up

College Choir To Sing At St. John's

Choristers Also Heard in Radio Broadcast Last Wednesday

The college choir will make its first appearance before an Allentown congregation on Sunday evening in St. John's Lutheran Church, South Fifth street. Pastor of the church is Rev. William Schaeffer.

Following the vesper service the choristers and their director, Dr. K. Marks, will be guests of the Mosser family at their home in Trexlertown, where refreshments and entertainment will be provided.

On Wednesday evening the musicians presented a half hour concert of sacred numbers over radio station WCBA-WSAN in this city. The program was given as the feature of the weekly American Legion broadcast in charge of Dr. Carl W. Boyer, professor of education. A short address was presented by President John A. W. Haas.

The program to be heard at St. John's Church, Sunday evening will be composed of the following numbers: "A Song of Joy", Gretchaninoff-McKinney; "Give Ear Unto My Prayer", Arcadelt; "Hosiodi Pomiloi", Lvovsky; "I Need Thee Every Hour", Gould; "When the Day of Toil Is Done", Nevins; "Psalm 150", Franck; Alma Mater, Kistler, arr. by Marks.

CHAPEL ATTENDANCE

Students finding it impossible to attend chapel on the days designated for their class group are asked to meet with Chaplain Cressman in his chapel office to arrange a more convenient schedule. The Chaplain has announced that the present system of attendance will be continued for the remainder of the first semester but special arrangements will be made for the men who cannot attend on the specific days assigned.

Red Devils Who Face Varsity Here Tomorrow

Dickinson's popular Coach, Art Kahler, will probably send this bunch of grid warriors on the field tomorrow afternoon to face the Mules in their annual conference battle. The determination of the Cardinal and Gray squad to win its first conference game since the fall of 1933 foretells a hard fight to be waged between the two elevens.

Taking The Profits Out of War

Hardly had the United States declared neutrality, before the merchants dealing in war goods began to complain. To meet the restrictions of our Government the exporters began arranging sale to Italy on the basis of cash on the spot—the buyer to arrange the transportation of the shipments. At the same time New York banking institutions restricted the flow of American credits, but Italy and Ethiopia will likely get into the back doors of some big banks and arrange for loans in a way that will permit payments for American goods without having the credits or the currency mixed up in overseas financing.

Already some of the metropolitan press are complaining that the American doctrine of the freedom of the seas for neutrals has been abandoned, and there is a growing clamor against the ultimatum that Americans cannot travel on Italian ships except at their own risk. That is because the profits out of war are small compared to what they ought to be.

While the new law placed an embargo on shipments of "arms, ammunition, and implements of war," we are reminded by that wise chairman of the War Industries Board, Bernard M. Baruch, that there is no such thing as non-war materials. He says that "fighting countries can do without war-gas and machine guns quicker than without wheat and other food and clothing," and in his solemn tones he adds that "if you really want to be neutral, you have to go all the way."

It is apparent to the best informed observers in the National Capital that there is bound to develop very speedily a great sentiment to fill European war orders—which are already of sufficient volume to be wanted by manufacturers and producers. "Why shouldn't we have the trade?" one hears. "Or, why not have the profits out of war?" That is likely to become a burning issue and one not easily disposed of.

But it is of recent history that the Allies bought and paid in advance for American products and shipped them in their own boats to Europe at the beginning of the great war. American shipping interests wanted their profits and got them. Americans "just had to" travel on foreign ships and the German submarines got them when they were crossing on the Lusitania.

Taking the profits out of war admittedly means a big loss of dollars and cents to business and financial interests in the United States. Under the act of Congress and the proclamations of the President we are starting in to take our losses, figuring that such a course will keep impetuous youths, and the war spirit subdued so that we will not enter the present and the "next war". If we have intestinal fortitude to stick by the present program we will not be drawn into this European mess. It looks easy right now, but the longer the Italian-Ethiopia war continues, even though it may not spread, the harder it will be to keep down the war fever. And that fact, even though obscure right now, must not be minimized if we are to keep out of war.

The Olympics

On a very close vote, a group of representatives who attended the convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association in Pittsburgh last week succeeded in passing a resolution condemning Germany's supposedly unsportsmanlike policies in regard to the Olympic games to be held in 1936 in that country. The resolution is based on the many varied reports on that nation's refusal to allow her Jewish athletes to participate.

It is clearly a case of personal feelings over against a broad and intelligent view of the situation. In the first place, the only authority for this contention that we have at present emanates from stories in our commercialized newspaper chains. These reports are neither detailed or authentic, and may often be pure propaganda. For a college man to use this source of information alone as a basis of condemning any policy is shameful.

Again, it is evident from all sides that our own house is not in order. Serious disputes and petty animosities concerning athletic policies and control constantly rage in inter-collegiate circles. Amazing stories of the grim business of developing winning gridiron teams, completely foreign to a healthy competitive spirit, are heard from time to time.

Certainly these mediums of student opinion have domestic troubles which can well tax all of their resources, instead of becoming a bar of justice for a foreign government's athletic policy which is of little concern to student thought in this country.

Be Thankful

In a few days the school will be deserted by students who are eager to reach home and see their parents. To some it is only another vacation, but to many it means one of the few times that they are able to return home during the school year.

Thanksgiving day was instituted by the Pilgrims in the New England states to show their appreciation for God's mercies. Since 1862 it has become a national holiday and is designated by presidential proclamation to be celebrated the last Thursday in November.

This should naturally be a day of rejoicing and giving thanks, and of showing our appreciation for the good that we are now enjoying. It is the day of the year set aside to look over the harvests that have been so plentiful, the periods of peace and prosperity that have been with us, and the events of the coming year. There are things for which all of us can be thankful, but we seem to miss the true spirit of the occasion. We must not forget the sacrifices that our parents are making for us, nor the good health we possess and the opportunity of an education that lies before us. Sorrows are too few and seldom to consider on this day which even outshines Christmas.

We are awed with the serenity of nature which is manifested at this time of the year. Since this is a time for celebration, and each one tries to do his best in making his neighbors glad, we hope that the students will not be lacking in the signaling of this day. We want them to partake of the fine meals that will be prepared for them including roast turkey, filling, pudding, pies and the side dishes. We hope that old acquaintances will be renewed with fresh vigor and happiness and finally we wish all to have such a vacation that will not be easily forgotten.

When the campus will again be filled with students at the close of the holidays, we want all to return feeling that they could not have had a better celebration, that they have made old friendships stronger, and satisfied their longings for home. Many times the expectation exceeds the realization of the event and makes it disappointing, but let this be the outstanding vacation of the year, one to be remembered always. We will be able to return with raised spirits, ready for work and eager for advancement.

Exhibit Shown For National Art Week

Works of six Philadelphia and two Allentown artists were hung on the walls of the college library last week in commemoration of National Art week from November 11 to 16. The exhibit was made possible through the courtesy of the Allentown Art museum which loaned the paintings to the college.

Gerald Seegers, of Allentown, pupil of Walter Emerson Baum, was one of the local exhibiting artists. The others were Margaret Lane, Ogontz, graduate of the Moore Institute and Philadelphia School of Design; Samuel Heller, M. Giovanni, Frank Copeland, John Dull and Edith Lampe. The exhibit included still life, water colors and portraits.

BETHLEHEM GIRL BRIDE OF WILLIAM FULMER

Attorney William C. Fulmer, Bethlehem, and Miss Elise C. Ammerman, were married November 2 at Elkton, Md.

Mrs. Fulmer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ammerman, Bethlehem. She is a graduate of Liberty High school with the class of 1928, and also West Chester State Teachers' college.

Mr. Fulmer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Edward Fulmer, is a graduate of Liberty High school with the class of 1927, of Muhlenberg college in 1931, and the University of Pennsylvania Law school in 1934. For the past year since passing his Pennsylvania bar examination, he has been associated with the office of John W. Diefenderfer and Dallett H. Wilson.

CAMPUS CHATTER

A horde of freshmen was being shown through the Bucknell library the other day, when a solicitous librarian noticed one bored youngster hovering around the edges of the throng.

She approached him and inquired, "Have you been around?" With a coy glance, the freshman replied, "Yes, I've been around. Have you?"

—"Campus" of Allegheny.

They tell one of a college professor who asked: "When they take co-education away from the colleges, what will follow, I repeat, what will follow?" And of course there was the loud masculine voice in the rear which replied, "I will."—(Villanovian).

A columnist of the Los Angeles Junior Collegian tells the one about the professor who was having much difficulty getting the attention of the class, which seemed very restless and disorderly. Finally, in exasperation, he shouted, "Order, please!" "Hot beef sandwich," came an absent-minded voice from the rear of the room.—(Collegiana).

Snappy Comebacks May Silence the Male Sex

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa.—A questionnaire skirmish recently embodied men and women on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

The Daily Pennsylvanian started it by asking the men whether they preferred pretty girls or smart ones, slinky or fluffy evening dresses, and other questions of importance in higher education.

The girls countered with a questionnaire for women students which began: "Do you like intelligent men or the typical college boy?"

You Who Makes The World Go Around

O love, you are an elusive elf,
That pursues everyone, even myself.
O Cupid you have aimed at me with your dart,
And have pierced me through the heart.
Love like a butterfly you glide.
Making me feel funny inside.
Love you are a graceful cockatoo,
Who with passion doth me imbue.
Love you are an airy, capricious elephant,
In my life the force most predominant.
Ah love, you are the babbling brook.
Who passing by, on me doth lightly look.
Love you are an inflated balloon
Blowing me up till I burst soon
Love you are the cooing daffodil
Calling to me your mate—a whip-poor-will.
Love you are a match luminescent
Illuminating me, your embellishment.
Now you are a storm so fierce
Blowing me to all hemispheres.
Again you are a little lamb
From whom if you were a pig, I would get ham.
Now you are a bumble-bee
Who stings me on the knee.
Ah love—you're here, you're there
Love, love you're everywhere
On the ground and in the air
In an apple, in a pear
With a poor man, with a millionaire
No one how'er debonaire
Will ever you forswear.
Love lightly you dance
Love sprightly you prance
Over a wide expanse.
Bringing to all romance
You have me in a trance
Love on the level
You are a cute little devil.

Harold Weiner, frosh tribunal head reports that the "goon" was the first up the steps after the regulations were lifted.

Professor Stine had his philosophy class in a quandary the other day when he asked the class what methods a girl might use to thank a man for a Christmas present.

The other day, while sitting on the table in the Ad building, first floor, we noticed a peculiar train of events which need explanation. Dr. Wright suddenly appeared running up the steps leading from the basement onto the first floor; he hastened down the corridor and disappeared out of the west door. A few moments later a frosh hove into view, coming up the same flight of steps, and also fast. The frosh gazed about a second and then dashed out the rear door. Those facts come to mean something when we reveal that the frosh was carrying a revolver, in his hand. Maybe the professor had just presented him with his first "F".

"Don" Hausman, "Morty" Sher, and several other upper classmen are having floor shows with their lunches, lately. The group goes to the old assembly room, during lunch period, and makes merry. "Don" bangs the piano, "Morty" dances, and the other boys do song and dance acts.

Due to recent injuries the coaches are using everybody but the President to fill up the backfield ranks.

And this column takes pleasure in presenting the all-faculty eleven.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

AN AMERICAN COLOSSUS

In my last column I discussed Wolfe's orgiastic use of words. By means of his prancing pages and a lengthy metaphor I tried to indicate that his words have color; they live; they dance and sing; they are individuals enjoying the proud distinction of his choice. At this point I wish to extend my hero-worship conclusions further; I wish to show that Wolfe is more than a mere word artist. (For he succeeds in doing what Stein and Joyce attempt to do. To the best features of Joyce—freedom and modernity—he adds transparency and common sense. Into Stein's unintelligible mass of hieroglyphics he injects the living flame, the energy of modern life.)

Not only in verbiage is he colossal, but also in daring. Indeed, he is not afraid to pamper his every fancy. Yet despite this boldness there is always the presence of skill, of consummation about his efforts: his vagaries are eclectic ones—vagaries engendered by a sincere desire to express everything. Widely eclectic also is his style. In the end we see that Wolfe has composed a literary olio, a hodgepodge containing other men's attempts at articulation—from the simple strains of an uncivilized, indigenous people to the subtlety—perhaps an elephantine, three-hundred pound subtlety, yet nevertheless a subtlety—of a Sterne.

Here, moreover, we find fragments of many past masters; brief glimpses of many literate faces we are afforded in this paper mirror which reflects so capably, yet so unconsciously. Dipping around in this potpourri, one can well satisfy the most varied literary hunger. For he provides us—to list but several of the evident delicacies—with a peacock's tongue from Robert Burton, a persimmon from Chaucer, a pickle with some pungent brine from Horace, some spice from Pepys, a few cherries from Herrick, a sugared lemon from Shaw, some comfits or bonbons from Sterne, bread from Donne, pure butter from Keats, a few salted almonds from Sir Thomas Browne, some crystalline ice from Dryden, and a little sauce, rich and wanton, from Shakespeare—the entire attended and washed down by champagne "à la" Wolfe. And at least, if these great voices do not speak, we feel that their owners are present listening with agreeing ear to their associate. By this, however, I do not intimate that Wolfe is a plagiarist or even a "sedulous ape". Foolish thought! Instead I suggest that he is one of the elect. Just as some men inspire us with their vast experience of the world, so others impress us with their knowledge and appreciation of other men's thoughts. Wolfe belongs to both categories: he has lived personally and vicariously.

MULES CLOSE HOME SEASON TOMORROW

Crusaders To Meet Dickinson Eleven In Conference Tilt

Red Devils Have Impressive Record for Season; Kick-off at 2

INJURED UTZMEN SEEK WIN FROM RED - WHITE

They will be here tomorrow!—those Red Devils from Dickinson college.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon Johnny Utz's Mules line-up against Coach Art Kahler's Red Devils and before the final whistle blows the fur is bound to fly thick and fast.

The Dickinson boys were riding high, wide, and handsome in the win column up to last Saturday when they were handed a humiliating 62 - 0 defeat by Franklin and Marshall on Williamson field in Lancaster. The Red and White are smarting under this setback when they had high hopes of coping their first conference championship since the league's existence.

The Cardinal and Gray on the other hand feel they are due for a "break" tomorrow and will go into the game with a determination to add at least one more victory before the season ends. The Mules have learned plenty in the recent beatings they have taken. Now with part of the squad in fairly good physical shape again there is no telling what the Crusaders might do to the Carlisle lads.

On paper Dickinson is naturally conceded an advantage because of the past season's record. However, F. and M. only scored 32 points against the local eleven and the Mules tallied a touchdown in the game with the Diplomats. Dickinson was smothered by Coach Holman's lads and failed to seriously threaten the F. and M. goal.

Dickinson also failed to cross the Lehigh line while the Utzmen again scored against the Engineers. It must not be forgotten, however, that the Carlisle dealt out a 32 - 12 beating to Gettysburg.

Heading the Red and White squad will be Captain Bill Ackerman, husky guard. Other veteran members of the team who will be sent against the Mules tomorrow include Carl Larson, quarterback; Paul Kiehl, fullback; Chester Gaines, tackle; Pete Sivess, end; Charles Thrush, end and halfback; Jack Frederick, center; John Clark, halfback, and William Kurtzhalz, guard.

In the dozen games played between the two schools since the series began back in 1923 the Cardinal and Gray have won eight times while the Red and White have come out the victor on three occasions. The 1925 tilt resulted in a scoreless tie.

The teams defeated by Dickinson this season include the U. S. Medical School at Carlisle, Swarthmore, Haverford, Allegheny, and Gettysburg. Games have been dropped to Lehigh, Delaware and F. and M.

winners of the contests the frosh are allowed to use the steps leading to the first floor of the Administration building on the north side. The first frosh to take advantage of this opportunity was the versatile George Ostheimer.

The sophs, on the other hand, are warned not to use the stairs extending from the basement to the first floor at the west end of the Ad building. Violation of this rule will be dealt with by the Student Council.

"Jiggs" Koehler and Art Green Out For Season As Result Of Injuries

Brain Concussion Forces Varsity Halfback to End Muhlenberg Grid Career; Center Position Weakened When Player Receives Broken Nose.

With two games remaining on the present grid schedule George Koehler, varsity halfback, and Art Green, center, are finished playing for the 1935 Mule eleven.

Koehler received a slight concussion in the Lehigh game two weeks ago which means he is through playing football for the Cardinal and Gray. The backfield star has been a member of the squad for the past three seasons and is one of the most popular students on the campus. He is president of the student body and has been acting captain in many games this fall.

Green returned to school in September after an absence of one year, and has alternated at the center post all season with Ralph Eagle. Last Tuesday afternoon the Bethlehem lad had his nose broken on the first play in scrimmage with the freshman team. The well-known adhesive was applied and Green was honorably discharged for the season. Both Green and Koehler are Bethlehem residents and formerly starred for Liberty High school in that city. Their absence from the line-up will be keenly felt since they were strong defensive players.

F. & M. Clinches First Conference Title

The powerful Blue and White football team representing Franklin and Marshall college won its first outright championship of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference last Saturday when the Lancaster grid warriors smothered Dickinson's eleven by the score of 62 to 0. Not in the eight previous years of conference play had the Diplomats won the title although last fall they shared the championship with Gettysburg.

Two games, F. and M. vs. Gettysburg and Muhlenberg vs. Dickinson, remain to be played, but regardless of their results the honors are sewed up for Coach Holman's squad.

The Mules can console themselves by realizing they need not hold the cellar position alone this year should they come through with a win over Dickinson tomorrow. Victory over the Red Devils would give the Cardinal and Gray one defeat against three losses while Gettysburg's standing will probably be the same after its game with F. and M. on Thanksgiving Day.

With but the two tilts remaining no tie games have yet been recorded in the conference, an unusual situation for this league. Standing:

Fordham Gridders Romp To 45-0 Win Over Mule Eleven

Utzmen Put Up Gallant Fight But Rams Have Big Advantage

CRUSADERS THREATEN SECOND PERIOD SCORE

Continuing the same display of fighting spirit which has marked the playing of the Cardinal and Gray in the last three grid engagements, 'Berg's warriors went down to defeat before Fordham last Saturday to the tune of 45-0. The game, played at the Polo Grounds in New York City, saw Johnny Utz's cohorts scrapping every minute of the game, but they could not compete with the superior eleven representing the University.

A reunion of Muhlenberg's alumni had been planned for the week-end in the "big city" and a large number attending the game were more than pleased with the gallant spirit of the Mules. With a 27-0 deficit against them in the second period the Cardinal Crusaders displayed their never-say-die attitude by putting on a great rally to carry the ball to the Rams' 18-yard stripe.

Following the scoring of Fordham's fourth touchdown the Mules chose to kick off. It was an outside kick and the Utzmen recovered the ball on Fordham's 42. Bill Hunsicker fired a pass to Geschel for a first down on the Rams' 18, but this spirited rally ended when Mautte intercepted a pass on his 15.

Two of the Rams' touchdowns came on spectacular passes. George McKnight taking a 25-yard pass from Alberta Gurske and running 15 yards in the first period, and Bill Ladroga snaring one of McKnight's long aeriels from mid-field to run 15 yards for a touchdown in the third period.

Fordham's other touchdowns came when Joe Dulkie scored from the four-yard line after Captain Joe Maniaci had returned Farrell's punt 40 yards in the second, and when John Lock speared a six-yard lateral from John Gallivan and Gallivan took a 15-yard pass from McKnight for the two fourth period touchdowns.

College Editors Vote to Move 1936 Contests from Germany

Meeting for its fall convention in Pittsburgh last Friday and Saturday the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States went on record as opposed to holding the 1936 Olympic games in Germany because of unsportsmanlike tactics said to be prevalent in that country. The resolution was proposed and passed by a majority vote at the opening session of the convention on Friday morning.

Richard G. Miller, editor-in-chief of The Muhlenberg Weekly, represented the college at the fall meeting with headquarters at the Hotel Schenley, Pittsburgh.

Student publications of Temple University and Washington and Jefferson college carried off first honors in the news, editorial, and advertising contests when the winners were announced at the closing banquet on Saturday night.

The complete list of winners as announced by Charles A. Wright, (Temple U.), newly-elected executive secretary, were:

News—Temple University News, first; Gettysburg College Gettysburgian, second; Carnegie Tartan and George Washington University Hatchet, tied for third.

Editorials—Washington and Jefferson Red and Black, first; Temple University News, second; George Washington University Hatchet, third.

Advertising—Temple University News, first; Carnegie Tartan, second, and the Bucknell University Bucknellian, third.

Judges who determined the prize winners were: Dr. Howard Hove, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Vergil Daniel Reed, Boston; Kenneth W. Slifer and Bruce Matheson, both of Philadelphia; George Walker, Ardmore; Carroll Geddes, Minneapolis, and Ulysses S. Vance, Akron University.

During the final business session the University of Delaware, Newark, Del., was chosen as the place for the association's spring convention.

New members were initiated into the Pre-medical society last Wednesday evening. In addition to the men previously announced as eligible, the following names were added: John Slaney, Steve Kulik, Richard Bausch, Dewitt Delawter, and Charles Reppert.

An interesting talk was presented by Dr. Frederick Herbst, an Allentown heart specialist. A short business meeting was held before the talk by Dr. Herbst.

M. B. A. Members Hear Charles Curtis Speak

Plans for conducting a business survey by means of questionnaires were discussed at a meeting of the Muhlenberg Business Association held last week. New members were admitted to the organization and it was announced that members must major in business administration to be in good standing with the society.

Charles Curtis, member of the advertising department of the Allentown Morning Call, was guest speaker at this week's session of the M. B. A. held Wednesday evening at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Chew street.

Writings of President Haas Appear In Leading Papers

Recent writings and addresses by President Haas have spread far across the continent to appear in some of the country's leading newspapers. Part of his sermon given last month in Holy Communion Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, was reprinted in The Christian Science Monitor on October 30. The reply of Dr. Haas to President Roosevelt, printed in The Muhlenberg Weekly on October 2, also appeared in the Evening Telegram of San Bernardino, Cal., on October 23. Arthur J. Brown, editor of the California paper, in commenting on Dr. Haas' article said it was typical of the reply of the country's clergy-men to the President on current problems. The article appearing in The Christian Science Monitor is printed below.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—To bring wisdom to bear upon our vast knowledge of natural science, politics and economics, Christian education on the highest intellectual level is needed, said Dr. John A. W. Haas president of Muhlenberg College in a Reformation Day address in Holy Communion Lutheran Church here. "The lack of religion accounts for the absence of fundamental honesty and character among our political leaders," Dr. Haas declared. Natural science of itself, he explained, has no morals. It can be used for human benefit or it can be used to wage warfare. Dr. Haas recognized in the restlessness of today the same turmoil that was apparent at the time of the Reformation, four centuries ago.

Easton Pastor To Speak Here Sunday

Rev. George A. Creitz Will Occupy Pulpit for Vesper Service

The Rev. George A. Creitz, pastor of the First Reformed Church in Easton, will be the guest preacher here for the vesper service on Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Creitz is the son of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Creitz, now pastor of St. Paul's Memorial Reformed Church in Reading.

He received his A.B. degree from Franklin and Marshall College in '26, and the following year received the A.M. from the same institution. His B.D. was secured from the Theological Seminary in Lancaster in '29.

In 1925, the Rev. Mr. Creitz was second intercollegiate orator in the United States, having won that title in a national oratorical contest in Los Angeles. His first pastorate after graduation from the seminary was at St. John's Church, Pottstown, from 1929 to 1931. Since then he has served his present pastorate which is the oldest church in Easton. The present building was erected in 1776 and was used, during the American Revolution, as a hospital and place of worship for the army of General Sullivan.

The Rev. Mr. Creitz spends most of his summers traveling in Europe and South America. He has given quite a number of lectures on Russia and the Scandinavian countries.

COLLEGE TREASURER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Oscar F. Bernheim, college treasurer since 1907, last Saturday celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday anniversary. No elaborate ceremonies marked the event as Mr. Bernheim, known to his many friends as "Bernie", performed the usual duties at his desk in the treasurer's office. "Bernie" was born at Mount Pleasant, N. C. He attended Allentown Prep School and was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1892, the school then being located at Fourth and Walnut streets.

Other plant life which Dr. Seifriz illustrated included cacti, banana trees, asthea (gray man's beard), arborescent cacti, bamboo which blooms after thirty-two years and then dies, the cocoa tree, and the rubber tree.

Dr. Seifriz is also co-editor of the international periodical "Protoplasm," author of a number of scientific papers, author of the text "Protoplasm," plant geographer, and world traveler.

Importance of Church Publicity Told Class

"The Church has the largest possibilities for 'making the news' because her teachings and life are revolutionary when accepted and practiced" the Rev. Charles K. Fegley, publicity director for the National Lutheran Council of America, told members of the journalism class in an address last Thursday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Fegley is a Muhlenberg graduate of the class of 1900.

Discussing the large field for news the Church possesses, the speaker said that Church leaders are only beginning to realize to what extent their work can be facilitated with greater results through proper channels of publicity. "The newspapers recognized this and acted upon it before the Church did," the Rev. Mr. Fegley said. "I would advise and urge all pre-theological students at Muhlenberg to take the course in journalism. I would like to see a special course of lectures on church publicity as a part of that course," he stated.

Two Gain Membership In Classical Club

William J. Leifeld and Robert L. Prutzman were initiated into active membership of Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, at the organization's meeting last week.

Following the initiation, brief talks were given by Dr. George T. Ettinger, Dr. Robert C. Horn, and Dr. Harry H. Reichard, honorary members of the fraternity. Acting upon their suggestions, the fraternity adopted tentative plans for the presentation of a program commemorating the 2000th anniversary of the birth of Horace.

A committee composed of Warren C. Schlegel, chairman, and William Pfeifer was appointed by Phares O. Reitz, president, to consider necessary amendments to the chapter's constitution.

The program, whose theme will be "The Greek Genius and Its Meaning To Us," was announced for the following meeting by George Machajdik, chairman of the program committee.

After the meeting, the fraternity adjourned to the commons where refreshments were served under the direction of Rollin G. Shaffer, chairman of the refreshment committee.

Nine teams, representing four fraternities and five non-fraternity groups are entered in the annual intramural debating contests to be held in competition for the silver loving cup of the intramural league.

The question for debate, chosen at a meeting of the contestants last Monday, is, "Resolved, that the United States should place an embargo upon all trade with Italy."

The first elimination tilt will be held next Tuesday and the second on Tuesday, December 19. The main speeches will be seven minutes in length with rebuttals of five minutes, following an interval of three minutes.

Fraternity teams entered this year represent Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Kappa Tau, Theta Kappa Nu, and Theta Upsilon Omega while the non-fraternity groups include the Mules, G Hall, Cardinals, Grays, and the Non-Frats. The latter team drew a bye in the preliminary meet and will be teamed up with one of the winners from the eight other teams competing next week.

Next Tuesday the following contests will take place in the assembly room of the Administration building. Theta Kappa Nu (negative) vs. Phi Kappa Tau (affirmative), Theta Upsilon Omega (affirmative) vs. Alpha Tau Omega (negative) Mules (affirmative) vs. G Hall (negative) Cardinals (negative) vs. Grays (affirmative). The Non-Frats will compete against one of the four winners in the preliminary matches.

Last year's contest was won by Theta Upsilon Omega from Alpha Tau Omega in a debate held in the Science Hall auditorium. This season these two teams are matched in the first elimination contest.

Sophs Out-Guess Frosh At Annual Banquet In Traylor

Although the freshmen did their best to wreck the sophomore banquet it was held amid a blaze of glory on the evening of November 22, at the Hotel Traylor.

Dean Emeritus George T. Ettinger was guest speaker for the gala event which preceded the sophomore class dance later in the evening in the hotel. Dr. Ettinger reviewed his many years as a professor at Muhlenberg and related amusing incidents from the days when the college was housed in a single frame building lighted by kerosene lamps and heated by "pot-bellied" egg stoves.

Other talks were given by Dean Robert C. Horn and Professor Stephen G. Simpson. Charles Kern, president of the class, acted as toastmaster.

The dinner was attended by seventy-five members of the class. A full course turkey dinner was served.

George Richards, a freshman, was an involuntary guest of the second year men for the evening. Whether the frosh wished to rescue their classmate or to kidnap the sophomore class president is not known, but a large percentage of their roster stormed the hotel. After their previous engagement with the local police force, the frosh were not anxious to cope

ESSAY WINNERS

George Joseph's essay on "My First Six Weeks at Muhlenberg" has been judged the best of those submitted for The Muhlenberg Weekly contest. Honorable mention goes to Alfred Meyers. Both are Allentown students and members of the college freshman class. The winning essay appears in this issue on page 2. Meyers' article will be published next week.

Tapping Ceremony Here December 18

ODK Members Meet Tonight to Act on Likely Candidates

Alpha Epsilon circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, will meet this evening in the East seminar room of the library to vote on candidates for membership who will be tapped during the assembly period on Wednesday, December 18.

The tapping ceremony was originally scheduled for the morning of December 11, but was changed to one week later when it became necessary to hold the joint Christmas service with Cedar Crest next Wednesday morning.

Leonard Hodgkinson, president of the Circle, has announced the formal approval of Dr. Henry R. Mueller as faculty adviser for the local organization. Dr. Mueller's name was proposed for the office at the last meeting of the fraternity when Dean Robert C. Horn tendered his resignation. The proposal was then sent to the new national headquarters of Omicron Delta Kappa in Washington for approval by the national president.

With the opening of permanent headquarters in the Nation's capital a request has been made for book donations to be sent to the national library, 600 Vermont Building, Washington, D. C. Books dealing with fraternity life in colleges and universities are particularly desired. All donations will be acknowledged in The Circle, official publication of ODK.

Charles Esser On Board Of Trustees

Kutztown Publisher '13, Elected for Three-Year Term

Charles H. Esser, Kutztown, graduate of Muhlenberg in 1913, has been elected to the board of trustees of the college for a three-year term on the basis of the returns announced recently by the executive committee of the alumni association.

Mr. Esser, who publishes the Kutztown Patriot, is president of the alumni association, and will be the alumni representative on the board. He defeated the Rev. J. O. Leibensperger in the voting which was open to all graduates of Muhlenberg college under the trial plan started this year toward the elimination of dues in the association.

Mr. Esser is also in the firm of Frederick and Esser, publishers, in New York city. He comes from a newspaper family, as his father took over the Kutztown Patriot in 1887 and the paper has been in the family since that time. He has been active in Muhlenberg college affairs for many years.

The executive committee also announced approval of the Dr. John A. W. Haas scholarship fund. This fund will be set up in honor of the retiring president from active duty at the end of the 1935-36 term. Awards from the fund will be made to seniors based on scholarship records of their first three years at the college.

John Marshall Club Admits New Members

Attorney Hyman Rockmaker of this city was guest speaker at the November meeting of the John Marshall Pre-law group. EDWARD T. HORN

Muhlenberg's fraternity members and guests will once again dance to the enchanting rhythms of Bud Rader and his orchestra this Friday evening when the annual Interfraternity Ball will go into full swing at Mealey's auditorium on Hamilton street.

Virtually every member and pledge of the six campus fraternities are planning to attend the evening's entertainment which extends from 10 to 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

The formal dancing will be held at the Friday affair although a number of the fraternities will hold informal dances and parties at the chapter houses during the entire week-end.

Chaperones for the formal will be Dr. and Mrs. John V. Shankweiler and Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller.

Chairman of the dance committee is Edward T. Horn, of Alpha Tau Omega. Other members of the committee are: Thomas Strohl, Phi Kappa Tau; David Smith, Theta Upsilon Omega; Max Kohn, Phi Epsilon Pi; Roger Lachman, Theta Kappa Nu; David Booth, Delta Theta.

Cedar Crest Guest Of Philosophical Group

An open forum on the question "What Is the Ideal State?" was held at the meeting of the Alpha chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophical fraternity, Thursday evening, November 21, at the home of the Rev. Russell W. Stine. The Muhlenberg chapter had as its guests the members of Delta chapter of Cedar Crest college.

Four members of the Alpha chapter, Julius J. Kish, Walter H. Guigley, Theodore L. Fischer, and Floyd Paules, presented distinct ideal states for discussion. Present at the meeting was Dr. Rominger, charter member of Alpha Kappa Alpha who at present is connected with the Cedar Crest and Moravian institutions.

Mask and Dagger Production To Open Week From Tonight

With the opening night of the Mask and Dagger club's production, "Laff that Off", rapidly approaching, Mrs. Conklin is directing her efforts towards putting the finishing touches on the individual characters of the cast.

Members of the cast are working overtime in order to give their role the polish that is needed so the play may be presented just as Don Mullally had intended.

Joseph L. Schantz, president of the club, expects the performance to surpass anything that has ever been attempted in the line of dramatics on the Muhlenberg campus in recent years.

"Although the comedy is light," said Mr. Schantz, "the play is difficult to produce. There is a variety of wit furnished by 'Remorse', played by Charles Diehl, and 'Art', played by Luther Bealer. The more serious aspects of life are faced by 'Leo', the third member of the trio, played by Frederick Gregorius. With a little more work these boys will come through with an excellent performance."

Council Discharges Frosh Tribunal For Negligence Of Duty

BETHLEHEM PASTOR TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

The Right Rev. F. William Sterrett, bishop of the Episcopal Church, Bethlehem, will visit the campus this Sunday as guest preacher for the vesper service at 3:30 o'clock. He is a graduate of the law school of the University of Buffalo and in 1908 received his A.B. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He received his B.D. in 1911 from the Philadelphia Divinity School and in 1924 was honored with a D.D. from the same institution. Hobart College, Geneva, New York, conferred an LL.D. upon him in the same year. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Hobart College, the Philadelphia Divinity School, and Lehigh University.

German Professor Speaks To Verein

Barba Says Olympic Opposition Is Folly In Address to Club

Circulating propaganda which advocates the removal of the 1936 Olympic games from Germany is folly, Dr. Preston A. Barba, professor of German, told members of the Deutscher Verein at their meeting on November 25. Germany is eagerly looking forward to the games next year and agitation against holding them in that country does not meet with universal approval, but is the scheme of a small group of narrow-minded individuals, Dr. Barba said.

In his address to the German club, Professor Barba told interesting events concerning his tour through the European country last summer. He pointed out the difference between the Germany of today and that of the pre-war period. He made his first trip to Germany in 1908 and the next in 1921. From 1923 to 1931 he traveled to that country every summer.

One of the places of interest visited by Dr. Barba during his tour last summer was the Olympic village which was then in the process of construction. The village when completed will consist of 140 one-story buildings each one named for a German city, a community house, a bank, a post office, and other essential structures.

The next meeting of the Verein has been announced for Monday evening, December 16, when the members will present a short "Weihnachtsspiel" in the Science Hall auditorium. Following the play members of the club will hold the annual "Weihnachtsfest" at the home of Dr. Harry H. Reichard, member of the German department.

Propose System of Proctors To Rule Over Dormitories

Governmental Body Will Hold Session Monday to Decide Issue

MEMBERS EXPLAIN PLAN AT STUDENT MEETING

A Freshman Tribunal at Muhlenberg has become a thing of the past—as far as the Student Council is concerned.

At their meeting on the morning of November 25, members of Student Council discharged the Freshman Tribunal and established in its place a proctorship for the dormitory halls.

The Council pointed out that dismissal of the Tribunal was prompted by recent disturbances and rowdiness in the dormitories which the latter body appeared to be negligent in quieting down. David Booth, secretary of the Council, was named by President George Koehler to establish the proctor system and appoint two proctors for each hall.

Evidently in disagreement with the action of Student Council, Registrar Benfer called a special meeting of all dormitory students for the evening of November 25 at which time he protested the action by Council and asked for opinions from the dormitory men. A number of these members spoke in addition to three members of the Council who were present.

The Council members were firm in their arguments that the Tribunal had not fulfilled its duties so far this year and stated that a proctor system was to be put on trial in an effort to restore more order in the dorms, especially during the evening study hours.

President Koehler has called another session of Student Council for next Monday morning at which time the Registrar is expected to meet with the Council in an attempt to find a satisfactory solution to the now "up in the air" problem.

Women's Auxiliary Hears Dr. Reichard

Germany Today Described to Members at November Meeting

Dr. Harry H. Reichard, member of the German department, was guest speaker at the November meeting of the Women's auxiliary of the college held on the afternoon of November 26, in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, North Seventh street, this city.

Dr. Reichard's talk was based on the letters and diary of his son, Joseph Reichard, written during the latter's fourteen months of study at Frankfurt university in Germany from which he returned last September. The speaker had for his subject "Germany Today as Seen Through the Eyes of a Young Man".

After recounting many interesting stories of the student's experiences at the university and in Munich and in German homes where he lived Dr. Reichard pointed out that the young man was probably more interested in the art, literature, drama and music of Germany than in its political regime. But the student observed the "impressive personality" of Hitler upon several occasions that he saw and heard him and declared that it seemed to him the organized youth of Germany believe in Hitler's sincerity and that his way is a good one.

Announcement was made of the next meeting which will be in the form of a Christmas musicale at Christ Lutheran church, Thirteenth and Hamilton streets, on December 31.

BASKETBALL TEAM OPENS WITH DREXEL

19 Cage Games on Cardinal and Gray Schedule; Utzmen Meet Conference Foe In First Engagement on Jan. 8

Bucknell New Team to Appear on Card This Season

REGULAR PRACTICE FOR CANDIDATES THIS WEEK

Nineteen basketball games will be played by Coach Johnny Utz's passers this season with the opening tilt scheduled with Drexel Institute at Philadelphia on Wednesday evening, January 8.

The 1936 card includes twelve conference battles while the remaining seven engagements will be with non-conference fives. The latter group takes in Lehigh, Lafayette, Bucknell, and Penn A. C. Last year the Cardinal and Gray quintet met the Penn A. C. boys in two games but this year Bucknell university has taken the place of the Philadelphia team with the latter being scheduled for only a single engagement.

The Mules will open their home season just two days after their initial tilt with Drexel. The first chance local fans will have to see the Utzmen perform will be Friday evening, January 10, when Bucknell's fast team comes to Allentown for a game in the Allentown High gymnasium. The game with the Bisons at Bucknell is to be played on March 6 and will be the last of the season for the 'Berg passers.

Other teams in the conference which 'Berg will meet this season are Albright, Franklin and Marshall, Lebanon Valley, Ursinus, and Gettysburg. The Mules will this winter be out to take that league championship which they missed by narrow margins in the past two seasons. In 1934 the locals finished third while last year they clinched the runner-up position right on the heels of the Gettysburg Bullets. The conference record for the Utzmen last season was nine victories against three defeats.

Regular practice sessions for cage candidates were started this week, with a number of the football players reporting for the workouts. Practices were held for two full weeks prior to the Thanksgiving vacation, but grid players were unable to report before the season came to a close.

STUDENT PROGRAM FOR CITY CHURCH MEETING

Four ministerial students from the college presented a program before the Women's Missionary Society of Grace Evangelical Congregational Church, Fifteenth and Turner streets on the evening of November 26.

The program given included devotions in charge of Stover Crout-hamel, a talk on "Faith" by Luther Gruver, clarinet solos by Lawrence Reese and piano selections by John McConomy.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR COACH BILL GUTTERON

A pleasant surprise was given William Gutteron, assistant grid coach, on his birthday which he celebrated on November 26. During luncheon at the Commons on that day he was presented with a birthday cake by Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, wife of the college registrar. Mrs. Benfer baked the cake which was portioned off to the luncheon guests: Mr. Benfer, Miss Margaret Schwartz, Miss Helen Richards, Dr. John V. Shankweiler, Charles Evanovsky, Mr. Gutteron, Mrs. Benfer and H. R. Witwer.

Franklin-Marshall Ends Play Without Conference Defeat

Mules Fail to Win League Tilt for Second Straight Year

DICKINSON, BEARS TIE FOR RUNNER-UP POST

	W.	L.	Pct.
F. and M.	4	0	1.000
Dickinson	2	1	.667
Ursinus	2	1	.667
Gettysburg	1	3	.250
Muhlenberg	0	4	.000

Pre-season predictions as to the final standing of teams in the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Football Conference have long been forgotten with the exception of first place which Franklin and Marshall was conceded by virtually every sports writer last September.

The most improved team during the past season and the team which caused plenty of upsets was Dickinson where Art Kahler, new Red Devil mentor, performed miracles to place the Carlisle eleven in runner-up position to the powerful Lancaster squad.

Gettysburg, on the other hand, was as disappointing as Dickinson was surprising. Hen Bream and his Bullets had one of the most disastrous seasons in a decade. The Bullets won but one loop contest this season, that from the Mule eleven, 27-0, for the worst Gettysburg conference record since the organization began in 1927.

Muhlenberg's loss to Dickinson in the last home game was its seventh in eight league games in the past two years. The Mules dropped three decisions in 1934, and again this season were on the short end of four verdicts. Ursinus was tied in 1934 for the Cardinal and Gray's best efforts of victory in the two-year period.

Ursinus carded its two triumphs at the expense of Muhlenberg and Gettysburg. The Bears clawed the Mules into defeat, 21-0, and handed Gettysburg its second straight league reversal the week after Dickinson drubbed the Orange and Blue. Ursinus won from the Bullets to the tune of a 30-14 score. The Bears were trounced by F. and M., 59-0, for their lone setback.

Names John Young On Opponent Team

Three F. and M. Players on Dickinson Coach's Star Eleven

"Johnny" Young, big Mule tackle, has been named on Coach Art Kahler's (Dickinson) all-opponent eleven for the season just ended. Although a regular tackle for the Cardinal and Gray, the Dickinson mentor placed Young at a guard position to team up with Kalthoff of Franklin and Marshall. Here's the line-up:

Sobolesky, Gettysburg, and Thompson, Delaware, ends; Scobey, Lehigh, and Dinsmore, F. and M., tackles; Kalthoff, F. and M., and Young, Muhlenberg, guards; Spon-angle, F. and M., center; Nowe, Carlisle Army Post, quarterback; Tiernan, Haverford, and Peters, Swarthmore, halfbacks, and Medwick, F. and M., fullback.

The first period of this thirteenth renewal was a listless affair. A Dickinson touchdown, coming as the result of a pass, Larson to Sivess over the goal line, was nullified when both teams were offside. Dickinson played in Muhlenberg territory the entire session, but lacked a scoring punch until the second stanza was nearing completion. A 35-yard pass, Larson to Sivess, accounted for Dickinson's first score in the second period.

Shortly after the final period began, Carl Larson snatched an enemy forward pass forty yards from the goal line to run back eight yards. Larson swept right end, cut back and plowed through for 11 yards. Larson, on a lateral from Paul Kiehl, faded ten yards and tossed a pass to C. Binder on the 14. Kiehl lunged at tackle for 5 yards and a first down, before Weimar circled left end for eight more to the one-yard stripe. Kiehl hurled himself high into the air to go over center for a score. Binder's placement was blocked.

Muhlenberg's lone tally came in the waning moments of the game on a beautiful gallop of 70 yards by Gutekunst. The Mules opened up an aerial attack on the Cardinal and Gray 30. Gutekunst's first attempt was batted to the frozen turf. He tried again—in vain. But the third effort caught Dickinson napping when the Mule ace failed to find an intended receiver. He cut to his left, outran the Red Devil front linemen, headed for the southern sidelines, and dashed down the gridiron 70 yards to cross without a hand being laid on him.

A survey of the 34 men who have captained University of Vermont football teams reveals most of them are outstanding successes.

Battling throughout the whole game in a sea of mud the Red and White gridders of Albright easily downed the Mules in a Thanksgiving Day classic played in the Reading stadium last Thursday. Both teams were faced with the most adverse weather conditions they had met all season and the Lions proved better mud hens than did the Mules.

The game was the final collegiate contest for five of the Cardinal and Gray players, three of whom saw service in the fray. The senior members of the squad are Alfred Geschel, Harold Weiner, Albert Erdosy, William Pfeifer, and Joseph Schantz. Another senior, George Koehler, received a concussion in the Lehigh game last month and was out of the season's last three games.

The Mules offered stubborn resistance throughout the first half of their Turkey Day tilt and when the third period began the Lions held only 12 to 6 lead. A Mule fumble early in the first quarter, with the ball recovered on the Mules 13-yard line, was followed by a pass, Felty to Woods to Powell who went across the line for a touchdown giving Albright a 6-0 lead.

Mules Knot Score

The Mules 87-yard drive with Farrell and Gutekunst totting the ball, was climaxed by a long aerial pass—Laing to Geschel on the Albright 2, Farrell scoring on a line plunge on the next play to knot the count 6-6. A pass, Farrell to Laing, for extra point, over the line was knocked down by Thomas.

Although Albright carried the ball down to the Mules' two-yard line in the second period, Powell's fumble caused the loss of the ball, with Farrell kicking out of danger to Woods on his own 27. Muller tore 13 yards around end, Riffle reached the Mules' four before Farrell brought him down from behind. Riffle hit centre for touchdown. Albright, 12; Muhlenberg, 6.

Woods' pass to Dick Riffle for extra point behind the line was knocked down.

Riffle's 45-yard run off tackle, followed by Woody Powell hitting line for two yards gain and touchdown, gave the Munmen an 18-6 lead. Woods on fake kick hit the line for the extra point. Becker blocked Farrell's kick taking the ball right off the Cardinal and Gray booter's toe, raced 35 yards for another touchdown, before the quarter ended with Albright leading 25-6.

In the last quarter, Powell raced 42 yards to the Crusaders' 24, where Lew Pittipaldi toted it to the 5-yard stripe, Osialo going through tackle for the last score, as Woods' pass to Bill Riffle, for the extra point was batted down.

The game ended with the ball on the Mules' ten-yard line with Albright heading for another touchdown.

MINNESOTA DEAN LAUDS RELIEF FOR STUDENTS

Minneapolis, Minn. (ACP)—Had it not been for federal aid given university students, many of them would now be a part of the "missing generation," says Dean Malcolm M. Willey of the University of Minnesota.

"Denied the chance to enter colleges and universities, there are thousands upon thousands of youths in this country, now doing nothing, would normally have trained themselves for business, agriculture, and the professions—they are the missing generation," Dean Willey explains.

In the fact that federal aid has prevented a disastrous increase in the ranks of the "missing generation," Dean Willey finds ample justification for the program.

1918 Graduate Writes On Lutheran History

The Rev. Allen S. Fisher, resident of Tinticum and Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1918, recently completed a history of Lutheranism in Bucks county after six years of research for which data he collected through the study of 180 tests. He had hundreds of letters from authorities from Boston to Alabama and west to the coast. He also received a letter from the King of Sweden. Dr. Johnson, the authority of Swedish Lutheranism, and Dr. F. G. Speck, head of the anthropological department of the University of Pennsylvania; Prof. William J. Hinkle, of Auburn, N. Y., who has done extensive research for the congregations of Bucks county; Dr. B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., of Riegelsville, were among his informants.

The book contains 31 congregational histories with one to five illustrations, 165 pastoral biographies of whom 120 photographs are preserved, also a restudy of the Indians to more definitely prove Lutheran missions among them from 1638 to 1740.

BECOMES BRIDE OF DR. CARL E. WAGNER

Miss Adelaide L. Blake, daughter of Mrs. Florence Blake, 701 High street, and Dr. Carl E. Wagner, son of Mrs. Mary Wagner, 312 Catell street, Easton, were married on November 23 at the parsonage of St. Peter's Lutheran church, High and Porter streets, College Hill, Easton, by the pastor, the Rev. Warren L. Wolf.

The bride was graduated from Easton High school in the class of 1927.

The bridegroom attended Muhlenberg College, and was graduated from Temple University, Philadelphia, in 1929. He is now a practicing chiroprapist in Easton.

Dr. Edgar Evans, '30, To Wed Isabel Hoffman

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Isabel Jean Hoffman, of this city, to Dr. Edgar Jackson Evans, young Dennville, N. J., physician. The betrothal was revealed last Saturday afternoon at a formal tea.

Miss Hoffman, a graduate of Allentown High school with the class of 1926 completed a secretarial course at Cedar Crest college in 1930. At high school she was assistant literary editor of the Canary and Blue and vice president of the Naih Pleda society. At Cedar Crest she was a member of the Glee club.

Dr. Evans, who in September opened his offices in Dennville, N. J., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Evans of Cresco, Pa. He was graduated from Muhlenberg college with a bachelor of science

A truce was declared at 9:30 o'clock and first and second year men mingled with upper classmen to the music of Bud Rader and his orchestra.

Special entertainment was provided during intermission by Lizzie Hoy, an entertainer now appearing at the Village Barn, New York's hill-billy highspot.

Approximately 100 couples attended the dance. The cocktail lounge was opened to accommodate the overflow.

Yale undergraduates can now own and/or operate cars—providing they get written consent from family and dean.

New Flag

A new American flag waves majestically over Muhlenberg's campus.

When the student budget was drawn up this fall members of the Student Council thought it wise to set aside funds for a new flag. As a result the sum of $10 was granted for this purpose.

The new stars and stripes have arrived and now float from the 100-foot Oregon pine pole presented as a parting gift by the class of 1913. Two freshmen have been appointed to raise and lower the flag each morning and evening.

degree in 1930 and in 1934 completed his medical course at the School of Medicine of Temple university. He served his junior internship in the Sacred Heart hospital in this city and served a year as a senior interne in the Eastern General hospital. At Muhlenberg he was active in campus affairs and was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is also a member of the Phi Chi medical fraternity at Temple, having served as an officer of the group.

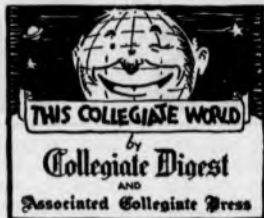

December 28 is the day announced for the marriage of the couple.

REV. HARRY E. HERMAN DIES AT NORRISTOWN

A former Allentown Preparatory school and Muhlenberg college student, the Rev. Harry E. Herman, pastor of Keelor's church parish at Sumneytown, died Saturday, November 23, at the Montgomery hospital at Norristown, following an operation. He was 43 years old.

The Rev. Mr. Herman attended Millersville State Teachers college, Allentown Preparatory school, Muhlenberg college and studied for the ministry at the Lutheran Theological seminary in Philadelphia.

The first charge of the pastor was at the Redeemer Lutheran church, Reading, where he was installed as pastor in June, 1922. He became pastor of the Sumneytown church two years ago.

The funniest campus incident we have heard this fall happened during the registration period at the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis).

Asher Christensen, a professor, was strolling past two long lines of freshmen. One line consisted of freshmen who planned to be doctors and were registering for pre-medicine courses. The other line was filled with those about to enter pre-business courses.

A small voice from the end of the "pre-medicine line" piped a call to Mr. Christensen.

"Hi, mister," the frosh said, "which is the longest line?" The professor considered. "I would say your line is about 25 feet longer," Christensen answered.

"Okay," the boy said, stepping out of the queue "I'm a business man already." And he registered for pre-business!

Today we have very sad news for proprietors of restaurants near college campi. It is beginning to look as if fasting is a considerable aid to study.

Drs. M. H. Elliott and W. C.

Troat, Harvard university psychologists, have been experimenting with rats and have attained results that indicate the animals respond with a conditioned reflex, the most elemental manifestation of learning, twice as quickly when they are starved as when they have food in their stomachs. Even a tiny bite of food cuts down their aptitude considerably.

Somewhat different studies on the same subject have recently been made at Colgate University where Prof. Donald A. Laird tested groups of brain workers after light and heavy lunches. After light meals they were 8.6 per cent faster in learning and made 25.3 per cent fewer errors. The idea being that a big meal draws too much blood to the stomach and produces temporary "brain anemia."

You will realize what a tremendous event it was when Dartmouth beat Yale for the first time in history, when you learn that the whole editorial column in "The Dartmouth", generally rather staid and detached, was written in poetry, to celebrate the victory. Not good poetry, mind you, but enthusiastic, and everything rhymed:

It began:
"Listen, my children and you shall hear
Why Dartmouth cohorts raise cheer on cheer.
They've reached the end of a long, long trail—
Dartmouth has finally beaten Yale!"

Right alongside of that paragraph you should put this one. Oswald Villard, the great liberal writer, has been telling how the college press is improving, particularly in an editorial way.

The Yale News, says he, is the ideal college paper. Why? Because it does not hesitate to print editorials criticizing the president and college administration.

Johns Hopkins university recently accepted a gift of 300 books from the Italian government. An

The final episode in the history of the 1935 football team will be written Thursday evening of next week when the players will be the guests of the college at the annual banquet to be held at the Hotel Americus, corner of Sixth and Hamilton Streets.

Guest speaker for this crowning event will be William "Bill" Brandt, manager and publicity director of the National Baseball League. Mr. Brandt is a graduate of Muhlenberg with the class of 1911 and has had a varied career both as a newspaperman in Philadelphia and as publicity manager of professional baseball teams. Many of the students will recall his interesting address given here in the assembly period last year. The banquet proper is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock and will be followed by a number of speeches in addition to the one by "Bill" Brandt. Following this the annual presentation of awards will be given to members of both the varsity and freshman squads as well as to the managers.

Members of the college Athletic Board of Control, the newly-appointed Alumni Athletic Advisory Committee, the band, and several other persons prominently affiliated with the college are to be guests at the banquet next Thursday.

ANOTHER WINNER

This issue of the Weekly carries the second best freshman essay submitted on the subject, "My First Six Weeks at Muhlenberg" and was written by Alfred F. Meyers of Hawthorne, N. J. The essay winning first recognition was written by George Joseph, of this city, and was published in last week's issue of the paper.

Bethlehem Bishop In Chapel Pulpit

Right Reverend F. W. Sterrett
Preaches Sermon on Philosophy

Expounding both a contemplative and active philosophy, the Right Reverend F. W. Sterrett, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Bethlehem on Sunday, urged Christians to be motivated by both schools of thought in the service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

The contemplative philosophy, he said was that of the monks who withdrew to themselves, worshiping God and waiting for the Kingdom of God.

In contrast to that group, he said is the activist, whose philosophy prompts him to take an active part in the affairs of the world, preparing for the coming of the Kingdom, making the world a better place in which to live. He is the one who fosters social reform and legislation destined to advance the welfare of mankind.

Both philosophies, he said, are needed to secure the combination of the man who is both active and who worships God while awaiting the coming of his Kingdom.

The chapel choir, directed by Dr. Harold K. Marks, furnished the music, singing "An Even-song," by Protheroe, Dr. Marks presided at the console of the organ. The liturgical service was in charge of the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, President John A. W. Haas and the Rev. Russell W. Stine.

BETHLEHEM GRADUATE HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

The Rev. Dr. J. O. Leibensperger, '84, observed the 34th anniversary of his pastorate in St. Peter's Lutheran church, Bethlehem, last Sunday.

The Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain, assisted at the service and preached the sermon in the morning.

Meeting

To Delta Beta chapter of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity comes the honor of having been selected as the host chapter to the 12th annual convocation of the Arch Chapter of the fraternity. The annual event is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, December 28 and 29 on which dates, delegates of the various active, alumni, and alumni club bodies of the fraternity will gather for business sessions and for a program of social events at Muhlenberg. This is the first time that Delta Beta has been privileged to house and entertain the convocation and the men of the local chapter have planned a full and interesting program of events.

Three business sessions of the convocation will be held, two on Saturday and one on Sunday afternoon. A banquet for delegates and visitors followed by a dance, both on Saturday night, will be the main feature of the social program. All of these events will be held in the chapter house.

SEASON'S OPENING PLAY FOR MASK AND DAGGER

JOSEPH L. SCHANTZ

Muhlenberg students and other followers of the dramatic stage will have the opportunity to see the college Mask and Dagger club present its first play in two years this evening and again tomorrow night. It is on these two occasions when the local thespians will play "Laff That Off", a three-act comedy written by Don Mullally.

Each evening of the performance the curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock. Students will be admitted on tickets exchanged at Mrs. Keller's office for presentation of their athletic cards plus the payment of two cents tax. Tickets for all other persons will cost 40 cents plus the tax.

It is after weeks of feverish activity and preparation that the college dramatists are ready to stage their opening show. During the short time it has existed as a company Mask and Dagger has won a high place for itself among dramatic groups in the Lehigh Valley. On a number of occasions it won the Civic Little Theater trophy of this city and has merited the praise of drama followers throughout this section.

This year under the direction of Mrs. Robert A. Conklin, and with increased financial aid from the student body budget, the club has become increasingly active.

The season's first production is one of Mullally's most humorous and entertaining plays and enjoyed a long run on Broadway. Members of the cast were chosen after tryouts of persons reporting for the parts. Muhlenberg students appearing in the play are Frederick

Muhlenberg Radio Programs Heard Four Times Each Week

The phrase "Muhlenberg Off the Campus" has now been changed to "Muhlenberg on the Air". A plan to popularize science, the arts and other phases of college life through dramatized programs and talks over the radio has been formulated by Dr. Carl W. Boyer, of the department of education.

Four times each week it is planned to have some department of the college present a program over radio stations WCBA-WSAN in order to extend the educational service of the school to all parts of the surrounding community. The first programs were broadcast last week when Dr. Boyer and Dr. James E. Swain, head of the history department, gave interesting talks.

On Monday afternoon of this week Dr. Boyer gave the third talk in his series on the "Family Forum". Yesterday afternoon Dr. Swain presented his second current event talk reviewing the news of present-day problems. Today at 2 P. M. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, Greek and Bible professor of the college, is scheduled to speak over the local station on the 400th anniversary of the printing of the English Bible. Friday afternoon at 2

REV. FLUCK TO PREACH FOR SUNDAY VESPERS

The Rev. William A. Fluck, pastor of St. Luke's Church, Reading, will occupy the chapel pulpit at the vesper service this Sunday afternoon. After having attended Temple university from 1907-08, he entered the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, from which institution he was graduated in 1911.

The Rev. Mr. Fluck was ordained in 1911 by the New York and New England Synod. From 1911-13 he served as pastor of Holy Trinity Church, East Orange, N. J. His next pastorate was Lower Tincum parish which he served until 1921. In 1922, he received his present pastorate.

Holstrom To Speak At ODK Ceremony

Semi-Annual "Tapping" in Science Auditorium
Wednesday

George R. Holstrom, Muhlenberg alumnus and former football coach for the Cardinal and Gray teams, will return to the campus once again next Wednesday morning to be guest speaker at the "tapping" ceremony sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, activities fraternity.

Mr. Holstrom was graduated from Muhlenberg in the class of 1923 and some years later returned to guide the destinies of the gridiron teams, having resigned that position in 1932. Since then he has become quite active in the political affairs of Lehigh county and at present is the representative for this district in the General Assembly at Harrisburg. He was one of the speakers for the annual Lehigh pep smoker held here last month.

Students to be "tapped" were voted upon by Alpha Epsilon circle at its meeting last week. At that time the organization voted to include the freshman football manager and membership in the college band in the point system used as requirements for becoming a member of ODK. The football managership will count eight points to become a major class B activity while two years as a member of the band will give a student three points.

The banquet and initiation for new members will probably be held the second week of January.

Prof. Deck Attends Mathematics Meeting

Luther J. Deck, professor of mathematics, attended the meetings on November 28 and 29 of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers at the Hotel Palmer in Chicago.

The sessions of the association were addressed by Professors Birkhoff, of Harvard; Hart, of Wisconsin; Moulton, of Northwestern; and Logsdon, of Chicago.

o'clock Dr. Boyer will again be heard in his "Family Forum" discussion.

An attempt is now being made to have the German club present some of its German plays during the broadcasting hours for the college. As now planned Dr. Boyer's talks will be heard each Monday and Friday, while Tuesday will be reserved for Dr. Swain's news reviews. Various departments of the school will alternate during the Wednesday period.

For his own particular broadcasting on the Family Forum, Dr. Boyer, who has had experience with radio work, having directed the weekly American Legion air program for some time, will invite questions and comment on his chats. He is well adapted for the work and knows his topic, which should—to the listeners, thoroughly prove of interest.

Dr. Swain on his news review will be able to shed some interesting light on some of the news behind the news because of his wide knowledge. He has been a popular lecturer at many club meetings and is also the author of several history textbooks.

The article is titled "The Progress of Muhlenberg College" and follows:

"Among the colleges of the east which are achieving real progress today is Muhlenberg College, located in Allentown, Pennsylvania, which was founded in 1867 with the idea of providing for its students the highest type of Christian educational training.

"The college throughout the years has lived up to those fine principles and we are glad to see they are being carried on to the fullest extent by its officers and faculty headed by Professor John Augustus William Haas, its professor, and professor of religion and philosophy there.

Dr. Jackson Injured As Car Hits Bridge

Dr. Joseph S. Jackson, professor of history, is in the Sacred Heart hospital of this city as the result of having his right kneecap fractured in an automobile accident late Saturday night.

The professor was a passenger in the machine driven by John K. Heyl, of Allentown, R. D. 2. The accident occurred at the southern end of Sellersville where the automobile skidded and crashed into a bridge abutment, the driver escaping injury. It is believed that the rain on the bridge surface froze and caused the car to skid.

This is one of a number of accidents in which Dr. Jackson has been involved. Two years ago his arm was broken in an accident which demolished his automobile.

Council To Enforce Rules Of Student Body Constitution

Student Government Body Asks for Cooperation of Administration

ADOPTS RESOLUTION AT MEETING LAST MONDAY

Strict enforcement of regulations and penalties provided for in the student body constitution to prevent disorderly conduct and destruction of property on the campus is the method decided upon by Student Council as the best means to prevent any further outbreak of trouble.

At a meeting last month members of the Council abolished the Freshman Tribunal for negligence in dealing out penalties to disorderly offenders in the dormitories. As a temporary measure to restore order, George Koehler, president of Council, appointed David Booth to investigate the advisability of setting up a proctor system in the dorms.

Another meeting of the body was held Monday of this week at which time the Council decided that a proctor system might also fail to accomplish the desired result since no one wants to be "put on the spot" for turning in names of their fellow students who might be offenders.

President Koehler pointed out that sections (b) and (c) of the student body constitution gave Council the power to maintain order on the campus at its own discretion regardless of when or by whom the guilty parties were reported. These rulings, printed in the student handbook, are as follows:

(b) The Council shall maintain order among the student body, impose fines or other penalties for violations of rules, or for disorderly conduct on or about the campus of Muhlenberg College, and in or about the fraternity houses.

(c) The Council shall have the power to fine students, and to recommend to the Dean the suspension or expulsion of students.

Standard Wages for Athletes

Establishment of athlete's pay on a standardized basis was recommended in an editorial appearing recently in a prominent Western New York newspaper.

Claiming that Pacific Coast conference officials "should recognize the fact that football players are paid" and that there is danger of the public "getting wise to what's going on," the editorial suggested that "a gentlemen's agreement" between colleges in regard to proselyting be effected.

The writer charged that under the present system rich colleges are able to hold a great advantage over not-so-wealthy institutions, where athletes are concerned.

"At present, the irregular monetary adjustments by some colleges and the offering of more elaborate deals enables those colleges to get the cream of the prep school teams at the expense of more conscience stricken universities," the article states.

"The best means for clearing up the business would be a gentlemen's agreement applicable to students and alumni alike, putting proselyting on a standardized basis."

It was also pointed out that Cornell had 16 prep school captains on her freshman squad this year.

The 1936 Ciarla

From all indications it is apparent that the 1936 Ciarla was a financial success that will remit a substantial profit to the present senior class.

In years past this annual project was many times a financial failure which often resulted in an assessment on each senior to satisfy the deficit incurred. It is also to be remembered that this unfortunate condition occurred during more prosperous years when revenue, especially from advertising, was unlimited.

A further impediment last year was a significant price rise in the photographic and engraving industries due to their provisions under N. R. A. which fortunately does not confront the present yearbook staff. However, by means of a well planned program and efficiencies resulting from prompt action on the part of editor and business manager, the increase in code prices was overcome.

The 1936 Ciarla has gained high tribute throughout the yearbook world for its unique features and beautiful layout. Instead of indulging in extravagant and archaic decorations, the staff used simplicity and balance to produce a truly distinctive and modern college annual. This good judgment is laudable in view of the many attempts of small colleges to employ the extravagance of large universities in their yearbooks. The result is always the same—a monetary headache.

The officers, their staffs, and their advisor deserve well-earned recognition for their model production, the 1936 Ciarla.

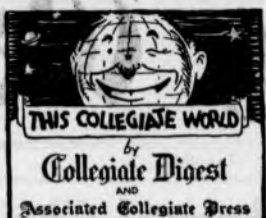

The New Resolution

After serious disorder and damage in the dormitories from time to time, Student Council a few weeks ago discussed the desirability of instituting a proctorship to maintain order. Last Monday, after a study of the situation, the council decided that system would be impractical and unpopular, and instead passed a resolution making each man responsible for his conduct and at the same time a potential proctor, who can report any infringement upon his right by another student to the council. It is thus virtually an honor system.

This plan is more idealistic, and it is questionable as to how successful it will be. However, it is most desirable and certainly deserves the support of the student body. Likewise, if any charges are brought before student council that are proven, it should use its authority and punish the offender if respect for its power is to be maintained.

It is unfortunate that the college men cannot dress, speak, and in every way conduct themselves at all times as gentlemen. If they are the ones who are expected to assume positions of leadership in the future, a primary requisite is the respect of one's fellowman and his rights. The new resolution is a test of this admirable and necessary quality of a representative college student.

Many times students are at a loss to know the methods of dealing properly with the problems confronting them. It is to the Administration that a governing body usually turns for advice. Only through cooperation between these two departments can the desired ends be accomplished.

In better circles it is known as being a sychophant, although upon many college campi, the phrase "apple polishing" neatly covers the same ground.

We think we have discovered the ultimate in refined apple polishing. In one of our state universities, which the Rockefeller foundation would no doubt list among the 10 best, a young man labored long and hard upon a thesis for his M.A. One of these things: "The Influence of Sixteenth Century Philosophy Upon So and So". The examining committee turned down the poor boy because one member violently dissented with the majority report. Feeling certain he had covered the ground very well, the cagey boy made quiet inquiries as to the dissenter's reasons. He found:

That the professor had objected to the paper because, in the bibliography, the writer had not included mention of a five-page paper on the subject written by the professor some 20 years ago.

The boy re-wrote the thesis, cited and quoted from the paper, and passed the examination nicely, thank you.

Physical culture item:

Thirteen of 14 house mothers in sororities at the University of Michigan have gone on record to the effect that their pretty charges are not a bit exhausted on Saturday mornings, after Friday night's usual festivities.

This is probably important since the August Michigan Daily tells about it on page one. We feel sure if everyone will just think hard a moment we will discover the significance of the story. On the other hand it may be that the editors of the Michigan Daily like the editor of this column, just had a hole to fill in the day's copy.

An obliging correspondent tells of a young student at a state university in the deep south who had a merry time making a "B" average. His family was voting right, says the correspondent. Then he transferred to a private college and his marks went steadily down until, in an effort to recoup, he plagiarized another's work and was expelled.

In this little problem, you must understand, the student's ability is the constant, and the academic standards are the variables.

Now to complete the problem, you have to name the state university involved.

Peace Notes:

At the University of Kansas, while a peace demonstration was in progress, scoffers constructed a snow man, hung a placard about its neck which said "Down with Pacifism."

Student's Father Claims Hauptmann Innocent of Crime

The Rev. John Matthiesen, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Trenton, N. J., and father of Paul Matthiesen, senior class member, is the new spiritual adviser for Bruno Richard Hauptmann who has been sentenced to die for the kidnapping and murder of Baby Lindbergh. The Rev. Mr. Matthiesen says he is convinced that Hauptmann is innocent of the New Jersey crime.

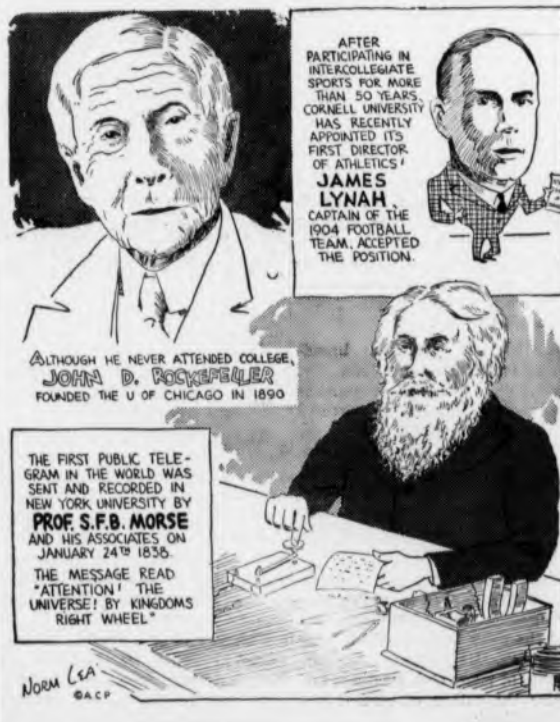

According to the accounts received by Paul, his father said that Hauptmann was not "of the criminal type" but was "a gentleman and child of God." The pastor said that "a child of God does not lie. I am afraid the stage is being set for a drama of supreme importance to the state and nation. May all the children of God pray that such actions may be avoided and that justice may be done."

In New York school children paraded down the streets bearing a clay replica of a scaly dinosaur. Placards said, "All Armor Plate, No Brains." "This Animal Believed in Preparedness, He is Now Extinct."

John da Grassa, president of the American Football Institute, declares with vehemence that gambling in football games has become a national mania and is involving thousands of young high school students at the moment. To check all this, he would put a stop to the practice of sports writers "predicting" the outcome of games everywhere.

"Favorites" in horse racing, win about 35 per cent of the time, he says. Boxing favorites win 50 per cent of their contests, while in football, the favorites win about 85 per cent of the time.

CAMPUS CAMERA

CAMPUS CHATTER

Prof. I. M. Wright is "mighty interested" in the efforts of several members of his classes to record the number of times he uses his famous expression during lecture periods. Since he has discovered that he is being checked he is making valiant endeavors to suppress the desire; but habits that have been acquired during the flow of the years are hard to break. It might also be interesting to record the "don't cha know" chain.

WE'LL BITE: ARE YOU MEN?

When asked the difference between Muhlenberg students and Lehigh men, a girl replied, "Berg boys can get drunk on beer, Lehigh students can't." Are we men . . . or are we men?

—Brown and White.

"Tee-dee" sure does get the handshaking! The other day his class in English pulled the ace of the season. As the class was dismissed and the boys arose to leave they filed past the desk and each one deposited a "five-center" on the throne. Talk about burnt offerings!

The prize freshman comes from Southern California. He filled out the church preference on the registration blank as "red brick".

Flash! Frank Boyer, who still uses the magnifying glass with the razor, had the nerve to go into a barber-shop and get a "shave".

The latest on the absent-minded professor comes from Wabash college. On returning home he found a woman in his bed. On asking her why she was there he received the answer, "Well I like this bed. I like this neighborhood. I like this house, and I like this room. And anyway, I'm your wife."

A BERG'S-EYE VIEW

I go to Muhlenberg College

In order to extend my knowledge.

One class I have is physics

To which I pay tri-weekly visits.

The professor's name is Dr. Zartman.

If called on, I say "Have a heart, man"

Another subject is Bible

Which teaches us never to drink a high-ball.

History is taught by Dr. Jackson

Who our memories is always taxin'.

So naive and innocent are the frosh

Not a one of them can raise a mustoshe.

An extremely pleasant subject is Latin

Although it offers few opportunities for batin'

My favorite subject is logic

One which is, however, hodge-pogdic.

I have a year of ancient Greek,

In my mind I can't make it steek

My favorite sport is tennis

Which is one of my best friennis.

In the Recreation Hall I play ping-pong

While the radio plays with a tone sing-song.

A game which arouses interest is checkers

The fellow bet on it many smeckers

In the evening around the campus

The grass is very, very dampus.

The boys are initiating instructor Conklin as a true Muhlenberg prof. Recently they went into the huddle and locked the door of his classroom—with him on the outside.

TROUBLE

Getting out this column is no picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we clip things from other papers we are too lazy to write them ourselves.

If we stick close to the task all day, we ought to be out digging up material.

If we do go out and try some snooping, we ought to mind our own "so and so" business.

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius.

And if we do this column is filled with junk.

Now, like as not, some one of youse will say we swiped this from some magazine.

WE DID (we didn't mean to—honest).

—heartily seconded by Campus Chatter editor.

Wetherhold was observed tinkering with the cords of two of the new library lights. After watching the ritual for quite a while the gentleman was asked to explain himself. It develops that he had it all figured out, with the aid of a knife blade across two terminals, how he could pull the switch of the one lamp and make the opposite one light. Maybe the librarian should donate a couple of lamps for purposes of experimentation.

WHERE WOULD WE PUT THE MINISTERS?

Law students at Indiana University were challenged to a game of "donkey" baseball by the medical students.

The "lawyers" refused on the grounds that they would be at a disadvantage. "The medicos have more jackasses than we have!"

MY CAR

I drive this bus around, gee,
It's always sure to hound me
For my very last cent;
I'm broke or badly bent.

Say boy, let's have some gas,
This car of mine won't pass
A station without stopping.
Buying gas keeps me hopping.

Say lad, just fill her up,
Each chug burns up a cup
Of the volatile juice.
I'm broke again. What's the use.

M.C.A. Members Attend Eta Sigma Phi Will Annville Convention Meet Tomorrow Night

The Muhlenberg Christian Association was represented at the Y. M. C. A. convention held at Lebanon Valley college, Annville, last Friday and Saturday. Walter H. Guigley, Joseph L. Schantz, and Julius J. Kish represented the local campus body.

Speakers for the day were Dr. Robert J. Black, field secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and Charles P. Wuerenberger, general manager of the Conroy-Prugh Glass Company of Pittsburgh.

Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Dr. Harry H. Reichard, 2139 Allen street. The program, as outlined by the program committee, will be based on the theme, "The Greek Genius and Its Meaning to Us." The phases to be discussed will be an "Introduction" by Rollin G. Shaffer, "The Note of Beauty" by Warren C. Schlegel, and "The Note of Freedom" by Walter H. Guigley.

Literary Reviews

By T. R. Weiss '38

This week I wish to examine a distinct phase of Wolfe's work—the setting of his books. Wolfe dates on the philosophy of gregariousness. With the greatest gusto he takes "a bath of multitude". Eagerly he looks into a myriad of strange faces seeking a face he has seen and known before (in accordance somewhat with Plato's doctrine of recollection). Wholly he gives himself up to the transient wave of popular frenzy till battered and torn by the varied wlls of hesitant thousands. Avidly he drinks of the many-ranged juices of diverse characters, shakes these ingredients into his own singular cocktail, and imbibes indefinitely, until glutted he staggers about in ecstatic drunkenness until the whine of self is lost in the rumbling organ tone of rushing multitude. Himself a bottle he shatters against the sides of many bottles and blends his eager essence with theirs. He has known the joy of the Bacchanalian grape, of metempsychosis—temporary appearance and existence in another's body. Through this medium he has broken the narrow bounds of self, the one-toned chains of individualism, and has lustrated himself in new personalities. His own grain he has rubbed against others till by friction he has aroused the sparks of new fire. In the manner of the Xenophonians Greeks the dirt of vigorous prejudices—the dross of the precious metal—he scrapes off by means of the strigil of commingled human nature. Here indeed is life lived solely for the love of living and learning—learning the secret of life. Here is the joy, the beatitude of a Columbus at the sight of a long-sought New World, of an Isaiah in the midst of his blinded people, of a St. Augustine in the troubled current of unknowing souls.

Yet ever there is a loneliness, the solitude of the crowd—that which makes one feel more desolate, barren, and alone than existence in a lonely study peopled only by one's own thoughts. For this reason he feverishly seeks "a stone, a leaf, an unfound door", escape from the "incommunicable prison of this earth". And at length, deriving but transitory release through the hurly-burly of the serried day, in common with every other modern, he searches further and beguiles himself into believing that he finds consolation in the brilliance, the glare of artificial lights. Through his books this dazzling glitter ever shines.

Someone, on the other hand, has declared that there is little of the natural, of rain and storm in Wolfe's books—two factors usually so vital in a man's life. But evidently that person has not completely apprehended the Wolfian spirit. Of rain in his characters (especially Eugene's father!) there is more than enough. Indeed rain saturates certain scenes and occasionally whole chapters. And as for storm, in fact were there more we must undoubtedly see the flash of lightning and hear the crash of thunder; always our ears must be confounded by the raging of the elements.

WOMAN GETS DEGREE

For the first time in its history, Franklin and Marshall college granted an honorary degree to a woman, incident to the inauguration last Friday of Dr. John A. Schaeffer as the seventh president of the institution. The recipient of this honor was Emily Newell Blair, of Washington, D. C., author and lecturer, upon whom was conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws.

SPORTSWRITER HUNG IN EFFIGY AT UNIVERSITY

Durham, N. C. (ACP)—Aroused by an article he had written, Duke University students hung Dan Parker, veteran sportswriter for the New York Daily Mirror, in effigy and then burned the "body." A column by Parker, entitled "North Carolina Burns Up Duke," was reprinted in the Chronicle, student paper. The students, already at a high pitch of excitement over the impending North Carolina game, found the article annoying. A gallows was immediately erected and Parker given the leading role in a lynching by proxy. Duke won the game, 7-0.

21 REPORT FOR BASKETBALL PRACTICE

55 Frosh Report To Coach Gutteron For Cage Practice

Largest Freshman Basketball Squad in Years Out for Sport

PLAYING SCHEDULE IS STILL IN FORMATION

Fifty-five men have reported to Coach "Bill" Gutteron in response to his call for candidates for freshman basketball. Gutteron replaces "Jeff" James who coached the frosh cagemen last year.

The first practice was held yesterday in the gym room of the college. The schedule for the team is in the process of formation, although the team will probably play the preliminaries for the varsity games.

Last year the school boasted a fine freshman team until the class semester ratings appeared, and with their appearance the frosh team disappeared. So many of the players were declared ineligible because of low grades that it was necessary to form a junior varsity team to complete the schedule of the freshman team. It must be confessed that the Jay-Vee quintet did not amass an enviable record and it is hoped that the boys will pay due attention to the studies this year.

The freshman team will probably play the freshman teams of other colleges as well as various city league outfits for the preliminaries to the varsity tilts.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE OPENING PLAY

Gregorius (Leo), Luther Bealer (Art), Charles Diehl (Remorse), and John Sylvester (Mike Connelly). The feminine parts are played by Allentown residents who have distinguished themselves in dramatic activities. They include Miss Anna Miller (Peggy), Miss Myra Bury (Mrs. Connelly), and Miss Irene Peters (Emmy).

Final plans for the production were made at a special meeting of the club members held last Thursday. A new stage set has been erected and additional lighting equipment installed for the production.

Officers of Mask and Dagger are: President Joseph L. Schantz; vice-president, Paul Matthiesen; secretary, Frederick Gregorius; treasurer, John Bianco.

In a recent experiment, 28 Vassar College (Poughkeepsie, N. Y.) students gained weight and maintained good health at a cost of 43 cents per day for food.

Season's Opening Cage Game With Drexel Dragons At Philadelphia On January 8; Initial Conference Tilt

Large Squad Reports to Coach Johnny Utz for First Workout; Team This Year Will Be Small But Fast

The sports scene changes from the windswept gridiron to the basketball court as twenty-one men go through their paces every school evening on the Prep school floor under the watchful eyes of Coach Johnny Utz. With the dismal football season a thing of the past Coach Utz is holding scrimmages every afternoon in order to determine those who will remain on the squad.

As in former years most of the team practices will be held on the Prep school floor. The games will again be played in the "Little Palestra" of the Allentown High school. This year's team will be without the services of "Legs" Leibensperger, Gene Lepore, Lou Cuchran, Joe Rodgers, and Joe Skrovanek, who were graduated last spring. There remains, however, a good nucleus of sophomores and juniors.

Last season the Cardinal and Gray five got off to roaring start, capturing eleven straight games. Then came the depression and four out of six slipped out of the Mules' grasp to shove Muhlenberg into second place in the conference. Last year's "senior five" is gone and the torch has now been handed to the twenty-one.

Following are the veterans who have reported for practice. Francis Knouss, center or forward position veteran of last year; Dean Zweier, a hold-over center; Ed Farrell, veteran guard; Gene Grossman, another letter-winning guard; Joseph Santopoli, accurate-shooting forward; Tom Kennedy, a steady, last-year guard; Bill Laing, a guard-forward; and Harry Kern, a guard.

Other candidates for the team positions are: Thomas Weaver, forward or center; Tom Thomas, a guard-center; Bob Pharo, a guard; and Alan Patterson, Paul McGinley, Ken Poust, Woodrow Wendling, Donald Feyrer, Jack Schenk, James Kohler, Thomas Hartman, Charles Kern, and Charles Garretson.

Four weeks from today the Mules will open their cage season playing the Drexel Dragons at their Philadelphia gymnasium.

COUNCIL TO ENFORCE STUDENT BODY RULES

body adopted the following resolution whereby the members unanimously agreed to act as a judiciary body and deal out punishments accordingly for any infringements of the rules. The resolution reads as follows:

"Each member of the student body shall take it upon himself to live up to the regulations of the student body as defined in the constitution and report any infringements to the Student Council to act as a judiciary body in cooperation with the Administration."

Following its adoption President Koehler explained that the keeping of order on and about the campus rests primarily with the student body as a whole and that Council, while determined to inflict stringent penalties on all offenders, would act in the capacity only as a judiciary body. Any reports of disorderly conduct will be given prompt consideration by its members.

Although upper-classmen can in most cases demand the respect of offenders in the dorms and usually are able to quiet disturbances without further complaint, it was also pointed out that Council is desirous to hear reports when any property is destroyed. This, it was said, was the most serious offense.

A special meeting of dormitory students will be held sometime next week at which time President Koehler and Registrar Benfer will further explain in detail the ruling of the college governing body.

"The more scholarly young women are the outstanding figures in the social and athletic life of the college," says Prof. J. Elliott Janney, of Western College (Oxford, Ohio).

Cage Manager

RUSSELL H. DERR

The management of varsity basketball this season will be in the hands of Russell H. Derr. He is a member of the senior class, studying for a B.S. degree, and has served as an assistant cage manager for the past two years.

John Marshall Club Told "Ethics Of Law"

Francis Knouss and Herbert Haas conducted the bi-monthly meeting of the John Marshall Prelaw group held last Wednesday afternoon in the seminar room of the library. The speech was given by the former on the "Ethics of Law," while Haas questioned the speaker on the different points outlined. Afterwards a discussion was held by the group.

Before the speech a business meeting was held at which time plans were made for later programs. Through pamphlets which the society hopes to obtain from the American Bar Association, the group will study the different phases of a lawyer's requirements.

"Gee, I won't be able to go to the J-Hop," was the exclamation of an Alma College (Alma, Mich.) student after being severely burned on the hands from an explosion in chemistry laboratory.

Freshmen Eligible For Competition In Spring Athletics

Conference Officials Pass New Ruling at Harrisburg Meeting

TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT DICKINSON COLLEGE

Freshman athletes in colleges which are members of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference will be eligible for varsity competition in spring sports as the result of a new rule passed last Saturday by the conference officials at their meeting in the Penn-Harris hotel, Harrisburg.

Heretofore a student had to reside at the college one year before he was allowed to play in any conference games. On Saturday this one-year resident rule was changed to a semester and a half, which will permit first-year men to participate in all spring sports but in no fall or winter games.

On Muhlenberg's campus the new ruling will vitally affect the three spring sports of tennis, track and baseball. Baseball for freshmen here has been out of the question for some time, while the yearlings have had to confine their tennis and track ability to intramural competition.

At Saturday's meeting Dickinson College was awarded the conference track meet to be held at Carlisle on May 9. Gettysburg was declared conference soccer champion and Franklin and Marshall the cross-country title holder.

Registrar H. A. Benfer and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, members of the Athletic Board of Control, represented Muhlenberg at the session.

The next meeting will be held May 11 at Ursinus college.

Members of the conference are Dickinson, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Muhlenberg and Ursinus.

"Professor Haas has become particularly recognized in educational circles for his work in college administration, theology and philosophy.

"As a result of the splendid management policies which have been in force at Muhlenberg, this college is today in a sound condition and is noted for its high scholastic standards.

"Such work as is being accomplished there by President Haas is extremely important we feel at this time in the educational progress of the Nation."

Elect Juniors To Manage Freshmen

New System Being Used When Lichtenwalner Fails to Return

The college freshman basketball team this year will be without a manager of its own. Under a new system set up for this season by the faculty committee of the Athletic Board of Control three junior scrub managers will serve one month each as manager for the frosh squad.

The arrangement has been made necessary because of the withdrawal from college of Charles Lichtenwalner, frosh manager-elect. Lichtenwalner registered this fall at the Philadelphia School of Osteopathy.

Lloyd Zimmerman, Sidney Jaffe, and Henry Satsky are the juniors who will manage the freshman team this season. Drawings were held last week to decide which month each man would be responsible. The results showed Zimmerman assigned to December, Jaffe to January, and Satsky in February.

At the conclusion of the playing season one of the three will be elected varsity manager for next year while another will be chosen to manage the freshman squad. The elections will be based on the work of the men this year.

Dickinson's Paper Would Drop F.&M. As Grid Opponent

Carlisle School Seriously Considering Break With Diplomats

SERIES EXTENDS OVER PERIOD OF 46 YEARS

The forty-six-year gridiron rivalry between Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall appears to be on its last leg.

Undergraduates of the Carlisle school, in an editorial, "Looking Back", published last week in "The Dickinsonian", weekly student paper, request that football relations with F. and M. be severed—after 1936, as next year's schedule has already been adopted and approved by the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Conference, and Dickinson athletic officials.

College authorities refuse to comment on the F. and M. situation, which is the "talk of the town" on the Dickinson campus. But it is a known fact that officials are seriously considering a "break" with the Diplomats within the next year.

The same gridiron situation prevails on the Gettysburg College campus. Rumors circulate across the Battlefield campus that Gettysburg officials are planning to end gridiron activities with Franklin and Marshall after more than forty odd years of competition, ending another of Central Pennsylvania's oldest and bitterest intercollegiate football feuds. Gettysburg authorities, likewise, decline to talk on the subject at this time.

A part of the Dickinson editorial reads thus:

"It is undoubtedly time now to consider dropping this game from the schedule, for such a score as was rolled up in this year's contest has a killing effect on a team, both mentally and physically," the editorial states.

MY FIRST SIX WEEKS

Alfred Meyers '39

At last all I had dreamed and hoped for was a reality. College—with all its joys, sorrows, and despairs, was here before me, offering much if I would but grasp the opportunity. Just graduated from high school, I was thrilled, frightened, and expectant. Could I make a success of myself at college, or was I to be one of many who would not bridge the gap?

During Freshman Week I had a wonderful time, but I knew that this wasn't real college life; I wanted school to begin. Of course the warm welcome which we were given pleased me; there was a spirit of friendliness about the campus. Everyone said "hello" to me; I was made to feel at home, and wasn't given a chance to feel depressed. Yet I knew all this fun couldn't go on forever; I wanted classes to commence.

Once school had begun, my enthusiasm was lessened. I had to forget about having a good time; that wasn't my purpose in coming to Muhlenberg. I studied as diligently as possible, but still my work was below par. Everything was so different, so strange; I began to realize the necessity of acclimating myself to altered conditions. I began to feel dispirited and disheartened. I had always had the erroneous idea that college was all fun, but now I was learning differently. Then I passed through that period which so many freshmen experience. I didn't like school, and I began to wish I were home. As I reflect upon it now, it makes me shudder to think of the miserable days I spent. This feeling was not to continue, however.

Gradually, I began to assume a different attitude, and my existence at Muhlenberg became happy once more.

Ultimately, I began to enjoy the social aspect of college life, about which I had heard and read so much. Rush Week came, and with it dances, banquets, and smokers. It seemed as if the only word I heard was "fraternity." I was given lectures on fraternities; I was told about the seriousness of it, and of all it had to offer. At the time it appeared to me as if all this was being taken much too seriously. "How could the mere joining of a fraternity change a person's life entirely?" I pondered.

I really began to grow proud of Muhlenberg at the first football game. The spirit was wonderful; every man was proud of his team. Here were men from all over this part of the country, most of them total strangers to each other; yet in spirit and mind they became united for one common purpose—Muhlenberg.

How I dreaded those first tests! I had thought that I no longer needed to fear tests, but here was the same strange feeling once again. Then came the posting list, which I had already learned to fear. Yes, my name was on it, but I wasn't discouraged. A month before I would have been. Now I simply said to myself: "My name isn't going to be on there the next time." I had learned to take a different attitude; I was no longer discouraged or deterred. My education had already begun.

Dr. Buchman, President Hambro Rate Literary Digest Columns

A "convert to Buchmanism" is the term applied by the Literary Digest to Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian Parliament, who appeared on Muhlenberg's campus last month.

President Hambro spoke in the college chapel on November 4. He was brought here through the efforts of Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, Muhlenberg graduate, who has founded and promoted the Oxford movement throughout the world. The issue of the Digest for November 30 prints the following article concerning the Oxford group and its influence upon leading statesmen of today.

"When he lay dying, Archbishop Nathan Söderblom of Upsala, Primate of Sweden, gave his blessing to the Oxford Group movement.

"Last week, 3,000 people of all walks of life gathered in New York's historic Metropolitan Opera House to hear Carl Joachim Hambro, President of the Norwegian Parliament since 1926, and second in power only to King Haakon VII, testify that the Oxford Group had changed his own life and swept through Norway and Denmark like wildfire.

"At noon of the same day Mr. Hambro told 300 bankers, lawyers, and business men at the Bankers' Club that Europe never would settle its problems until the statesmen themselves ceased their hypocrisy, and met on an equal basis of honesty and unselfishness in accordance with the fundamentals of Christian ethics.

"The Oxford Group, or First Century Christian Fellowship, began more than twenty years ago, when Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman was Y. M. C. A. Secretary at Pennsylvania State College.

Open Confession
"To Oxford university Doctor Buchman carried his method—open confession, 'sin-sharing,' and a 'quiet time,' or 'two-way prayer with God,' through which, it is claimed, comes spiritual guidance.

"Jokes are the oldest thing on earth," says Prof. Richard Marvin, of Northwestern University (Evanston, Ill.) who has been collecting and cataloging them for many years.

The movement has spread through fifty countries.

"Embraced in its membership are lords and ladies, former Communists, Socialists, Rhodes scholars, professors, ministers, bankers, brokers, and newspaper men.

"Religious leaders have showered the movement with benedictions. Also it has received some criticism. More than two years ago Dr. Halford E. Luccock, Professor of Homiletics in the Yale University Divinity School, wrote in the now defunct The World Tomorrow that in place of the 'moral majesty of the God of Jesus the emphasis on guidance in the most inconsequential details of etiquette and daily program expresses a conception of a deity almost completely absorbed in sending down hourly directions to his favorites.'

"Different testimony comes from the short, rotund, and merry-eyed President of the Norwegian Parliament:

"Here in America, your leading statesmen have ably diagnosed the fundamental national needs as a moral and spiritual renaissance. In Norway, our need is the same, and this past year, through the work of the Oxford Group, I have seen that need being adequately met for the first time in our history.

"But it is not enough for a country like mine to find such an experience. A great nation like America must demonstrate to the world that spiritual leadership which alone can save civilization."

"Other speakers were Doctor Buchman and Carl Vrooman, of Bloomington, Illinois, who was Assistant Secretary of Agriculture under President Wilson.

"If you want to change the world on the outside, said Mr. Vrooman, you have got to change yourself, and everybody else, on the inside, for the New Deal will lie not in the ballot-box, or in a popular uprising, but in the well-springs of the human will."

When a letter was refused Jim Tolbert, husky University of Texas lineman, because he swung at an official after a game, he was presented with a mounted trophy by his teammates.

Forensic Council Lists 17 Debates For Coming Season

Southern Tour Likely to Be Arranged After Holidays

11 COLLEGES INCLUDED ON YEAR'S SCHEDULE

Seventeen debates are listed on Muhlenberg's varsity schedule for this year as announced this week by Richard G. Miller '36, president of the Forensic Council.

In addition to the forensic tilts which will include meets with eleven colleges and universities, negotiations are now under way for the debaters to make a trip south during the early spring when Duke, North Carolina State, and the University of Richmond will probably be met. If present plans for the tour are completed, Muhlenberg will be ready to carry out one of the most extensive forensic programs in its history.

The questions to be argued by the local speakers this year are as follows: Resolved, that congress should be empowered to override by a two-thirds vote decisions of the United States supreme court declaring acts of congress unconstitutional. 2. Resolved, that the constitution should be amended so that congress may control intrastate commerce.

The squad is again this year being coached by Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, of the English department. Charles F. Diehl '37, is assistant debate manager. The 1936 schedule.

Mask And Dagger Delights In Play

Theatrical Club Presents "Laff That Off" To Large Audiences

The old adage "they never come back" was completely disproven last Wednesday and Thursday nights when, after a year of inactivity, the Mask and Dagger club staged a grand comeback in presenting its opening play "Laff That Off", a three-act comedy skit written by Don Mullally.

The breezy dialogues and humorous situations as well as the fine character portrayals gave evidence of Mrs. Conklin's excellent ability to pick a capable cast which held its audience throughout the entire show.

The three acts were set in the living room of a bachelor's apartment occupied by three boys with the setting one of the finest ever built here for an amateur performance. Charles Diehl, Luther Bealer and Fred Gregorius were the three boys in the apartment with the girl friend who causes most of the trouble, Anna Miller. Character bits were performed by Myra Bury and Irene Peters with John Sylvester doing a splendid bit of characterization as the inebriate husband of Myra Bury.

Large audiences were present each night to witness the splendid

Intramural Debate Teams Keep Going

Phikatys, T. U. O., Cardinals and G Hall Victors in Preliminaries

Two fraternity and two non-fraternity teams emerged victorious in the opening meet of the annual intramural debating contest held last Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the Administration building.

The question argued by members of the eight teams in action that night was "Resolved, that the United States Should Place an Embargo Upon all Trade with Italy." The winning fraternity teams were Phi Kappa Tau who defeated Theta Kappa Nu, and Theta Upsilon Omega, victorious over Alpha Tau Omega. The Cardinals and G Hall, two non-fraternity groups, won from the Grays and the Mules respectively.

The debates were begun at 7 o'clock and continued until 11 p. m. when the final between the Cardinals and the Grays was completed. Critic judge for the first two encounters, including the Mules vs. G Hall and P. K. T. vs. T. K. N., was Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department. The second group was judged by Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, professor of English.

A further elimination this week was to bring together P. K. T. against G Hall and T. U. O. with the Cardinals. The Mules, defeated last week by G. Hall, were scheduled to meet the Non-Frats, a ninth team which drew a bye in

Ted Black To Play For Senior Ball At Mealey's on Jan. 10

Tickets Placed on Sale This Week at $2.50 Per Couple

ORCHESTRA PROMINENT FOR RADIO BROADCASTS

"Ted" Black and his "original" nationally famed orchestra of the Columbia broadcasting system has been definitely engaged for the Senior Ball to be held at Mealey's auditorium, Friday evening, January 10, 1936.

This favorite orchestra, after playing in Havana at the Hotel Presidente in 1932, returned to the United States for a series of radio appearances on the major networks which made them famous from coast to coast. They were also featured at various New York night spots. During the fall and winter seasons of 1932 and 1933, Ted Black and his band were presented at the Village Barn, well-known Greenwich Village restaurant. More recently, the orchestra has been appearing at the Cafe Loyale at Fifth avenue and Forty-third street, New York.

Saxophones and woodwinds predominate in the "Ted" Black scheme of harmonies producing a distinctive pattern of slow, sweet music which places this orchestra definitely in a class by itself.

Tickets for the dance will go on sale today and can be purchased from any member of the committee which consists of Charles Kline, chairman, David Smith, Albert Herzenberg, James Turrell, Lewis Varricio, Theodore Fischer, Bernard Blackman, Warren Schlegel, Clarence Ritter, Henry Wagner, Karl Lehr, Joseph Schantz, Paul Matthiesen. The price of admission is $2.50 per couple. Dancing will be from 9 to 2 o'clock.

NEXT "WEEKLY" JAN. 15

This issue of The Muhlenberg Weekly is the last to be edited in 1935. Another edition will not be published until next year. You will receive your next copy on January 15, 1936. The staff wishes you all "A Merry Christmas".

Old Muhlenberg Cane Now In Possession Of College

A hickory cane, supposedly one used by that Lutheran patriot and founder of the eminent Muhlenberg family, Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, has come into possession of the college through the efforts of interested Northampton residents.

The mahogany-finished piece was given to the college by the Misses Maria and Harriet Howell, of East twenty-first street and Lincoln avenues in Northampton. The Rev. Warren C. Heinly '28, also of that place, was instrumental in securing the cane for the college. The handle of the relic is made from a deer horn on which are carved the initials H. M.

Guest of honor for the evening and principal speaker is to be William E. Brandt, graduate in the class of 1911, and who at present is manager of the service bureau of the National League of professional baseball clubs.

"Bill", as he is more familiarly known, was born in Philadelphia, October 30, 1891. He was graduated from Central High school in his native city and the Philadelphia School of Osteopathy, having prepared here for the latter institution.

He was engaged in the newspaper business continuously from September of 1911 until July of last year when he resigned from the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger staff to assume the position

Reading Attorney Will Become Honorary Member of Fraternity

Continuing a precedent set last year to initiate one honorary member into their organization each term, members of Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity have chosen to receive the honor this year George B. Balmer, Reading attorney and member of the college Board of Trustees.

Acceptance of the invitation to become an honorary member of Alpha Epsilon circle was received from Attorney Balmer this week. He will be taken into membership next month at the initiation for the men tapped this morning. The ceremony is to be held in the Americus hotel.

Attorney Balmer was born in Reading on February 8, 1902 and was graduated from the Reading High school in 1919. Choristers Heard In Third Concert

Musicians Sing Before Large Congregation At Sellersville

Members of the college choir completed a series of pre-holiday engagements last Sunday evening when, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, they presented a concert in St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Sellersville. The evening's program included a group of nine numbers, all but two of which were sung a cappella. The church was filled to capacity to hear the choir sing its third concert before that congregation. The choristers appeared there during 1932 and 1933.

Two other engagements for the musicians prior to the Christmas vacation were at St. John's Lutheran Church and at Christ Lutheran, both in this city. A radio broadcast was also sung over stations WCBA-WSAN. The concert sung at Sellersville was as follows:

"Laudamus" (Old Welsh chorale), Protheroe; "A Song of Joy", Gretchaninoff, arr. by McKinney; "Give Ear Unto My Prayer", Arcadelt; "Hospodi Pomiloi", Lvovsky, arr. by Weaver; "I Need Thee Every Hour", Gould; "While Shepherds Watched Their Sheep", Arr. by Jungst; "When the Day of Toil is Done", Nevin; "Psalm 150", Frauck; "Alma Mater", Kistler, arr. by Marks.

Congratulations For Mask And Dagger

Beyond any measure of doubt Mask and Dagger's opening play of the year was one of the best ever presented by a Muhlenberg theatrical club. By some students and alumni who have taken part in other dramatic productions here it was termed "the best" play ever staged by local directors.

We agree with these statements and all the other nice things that were said about the show. It truly represented what can be done with talent when developed to the proper point by a hand of experience. Mrs. Conklin is especially to be congratulated for her success in choosing such a fine cast of players from students who were total strangers to her when the choice was made. The players were picked only on the basis of their try-outs.

It can safely be said that Mask and Dagger established a following of thespian admirers who will lend their support for future productions. Here and there appeared little flaws as could be expected in the initial performance, but they will tend only to make the players and director strive for better things in the future.

The stage and property men come in for their share of glory for their carefully planned work was of no little assistance to the cast proper. The stage arrangement and lighting effects are surely worthy of sincere commendation.

It is with no thought of discrediting past performances of Mask and Dagger that we boast of the present organization for in years past Muhlenberg dramatics held a high place in this section. However, we are proud of the present society and again offer our congratulations for "Laff That Off" and extend best wishes for future success.

An Unethical Practice

Another act unbecoming college men has come to the attention of local authorities—namely the clipping and tearing of pages from newspapers and magazines in the library.

This practice has been going on for some time and while it is not so easy to catch up with the guilty parties those in charge of the periodicals have learned who is responsible for some of the work.

Two reasons appear obvious why such a condition might prevail. Either the student wants the "exclusive right" to copy some report from the periodicals or else he wants to make sure no one checks back on any material he might have used for class work. The one shows extreme selfishness; the other a tendency on the part of Muhlenberg students to "get by" by hook or crook and an attempt to "beat the rap".

Books, magazines, and newspapers are placed on the library shelves in abundance for the use of all students, faculty members and campus visitors. They are the property of the college and should be treated in that manner. Any practice contrary to this is nothing less than an act of thievery.

Sympathy should be heaped upon those students who tear from the daily newspapers crossword puzzles with which to find amusement during class periods.

The power and integrity of the Student Council was challenged by recent disturbances in the dormitories. While only those guilty of the library offenses can be held responsible for the work, nevertheless the Council might well continue its task of reformation.

Perhaps a word of warning will be sufficient—it should be when the tracks are becoming more easy to scent.

O. D. K. TAPS SIX AT CEREMONY TODAY men on the honor they had received.

Mr. Holstrom, who spoke just before the tapping, said in part: "To you young men who are to be tapped today, I would say it is indeed an honor for you to have proven yourselves to be outstanding in some particular field as well as to be a good fellow. It means you are not narrow; you have the best interests of the college at heart and have played an important part in the life of Muhlenberg, and will continue to do so after your college days are over. Whatever may be your field of endeavor, it plays its leading role and, by enabling you to meet the other boys who have proven themselves outstanding in their respective field and allowing ideas to crystallize from your associations or melting pot, as it were, tends to broaden your own vision, and from this, really worthwhile opinions will be evident on this campus."

Chairman of today's ceremonies was Leonard C. Hodgkinson, president of Alpha Epsilon circle. He was assisted by student members of the society including Bernard Blackman, Richard G. Miller, Theodore L. Fischer, Joseph S. Keiper, Edward T. Horn, Earl A. Koch, and James Turrell. The new men and their campus activities are as follows:

The Song Of The Shepherds

Haste, O people, all are bidden—
Haste from places high or hidden:
In Mary's Child the kingdom comes,
the heaven in beauty bends!
He has made all life completer:
He has made the Plain Way sweeter,
For the stall is His first shelter and the cattle His first friends.

He has come! the skies are telling;
He has quit the glorious dwelling;
And first the tidings came to us,
the humble shepherd folk.
He has come to field and manger,
And no more is God a Stranger:
He comes as Common Man at home with cart and crooked yoke.

As the shadow of a cedar
To a traveler in Gray Kedar
Will be the kingdom of His love, the kingdom without end.
Tongues and ages may disclaim Him,
Yet the heaven of heavens will name Him
Lord of peoples, Light of nations, elder Brother, tender Friend.

NINE GAMES ON 1936 GRID CARD

Cardinal And Gray Gridders To Open Sept. 26th With Lafayette On Local Field; Play Army, Penn State Elevers

Albright Again on Schedule for Thanksgiving Day

DROP LEBANON VALLEY FORDHAM U. NEXT YEAR

A nine-game schedule has been carded for the Cardinal and Gray football team in 1936.

For the first time in the college's gridiron history the Mules will play Army, the game being listed for the afternoon of November 7 at West Point. Another new opponent on next fall's schedule is Penn State whom the Crusaders have not met since 1933 when the latter sprung a nation-wide upset to eke out a 3-0 win over the Nittany Lions.

Fordham and Lebanon Valley have been dropped from next year's card in order to keep the schedule to nine games, one less than was played during the season just ended.

The remainder of the games are to be played with Lehigh and Lafayette and the conference teams including Dickinson, Ursinus, Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall. Albright has again been booked for a Thanksgiving Day battle at Reading.

The opening tussle for the Mules next fall will be with Lafayette in a game to be played on the local gridiron. Not since the fall of 1932 have the Leopards played in Allentown. That year, before a throng of grid spectators, the Easton lads scored a 6-0 triumph over the Mules, then coached by George Holstrom.

A big November week-end appears certain when the 1936 eleven travels to West Point next year to meet the Army Mule. The Military officials have placed the game with the local squad one week before Notre Dame's Irishmen reach New York City. The Army plays

Six New Players Report To Utz For Varsity Cage Team

Basketball Squad Now Numbers 27 as Work-Outs Continue

CANDIDATES PLAY HARD TO CAPTURE POSITIONS

The polishing process continues as Coach Johnny Utz grinds the rough spots off his 1936 basketball gem. The squad has daily work-outs in the Prep school gym where the coach is at present trying to create an offensive attack which will eliminate the disadvantage caused by the absence of "Legs" Leibensperger, star center of last year's team. By using fast breaking plays Utz expects to minimize the possible loss of the tap-off.

Scrimmages are held each afternoon in which every man on the squad gets on the floor. Several of the varsity berths are still wide open and the boys are playing hard to cinch the team positions. Cuts will probably not be made until after the first game, by which time it will have been possible to see each man in action in a game.

The squad number has jumped from twenty-one to twenty-seven, with the arrival of six more candidates. Outstanding among the newcomers is Jack "Reds" Keleher, who played five years with the Bethlehem Sokols, an independent outfit. Keleher is an excellent shot and a good man on the floor. The five other men to report are: Eugene Cochran, Bill Doabler, Russ Milanick, Joe Nosal, and John Martin.

Benfer, Fasig To Talk For Football Banquet

Registrar "Haps" Benfer and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, both members of the Athletic Board of Control, will journey to Newton, N. J., this evening to speak at the annual high school football banquet in that place. Head coach of the Newton team is "Winnie" Slemmer, Muhlenberg graduate in '27 and former backfield star of the local eleven. Charles Riegel is superintendent of the Newton schools and Denton Quick is a member of the city school board. Both are Muhlenberg graduates.

DINNER SPEAKER

Coach Johnny Utz was the principal speaker last Thursday evening at a testimonial dinner given for the West Hazleton High school football team in the Altamont Hotel, Hazleton.

BASKETBALL PRICES

College authorities have announced the price of 25 cents for admission to all home basketball games. Season tickets have been placed on sale at $1.50 for the nine engagements. All games will be played in the Allentown High school gymnasium.

Mr. Brandt began his journalistic career with the Evening Star in Philadelphia. His next position was with the Evening Bulletin published in the same city and in 1912 he started on a seven-year term with the Philadelphia Record, coming back to the Bulletin in 1920. He was employed by the Public Ledger in 1923, jumped to the New York Times in 1929, then back to the Ledger in October of 1932.

He will be introduced by George B. Balmer '23, Reading attorney,

Miller '02, Allentown business man, will make the varsity awards, and Lawrence Rupp '02, local attorney, will make the freshman awards.

The cardinal "M" sweaters will be awarded to the seniors and players who earned a letter for the first time with this season's football team, while the others who played the regulation number of quarters will receive a cardinal chennille "M". Freshmen football players who took part in enough games will be awarded gray sweater coats with cardinal year numerals on the chest.

Frosh Court Team Cut To 28 Players By Coach Gutteron

Daily Practices Being Held in College Gym Room

WILL SCRIMMAGE WITH VARSITY CAGE SQUAD

Twenty-eight freshmen now constitute the basketball squad working out in the gym room of the Administration building under the tutelage of "Bill" Gutteron.

The freshman practices are being used, at the present time, to instruct the candidates in various ball handling tactics and to allow the men to practice short-range shooting. Later on the selected team will be given plays and sent to scrimmage the varsity.

While their basketball practice court is at present confined to the gym basement the frosh will probably be able to use the Prep school floor on the afternoons which the varsity squad spends at the Allentown High school floor where all games will be played.

Following are the men now on the squad: William Melick, Lee Dietrich, Ken Bachman, Karl Christman, Sam Snively, A. Gadek, Frederick Hasskarl, Gordon Williams, Gerard Kloss, Carl Meyers, Stauffer Heffner, Frank Tracy, William Hay, Warren Hodgkinson, Wilmer DeEsch, Joe McGinley, Jack Blair, Fred Hollenbach, Murray Iobst, Jerry Sidfries, Carlton Wermuth, Robert Thompson, John McKee, Herbert Karenko, Adam Matusa, Ben Cohen, John Piques and Edwin Smith.

"WOODY" SPONAUGLE TO CAPTAIN F. & M. TEAM

Woodrow Sponaugle, of Hershey, has been named captain of the Franklin and Marshall college football team for 1936. Sponaugle, who played center, was given honorable mention on several of the all-American football selections. He will be a senior next year.

CAMPUS CHATTER

The office force is spending its spare moments kidding Treibach about his friend from Cedar Crest. It seems that at the combined Christmas service Gordon had to sit in the choir on one side of the chapel while his close acquaintance sat in the choir on the other side. To all of which might be said, "So near and yet so far".

At Syracuse U. there is a secret society called the "Hot Dogs." Their slogan is, "when everyone is wearing decent clothes, we refuse to 'put on the dog.'" Membership is open only to students who receive a grade of a C minus or less in each examination they take. They wear white shoes all year around, too.

Horscroft gets the tin mug this week. The scene for the boner is laid at a recent band practice. The band was playing "Faust", and tearing along at a great rate. As the piece was nearing the half-way mark Horscroft called a halt and asked that a certain section be played over again. The leader agreed and asked where to start over. Horscroft named the point and the leader bravely attempted to find it—but it wasn't in the piece. It finally developed that Horscroft had been playing a totally different overture than had the rest of the band—and the mistake never would have been discovered if the culprit hadn't asked for the check. Maybe Horscroft is one of these non-conformists!

There is a rumor about collegiate circles which is to the effect that fraternity men at Western Reserve debated the question, "Resolved: That the shiny nose is preferable to the hole in the stocking."

The Riot Before Christmas

'Twas the nite before Xmas, when all thru the roadhouse,
Not a creature was caring, not even a souse.
The stockings were hung by the bar with care
They were worn six months and needed the air.
The inebriated were nestled all snug on the floor
They weren't seeing double, they were seeing four.
And mamma in her gown, and I in my tux
Had just settled our bill for fifteen bucks.
When out on the highway there arose such a din
I sprang from my chair after a swallowing some gin.
Away to the window I flew like Hades
Tore open the shutters and threw up the shades.
The moonshine which I had imbibed just now
Gave a haziness of fog to the objects below
When what before my blundering eyes should roll
But eight tiny cars and a police patrol.
With a little old driver so lively and quick
I knew in a moment it must be Kelly the dick.
More rapid than eagles his men they came
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name.
"Now Clancy, now O'Brien, surround the bright side.
On Casey, on Murphy, on Hooligan, the right side
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall
Now surround them good, surround them all.
So up to the roadhouse-top they flew
With their hands full of gats and machine guns too.
As I drew in my hand and was turning about
In thru the door strode "Sarge" Kelly with a shout.
He was dressed in brass buttons from his head to his feet
And his whole being was permeated with conceit.
His eyes how they twinkled, his pimples how merry
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a berry.
The stump of a cigar he held tight in his mouth
His whole appearance was very uncouth.
He had a broad face and a little round tummy
That shook when he laughed—you knew he was a rummy.
He was chubby and plump,—and oh, what do you tank?
His breath coming out was very rank.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
"Up with your hands, you bums," he said.
"You're under arrest, this is a raid."
Then he looked around at the sensation he made
Give me a thousand and I'll let you go free.
The gang got together, and gave him the money
And inside his pocket putting the dough
He backed out of the door and started to go.
He sprang to his car, to his men gave a shout
And away they all flew, every last lout.
But I heard him exclaim as he drew out of sight,
"Happy Xmas to all, get good and tight."

What is this S. L. B. fraternity, recently organized in the dorms?

According to a professor of psychology at Oregon State Teachers', fellows who receive A's are usually the meek and submissive type who can be molded to suit the prof's will. The independent and defiant type average a C.

Every one is taking a poll of something just now and so we decided to take one on the subject of "mercy-killings". We interviewed thirty-five students in the library, the other day and the poll shows the following reaction concerning the question. Nineteen students favored the act of "killing for mercy", while sixteen students were recorded as objecting to the idea. Thus we have a fair picture of what the college student's ideas are on the subject.

The freshman handbook at Harvard contains the following caution: "Don't, if you are in lodgings, get too familiar with the landlady's daughter, as she is probably more clever than you are. With other men's landlady's daughters you may be less particular, but even then, take care."

A CHRISTMAS ANNUAL FOR AMERICA

A characteristic type of printer's craft in many Scandinavian and other European countries is the Christmas Annual, a unique publication embodying in literature, song, and pictorial art the spirit of Christmas.

Happily a contribution of this type has been made in this country by the issuing of "Christmas," an American Annual of Christmas Literature and Art, edited by Randolph E. Haugan.

The fifth annual volume of "Christmas" has just been issued and in it there is much to be enjoyed and permanently admired—such as the original and reproduced art works, worthy to be framed. Its many pages are filled with Christmas articles, Stories, Carols, Photographs, Poetry, and illustrations in oils, water-colors, and wood-cuts.

Among the authors are included Edwin Markham, N. M. Ylvisaker, P. O. Bersell, Lois Lenski, Archer Wallace, Clarence Lund, Margaret Eggleston, and others.

The art work is that of such leading designers and artists as Knute Heldner, R. J. Norman, John Ellingboe, and Herschel Logan.

In its entirety "Christmas" is a fortunate borrowing of a continental custom—a worthy addition to the festivity and significance of the coming holidays.

Band Plays Carols

In keeping with preparations for the Christmas season, members of the college band, clad in their Cardinal and Gray uniforms, played carols on and about the campus last Monday afternoon.

The musicians formed on the first floor of the Administration building to serenade those employed in the administration offices. Next they paraded to Allen street and over the College Heights section to play before homes of faculty members. Their tour was ended at the home of President Haas where they were served with ice cream and cookies.

The band wishes to extend greetings of the season to all members of the faculty whom they were unable to serenade on Monday.

LEIFELD SPEAKER FOR M. C. A. CHAPEL SERVICE

"There is nothing new in the material world about us", William J. Leifeld '36, told his fellow students in an address during last Friday morning's M. C. A. chapel service. The speaker based his topic on Ecclesiastes 1:9.

"Although there are all about us the most modern improvements in transportation and communication, still they are merely the combination of the old", Mr. Leifeld continued. "We enter this world without material things and we leave it in the same way. The only new thing which may occur is a deeper realization of our faith in God."

Supervised Study Classes Start For Delinquent Frosh

Students

NINE SUBJECTS TAUGHT
BY FACULTY, STUDENTS

For the second consecutive year Muhlenberg has undertaken the supervision of special study classes for those members of the freshman class found delinquent in any subjects following the second six-weeks period which ended just prior to the Christmas recess.

The classes are held each week-day evening except Friday with afternoon sessions on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday for the benefit of commuters.

Nine different subjects requiring the services of twenty instructors are listed on the schedule released by Dean Robert C. Horn. Four professors of the college faculty and sixteen students, picked from the junior and senior classes comprise the teaching personnel. The large number of instructors have been engaged in order to give each delinquent student the greatest amount of individual assistance.

The opening sessions were conducted on January 6 immediately following the Christmas holidays. They will be continued throughout the remainder of the college year with future delinquents being added when found necessary, according to college authorities. The Production

Nearly 500 persons assembled in the Lehigh High school last Thursday evening to witness Mask and Dagger's performance of "Laff That Off", the three-act comedy given on the local campus the early part of last month.

So popular and entertaining did the performance prove when presented here that alumni of the Lehigh school started plans at once to have the play given there. The Lehigh Alumni Association is headed by Edward F. Diehl, Muhlenberg graduate in 1933.

All members of the original cast took part in the production last week, having gone through a rehearsal the first night after returning from vacation.

Mrs. Robert Conklin, wife of Dr. Conklin of the English department, directed the production.

Intramural Debate Finals Tomorrow

Mules and Cardinals Reach Top in Freshman Competition

For the first time since the institution of intramural debating four years ago, two non-fraternity teams are entered in the finals to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the assembly room of the administration building.

At that time the Mules and the Cardinals will meet to decide the winner of the silver-loving cup awarded each year. These two teams won the right to compete in the finals by being judged the best affirmative and best negative teams out of nine which competed in the preliminary meets.

The question for argument will be "Resolved, that the United States Should Place an Embargo Upon all Trade with Italy." This same topic was used for all elimination debates. The Mules, represented by Henry Esterly and Emanuel Hoover, will argue the affirmative side with the Cardinal speakers, Theodore Scheifele and John Day, upholding the negative side.

Other teams represented in the intramural competition included Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Upsilon Omega, Theta Kappa Nu, G Hall, Non-Frats, and Grays, the last three being non-fraternity clubs.

Oratorical Contest In Assembly Today

Four Students in Competition

Representative

Two seniors and two juniors will take part in Muhlenberg's annual oratorical contest to be held this morning at 11 o'clock in the Science Hall auditorium. The winner of today's contest will represent the college in the State Intercollegiate Oratorical contest at Gettysburg on March 7.

The program, in charge of Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, will include the following speakers and topics: George Machajdik "Our Negro Problem"; Alvin H. Butz, "Threat to Peace"; Walter H. Guigley, "Death on the Highway"; Julius Kish, "Forgotten Men". The latter two are senior class members.

The two juniors were selected from a group of five men who participated in an elimination contest held last November.

Judges for today's event were to be Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt and Prof. Stephen G. Simpson members of the English department and Dr. James E. Swain, professor of history.

In last year's State contest Ray R. Brennan, now a student at Dickinson Law School, Carlisle, won second place. In the past seven years Muhlenberg has placed either first or second in the meets.

Quintet

MEET ALBRIGHT FIVE
AT READING TONIGHT

With two thrilling and exciting games, hard-fought up to the final gun, Muhlenberg's 1936 cagemen last week opened their season only to come out on the short end of the score on each occasion.

The Mules opened their league playing with Drexel at Philadelphia last Wednesday evening but went down by the margin of one field goal, 42 to 40. The second encounter in the Allentown High school gym last Saturday night saw the Utzmen fall before Bucknell, 45 to 41 in a game which required an extra period to complete.

Both tilts were fast and exciting although the matter of scoring was the reverse in each case. At Drexel the Mules led nearly all the way with the Dragons eking out victory in the last few minutes of play. Against the Bisons here Saturday, the visitors held the upper hand most of the time and it was the local team that pulled up to go ahead in the closing stages of the fray.

The Cardinal and Gray basketballers face two tough assignments this week, the first of which will be played with Albright tonight at Reading. Saturday, Coach Barr

The debate will be held in the assembly room of the administration building, starting at 8 o'clock.

Muhlenberg will uphold the negative side of question while the visitors will argue the affirmative side. Speakers for Muhlenberg will be John P. Stump, Donald Schlicher, and Israel A. S. Yost. Charles F. Diehl, assistant debate manager, will act as chairman for the evening.

Freshman Evening Classes

With the continuance of evening supervised study classes again this year, Muhlenberg has shown that she is among the leaders of small colleges in this section of the country.

On numerous occasions during recent years the administration has made attempts to give each student the greatest amount of individual attention and instruction. This is recognized without dispute to be one of the outstanding benefits of today's small college.

The evening classes were begun last year for the assistance of those freshmen found delinquent in certain studies after each posting period. That these classes were beneficial is beyond any doubt or dispute.

The administration took a further step this year and established an extensive personnel department to aid all students in the four classes. Now the freshmen evening classes have again been started.

That the first-year men realize the benefits of these classes can be determined by their acceptable attitude toward the work. Not only is this work helpful to the frosh, but it is certainly worthwhile to those upperclassmen who have been chosen as instructors for the special classes.

Members of the administrative offices, the Department of Education, and the Personnel Committee deserve due recognition and commendation in their efforts to personally concern themselves with each student's problems.

Work and news of this sort are not always the most sensational, but such efforts, properly organized and managed, play a major role in bringing a school to the front in collegiate circles.

The Red Cross Bombing

It is inconceivable to the average individual that any justification can be found for the bombing of Red Cross hospitals in war zones. Public opinion of all nations will not sanction such outrageous business, and no amount of official "explaining" can change it.

Granted the possibilities, in the Ethiopian affair, of combat chieftains running to cover beneath the international emblem of the Red Cross, how does that alter the picture and permit Italian aviators to drop their death dealing explosives on the hospital of the Swedish Mission? Surely in all that vast territory under the flag of the King of Kings there must be many other targets of military importance over which the bombing squadrons of Mussolini could fly.

Sympathy with the Italian invasion of Ethiopia, never more than lukewarm in the United States, will not be increased by such stories as that of the bombs dropped on the Red Cross hospital.

An American Tragedy

Several months ago, a young American citizen named Edwards from the coal regions was brought to trial and convicted of murder. He was sentenced to death and in several weeks he was electrocuted.

How different this procedure was compared to the spectacle we are now witnessing in Trenton. Here a German alien, convicted of the most despicable of crimes against a prominent American citizen, enjoys the services of a battery of lawyers, appeals and reprieves, along with high political interference. Thousands of dollars must have been raised for his "cause," and many campaigns have been executed to gain public sympathy.

Hauptmann's name is in headlines daily, while benefactors of society go unnoticed. He is pictured as a stolid German whose guilts may be questionable, when in reality, he is merely a foreigner who would have been in another world long ago if he had been implicated in a similar crime in his own country.

As long as our newspapers place more importance upon the life of an alien criminal than on the lives of ten million jobless Americans and their families, and as long as high government officials have time to intervene in such cases in these troubled days, and as long as laxity is the keynote of our method of punishing an offender of society, just so long will America bear the greatest crime rate in the world.

CAMPUS CAMERA

CAMPUS CHATTER

Laidman, the freshman, had Dr. Fritsch stopped for a while, in class last week. The professor had been discussing a Bible story in the course of which appeared the word, "patriarch". A versatile linguist himself the doctor decided to try the quantity of his class. Therefore he asked the meaning of the above-mentioned word. The reply was startling, as well as quick. "A patriarch," bellowed Laidman, "is a man who loves his country."

An American history professor at Lehigh was caught illustrating how Brazil was divided by the Papal Bull of 1439—on a map of North America.

And mentioning Lehigh brings up another subject. It seems as if the boys "over there" are reading these columns. Some weeks ago the following appeared in this column.

WE'LL BITE; ARE YOU MEN?

When asked the difference between Muhlenberg students and Lehigh men, a girl replied, "Berg boys can get drunk on beer, Lehigh students can't." Are we men—or are we men.

The quotation was from the "Brown and White", a Lehigh publication; the heading was the question of the writer from Muhlenberg.

Just before the holiday vacation began a letter arrived from Lehigh addressed to "Campus Chatter". In it was the above clipping and the retort; "Yes! The Old Man of the Mountain". Now we want to know—what mountain?

A CHALLENGE TO THE 'BERG "CHARIOTEERS"!

The oldest car on the campus at Ohio State University is a 1913 Ford, with illumination provided by kerosene lamps.

Another unusual action of our frosh class comes to our ears via report. It seems that Feinberg, DeFuria, and Clauss are still kids at heart. It seems so because the three of them are reported to have been to the Nineteenth Street theatre last Wednesday to see the "Kiddie show". They are also reported to have felt quite at home.

According to the late medical report the hearing becomes more acute when the eyes are closed. Possibly this accounts for so many closed eyes in the class rooms.—Silver and Gold, U. of California

Just to show that the freshmen aren't the only ones to pull bcners. Dr. Barba professor of German, was reflecting to his fourth year class how the times have changed and Muhlenberg with them. A student asked whether German has always been a leading subject at school. To this question the professor replied that when he started his teaching career 21 Muhlenberg there were only twelve men studying German. Then Lehr, a senior at that, crashed through. He said, "New there are none"... Get it. .Joke!

PUNY PUN!

A query in the Columbia Spectator regarding institution's grid-iron future read, "Little Men What now?"—Orio Green and White.

Friday afternoon, before Christmas, was a day of great change on the campus. Friday noon found all departments in the midst of activity. All the buildings were the scenes of study and work. Five hours later the change was complete. The academic buildings were dark and deserted. The dorms had only a few lights burning... quiet reigned in the place of the former activity.

Communication

"There is a growing agitation both among the students concerned with the Clarla of 1937 and the people of Allentown who are finally protesting against the continuous indiscreet policy of awarding contracts to business firms outside of the city. There may be a reason for giving the work to one outside concern, but to always follow the same precedents is plain folly. At a recent meeting of some business people of this city it was resolved that they would not advertise in the Clarla any longer. This is a serious blow.

"Although the entire student body must subscribe to the year book, the amount of money obtained in this manner does not pay for the cost. A large part is met by the advertisements of local business. If this financial source is removed, the Clarla will be in a precarious position to make it pay. Also, there must be considered the advance in price of materials today, without a corresponding increase of student fees. This is unfair to the students because they are the ones to suffer. Either a part of the book must be cheapened or the members of the Junior class will be assessed to supply the deficit. This ought not to be necessary but the result looks inevitable.

"It is disgusting to see the way in which the photography is being handled. Many complaints have been received concerning pictures that have been taken. They do not seem worth the price paid for them. It is true that some pictures will be faulty, but the company should stand the loss for another pose and not the student, since it is evident that excessive profits are made. It would not have been difficult to have given the contract to a local photographer at a cheaper price, for which the people would have reciprocated by giving advertisements. Now there has been dissatisfaction noticed among many concerned. Of course it is too late to rescind the contracts, but we hope that the staff of next year, being aware of the present conditions, will conduct themselves accordingly."

—Francis T. Knouss, '37.

WORKS OF ART SHOWN IN LIBRARY EXHIBIT

Continuing the series of bi-monthly art exhibits by local artists, works of William Swallow, Seranton, have been put on display in the college library lobby. The ink drawings on exhibition are made on black scratch board while the design is scratched on with a sharp pointed instrument.

Mr. Swallow is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the Philadelphia School of Industrial Arts where he completed a course in illustrations. At present he is art supervisor in the South Whitehall Township schools.

STUDENTS HEAR TALK ON MOHAMMEDAN WORLD

Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, editor of "The Moslem World" and professor of missions at Princeton Theological seminary, was guest speaker at the first assembly program of the new year held last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium. Dr. Zwemer who has traveled extensively through the Moslem countries spoke on "Modern Conditions in the Mohammedan World". He was introduced by the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain.

VARSITY DEBATERS MEET BARD TONIGHT

The meeting with Bard, a non-decision debate, opens Muhlenberg's forensic season two weeks earlier than was originally scheduled. A debate with Mt. Mercy College, Pittsburgh, was to be held February 3, but conflicts in touring dates caused the cancellation of this meeting.

Senior Ball First 1936 Social Event

Students, Alumni, and Faculty Dance to Black's Orchestra

Forgetting the "hub-bub" of the world outside, Muhlenberg's seniors last Friday night introduced the first social function of the year by enjoying one of the finest senior balls held in years. Approximately 125 couples, including not only seniors, but undergraduates of other classes, alumni, and faculty members, danced from 10 o'clock until 3 to the distinctive music of "Ted" Black and his Columbia broadcasting orchestra.

Having just returned from a southern tour, the eleven-piece orchestra, led by the "golden" saxophone of "Ted" Black, entertained the dancers, with their slow, sweet music that won the hearty approval of all. Their harmonies, interspersed with a few fast numbers, did not leave an idle moment.

Streamers of cardinal and gray extending from one end of the hall to the other, gave the place a real collegiate atmosphere.

The tables, decorated in black and gold, the class colors, were arranged in cabaret style. At midnight a large clamor in the center of the floor announced the releasing of a balloon shower that added to the entertainment. Serpentine and confetti completed the display.

The programs, made of black suede leather with the numerals "36" stamped in gold on the outside were distributed by the committee which consisted of Charles H. Kline, chairman, Warren Schlegel, Bernard Blackman, Joseph Schantz, Albert Herzenberg, Theodore Fischer, David Smith, James Turrell, Henry Wagner, Karl Lehr, Louis Varrichio, Clarence Ritter, and Paul Matthieson.

Twenty Mount Holyoke college freshmen will be allowed to take only two courses this year under rules set down for a unique educational experiment there.

Fraternity Row

Alpha Tau Omega
The local chapter house has been restored to its normal condition after the unfortunate accident of a bursting pipe during the holidays. General repairs on the entire structure will soon be made.

The Christmas formal held Friday evening, December 20 was largely attended. Professor Albert C. H. Fasig, Dr. and Mrs. Merkle were guests of the chapter.

Theta Kappa Nu
The Mothers' club held a meeting at the local chapter last Wednesday evening at which time the fraternity was presented with a new set of silverware and curtains.

A supper will be given by the Mothers' club on February 5.

Theta Upsilon Omega
The convocation of the Arch chapter, held at the local chapter December 28, and 29 was attended by approximately sixty persons including delegates, associate members, and members of the resident chapter. A banquet was held Saturday evening, followed by a dance for which Milt Lowy and his orchestra furnished the music.

Phi Kappa Tau
Members of Phi Eta, the mothers sorority, held their January meeting at the chapter house on Liberty street last Friday evening. The fraternity basketball team defeated the Allentown DeMolay five, 50 to 36, in a game played Saturday on the Allentown Prep school court.

DEAN HORN ATTENDS EDUCATION CONVENTION

Dean Robert C. Horn, represented the college at the three-day convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Association held during the Christmas holidays at Harrisburg. Dr. Horn is president of the department of higher education, a branch of the State Association.

MULE FIVE MEETS ALBRIGHT, F. & M.

Cardinal and Gray Quintet Out To Chalk Up First Victory of Season In Two League Battles This Week

Utzmen Hope for Victory Over Reading Cagemen Tonight

PLAY LANCASTER TEAM HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Still after their first victory of the season the Cardinal and Gray basketball team stacks up against two League opponents this week, meeting Albright at Reading tonight and entertaining Franklin and Marshall here Saturday.

Last year's "big five" had little trouble with the Albright quintet, winning easily both in Reading and on the Allentown High school floor. There is a different story this season, however, and Coach Munn's boys are expected to cause plenty of trouble for the local squad. The Reading collegians lost by only a field goal to F. and M. in an extra period last week.

Tonight's tilt will be played on the Reading Y. M. C. A. floor which may be somewhat of a handicap to the local passers since it is comparatively small.

Saturday's game here with F. and M. will renew a cage rivalry of long standing. Last season the Mules split even with the Blue and White the two clubs winning on their home floors. The Utzmen eked out a 37-34 victory in Allentown while F. and M. virtually eliminated the locals from a chance at the conference title by handing them a 39-33 setback at Lancaster.

Preliminary to the Saturday night varsity tilt, Muhlenberg's freshmen will meet the Mt. Airy Seminary five from Philadelphia, which is composed of a number of 'Berg alumni who are now studying for the ministry at that place.

HONORABLE MENTION TO FARRELL BY GRIDDERS

Edward "Scraper" Farrell, hard-driving fullback for the past two seasons, was given honorable mention on the All-American football team in a poll taken of football players and reported in a recent edition of Liberty magazine. The poll was unusual in the respect that it was confined entirely to selections made by players themselves on grid teams and selected by publishers of Liberty.

Mule Cagers Lose To Drexel, Bisons

will bring his Blue and White cagemen here from Franklin and Marshall in what will be the second league game of the week for Johnny Utz's team.

The boys from Lewisburg virtually swept the locals off their feet in the first ten minutes of play last Saturday night to roll up a 19-5 lead. However, the Utzmen staged a rally to climb within four points of the visitors as the half ended, the score being 19 to 15. Bucknell started the second half with a new team which was outplayed by the Cardinal and Gray. The first string Bisons were sent back into the fray but the Utzmen continued to outplay their opponents and went ahead, 35-33.

Bucknell rallied, however, and tied the count at 39-all as the gun cracked ending the regulation game. In the extra period the visitors put in two goals and a foul while the Mules could tally but one from the floor. The line-ups:

DREXEL GAME
The Cardinal and Gray five lost a heart-breaker to the Drexel Dragons last Wednesday night. Having led throughout most of the game, the Mules were overtaken by the Philadelphia lads, 29-28.

with just ten minutes to go. At this point Gene Grossman and Jack Keleher, who had scored 17 points between themselves, were ejected from the game because of fouls and the Dragons proceeded to run up a 42-35 margin.

With about three minutes to go lanky Dean Zweier was sent into the fray and racked up two field goals in quick succession. These counters along with a foul shot brought the Mules within two points of tying the Blue and Gold clad cagemen, but the gun fired before another tally could be made. Drexel might have won the game by a far wider margin had its players made good on more foul attempts. No less than 24 fouls were called on the Mules of which 12 were made good by the winners. The Utzmen shot 6 fouls out of 9 chances. The line-ups:

College Athletes Feted At First All-Sports Banquet

Gridders Elect "Jiggs" Koehler Honorary Captain for Past Season; Football Players Receive Letters and Sweaters

BILL BRANDT GUEST SPEAKER; COACHES GIVEN GIFTS BY ATHLETIC COMMITTEE AND PLAYERS

Muhlenberg honored its full roster of athletes on Thursday evening, December 19, at the first annual all-sports banquet held in the Americus hotel, corner of Sixth and Hamilton streets.

Present for the gala affair were athletes representative of all Muhlenberg sports, teams managers, members of the coaching staffs, the Athletic Board of Control, alumni, and several guests. Toastmaster for the occasion was George B. Balmer, Reading attorney and Muhlenberg graduate in 1923. Attorney Balmer is a member of the Athletic Board and a college trustee.

Probably the outstanding event of the evening was the selection of an honorary captain for the past season. This honor went to George "Jiggs" Koehler, senior, who is the only man on the squad to have earned a varsity letter for three consecutive seasons. "Koehler is the most deserving of the honor, and earned it by right of merit", said Coach Johnny Utz in announcing the vote. A former Bethlehem High athlete, "Jiggs" is also president of the college student body.

Guest speaker for the evening was William "Bill" Brandt '11, publicity director for the National Baseball League. He was introduced by the toastmaster and proceeded to tell of past experiences while a student here.

Prior to the speech dressing gowns were presented to each of the three coaches, Johnny Utz, Bill Guttenron, and Charles Evanovsky. The latter was also presented with a wallet by members of the freshman grid squad whom he coached during the season.

Muhlenberg Souvenirs In Lobby Of Library

A prized collection of Muhlenberg souvenirs is now on display in the lobby of the library. Among these is a mahogany-finished hickory cane, supposedly used by Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, founder of the eminent Muhlenberg family. The cane is a gift of Misses Maria and Harriet Howell of Northampton.

Other items include the autobiography of Henry M. Muhlenberg; an original letter of the same in English, dated Providence, August 25, 1752; the copy of a patent grant for land located in Berks or Chester county, dated February 11, 1788, and signed by John P. G. Muhlenberg, eldest son of Henry Muhlenberg (the gift of Earl A. Koch '36); a letter notifying the governor of Maryland of an enclosed resolution of the house, signed August 9, 1790 by Frederick A. C. Muhlenberg, first speaker of the national House of Representatives, second son of Henry Muhlenberg (gift of D. G. Dery, Catasaugua); a copy of the first German-English, English-German dictionary by Gottlieb H. E. Muhlenberg, Henry Muhlenberg's third son, printed in Lancaster, 1812; and "A Catalogue of Grasses," by the same writer, printed in Philadelphia, 1817.

Present at the dinner initiation were faculty members, Dr. Henry R. Mueller, head of the history department and advisor of the circle; Dean Robert C. Horn, Registrar Harry A. Benfer, and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, head of the geology department.

Gutteron's Five Forces North Ends Into Extra Period

Muhlenbergs' freshman basketball team lost its season's opening fray last Saturday night to the North Ends of the Class A City League, although the frosh fought the city lads into an extra period. The final score was North Ends, 25; Freshmen, 21.

The Mules led at half time, 13 to 12, but the end of the regulation game found the two teams all even at 21-21. Christian's field goal tied the score at 21-21 for the North Ends, and then J. Bornini put two more field goals in during the extra period to sew up the ball game. Lineups:

Pick Cast Members For One-Act Play

Mask and Dagger to Present "Box and Cox" Here March 4

"Box and Cox," a farce in one act by J. Maddison Morton, will be presented before the student body by the Mask and Dagger Club at the regular assembly period on Wednesday, March 4. This play, which is being revised by the local dramatic club, was first produced in London in 1847, and is still a part of the repertoire of the leading Gilbert and Sullivan opera company in London.

Tryouts for the selection of the cast were recently held by Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, who will also coach the play. The cast includes the following: "Mrs. Bouncer", Warren Hodgkinson; "James Cox," a journeyman hatter, Herbert Haas; "John Box," Charles Diehl.

Mask and Dagger's initial production of the college year was Don Mullally's "Laff That Off," given last month in the Science Hall auditorium.

Cardinal Debaters Gain Decision In Intramural Finals

First Time Non-Fraternity Team Has Won Trophy

MULES LOSE ARGUMENT TO NEGATIVE SPEAKERS

Debating the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States Should Place an Embargo Upon all Trade with Italy", the Cardinals were given the decision over the Mules affirmative team last Thursday evening in the intramural debate finals held in the assembly room of the administration building.

Both teams debating last week represented non-fraternity competition, having gained the right to compete in the finals by victories over seven other intramural clubs which started in the competition. The Cardinals, this year's champions, will be awarded the silver loving cup, symbolic of their victory, during an assembly period at the opening of the second semester.

Speakers for the winning team were Theodore Scheifele and John Dry. Henry Esterly and Emannuel Hoover represented the affirmative side. Critic judge was Prof. Raymond Walter, of Allentown Preparatory school while Paul K. Ziegler '39 acted as chairman.

This year marks the first time the cup has been won by a non-fraternity team. Phi Kappa Tau first won the trophy when it was presented four years ago. For the past two seasons Theta Upsilon Omega laid claim to the coveted award and needed but one more victorious year to gain permanent possession of it. The debates are sponsored by Prof. Ephraim B. Everitt, varsity debate coach.

Dr. Barba to Address Philadelphia Alumni

Members of the Philadelphia Alumni Association will hold their annual meeting next Wednesday evening at the Penn Athletic Club, Eighteenth and Locust streets, in that city. The meeting will be held in connection with the Muhlenberg-Penn A. C. basketball game which the alumni will later attend.

The affair will open at 6:15 o'clock with a banquet at the club. Dr. Preston A. Barba, professor of German, will be the main speaker of the evening.

Junior Prom Date Set For Feb. 14 In Mealey's Ballroom

Hudson-DeLange Orchestra to Play for Valentine Dance

MUSICIANS COME HERE WITH HIGHEST PRAISE

The Junior class has finally arranged for its annual promenade. The date is Friday evening, February 14.

After many weeks spent in an attempt to secure a satisfactory orchestra for the affair, Charles Garretson, dance chairman, has announced that the Hudson-DeLange orchestra will furnish music for the evening. Dancing will be from 10 to 3 o'clock in Mealey's auditorium.

The Hudson-DeLange music makers recently completed an eight-weeks engagement at the Normandie Ballroom in Boston. They have also been heard over station WABC, New York, and the Columbia broadcasting system. Another scene of their recent exploits was the exclusive Southampton Beach and Tennis Club where they acquired an enviable following.

The band, a twelve-piece company, is new to this section but has received the highest praises from Mr. Mealey and other prominent local music-followers. In the words of Vince DeBellis, vocalist of Bud Rader's band, the Hudson-DeLange presentations are "simply wonderful". Roy Minninger, another Bud Rader vocalist, classes the Prom presentation as "the best band in the country". Roy calls attention to the fact that the entire band sings during several numbers and includes a number of really fine vocalists.

Dr. Pfatteicher Will Preach Here February 9

A heavy snowfall throughout the day last Sunday caused the cancellation of the regular vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel. Last Sunday's guest speaker was to have been the Hon. James F. Henninger, judge of the Lehigh County courts and Muhlenberg graduate in 1912. Due to mid-year examinations which started yesterday, no Sunday services will be held until February 9, when the speaker is to be the Rev. Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher, Philadelphia, president of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

College Given Manuscripts Of the Late Rev. A.C. Wuchter

Through the munificence of the family of the late Rev. Astor C. Wuchter, Muhlenberg recently received the manuscripts of this well-known dialect poet.

The Rev. Mr. Wuchter was born at Jacksonville, February 4, 1856. As a young man he taught school for four terms. During this period he attended the State Normal School at Millersville.

When twenty-three years of age, he went to Paris, where he studied and taught for three years under the guidance of Professor Rudy in the Association Internationale de Professeurs. In 1885 he was graduated from Mt. Airy Seminary, Philadelphia, and was ordained in Allentown the same year by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania in Allentown. Having faithfully served a number of parishes, besides teaching for one year at Wittenberg College, he retired from active ministry in October,

A recently published manual by Douglass W. Miller, of Syracuse University School of Journalism, has been selected by Professor Stephen G. Simpson as the basis of study for his class in journalism. Among the subjects of interest treated in this book are headline-writing, copy reading, proof reading and newspaper make-up. Faculty, Students Will Take Part In Educational Work

Department Heads to Conduct Special Conferences for Parents

WILL OPEN SERIES IN READING FEBRUARY 7

In an attempt to take Muhlenberg off the campus for a short while and bring its life and atmosphere into the surrounding communities, college authorities have arranged an extensive schedule of visits to be made to Lutheran churches within all conferences of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

The first of these programs has been planned for presentation in Trinity Lutheran Church, Reading, on Friday evening, February 7. To the meeting have been invited all alumni residing in that district and pastors of the churches within that particular conference. Parents of prospective college students have also been sent special invitations to the function.

The main purpose of the event will be to present a cross section of college education and entertainment to the parents and their sons who are planning to attend college after completing their high school education. Following a program of entertainment, the students with their parents, will have the opportunity to confer individually with faculty representatives of the various departments.

At the Reading meeting next month Dean Robert C. Horn is to make a brief address on "Who Should Go to College?" Other numbers that have been arranged include an address of welcome by Registrar Benfer, a vocal octette by members of the college choir, Mask and Dagger's one-act play "Box and Cox", an instrumental octette, featuring members of the college band, and motion pictures of Muhlenberg's campus.

A Campus Need

When the rainy season arrived in Ethiopia, it was gladly welcomed as a partial defense against further Italian invasions. However, when Muhlenberg's campus and drive-ways are caught in a rainy spell there is little cause for rejoicing.

The terrible condition of the campus during sloppy weather is an old story which reopens for discussion nearly every year. Without a doubt the stone walk in front of the chapel is the only decent one about the school. Suggestions as to how the situation can be remedied are useless here for the only way is to have them paved.

In asking that something be done in the near future to eliminate the mud paths and water puddles, we are not un-mindful of the item of expense. This problem is most always one difficult to meet. But other projects have been financed here with success.

Without asking for expensive thoroughfares over the campus and from one building to another we do not think it unfair to request better conditions where the convenience of some five hundred persons are concerned.

Principles, Not Men

It is so much easier to follow the fellow who carries the flag than to stand on the sidelines and judge of the merits of the parade that our fathers gave us three coordinate branches of the federal establishment, checks each on the other two.

Adherence to principles is always most beneficial to the masses of the people, but so few people understand what is meant by principles that those who aspire to political leadership too frequently employ clap-trap that they believe will assist them in their ambitions and forget that there are such things as principles.

The selfishness of human nature manifests itself even in a matter that should be almost as sacred to us as our devotion to Almighty God. Indeed our love of God, we are told, is manifested by our attitudes towards our fellow men, which we exhibit in our own political activities. Yet, we discard the Golden Rule given us by our Creator for our lives in favor of that which became popular some year back when "David Harum" was a popular bit of fiction and he substituted his own rule, "Do unto others as they would do unto you, but do it first" for the older and sounder counsel, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Fidelity to principles has made many martyrs whose memories are as precious ointment, but blind following of men has left no marked benefit upon the mass of the people.

Fidelity to principles has made the United States the most prosperous nation in the world, even in the depression from which we suffer.

Marching in the parade without attempting to understand what it is all about has given Europe her Stalin, her Mussolini and her Hitler.

Following loyally in the paths our fathers found for themselves and commended to us will restore us to the happy days that once we knew.

Desertion of principles, to follow after men, will bring the miseries, that Europe knows, and then those which Asia knows, precisely as the same sort of folly brought the nations of those continents to their poverty and degradation.

Edward T. Horn and Charles Garretson will shortly confer with delegates of Alpha Rho chapter at Lehigh, to make plans for the Province Conclave to be held March 27 and 28.

The Mothers' club will hold a card party at the local chapter this Monday evening.

Plans are being formed for the Founders' Day banquet to be held on February 22.

Initiation and alumni week-end will be held on February 21 and 22. The committee, headed by Bernard Blackman, is arranging for a banquet and initiation Friday evening, a basketball game between active members and alumni Saturday afternoon, with a formal dance in the evening, to be held at one of the local hotels.

The Mothers' club will sponsor a supper February 5.

Tournaments in ping-pong, pool, and pinochle are arousing an unusual amount of interest at the house.

The administration and student body wish to express their deepest sympathy to Walter Kistler '39, of Pittston, whose brother, Daniel aged 16, died at his home last Friday, following an attack of typhoid fever. College Receives $23,000 Bequest

Sum Comes from Estate of Mrs. Fon Dersmith in Lancaster

Announcement has been made by college authorities of a recent bequest totaling $23,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Fon Dersmith, of Lancaster, one of the closest friends of Muhlenberg.

Of this amount, $13,000 is to be applied to the endowment fund and the remainder is given without any specified purpose. It will, college officials said, be used to liquidate a part of the college debt.

Mrs. Fon Dersmith previously gave the college $2000 as a memorial and at the last campaign a number of years ago contributed $10,000 toward the million dollar goal. At the time of the dedication of the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel, Mrs. Fon Dersmith presented a set of clergy stalls for the sanctuary.

Communication

In answer to the communication of Francis T. Knouss '37, printed in last week's edition of The Muhlenberg Weekly, the Ciarla staff officers take this opportunity of enlightening Mr. Knouss on the subject in question. Had the writer, as a member of the Ciarla staff himself, taken the time and effort to inquire into the matter, the communication would have been unnecessary and would not have caused further false rumors over the campus.

As to the matter of photography, the staff, profiting by the experience of former staffs, found that any local photographer, whose caliber of work would have been equal to that being done by the photographer already engaged, would charge $3 a sitting for individual poses. However, the price charged by the official photographer this year is one-third of what would be charged by local concerns. Why should the Juniors pay this excess for the sake of giving the work to a local company?

Moreover, this year not one photographer in Allentown so much as troubled himself to come to the college with any proposition or example of his work, nor did any local photographer enter a bid: After all, a business man, if he wants business, should go after it.

In regard to the other contracts, we state that all printing work of the Ciarla has been given to an Allentown printing concern. By doing this we were able to save $150 over the price paid last year. The engraving contracts have been

H. KERN IMPRESSIVE IN GAME WITH BLUE-WHITE

Johnny Utz's Cardinal and Gray courtmen met stiff opposition in their two encounters last week and, as a result, are still looking for their initial win of the season.

At Reading last Wednesday night Coach Munn's five had little trouble downing the local quintet by the score of 37 to 28. Saturday Franklin and Marshall's big five came to town and chalked up a 42-30 triumph over the Utzmen. The game was played on the Allentown High school floor.

After the Mules had taken a 2-0 lead early in the game, the Nevonians managed to rack up a field goal and foul bringing the count to 3-2 in favor of the visitors. From then on the Lancaster passers held the lead and were ahead at half-time, 24-18.

Harry "Doc" Kern was outstanding in the locals' attack, getting five goals and making good two free tosses for a total of twelve points. High scorers for the visitors were Snyder and Hummer who chalked up twelve and ten points respectively. Ten Muhlenberg players saw action in the fray. Line-ups:

ALBRIGHT GAME

Muhlenberg's Cardinal and Gray passers suffered their third consecutive setback at Reading last Wednesday night when Albright's five put up a bewildering attack to upset the Mules, 37 to 28. It was Albright's first conference win of the season.

Coach Munn's team got off to an early lead and was ahead at halftime by the wide margin of 20 to 8. The Mules staged a come-back during the second half and outscored the Reading collegians 20 to 17. The latter's early margin, however, was too much to overcome.

High scorer for the winners was Les Knox, lanky center, who tallied twelve points during the evening. Thomas and Grossman each racked up eight points for the local quintet.

Albright made good on eleven foul attempts out of an even dozen chances while the Utzmen threw in eight out of fourteen tries. Line-ups:

Frosh Basketeers Play High School

Gutteron's Five Has 2 Games Listed Before 2nd Half Begins

Followers of local schoolboy and collegiate basketball have plenty of entertainment in store for themselves next Tuesday night when Muhlenberg's freshman cage team meets up with Allentown High's highly-rated quintet which is this year defending the State championship.

Thus far in their campaign the high school boys have lost but one game, that to Bethlehem, in defending their title. On the other hand Coach Gutteron's squad has failed to chalk up a single win thus far in the season, but both teams will be out to "take" this one. The game will be played on the high school floor.

The freshmen's next opponent is scheduled to be the Amicus

Little Mules Lose 2 Week-End Tilts

Tamaqua H. S., City League Five Score Wins Over Freshmen

Muhlenberg's freshman and varsity cage teams are evidently putting on the "Alphonso-Gaston act" as to which outfit will win the first game of the season. The frosh dropped two more tilts last week, making seven straight games in which neither Cardinal and Gray team has scored a victory.

The Little Mules traveled to Tamaqua last Friday night and were given a 29-25 setback by the high school quintet of that place. Again the following night Coach Gutteron's club stacked up against the Allentown Paint and Glass team of the Class A City League, only to be turned back, 20 to 17. Line-ups:

club, one of the strongest amateur teams in the city. This fray will serve as a preliminary to the varsity tilt with Drexel on Saturday evening, February 1, in the local high school.

Utzmen Also Meet Drexel During Mid-year Vacation Period

ENGAGE LEHIGH COURT SQUAD AT BETHLEHEM

Still in search of their first cage victory of the season, the Cardinal and Gray basketeers are working hard to point for the Penn A. C. tilt which comes next on the local schedule. No games are to be played this week, but the fray with the Philadelphia courtmen will start hostilities next Wednesday evening in the Quaker City.

Three days later the Mules resume their league competition in a home game with Drexel on the evening of February 1. The Utzmen take to the road again on February 3, to oppose Lehigh in Bethlehem.

In the Penn A. C. squad the local passers will probably meet their stiffest opponents of the season. The Philadelphia club has one of its best teams in recent years and has been taking many collegiate fives into camp this winter. Incidentally it was this same crew which handed the Utzmen their first loss of the season last year.

Regardless of the outcome of this tilt, the local basketeers are expected to put on full steam when the Drexel Dragons come here February 1. The Mules opened their season with the Philadelphia passers and were nosed out by a 42 to 40 score. The Cardinal Crusaders are anxious to avenge this early defeat and come through with their first league win.

REV. HARRY KLINE '94

Funeral services were held Wednesday, January 8 for the Rev. Harry C. Kline, Baldwin, L. I., a Muhlenberg graduate in the class of '94. The Rev. Mr. Kline died on Sunday, January 5, having retired from active ministry last May because of ill health.

Right on the heels of the Lancaster quintet is Drexel which scored two triumphs during the first week of play, but did not get into league competition last week. After dropping their first two games of the season, Albright's courtmen have come back strong to win their last two encounters.

At present Gettysburg appears to be the dark horse of the race, having dropped a 19-16 decision to Ursinus and coming back to win, 49-27, over Lebanon Valley. The latter team and the Mules have yet to gain their first league victory.

completely outlined in the published history of Lehigh County. In these years his home was in Toledo, Ohio, where he died August 24, 1933.

The Rev. Mr. Wuchter's first dialect productions appeared over the signature "Sifanus" in the "Allentown Democrat." Since that time many poems came from his pen, and he must be ranked today as one of the most versatile and most prolific writers in the dialect, deserving a place beside Harbaugh. His long descriptive poem "An Der Lumpa Part" has been pronounced by one critic in Germany as the finest idyllic poem in German in the last hundred years. During the years 1932-34, Der Deutsche Verein presented a play based on this poem.

Muhlenberg prizes this unique and valuable gift. The manuscripts are to be catalogued and placed in the library, where they will be available to students of the Pennsylvania German dialect and literature. Besides these manuscripts, Muhlenberg College also possesses the extensive manuscript works of Dr. Charles C. Moore, the foremost prose-writer in the dialect.

Cooperative Store Financial Report Shows Huge Gains

Statement Reveals Substantial Savings on Books During 1935

PROFIT OF $558 FROM SALES WORTH $14,400

A steady increase in both sales and profits which has been most beneficial to students and the college in general is revealed in the financial report of the College Cooperative Store issued this week by Dr. Henry R. Mueller, treasurer. The statement appears on page 4 of this issue.

Comparative figures in the report covering the past three years since the store was re-organized show an increase in capital over that period of time amounting to nearly $1300. The store has built up its inventory from $1161 on December 31, 1932 to $3292 on December 31, 1935, an increase of almost $2230 in three years. Total sales and net profits also exhibit a similar healthy figure.

In pointing out services given to students, Dr. Mueller revealed that books sold during the past year totalled $7300 with a 10 per cent. discount on all purchases. Had students been charged actual list price the figure would have reached $8100 which means a saving of $800 to students on this one item alone.

Stationery sold reached a figure of $1300; candy, milk, cakes, and ice cream, $2600; tobacco, cigarettes, cigars, and pipes, $1600; miscellaneous, $1600, bringing total sales for the past year to $14,400. The saving to students on items other than books also represents a substantial sum, but cannot be figured definitely, Dr. Mueller said.

Some of the profits have been transferred to the Student Loan Fund although most of them have been retained by the store to build up its inventory. In addition to its increase in this amount, many new fixtures have been purchased during the past three years.

Student employment alone has been used since the store has been operated under the joint supervision of Dr. Mueller and Dr. James Edgar Swain. All profits made from the business are for the benefit of the Student Loan Fund.

"Call" Editorial Pays Tribute To Dr. Ettinger

A fitting tribute was paid to Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean emeritus and professor of Latin, in a recent editorial of the Allentown Morning Call. The article was written in conjunction with the celebration of the 2000th anniversary of the birth of Horace.

The writer said that a deep kinship "linked over twenty centuries the Roman poet of the past and the delightful teacher and philosopher of the present. To every student of Dr. Ettinger, Horace became a delightful, living personality. . . . So to Muhlenberg College students over the years Horace was not a dry-as-dust classic, but a study of life as it was, as it is, and as it probably shall be as long as men and women inhabit this planet and live and love, struggle and achieve, aspire and fail and finally die. . . ."

Dr. Haas Speaks on Divorce Problems

Says Legislation Will Not Remedy Serious Situation

Causes of and preventatives for America's increasing divorce rate were enumerated by President Haas in his Tuesday morning chapel address on "The Problem of Divorce." The talk was the second of a series on modern problems begun just prior to the mid-year vacation. His first talk was on "The Problem of Crime."

In this week's address Dr. Haas declared that divorce was the second major problem in this country next to crime. Cruelty and destructive attitudes, hasty marriages for sex gratification alone, and a weakness in Christian character were the main causes for separation as outlined by the speaker.

Existing evils such as divorce cannot be remedied by the enactment of laws. The fundamental causes for such conditions must be removed before any legislation will bring about better living, Dr. Haas stated. The problem must be overcome by assuming better attitudes and by living lives filled with Christian character. He concluded by saying that one of the greatest helps is faith in God that the union of husband and wife is to last forever.

Lutheran Students To Meet Feb. 28-29

Annual Convention of Group at Gettysburg This Month

Lutheran students on Muhlenberg's campus have focused their attention upon the annual convention of the Lutheran Students Association of the Middle Atlantic States to be held at Gettysburg college, Friday and Saturday, February 28 and 29.

The local delegation attending will most likely be headed by the Rev. Russell W. Stine although the list of those going will not be announced until a later date. The Association was organized here in 1931.

The meetings of the Gettysburg convention will be held in the college Student Christian Association building which organization is acting as official host to the conference. Officers of the group are: President, Harold Rowe, Gettysburg Theological Seminary; vice-president, Henry Suhr, Mt. Airy Theological Seminary; secretary, Miss Dorothy Blum, University of Pennsylvania; treasurer, Glenn Ungerer, State Teachers' College, Albany, N. Y.

Among the speakers who will be heard during the sessions are Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college; and Dr. H. D. Hoover, Dr. A. R. Wentz, and Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, all of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary. One of the features of the convention will be a tour of the battlefield by the delegates following an address by Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, author, on the battle of Gettysburg.

The convention is being sponsored for mixed groups of Lutheran students throughout the states of Pennsylvania and New York, and neighboring states. Instru-

Trustees Propose Athletic Director For College Sports

Committee Makes No Recommendations for New President

ADD THREE TO BOARD OF ATHLETIC CONTROL

Possibility of an athletic director being engaged for the college and the addition of three new members to the Athletic Board of Control were the principal proposals made at the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees held in this city on Wednesday, January 22, prior to the mid-year vacation.

The other main item of business—the recommendation of a man to become president of the college when Dr. Haas' resignation takes effect in June—is still undetermined.

At the time of the meeting the list of more than thirty names suggested had been narrowed down to six. Before the trustees adjourned their session two additional names were suggested making a total of eight from which the committee has to choose.

In listing the qualifications the committee is seeking in the man it will ultimately recommend, the report pointed out that if possible an ordained Lutheran clergyman would be selected. If, however, a Lutheran layman should be found to be better qualified, the committee indicated it would recommend him.

The traits that are sought in the man who is to succeed Dr. Haas, are a fine Christian character, a staunch Lutheran churchman, a good administrator with ability to develop contacts and build up the finances of the college, scholarship, a pleasing and aggressive personality and a man who is a public speaker.

The committee of the board delegated to recommend Dr. Haas' successor is headed by Dr. Frank Ulrich of Philadelphia, and includes Dr. Reuben J. Butz, Dr. William A. Hausman, Jr., the Rev. Dr. G. Harold Kinard of this city, the Rev. Dr. A. Charles R. Keiter of Lebanon, and Attorney George Balmer of Reading.

The college athletic situation is still "hanging fire" following both

Pre-Law Members To Elect Officers Thursday

Members of the John Marshall Pre-law club will meet Thursday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in the library to elect officers for the second semester. James Coyne, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

Here's Your Chance

Last fall members of the freshman class were asked to submit articles for publication in The Weekly of their impressions of Muhlenberg after spending six weeks on the campus. Since that time other class members have expressed a similar desire—namely, to give vent to their feelings after spending three or four years here. The editorial department of this paper wishes to announce that all such articles will be gladly welcomed and printed in these columns. Names of the writers must be attached to all articles submitted, but will be withheld from print if a student so desires. Articles of this nature may be placed in Post Office box 106. Your contribution will receive prompt attention—yes sir!

Financial Loss From Poor Grid Season May Limit Spring Sports

Completes Work On James Oglethorpe

Volume by Amos Ettinger Comes From Oxford
Press

DR. AMOS ETTINGER

To a Muhlenberg college graduate has come the honor and distinction of being the first person to write a complete biography of General James Oglethorpe, founder of America's thirteenth colony—Georgia.

After five years of the most extensive research which took him from Massachusetts to Georgia and four times to England, Dr. Amos A. Ettinger '21, last month received the first copies of his work from the Clarendon Press of Oxford University. It marked the first time in its history of more than 450 years that the English press printed and published the work of a Muhlenberg alumnus and Allentown resident.

The complete title of the volume containing 350 pages is "James Edward Oglethorpe, Imperial Idealist". Its author is the son of Dr. George T. Ettinger, '80, dean emeritus of the college and professor of Latin Language and Literature.

Elect Officers Of Women's Auxiliary

Dr. Brown Speaks on Dorothy and William Wordsworth

Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, addressed a gathering of 200 members of the Women's auxiliary of the college in St. Michael's Lutheran church, Ninth and Turner streets, on the afternoon of January 28. He discussed William Wordsworth's "The Story of a Sister's Love" and gave an account of the life of Dorothy Wordsworth, whose devotion to her brother was responsible in large measure for his fame as a poet.

Mrs. Dewey Fuller, of this city, was re-elected president of the group during the business session. With Mrs. Fuller the following officers also were re-elected, after Mrs. H. B. Koch, nominating committee chairman, had presented the ticket: Mrs. John A. W. Haas, vice-president; Mrs. V. J. Gange-were, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Klotz, treasurer. The vice-presidents, representatives from all the Lutheran churches of the city, also were renamed for 1936.

Baseball Or Track Likely To Suffer Because Of Deficit

Athletic Statement Reveals $615.40 Lost on Football

BASKETBALL GAINS MAY HELP SOLVE PROBLEM

Muhlenberg's 1935 football season was not only a disappointment from the standpoint of games won, but resulted in a financial loss as well.

As a result of the financial deficit on the grid season, one spring sport may be dropped according to a report issued this week by the Athletic Board of Control. The report appears elsewhere in this issue.

The statement shows a loss of $615.40 on the 1935 season which, deducted from the general athletic fund, leaves $907.46 for financing spring sports. A minimum budget for basketball, baseball, tennis, and track calls for $1175. Unless the present basketball season shows an unusual profit, baseball or track may be eliminated this spring. Board members have decided.

All four home games for the season showed a deficit amounting to $1496.42. This is exclusive of freshman engagements which also were a $17.50 loss. The deficit on the Lebanon Valley night game was due in part to unfavorable weather conditions as was the case in the Dickinson game. The Franklin and Marshall, Lehigh, and Fordham games showed the greatest receipts for individual tilts.

The greatest loss for one game was $690.95 in the Dickinson contest played on one of the coldest days last fall. A net profit of $1,838.60 resulted from the Fordham game for which the college received a $2500 guarantee.

The sum of $907.46 left as a balance for the four spring sports includes the payment of $65.14 since September 1935 for basketball, baseball, and tennis equipment.

Little can be determined at present as to the financial outcome of the basketball season. A profit of approximately $500 was realized last year when the college had a winning cage team.

The statement printed in this issue does not include the balance on hand from last year of $1026.60 or the cost of the new athletic fence amounting to $3586.37.

Additional Speakers For Vesper Services

Two additional vesper services to those announced in the last issue of The Weekly have been listed by Chaplain Cressman. The Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, '96, New York City, and former president of the New York Synod, will preach in the college chapel on May 24. The Sunday services will be brought to a close on May 31 when President Haas preaches the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class.

Judge James F. Henninger '21, is to be guest speaker on April 19 instead of President Haas as was originally scheduled. Judge Henninger was to have been the preacher here January 19 when the service was postponed because of a heavy snowstorm.

Too Easy A Life?

A challenge to American Youth and to the college and universities educating these persons was recently issued by the president of Allegheny college who criticized the easy living of youth today and asserted young people "can't take it because they have never been trained to do so."

Addressing the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's clubs, the educator declared "we are producing a generation of young people with a 12-year-old understanding of life. Youth takes food, clothing, shelter, education and pocket money for granted."

It is not too easy a task to refute President Tolley's assertion. Too often the student leaves college with a diploma tucked under his arm only to find a puzzling world on the outside. The answer appears to be the lack of practical training while in school. It seems to be coming more and more the practice to spend four years in college and another such period outside in an attempt "to get at the bottom of things." When this once becomes the case college training has failed.

Youth of today evidently doesn't realize the responsibilities a college man or woman should assume. Many such examples are prevalent on our own campus. In the words of President Tolley, "They may have completed two or three years of graduate work, but they are still children and parents still carry the burden of immaturity."

He also linked absence of mature ideas among youth with increasing divorce rates and censured parents who "define culture in terms of drinking, smoking, dancing, speeding, and bridge playing."

While it is not the business of a college to say what parents should or should not do, educators today have a right and should endeavor to turn out graduates with mature minds, crammed with something else than book knowledge. The latter is of little help without the development of personality and the realization of responsibility.

Know Yourself

Members of this year's graduating class have just four more months before bidding farewell to the college and entering upon other work. Some will begin their life work while others will continue their supervised education.

The personal rating printed below is primarily for the benefit of the Seniors although all classes will profit by a check. The rating is part of an article entitled "Suggestions to Job Hunters" which appeared in a recent issue of Rutgers' TARGUM. The article was written by Edward H. Heyd, director of the Bureau of Personnel and Placement at Rutgers.

Your strength or weaknesses might be scored upon a five-point basis—excellent, good, average, fair, and poor:

PHYSICAL APPEARANCE. Pleasing to you? Free from disagreeable characteristics? Well groomed?

LANGUAGE. Pleasing? Ability to make clear and forceful expression? Free from impediment?

SOCIAL QUALITIES. Congenial? Community interest? Courteous? Respectful?

DISPOSITION. Cheerful? Optimistic? Steady? Persistent? Enthusiastic? Interested?

FAITHFULNESS IN DUTIES. Assume responsibility? Sense of personal integrity? Persistent? Perseverant?

RELIABILITY. Honest? Careful? Dependable? Consistent? Keep appointments on time? Accurate?

COOPERATION. Adaptable? Tactful? Work with others?

INITIATIVE. Self Starter? Recognize and develop opportunities? Resourceful? Original?

JUDGMENT. Common sense? Observing and reasoning power? Foresight? Fairminded?

LEADERSHIP. Commands respect? Executive ability? Independence? Aggressive?

INTELLECTUAL ALERTNESS. Native mental endowment as distinguished from acquired ability?

PROFESSIONAL INTEREST. Study and reading in chosen field?

The Miner and the Donkey

The political action of the United Mine Workers of America at their convention last week deserves serious thought. When John L. Lewis, fiery president of the labor organization, asked the delegates whether they were still supporters of President Roosevelt, they all arose and in a loud manner answered affirmatively with cheers and shouts. Then a declaration was drafted proclaiming the president "the greatest humanitarian of modern times" and pledged the full support of the organization.

It is claimed that a million or more votes can be polled by this movement. Never before has there been a more definite alignment with a political faction on the part of this strong labor body. It is questionable whether they have decided upon this course of action only after considerable study and approval of the Roosevelt policies, or merely upon the general principles of driving out the money changers and driving in "a more abundant life".

At present the organization is concentrating its efforts in the fight over the threatened secession from the American Federation of Labor on the question of whether workers should be organized by industry or by craft. It is generally conceded that organized labor has never been received more sympathetically by an administration than by the present one. Their incompetence in taking advantage of the situation with a united front due to the jealousies of the labor protagonists and the intellectual lethargy of the rank and file membership are both humorous and pathetic.

It is to be noted that General Oglethorpe had an even more colorful career in Europe than in America. Accordingly when the 150th anniversary of the General's death was observed last June, the London Times printed as the feature article on its editorial page (June 28) a two-column essay by Dr. Ettinger, who was then completing his book.

The London Times article was subsequently reprinted in the Morning News of Savannah, Ga., the city which Oglethorpe founded and planned so foresightedly that it became and remains one of the most beautiful and well-ordered cities in America.

Dr. Ettinger was graduated from Allentown High school in 1917 and from Muhlenberg in 1921.

He received his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania two years later, and from 1924-26 taught American History at Lafayette college. In 1931 he was graduated from Oxford university where he received his doctor of philosophy degree. For a year after the completion of this work, Dr. Ettinger taught American History at Yale university. In 1933 he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters by Oglethorpe university, Atlanta, Georgia, for his work on the life of the General.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher Will Occupy Chapel Pulpit

REV. DR. E. P. PFATTEICHER

The Rev. Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher, president of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania, will be guest preacher at the semester's opening vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Pfatteicher is a graduate of Lafayette college in the class of 1895 and completed work for the ministry at the Mt. Airy Seminary in Philadelphia in 1898. Lafayette honored him with a Ph.D. degree in 1908 and in 1918 he received the D.D. degree from both Muhlenberg and Lafayette. Pastors served by Dr. Pfatteicher are Trinity Lutheran, Kutztown; Trinity Lutheran, Norristown; Holy Communion, Philadelphia; Trinity Lutheran, Reading. In 1921 he became vice-president of the board of directors of the Philadelphia seminary.

He is the author of a number of well-known books among which are "Think on These Things", "King David's Earth-Born Son", and "Sermons on the Gospels".

Control and advisory committee held last Sunday. The trustees had recommended the addition of three members to the Board and these were named at Sunday's meeting.

The new men, all members of the alumni advisory committee, are ex-Senator Henry L. Snyder, of Emaus; Walter L. Reisner, of Philadelphia, both of the class of 1915, and Harry W. Shimer, of this city, class of 1903. The others on the committee are Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, Registrar Harry A. Benfer, representing the faculty; William M. D. Miller, Attorney Lawrence H. Rupp, both of this city, and Attorney George B. Balmer, of Reading, representing the trustees.

The new Athletic Board of nine will hold a meeting again next Thursday at the college. Not only will the committee meet as a regular unit but will also invite the rest of the men who comprised the advisory committee which officially closed its work by the election of three of its members to the college committee.

Nothing has been announced regarding the present set-up of the coaching staff although the advisory committee has made urgent pleas for a new head coach.

F. and M. Continues League Leadership

Gettysburg Runner-up to Lancaster Five; Mules in Cellar

LEAGUE STANDING

Drexel	4	2	.667
Albright	2	2	.500
Ursinus	2	3	.400
Lebanon Valley	1	4	.200
Muhlenberg	0	4	.000

With the Eastern Collegiate Basketball race nearing the half-way mark the league leadership is still in possession of Franklin and Marshall's fast-stepping quintet. The Nevonians have come through all four of their loop tilts undefeated and at present only Gettysburg is offering any challenge.

The Bulets after a somewhat slow and unimpressive start have begun to show their championship form of last season and have perched themselves in second place with three victories against one setback.

After sharing the cellar with Lebanon Valley up to last week, the Mules, became sole occupants of the bottom berth when they were handed another setback by Drexel, while the Annville lads were knocking off Ursinus. Thus far the local five has made one of the poorest showings in Muhlenberg's history.

This week's schedule of games finds F. and M. engaging in two tilts on consecutive nights. Friday evening the Lancaster boys meet Drexel at Philadelphia and the following night are matched with Ursinus in the Collegeville gym. The Mules likewise have two engagements, meeting Lebanon Valley to-night and Gettysburg Saturday. Both are home games for the locals.

Working antics while conducting the orchestra, have won for him thousands of dance loving friends, who have been known to travel many hours and miles just to watch him cavort before his band. Showmanship can be traced all through Eddie's family. His father was a playwright and producer, having written the first show for Weber and Fields. Eddie himself worked in Hollywood as a character actor for over five years before he came East to enter the field of music.

The other half of this unusual combination, W. H. Hudson, is one of the country's leading arrangers of dance music. It is mainly because of the diligent training the boys in the band have received from Will, that they have become so adept in playing just the type of music that appeals to every dance lover. There is in every one of his arrangements, a very definite style that stamps it as a "Hudson arrangement". Coupled with this clearly defined style is a carefully laid-out plan and reason for the various instrumental interpretations of the numbers he has arranged. This careful planning gives each arrangement played by the band a unique melodic beauty and colorful tone seldom found in arrangements of other orchestras.

This powerful combination of musical perfection on the part of Will Hudson plus the expert showmanship supplied by Eddie DeLange, makes the Hudson-DeLange orchestra one of the outstanding bands in the country today. The most vivid proof of the ability of this orchestra to play music that appeals directly to patrons of the ballroom is the fact that they have just completed a twelve month engagement at the Roadside Rest on Long Island, from which point they broadcast three times weekly over radio station WOR.

Accompanying the band is the charming and vivacious Ruth Gaylor, whose original and ear-arresting interpretations of popular songs makes her a fitting vocal addition to this unusual combination of musicians. To watch her clever antics while swinging through a new routine with Eddie DeLange is a show in itself.

Coach Utz's Quintet Finally Comes Through With Triumph After Losing First Six Engagements Of Season

Mules Lead All the Way to Win Over Engineers, 40 to 36

DREXEL, PENN A.C. DOWN LOCALS OVER HOLIDAYS

After four months of athletic competition during which time not a single victory was scored by the Cardinal and Gray the local basketball team finally broke the ice and came through with a 40 to 36 triumph last Monday night over Lehigh. The team's first win in this long stretch was scored on the loser's court with few of the Muhlenberg students present to witness the comeback.

Prior to the game the Mules had dropped six consecutive engagements to Bucknell, Albright, Franklin and Marshall, Penn A. C., and two to Drexel. Coach Utz's quintet has two more tilts this week, meeting Lebanon Valley tonight and Gettysburg here Saturday.

Led by Tommy Thomas, Mule center, the locals established an early lead over Lehigh on Monday night and were never headed during the remainder of the fray. Only in the second half did the Engineers threaten to overtake the locals, but the latter held off the Bethlehemites. Thomas scored 10 points for the Mules while Grossman had one less counter. Cooper, Lehigh forward, tallied 9 points for his team. Summary:

DREXEL GAME
In a nip and tuck affair with Drexel played last Saturday night on the Allentown High school floor, Coach Utz's squad went down to its sixth consecutive defeat with the Dragons winning out by the score of 35 to 33. It was the second time this season the Mules lost to the Philadelphia quintet. The locals opened the season playing on the Drexel floor and there dropped a two-point decision, 42 to 40.

The Dragons led throughout the first half and were ahead, 20 to 14 at half-time. Shortly after the second half began the local five knotted the count at 20-20 and then went ahead 21 to 20 for the only time in the game when Tommy Thomas made good on a foul shot.

Later on the Mules again tied the score at 33-33, but Nanons, Drexel forward, broke the deadlock with a foul shot with his teammate, Frignelli, sinking another from the line to win out in the last ten seconds of play. Summary:

Gettysburg Plays Mules On Saturday

Last Year Champions Coming Here for League Tilt

When Muhlenberg meets Gettysburg here Saturday night in the Allentown High school gymnasium the Cardinal and Gray plays the team with which it was tied last year for early league leadership. As a result of the first game with Gettysburg, a thriller won by a 32-30 score on Lou Cuchran's field goal in the last seven seconds of play, the local five assumed undisputed league leadership.

Almost three thousand people, the biggest crowd in 'Berg's court history, jammed the "Little Palestra" to see the battle. It also was the Bullets in a later game who snapped the Mules' winning streak and again plunged the Utzmen into a tie. Following this first defeat came the 1935 Muhlenberg basketball depression. The second game was won by Gettysburg on its court by a 54-38 score. In next Wednesday's game the opposition will be furnished by Lafayette at Easton. Last year the inconsistent Cardinal and Gray

Little Mules Lose Two More Battles

High School, Amicus Fives Down Freshman Passers

Muhlenberg's freshman basketball team is still looking for its first victory of the season. Five games have been played by the yearlings and their record to date show exactly that number of defeats.

During the mid-year exam period Coach Gutteron's passers met and were defeated by Allentown High school, last year's State champions in scholastic circles, by a 52 to 21 score. Last Saturday night, as a preliminary to the varsity tilt with Drexel, the frosh were handed another setback by the Amicus A. A. of the Class A City League, 21 to 19.

The Little Mules were no match for Coach Birney Crum's five when these two teams met at the Allentown High school on the evening of January 27. At half-time the Canaries were ahead, 21 to 10. The frosh made a somewhat better showing against the Amicus passers, but were unable to overcome an 11-3 lead piled up in the first half by the winners. Summary:

For the social, the sorority has sent out printed poems on the social and miniature socks to all the mothers, who have been requested to place in the receptacle pennies according to the size of their stockings, multiplied by two. The funds thus raised will be used to re-decorate the fraternity house.

The bazaar will include the sale of all kinds of home-made goodies and special entertainment will be included throughout the evening.

Seek Information For Having Special Class

Student interest in the matter of classes for instruction in social and business etiquette was recently aroused by the issuance of questionnaires pertaining to this study. The movement is being sponsored by Kappa Phi Kappa, educational fraternity, under the direction of Dr. Carl W. Boyer.

The blanks distributed asked students to express their desire for establishing such classes without credit. There is also a possibility that such a course would be made elective with credit hours. Plans call for the class to meet one hour each week under different instructors with half the hour being used for an open forum.

It's like this—

You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it?

Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute—

It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.

Cardinal and Gray Passers Have Four Games In Six Days

Ursinus, Albright, Lehigh to Face Mules Within Next Week

LOCAL QUINTET PLAYS AT LAFAYETTE TONIGHT

Four games within the next six days is the strenuous schedule before Coach Johnny Utz's Cardinal quintet as it nears the end of the first half of the season.

Tonight the Mules travel to Easton to play Lafayette in the first of two games with the Leopards this season. Two league engagements with Ursinus and Albright follow on Friday and Saturday nights respectively. Next Monday evening Lehigh's Brown and White eagles come to Allentown for the second tilt this month with the locals.

Little can be determined as to the outcome of the Lafayette fray since the two teams will be meeting for the first time this year. Bucknell managed to eke out a two-point victory over the Leopards after the Mules had fallen before the Lewisburg five by a 45 to 41 score which indicates a close and exciting game will be in store for the spectators.

Ursinus, an in and out team this winter, may cause plenty of trouble for the Cardinal Crusaders when the locals play in the Collegeville gym on Friday night. Both teams have triumphs over Lebanon Valley with the Ursinus crew having scored an early season win over Gettysburg.

Coach Utz's boys will have to cope with plenty of height and a fast passing attack when the Albright quintet invades Allentown on Saturday night for the second meeting with the Mules. In their third game of the season and their second league battle last month, the Cardinal and Gray was handed a 37 to 28 loss by the Reading collegians.

The Muhlenberg passers go gunning for their second victory of the season over Lehigh when the Bethlehem five plays in the Allentown High gym next Monday night. Johnny Utz's squad chalked up its first win of the year over the Brown and White on the latter's court last week by the score of 40 to 36.

Pre-Medicos Make Tour of Jefferson

41 Members Go On Trip To Philadelphia Last Wednesday

Icy roads and wintry blasts were no deterrents to Muhlenberg's pre-medicos when they went on their annual trip last week.

Little concern was shown for the unfavorable weather conditions last Wednesday morning as forty-one members of the college Pre-Medical society left by bus to visit Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. The purpose of the trip was to inspect the facilities of the college and the adjacent hospital. Jefferson seniors directed the local visitors through the laboratories.

Several graduates of Muhlenberg, now studying at Jefferson Medical college, joyously welcomed the Pre-Medical society members.

In the afternoon the pre-medicos attended the clinic and heard the surgery lecture of Dr. Thomas A. Shallow, held in the large operating amphitheatre.

Members of the Society making the trip were Dr. John V. Shankweiler, adviser; Will Rogers, Samuel Schadt, Francis Tomaino, Max Warner, Ritner Weaver, Bernard Wilker, Frank Boyer, George Boyer, Richard Bausch, Harold Weiner, Richard Held, Gabriel Lucas, Thomas Williams, Kermit Kistler, Luther Behler, Ray Bergenstock, Henry Bille, Russell Derr, Frederick Dry, Edgar Ernst, Charles Goldsmith, Frederick Gregorius, James Harps, Charles Herwig, Clarence Holland, Edward Horn, Jr., Saul Keller, Max Kohn, Steve Kulik, Frederick Lorish, Eugene Martin, John Martin, John Miller, Thomas Natoli, Harold Neff, Joseph Nosal, Joseph Osman, Robert Peters, Dale Posey, Karl Reinhardt, and Walter Reinhart.

Change Class Ratings In College Catalogue

A new method of listing members of the student body is used for the first time in the 1936-37 college catalogue which came off the press last week. A small shipment arrived at the Registrar's office last week for distribution in the administrative departments with the bulk of the books expected to come in this week.

Under the new classification students are registered as "freshmen" and then as "two-year students", "three-year" and "four-year" students, with another section devoted to "special students" who may be carrying a limited number of hours for special credit in a certain field. The new catalogue contains 108 pages of information about the college and courses offered.

Student Body Will Meet Today at 11

Forensic Council to Award Intramural Debate Trophy

Muhlenberg's student body will hold its first meeting of the second semester this morning at 11 o'clock in the Science Hall auditorium with President George R. Koehler in charge.

Among other items of business to be discussed will probably be the matter of holding the annual student body dance in May. Whether or not a committee chairman will be named could not be learned definitely prior to the meeting.

At today's session the Forensic Council will award the intramural debate cup to the Cardinal freshman team which this year defeated the Mules in the finals to win right to the trophy. Following the presentation to Theodore Scheifele and John Dry, members of the winning team, the cup will be placed on the trophy shelf in the Registrar's office.

Scrub Managers

Any members of the sophomore class wishing to become scrub managers for basketball during the remainder of the season are asked to report to Russell H. Derr, varsity manager, within the next week.

Donald A. Hausman New Pre-Law Head

John Marshall Members Name Other Officers At Meeting

DONALD A. HAUSMAN

Officers for the second semester were elected at a meeting of the John Marshall Pre-law society held last Wednesday afternoon. The new men are: President, Donald A. Hausman; vice-president, Robert Prutzman; secretary-treasurer, Francis Knouss.

It was announced by the retiring president, James Coyne, that the society will meet shortly with Phi Alpha Theta, national historical fraternity, to discuss plans for a symposium to be held at a future date. These two groups sponsored a similar program last year which met with the hearty approval of the student body.

Robert Prutzman, newly-elected vice-president, will discuss "Legal Ethics" at the next meeting of the group to be held Wednesday afternoon, February 19, at 3:15 o'clock in the Seminar room of the library. Retiring officers of the club are: President, James Coyne, vice-president, Herbert N. Haas, secretary-treasurer, Donald A. Hausman.

Varsity Debaters In 3 Engagements

Forensic Teams Meet Ursinus, Lafayette, U. of P. Finance School

Muhlenberg's varsity debaters go into full swing this week with three forensic tilts listed within four days. The team opened its second semester engagements last night in a single debate with Lafayette which was a non-decision affair.

The question argued last evening on the local campus was "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

Speakers for the local affirmative team were Herman Heim and James Coyne.

The first dual meeting of the week is scheduled for tomorrow night with Ursinus. Muhlenberg's affirmative team will remain at home with the negative representatives going to Collegeville. The teams of both schools are to argue the question "Resolved, that the Constitution Should Be Amended so that Congress May Control Intrastate Commerce".

John Stump, Herman Heim, and Alvin Butz will speak for the affirmative team here while the negative speakers will be George Boyer, Donald Schlicher, and James Coyne.

The third debate is scheduled for Friday evening with the University of Pennsylvania Finance School of Philadelphia. This will be a single engagement with the question being that of intra-state commerce. Muhlenberg will debate the affirmative side with the speakers being Stump, Heim, and Butz. Decisions will be given by three judges in the latter two debates.

Phi Alpha Theta Will Honor Amos Ettinger

Dr. Amos A. Ettinger, Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1921, and author of the recently completed biography on General George Oglethorpe, will become an honorary member of Kappa chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity, at its initiation ceremonies to be held Thursday evening, February 27. Dr. Ettinger will also be the evening's principal speaker and has selected as his topic, "The Art of Biography". Several undergraduates are to be initiated into membership at the meeting which will most likely be held in this city.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

Published on page 2 of this issue is a list of books added to the college library since November 1, 1935. Gift books have been contributed by President Haas, Prof. Stephen G. Simpson, Dr. James Edgar Swain, Thomas E. Miller, and Mrs. R. N. Merriman.

FRESHMAN REPORTERS

Freshman class members desiring to become members of the editorial staff of The Muhlenberg Weekly are asked to meet Thursday afternoon on the second floor of the Administration building. The editor will be in the news office between 1:15 and 3:15 o'clock to meet with all applicants.

Before accepting his present pastorate, he served at St. Paul's Lutheran in Easton.

Nominate Officers For New Semester

Sophomores Will Elect New Men At Meeting Tomorrow

Nominations for second semester officers of the sophomore class were made at a meeting held last Wednesday morning in the chemistry lecture room of the Science Hall. Those nominated at that time include:

President—Charles M. Kern, John Young, Paul A. McGinley, and Kermit K. Kistler.

Vice-president—Thomas Natoli, Byron E. Kern, James Ware, Edgar Ernst, and Bernard Krell.

Secretary—Thomas Williams and Ralph Eagle.

Robert J. Pharo was elected treasurer in 1934 to serve the four years of class organization.

Whether or not all those nominated last week will be eligible to hold office if elected is still undetermined. Having received recommendations from Dean Horn, Student Council members will decide eligibility from the amendment to the Student Body constitution passed last spring which deals with this matter.

The amendment reads: "All students must be in full academic standing according to the Registrar's office and in full social standing in their class in order to hold any office to which their respective classmates are eligible".

The elections are to be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock when the class meets in the chemistry lecture room of the Science Hall.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Chaplain Harry P. C. Cressman represented Muhlenberg at a conference of student pastors and college chaplains held Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in the Christian Association building at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia. Also present at the meeting was Prof. Louis F. Hackemann, headmaster of Prep school.

Fire in Bus Delays Choristers On Way to Church Concert

A blazing newspaper, thought to have been ignited by falling cigarette ashes, caused no little excitement last Sunday evening in the bus taking the college choir to Philadelphia where the members were scheduled to present a concert.

The choristers' departure from Allentown in the afternoon was somewhat delayed due to the heavy snow which had fallen Saturday night. They reached Sellersville, however, shortly before 6 o'clock and seemed to be making up for lost time.

A short time after passing through the town odor of smoke attracted the attention of men riding in the rear seats of the bus. On the floor under one of the seats a paper had caught fire and in a few minutes the flames were licking at the window shades.

Paul "Romeo" Heffner gave warning to the driver and with the bus having been brought to a stop, several of the songsters escaped through the emergency door in the rear of the machine. A hand extinguisher was played upon the flames and within fifteen minutes the party was again on its way to Philadelphia.

The evening's concert was given in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Broad street and Chelton avenue, of which the Rev. Charles E. Keim '13, is the pastor.

Muhlenberg Students In Cedar Crest Play

Four Muhlenberg students will have roles in the three-act play "You and I" to be given next month by the Cedar Crest Chimes Club. The production, written by Phillip Barrie, is to be presented March 26 and 27 in the Civic Little Theater of this city.

Joseph Schantz, president of the Mask and Dagger club, and Paul Heffner have already been chosen for two of the four male characters. Two other men will probably be named this week following additional try-outs by Miss Brong, of Cedar Crest.

Three female parts in the production will be played by Miss Ruth Bigelow, Miss Ruth Parmet, and Miss Dorothy Gingrich, all Cedar Crest students.

High Praise Given To President Haas

Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher Honors College Head in Sermon

Comparing the life of President Haas to those of the Psalmist David and the Apostle Paul, the Rev. Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher, president of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, paid a high tribute to the retiring college head in his sermon Sunday afternoon in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

Sunday's speaker had for his sermon theme "What to Forget and What to Remember" and took the opportunity to evaluate in a general way the fine work done by President Haas in developing Muhlenberg into one of the state's leading educational institutions.

Dr. Haas, he said, was called to the presidency of Muhlenberg, then a college relatively unknown, from the successful pastorate of an influential New York congregation. He left the charge and came to the local college because of his consecrated discipleship and here dedicated himself to consecrated leadership as president of the college.

William D. Coleman Heads German Club

Deutscher Verein Members Hold Bi-monthly Meeting

WILLIAM D. COLEMAN

William D. Coleman, senior class member, was elected president of the Deutscher Verein at its bi-monthly meeting held last Monday evening in the college commons. Other officers for the new semester are as follows: vice-president, Eugene Schneck '36; secretary, George Machajdik '37; treasurer, John Stump '37.

At its meeting the society decided to subscribe to Die Woche, a German publication, and the German American Review, both of which will be placed in the library.

The retiring officers of the group, all members of the class of '36, are: president, Warren Schlegel; vice-president, Donald Hausman; treasurer, Karl Lehr. Machajdik was re-elected to his office.

JUNIORS TO NOMINATE 2ND SEMESTER OFFICERS

The Junior class will hold a short meeting this morning immediately after the student body meeting in the Assembly room of the Science hall.

Officers are to be nominated for the second semester and reports of committees for the Junior Prom will be made.

Juniors Ready For Valentine Prom In Mealey's Ballroom

College Social Function To Start At 10 O'clock Friday Night

HUDSON-DeLANGE BAND WILL PLAY FOR DANCE

Friday night draws nigh and with it comes the annual Junior Prom when the music will go round and around once again.

The place—Mealey's auditorium on Hamilton street; the time—10 o'clock Friday night to 3 o'clock Saturday morning; the attraction—the enchanting strains of the famed Hudson-DeLange orchestra.

Preparations are just about completed as the zero hour for the social event approaches. Not content with securing an outstanding and novel band for the gala occasion, members of the committee have spared no pain nor effort in pursuing other features to make the dance fulfill its conception as being the highlight of the season's social program.

The decorative scheme of the dance will be in accordance with the season. Valentine Day will find its influence in the decorations of the ballroom. The hall will be decorated in red and white while the lighting effects will also be in harmony with the dictates of the Valentine spirit.

The dance will be of the most novel type. The spirit of youth will permeate the entire affair, from the youthful orchestra and its leaders, to the representatives of college youth of America swaying on the spacious floor to the music of one of the new sensations of the orchestra world.

Those who attend will find a most pleasing variety of music presented. The pep of the faster tunes will be varied with low-slowly moving hits now popular. All of the presentations will be most definitely the type for a college dance.

The committee in charge of the affair is: William Rogers, William Laing, Dean Zweier, George Legg, Francis Knouss, Herbert Haas, John Bianco and Charles Garrettson, chairman.

More Engagements For College Choir

Choristers To Sing Before Two New Jersey Congregations

For the third consecutive year the college vested choir journeyed once again last Sunday to Philadelphia to present one of its popular a-cappella concerts in St. Mark's Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Charles E. Keim '13, is pastor. The choir was directed by Dr. Harold K. Marks.

According to Theodore Fischer, student manager, the choristers are scheduled to appear in concerts every Sunday evening until the end of April with the single exception of Easter Sunday. Plans are nearing completion for a half-hour program to be sung on Palm Sunday afternoon over radio station WCAU, Philadelphia, followed by a concert in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, of that city, in the evening.

Dates for engagements in Harrisburg and Lebanon will be announced in the near future. Following are the places the choir will sing within the next two months:

- February 16—St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, Allentown.
- February 23—Epiphany Lutheran Church, Camden, New Jersey.
- March 1—Spinnertown Lutheran Church.
- March 8—Coplay Lutheran Church.
- March 15—Trinity Lutheran Church, Trenton, New Jersey.
- March 22—Zionsville Lutheran Church.
- March 27—Denver High School.

DR. HAAS TO SPEAK

The Cooperative Store

The financial report of the Cooperative Store, submitted last week, revealed once more the rapid strides which have been made by the management of the store, for the benefit of the students and college at large. The inventory of the store has been tripled in the three years it has been under the supervision of Doctors Mueller and Swain, and the capital sales, and profits have all substantially increased.

Each student should take cognizance of several other facts in connection with this fine enterprise. The student body has been saved $800 in its purchase of text books, made possible through the arrangements of the store. It has made possible the worthwhile employment of several students each year and has remunerated them accordingly. Finally, all the profits made from the business are turned over to the Student Loan Fund, which is another student and college benefit.

The management of the Cooperative store deserves recognition and the sincere appreciation of the student body for their efficiency, interest, and unselfish service. For those of us who have been here four years and remember the country general store which now houses the Cooperative, we are doubly appreciative.

What A Difference A Year Makes

Some weeks ago the freshman basketball team was scheduled to play Allentown High's varsity on the latter's floor. The outcome of the game, a 52 to 21 loss for the frosh, is now a matter of history and it is not with the result that we are concerned.

What did arouse the curiosity of some fans were the unsportsmanlike tactics displayed by the Allentown rooters. Playing on the college freshman team were two members of last year's championship five of the high school. At that time Allentown, almost to a man, was ready and willing to carry on their shoulders any and all members of that scholastic team.

But with just twelve months past there is another story to tell. Throughout the evening these same two players received continual "boos" and "jeers" from their so-called loyal supporters of a year past. What prompted the untimely action is still a mystery.

When city and high school fans look only for a team to give them victory and forget the meaning of sportsmanship as was so apparent at this game, they have lost sight of what athletics should mean. This particular case also showed ingratitude for what former athletes did for their school.

A Practical Class

The movement to include in the college curricula a class of etiquette is indeed inspiring, and if executed will fill an acknowledged need. It should not be optional, however, and neither should its success depend upon the interest of the student body. Rather should it be included in the compulsory curricula of the first two years even though its worth would not be recognized by many.

When college administrators throughout the land will admit that it is equally as valuable for a man to be polished in manners and attire as it is for him to know the antics of the great characters of mythology, then a practical college education will become a reality.

The Boy Scouts

Once again the eyes of the public are turned this week to the Boy Scouts of America, who are observing the Twenty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the movement in 1910, during which quarter century of existence it has been actively serving American youth and future American manhood.

During the past twenty-six years, approximately 7,000,000 boys and men have come under the influence of the Scout ideals and its happy, healthy, outdoor program. When on February 8, the scout birthday proper, the entire membership including Sea Scouts, Rural Scouts and Troop Scouts and their Leaders rededicated themselves to the Scout Oath and Law, it was a pledge taken by a million strong, north, south, east and west, from coast to coast.

What such a youth program is doing, has been doing, for over a quarter century, in contributing to the virility, idealism and social responsibility of our national life both now and in the years to come, is beyond counting. A man

MY VALENTINE

My Valentine, please hearken to my prayer:
One day a year I'll be so bold to dare
To ask you for the love for which I long,
So please, my sweet, give ear unto my song.
I promise, honey, I will always care.
Although, my dear, you know I can't be there
To hold you in my arms, yet hear my prayer,
And sigh assent. Oh, tell me I'm not wrong,
My Valentine.

I fondle tenderly the hank of hair
You allowed me take, when I was there;
I long and pray for love to sing its song
To you and me—to bring us two among
The sweethearts, for we'd be a loving pair,
My Valentine. —Leifeld '36.

BUT WE'RE NOT CO-ED

By popular demand the University of Kansas "dime-a-date" bureau was recently re-opened for business.

Leo Gottlieb, enterprising student who started the business of making social contacts for the lonely only to give it up under a wave of practical jokes, announced he had "consented to reopen."

"My clients and friends would not let me close it," he said. Gottlieb promises to find a companion for lonesome men and women students at 10 cents a copy—25 cents if satisfied and no money refunded.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

The crying need of this country is handkerchiefs.

A NEW ELEMENT—WOMAN

Symbol—Wo

A member of the human family.

Occurrence—Can be found wherever man exists. Seldom occurs in the free or native state. Quality depends on the state in which it is found.

Physical Properties—All colors and sizes. Always appears in disguised condition. Surface seldom unprotected by coating of paint or powder film (composition immaterial). Boils at nothing and may freeze at any moment. However, it melts when properly treated. Very bitter when not treated correctly.

Chemical Properties—Extremely active; possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum, and precious stones of all kinds. Violent reaction when left alone by men. Ability to absorb all kinds of expensive food at any time. Undissolved by liquids, but activity increases when saturated with spirited solutions. Turns green when placed next to a better sample. Ages very rapidly. Fresh variety has magnetic attraction.

N. B. Highly explosive and likely to be dangerous in inexperienced hands.

Someone has suggested that the theme song of the coming Republican National convention will be "The End of a Perfect PAY". On the other hand the Democrats might harmonize in "The Scars and Spites Forever".

HELP! HELP!! HELP!!!

Remember "Yes, We Have No Bananas"?

A bit screwy and all that but either because, despite or by coincidence the tune marked the end of the short bitter depression of the early twenties.

"The Music Goes Round and Around" is sounding a similar depression death knell along these similar lines:

Equal idiocy, equal, soon to be greater total sales; soon to be greater profits—now $30,000; greatest single day sheet sales; plus greater popularity due to greater population, i.e., more people to whistle, hum, dance, sing than in the "Yes, We Have No Bananas" days and more radio orchestras to play it. And by the same token more people to be driven round and around, round and around.

But there is this to be thankful for. The three who wrote it on an idea gained from an overly cocktailed sweet young thing did not get together with the writers of "The Broken Record." Can you picture what would happen throughout this broad land if that round and around whirl would have been merged with that "I Love You, I Love You, I Love You" groove?

Horrors, the type is whirling!

power is being created "physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight," dedicated to service and loyalty to God and country, friendliness to man, beast and bird, and even to the very trees of the forest.

The Boy Scouts of America may well congratulate itself, on this its Twenty-sixth Anniversary. So may we all. That Scouting is here among us carrying on its fine, practical ideals, its great out-of-door traditions, is surely a matter of deep gratitude for the present, hope for the future.

MULES WIN AND LOSE IN 2 LEAGUE TILTS

Cardinal-Gray Courtmen Score First League Victory Over Lebanon Valley, 35-33; Drop Gettysburg Game, 40-29

Kohler's Late Goal Brings Triumphs for Utz's Quintet

LOCALS IMPRESSIVE IN LOSS TO BULLET TEAM

Hen Bream's Gettysburg Bullets kept pace with Franklin and Marshall in the Eastern Pennsylvania basketball race last Saturday night when the Battlefield quintet came to Allentown and handed Johnny Utz's Mules a 40 to 29 defeat, the latter's fifth setback in six league starts.

Gettysburg's nigh to perfect passing attack got them away to an early lead and with the game but five minutes old, the Bullets held an 8 to 4 advantage. The Cardinal and Gray staged two great rallies in the first half to twice knot the count at 10-10 and 12-12 respectively.

It was nip and tuck from this point until the last two minutes of the half. With the Bullets out in front by 15 to 14 they dropped three successive goals and led at the half 22 to 14.

With the opening of the second half they increased the lead to 24 to 16, but again the Mules, fighting, ran it to 25-19, but again the Bullets stepped out with several beautiful shots to lead, 30 to 19.

Several long goals from the floor by Kohler and Keleher together with a foul ran the Mule total up the 25, but Fish caged a pair of baskets and with five minutes to play the visitors led, 34 to 25. The Mules tried hard to catch them, but the beautiful passing game of the Bullets, gave them the edge to coast to victory.

It was, perhaps, Muhlenberg's inability to convert foul tosses that proved one of the major factors in the team's loss. While Gettysburg made good 12 free tosses, the Mules were able to convert only 5 times. The Bullets managed to score only two more goals from the floor than Coach Utz's proteges, the locals proving more than a match for the visitors everywhere with the exception of the foul line.

Fish, and Thomas were high scorers for the winners while Cico's floor work was in a class by itself. No individual player stood out for the Mules but all the Cardinal and Gray passers gave an excellent account of themselves against an acknowledged better team. Summary:

Five successive long shots, all made within the last three minutes of play, turned almost certain defeat into victory last Wednesday night as the Cardinal and Gray passers came through in brilliant fashion to defeat Lebanon Valley, 35 to 33, and thus chalk up their first league victory of the season.

Prior to this engagement the Mules had not scored a win in the Eastern Collegiate loop and had won but one other game, that being a 40 to 36 triumph over Lehigh the previous Monday night.

To Jim Kohler, former South Whitehall High school basketballer, go the laurels for victory over the Annville crew. It was this Mule forward who caged the winning goal last Wednesday with just thirty seconds of play remaining.

Frosh Cagers To Meet Lehigh, City Quintets

Having won but one game out of seven thus far in the season, Muhlenberg's frosh basketballers will continue their campaign in two more tilts scheduled within the next week.

As a preliminary to the varsity league game with Albright on Saturday night the Little Mules will play the East Ends, members of the Class A City League. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Next Monday night Coach Gutteron's five meets an old rival when Lehigh's freshmen come here to play before the Lehigh-Muhlenberg varsity engagement. The local yearlings will seek revenge for a 34 to 24 setback at the hands of the Brown and White frosh last season.

Penn State Hopes For Revenge Next Fall On Gridiron

Penn State students and alumni evidently haven't forgotten the 3-0 defeat the Muls handed the Nittany Lions in the fall of 1933. With the announcement of the Cardinal and Gray being on State's grid schedule for next season, the following comment comes from a Harrisburg sports writer who is also an alumnus of State:

"Harry Stuhldreher's Wildcats will get the first real crack at the Lions, although Johnny Utz's Muhlenberg team will open the season one week before. Now I know that every game is supposed to be played for the love of the game but I feel that there are thousands of Penn State students who want to see the stigma of defeat which the Allentown gridders handed Penn State several years ago wiped out or at least atonement made for the same. Such atonement would be in the form of a nice shellacking by the Lions. I hope it comes true."

Beginning in June, Yale engineering graduates will receive bachelor of engineering instead of bachelor of science degrees.

All five members of the team sent onto the floor by Coach Utz in the closing minutes of the game had a part in overcoming the visitors' lead. Ten points behind with only three minutes remaining, Tommy Thomas looped one through the basket to start the scoring spree. Gene Grossman was next in line to chalk up a two-pointer with Willie Laing following suit. Jack Keleher tied the count at 33-all with another basket and the stage was set for Kohler's victory shot.

The fine consistent playing of Laing, Mule forward, had a major part in the locals triumph. The diminutive athlete caged five field goals and a foul for a total of eleven points. Keleher did a great job at his guard position and gathered ten points in the scoring column: Summary:

Entering the sixth week of competition in the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League, Franklin and Marshall's five is still out in front with an unblemished record of six consecutive victories.

The Lancaster passers face a serious threat to their league domination tonight when Coach Barr's team invades Gettysburg in what is expected to be the crucial game of the season. Should the Blue and White win over the Bullets, they will virtually sew up the 1936 title. On the other hand a triumph for Gettysburg would leave Hen Bream's boys just one half game out of first place.

Whether or not F. and M. can defeat Gettysburg on the latter's floor is another matter of speculation for the Bullets have not lost at home in four years of competition.

By virtue of their win over Lebanon Valley last Wednesday night, the Mules now share the cellar with the Annville quintet, each having but a single victory in six games.

3. "Kill Bruno Richard Hauptmann."
4. "Get rid of the damn Reds."

Frosh Win, 45-15; Drop Saturday Tilt

Little Mules Smother Coast Artillery, But Lose 27 to 24

Coach Gutteron's passers had their winning stopped short at one game last Saturday night when the Allentown Business College five scored a 27 to 24 victory over the Mule freshmen in a preliminary game to the Gettysburg varsity tilt. The Business College was scheduled to replace Smith and Peilly's team.

Poor passing and the inability to make good their shots at the basket spelled defeat for the yearlings who led at half-time by a 14 to 12 score.

The Little Mules scored their first and only triumph of the season so far last Wednesday night, defeating the Battery B, 213th Coast Artillery five by the score of 45 to 15. The frosh established an early lead and were never in danger for the remainder of the fray. Summaries:

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes. They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product. All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

of the past, Dr. Haas has had the same perspective, the distinguished churchman said, of the value of the past and because of that was able to plan constructively for the future.

Like the Psalmist David, Dr. Pfattheicher said, Dr. Haas was big enough and strong enough to rise above petty criticism and to carry on his work successfully in spite of the handicaps that confronted him during the more than thirty years that he has been the leader of the college.

He forgot the hardships, forgot the trivialities, forgot self, forgot the selfish aspirations of others, to build a greater Muhlenberg, a noble institution in the Lutheran church for the Christian education of young men.

Dr. Haas' predominant theme, he said, was Christian idealism and, like the composer writing a great symphony, he repeated that theme with growing fervor as he built the college.

The vested choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, sang for its anthem "Laudamus" by Protheroe. Dr. Haas, the Rev. Russell W. Stine and Chaplain Harry P. C. Cressman officiated at the service.

Timely Warning

Harrisburg, Pa. (ACP)—Gather ye rosebuds while ye may, sums up the advice to the private colleges of America just offered by William Pearson Tolley, president of Allegheny College here. Endowments are due to become a rarity on the American scene, he warns.

"Regardless of the party in power," President Tolley said, "taxes will grow steadily higher, the number of great estates steadily smaller and the surplus out of which come the gifts to colleges, schools, churches and other institutions will gradually disappear."

Proposal Made For Paying Salary To Student Treasurer

President Koehler Rules Motion Out of Order; Names Dance Chairman

MILLER AWARDS DEBATE TROPHY TO CARDINALS

A motion made to pay the student body treasurer an annual fee of $50 received ardent support and equally as strong opposition at the student body meeting held last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium.

Rising to his feet at the call for new business, Harold Weiner, '36, proposed that the student treasurer receive the salary annually to be paid from the student body budget starting this year. This sum would be equal to that now paid each term to the student secretary.

Heated arguments, both "pro" and "con", immediately followed the proposal before President George R. Koehler ruled the motion out of order.

President Koehler defended his action on the grounds that before such procedure could be taken an amendment to the student body constitution was necessary. Student Council will meet next Monday to discuss the matter.

President Koehler announced David T. Smith '36, as chairman for the annual student body dance to be held in May. Smith, present student treasurer, will be assisted on the committee by the other members of Student Council.

Preceding the meeting proper the fourth annual award of the intramural debate cup was made to Theodore Scheifele and John Dry, freshman members of this year's winning Cardinals team. The cup was presented by Richard G. Miller president of the Forensic Council. It marked the first time the trophy was won by a non-fraternity team.

MISSIONARY TO JAPAN SPEAKER HERE SUNDAY

Guest preacher for the vesper service this coming Sunday afternoon will be the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn, missionary to Japan and a graduate of Muhlenberg college in the class of 1907. Upon graduation from Muhlenberg Dr. Horn did graduate work at Yale University and completed his work at the Philadelphia Seminary in 1911, in which year he was also ordained by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania and appointed missionary to Japan.

College Program In Reading on Friday

Troupe to Give "College Night" Entertainment This Week

Postponed two weeks ago because of a driving snowstorm and icy roads, Muhlenberg's musical and dramatic troupe will make another attempt this Friday evening to present its first "College Night" program in Trinity Lutheran Church, Reading. The entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock.

The meeting, planned by Registrar Benfer, is an effort to interest prospective college students to continue their education and to urge them to seek the facilities offered at Muhlenberg. This idea will be particularly emphasized in an address to be given by Dean Robert C. Horn on the topic "Who Should Go to College?"

Musical numbers by groups representing the college choir and band, a one-act comedy skit by the Mask and Dagger club, and the showing of motion pictures of life on Muhlenberg's campus are also included in the evening's routine.

Following the program of entertainment, heads of the various departments of the college will have small group conferences with the prospective students and their parents or friends.

CONFERENCE SPEAKER

LeRoy Snyder, field secretary for Muhlenberg, was among the speakers who addressed a youth conference held last Saturday in Richlandtown, Bucks county.

Juniors Face $100 Deficit On Dance

Bad Weather Causes Financial Loss For Annual Prom

Rain, sleet, and snow combined last Friday night making transportation to the Junior Prom a virtual impossibility. As a result the class now faces a deficit which it is feared will amount to $100 or more.

An itemized account of the Prom expenses will not be available until the Juniors hold their class meeting today at 11 o'clock, but dance committee members estimate the loss at $100 with their treasury empty. Some arrangement is expected to be made at today's meeting to cover this amount.

Braving the elements, however, approximately 125 couples did manage to reach Mealey's auditorium to dance to the swinging tunes of the Hudson-DeLange orchestra. Ruth Gaylor, attractive, dark-eyed songstress, made a hit in her novelty numbers.

Eddie DeLange revealed that the musicians have been engaged by Princeton two weeks from now for a "battle of music" with Ray Noble, and that last week they were the attraction for the Junior Week dance at Cornell.

Freshman English Themes To Appear in Paper This Week

A new publication will tomorrow make its first appearance on Muhlenberg's campus.

Receiving the unanimous approval and wholehearted enthusiasm of first-year men studying English under Dr. Robert C. Conklin, "The Freshman Writer", a novel and noteworthy publication, will soon be a regular part of local college activity. The publication which is to appear every two weeks, will be composed entirely of themes written as a regular part of English 102 and published in the belief that they deserve a wider audience. Freshman ideas and impressions will thus be disclosed, and the paper will serve to prove that freshmen do think and are able to express their ideas effectively.

The majority of essays to be published will be written on matters of everyday importance to Muhlenberg men, and it is hoped that the writings will arouse comment and interesting controversy among the students. They are open to criticism and anyone disagreeing with any ideas expressed is welcome to make a direct reply.

The published material will be chosen from a number of manuscripts equally good, submitted by the instructor to an editorial committee composed of freshmen, whose duty it is to read and judge them. It is the hope of Dr. Conklin that this publication will inspire other freshmen to better writing.

The following students have been chosen by Dr. Conklin to serve on the editorial and publication committee.

Debate Coach

EPHRAIM B. EVERITT

Prof. Everitt is again coaching Muhlenberg's debate teams this season, a position he has held for the past five years. Plans have just about been completed for a forensic trip south during the month of April.

Welfare Groups To Convene Next Week

Students Invited to Attend Annual Meeting in Americus

Sessions of the annual State conference on social welfare, meeting February 24-29 in the Americus Hotel, are of special interest to students majoring in sociology and social service subjects. The convention opens next Monday evening when Mayor Malcolm Gross, of this city, is to address the group.

The conference is an open forum for the exchange of opinions on social work practice. Addresses given at conference meetings, or at meetings of welfare groups meeting in conjunction with the conference, present the points of view of the speakers, but do not necessarily have the endorsement of the organization.

Three days during the conference Dr. Carl W. Boyer, professor of education, will announce and introduce prominent speakers over Allentown's radio station WCBA. (Continued on Page Four)

COUNTRY CLUB GOLF TROPHY FOR DR. WRIGHT

Dr. I. M. Wright, professor of education, last week became the proud possessor of a beautiful golf trophy awarded him by the Brookside Country Club for having won the second flight of the Club's tournament held last summer. The trophy stands a foot high mounted on a black base. A silver pedestal supports a miniature golf player at the top of the piece.

Plan Broadcast Of Welfare Programs

Faculty Members Cooperate in City Project Starting Tonight

Further cooperation between the college and city organizations is seen in a project designed to increase public interest and attention to the work performed by the various social welfare agencies in this community.

The project, announced this week by Dr. Carl W. Boyer, professor of education, is to be a weekly radio broadcast centering about some human interest case under the supervision of one of the city's welfare organizations. The programs will be presented each Wednesday evening, starting tonight, from 9 to 9:15 o'clock.

Each member agency of the Allentown Community Chest has been asked to prepare an interesting case which they have pursued, this to be given in narrative form during the broadcasting period.

Dr. Boyer, together with Chaplain Harry P. Cressman, of the college, will review all the cases submitted and prepare the narrations for the 15-minute weekly programs.

In each case it will be the purpose of the broadcasting group to show how some vital community problem is being met through the program of that particular agency.

The groups cooperating include the Allentown Hospital, the Red Cross, Blind Association, Boy Scouts, Children's Aid Society, (Continued on Page Four)

Board Of Control Remains Silent On Athletic Problems

Enlarged Committee to Meet Soon To Discuss Situation

INTERVIEW PROMINENT EASTERN GRID COACHES

After weeks and even months of holding secret meetings and discussions on the athletic situation, members of the college Athletic Board of Control announced this week that they have exactly nothing to report.

Contrary to highly speculative stories and rumors afloat during the past few weeks, the newly-enlarged committee of nine members has taken no action whatsoever and the athletic status remains just where it was last fall.

"John L. Utz is still today head coach of athletics at Muhlenberg", said one member of the committee, when asked to comment on the plans before the group which expects to meet this week in the administration building. A similar meeting was scheduled for last Thursday evening, but unfavorable weather conditions caused its postponement to this week.

The committee members at present have under consideration two different set-ups for the betterment of athletic conditions here. The first would be to retain the present coaching staff, at least for another year, with the possibility of adding an athletic director next fall. The other plan is to elect a new head coach for the fall of 1936. In the latter event, Coach (Continued on Page Four)

Mask And Dagger Will Add Members

Theatrical Group Announces Change in Election of Officers

Mask and Dagger theatrical club continues its program with increased activity at the start of the second semester.

A revision of the constitution at its meeting held last Thursday enables the club to expand its membership more readily and to include those students who have expressed a desire to join immediately. Under the new provision, freshmen are eligible for membership this semester.

At last week's meeting the play committee reported possibilities for a play to be given by the club this spring. The members are now working on the production "Box and Cox" which will be played during the assembly period March 4.

It has been decided to hold election of officers once each year instead of at the beginning of semesters as previously was the case.

Ursinus Debaters Awarded Decision

Bad Weather Upsets Schedule for Local Forensic Teams

Extreme winter weather, so prevalent last week, even had its effect upon the college forensic schedule when only two of four debates could be held.

The meeting with Lafayette, a non-decision affair, went off as planned on Tuesday night. Only half of a dual engagement with Ursinus here was possible Thursday evening while another meeting with the University of Pennsylvania Evening School of Finance was postponed until a later date.

The Ursinus speakers, who had debated Lehigh in Bethlehem the previous day, managed to make the trip to Allentown on Thursday afternoon, but the local team found it impossible to journey to Collegeville in the afternoon for the other part of the dual debate. It will probably be held this week.

The Collegeville collegians' visit to the local campus was well repaid for they went away with a judge's decision over the Muhlenberg men. The latter team upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, that the Constitution Should Be Amended so that Congress May Control Intrastate Commerce".

Speakers for Muhlenberg were John Stump, Herman Heim, and Israel Yost. The winning team was composed of Henry Kriger, Douglas Mertz, and Rubin Levin. The critic judge was Prof. Woodrow DeLaware, of Allentown Preparatory school. Richard G. Miller, varsity debate manager, acted as chairman for the evening.

Schenck and Pfeifer In Cedar Crest Play

Two more Muhlenberg students were named during the past week to have roles in the Cedar Crest Chimes Club play to be presented in the Civic Little Theater next month. The men selected were Robert Schenck '38 and William Pfeifer '36. Joseph Schantz '36 and Paul Heffner '38 were named for male parts the previous week.

The play, entitled "You and I", is to be given under the sponsorship of the Cedar Crest society on March 21 and 22.

298 Students Vote To Have Etiquette Course Taught Here

When students return to Muhlenberg next fall they may perhaps have the opportunity of enrolling in a course for Etiquette.

A recent survey conducted by Kappa Phi Kappa, educational fraternity, reveals 298 men out of 310 submitting questionnaires in favor of adding such a course to the college curricula. The blanks were distributed several weeks ago.

Of those voting for the course, 24 were favorable whether it be given with or without college credit. Fifty-seven want the course given without credit while seventeen are in favor only if credit is received. An even dozen students were opposed to such a study whether or not they be given college credits.

Total freshman votes submitted numbered 116 with only two being against such a class. Of the three upper classes, 194 desire such a study while ten voted "no" under any conditions.

Interesting comments were forthcoming from the blanks although no students penned their signatures. One student stated that persons should want to take it. Another said—"There are always a certain number of people who have no manners after they leave college and this should be the place to acquire manners".

"Have it open to the public" wrote another.

"Open to the public with Cedar Crest invited" was still a further comment.

One student voted in favor of the class but termed it "a lot of nonsense".

Students To Hear Noted Illustrator, Artist In Assembly

Morgan Dennis Will Speak on "The Best of the Breed"

CANINE SKETCHES HAVE GAINED NATIONAL FAME

Morgan Dennis, noted artist, etcher, and illustrator, will deliver an illustrated lecture this morning at 11 o'clock in the Science Hall auditorium on the subject "The Best of the Breed." He is lecturing under the direction of W. Colston Leigh, of New York.

Mr. Dennis, a native of Boston, worked on a newspaper there for a number of years doing all kinds of pictorial reporting. He left the paper to study etching with W. H. W. Bicknell at Provincetown, Cape Cod. When his new medium was under control he went to Ireland where he spent a year doing a series of etchings on Irish subjects. Then, quite by accident, he made his first plate of a dog, which became so popular that dogs have been his chief subject matter ever since.

Among his witty little prints are such titles as "A Terrible Feller," "School's Out," "I Love Nature," "Scram," and "When Do We Eat?" The latter was adopted by an oil company for its trade mark and reproduced several millions of times, and might be said to have made America "Scottie conscious". His work is of universal appeal. The London Sketch, which has reproduced many full pages of his work, says, "His work, though ex- (Continued on Page Two)

10 Students Eligible For Eta Sigma Phi

The names of ten students eligible for membership in Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, were presented to the fraternity at its monthly meeting last Thursday evening in the seminar room of the library. Having met with all necessary requirements, they were readily accepted by the chapter. The initiation ceremony will take place at the next meeting, Thursday, March 12.

After voting on and passing amendments to the local constitution, Geza P. Bolez, and William Pfeifer presented interesting papers on "The Greek Note of Directness" and "The Note of Humanism".

College Choir Has Concert In Jersey

Singers to Give Program in Camden Church Sunday

For the first time since its organization five years ago, the college choir on Sunday will present a concert in New Jersey. Following the Sunday vesper service here in the chapel the musicians will go by bus to Camden where they are scheduled to sing in Epiphany Lutheran Church of which the Rev. Paul C. Weber '11, is the pastor.

Two years ago this month Dr. Marks and his choristers presented a concert in Wilmington, Del., that being the only out-of-State trip until this semester.

Last Sunday evening the choir sang before a large congregation in St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, corner of Franklin and Turner streets. Pastor of the church is the Rev. Dr. Anson W. Lindemuth '02. The choir was entertained at a delightful social hour following the service.

PROF. KOEHLER SUFFERS ANKLE INJURY IN FALL

Prof. Truman Koehler, member of the mathematics department, suffered an incomplete fracture of an ankle bone as the result of a fall last Thursday afternoon. He was on his way to the faculty meeting when he slipped and fell on the sidewalk where icicles from the spouting above had fallen.

Prof. Luther J. Deck will conduct Professor Koehler's classes the remainder of this week with the exception of the junior and senior electives.

Late Dismissals

Late dismissal of classes, especially at noon, is causing no little trouble for a number of students. Cold lunches, hurried eating, and a feeling of uncomfortableness for afternoon classes are the well-known results.

It is not uncommon for many classes to be left out at 12:30 or 12:35 when, if at any time during the day, these sessions should terminate promptly upon the ringing of the first bell at 12:25 o'clock.

With deep snow and icy walks as hindrances to the Commons and fraternity houses, many students arrive ten to fifteen minutes late when meals are served promptly at 12:30. Should these same persons have 1:15 classes it means something must be sacrificed if they eat any distance from the campus.

A year or two ago the ringing of the first bell was changed from 12:20 to 12:25 because chapel dismissals were usually behind time. Now with the extra five minutes class dismissals still fall behind. It is with fairness to all that we ask for more consideration in this matter.

Student Salaries

The proposal made at last week's student body meeting to give the student treasurer an annual fee of $50 has brought forth interesting comment from both students and faculty members. As a matter of fact the secretary has for a long time received that amount without protest from the students.

Just what the motive is back of the motion made last Wednesday is a matter of much speculation, but the one thing not in its favor is the tendency to want to pay all student officers in the years to come.

There are a few campus positions which require plenty of extra work, personal sacrifices, and real responsibility. It is not with these that this writing is concerned.

It is becoming more and more the opinion that none of the student body officers really earn a fixed salary such as is now given to the secretary. The present student secretary as much as admitted this at last week's session. The alumni secretary does a great deal to relieve the student secretary while the treasurer's office carries on a large part of the student finances. Nor do the other offices require any great exertion.

As a possible solution to the problem of whether or not to pay the officials, it would seem that the student body in general is not in favor of giving an annual fee for these services.

Just what procedure Student Council will take when it meets next week cannot be determined, but the body would do well to consider this majority student opinion.

A Republican Headache

The Republicans who are enjoying the apparent rift in the Democratic party stimulated by the Liberty League address of Al Smith, will soon quiet down after they study the platform which Senator Borah, a probable Republican nominee advocates. He is already causing the high priests of the party considerable worry.

Borah is stressing the necessity of aggressively enforcing the Sherman Act (anti-trust law) in order to increase competition in an effort to bring prices down and thus increase buying power. The last president to try it seriously was Theodore Roosevelt. Furthermore, since people increase the use of their purchasing power when confident, and diminish it when afraid, he also proposes a $60 per month pension to remove the principal fear of humans—want in old age. This is about twice as much as will be provided for under Roosevelt's security bill.

Again, the President has shelved, for the present at least, amendments to the constitution, whereas Borah proposes one to limit the power of the Supreme Court in annulling an act of Congress. The Senator also relies on compelling business to obey all regulatory measures strictly. In other words, the Borah program is more liberal than the New Deal.

This platform will never meet with the approval of the old guard as conservative republican leaders have already indicated. Thus the democrats can also expect a party at the expense of the G. O. P., for somebody will surely take a walk.

The Transportation Problem

The patience of many who depend on trolley service is being sorely tried these days. One has been accustomed to appropriate from twenty to thirty minutes to go into town, but for the past month one has been fortunate to make the journey in forty-five minutes or an hour, not to mention the time consumed in waiting for a car. This irksome process is considerably heightened, for when a trolley does arrive, it is followed immediately by two or three more. Upon examination, they are often jammed to the point where an accident might easily be a catastrophe.

Conditions are admittedly bad, and the problem is further complicated by the drivers of trucks who show little consideration or common sense. For this reason we have been admirably patient. In return, trolley officials would do well to better the situation, for a keen observer must admit that is possible along several lines.

With the advent of normal weather conditions the present congestion will undoubtedly disappear, but the return of the condition either this year or in future years will bring the same problem. The Transit Company should profit by experience in working on future transportation problems of a similar nature.

The Thinking Public

With the end of his 30-day reprieve having been reached, Bruno Richard Hauptmann was last week taken into conference by Samuel Leibowitz, noted criminal lawyer in an attempt to get the "whole story" of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Hauptmann's newest lawyer reports the conquered murderer of the Lindbergh baby "broke down and cried like a child" during a recent interview.

Many murderers as they draw nearer the chair break down and cry, some in sympathy for their victim, others in sympathy for themselves. Hauptmann's lawyer did not venture an explanation of why Hauptmann sobbed but the public will draw its own conclusion.

CAMPUS CAMERA

CAMPUS CHATTER

Last Friday's blizzard caused plenty of trouble throughout the country and Muhlenberg's campus was no exception. To start off the day the electric clock system went "bloody" and all hands stopped at 8:45 a. m. After plowing through knee-high drifts at many places only to reach the campus anywhere from a half-hour to an hour late for 9 o'clock classes, many a student was stuck dumb when, upon gazing at the time-piece, saw he was fifteen minutes ahead of time.

Believe It or Not!

• One class in chemistry waited forty-five minutes for the prof and even went so far as to help push his car out of a huge drift so he could come to class. Will wonders never cease?

There were those who came to 8's and 9's to learn that their profs had stayed at home. Imagine their—shall we say embarrassment?

Maybe Absent-Minded

An 8 o'clock German class was held fifteen minutes past the hour when the clock said, "No Go". After such a disaster, Dean Horn made certain of prompt dismissals by swinging a hand bell "every hour on the hour".

According to the Villanovan:
A college magazine is a great invention,
The college gets all the fame;
The printer gets all the money—
The staff gets all the blame.

Take Your Choice

As the result of two unusual circumstances, which occurred last week the college may soon be forced to erect signs around the campus signifying that this is Muhlenberg and nothing else.

Twice last week the college was confused with the Phoebe old folks' home on Chew street. Tuesday night a taxi driver, bringing Lafayette's debaters to the Ad building, stopped at the Phoebe home mistaking it for the college. On Thursday a motorist pulled up to the dorms and inquired if this was the Phoebe home. Your answer is as good as ours.

The following verse might have done for February 14:

I'm thweet thichteen;
I've been kithed only worth
And the club I like betht
Ith the book of the month.

—Purdue Exponent

Another one from Purdue's campus tells of the nudist colony that gave a masquerade party. First prize went to a lady with varicose veins who represented a road map.

This week's question: Who hid Christmas's pants while he was in gym class?

Fraternity Row

Theta Upsilon Omega

The members and pledges attended a dance at the chapter house last Saturday evening following the Junior Prom.

Executive secretary Brown from Joliet, Illinois, spent a few days at the chapter last week.

A Founders' Day banquet will be given by the Mothers' club this coming Saturday evening. A large group of alumni will also be present.

Theta Kappa Nu

The Mothers' club sponsored a spaghetti and meat-ball supper at the chapter house last Wednesday evening.

In celebrating the Founders' Day anniversary this week-end the local chapter will hold initiation on Friday night. A banquet will be held the following evening.

John Bianco and William Prutzman attended the Junior Prom at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York, last Saturday.

Alpha Tau Omega

At a recent meeting of the chapter Edward Horn was re-elected Worthy Master. The other officers were also elected for another semester.

The Board of Governors met last Tuesday evening and decided to begin repairs on the house this week.

The local chapter held a radio dance at the house last Saturday.

Phi Kappa Tau

The meeting of Phi Eta, the Mothers' sorority, planned for last Friday evening, was postponed due to the unfavorable weather conditions.

Theodore Fischer, Russell Derr, and Richard Miller attended the opera "Il Trovatore" given last Friday evening in the Lyric theater.

The Eta basketball team defeated the O. G. O. fraternity cagers from Moravian last Saturday by the score of 29 to 26.

Mr. Dennis' later work, portrait studies of the canine aristocrats, has brought him recognition from the American Kennel Club and popularity among millions of dog

He was inspired to write it by his own two Scotties, Jack and Jill, while making a motion picture of them.

The lecture this morning, is based upon material gathered from the speaker's own wide acquaintance with all classes of canine society.

Quintet In League Game Tonight With Gettysburg Rival

Game in H. S. Gym Saturday With Ursinus Five

CARDINAL AND GRAY TO PLAY F. & M. NEXT WEEK

Coach Johnny Utz's Cardinal and Gray basketball teams start down the home stretch of their campaign having three conference games scheduled within the next week. Tonight the Mules play at Gettysburg, Saturday evening they meet Ursinus in Allentown, while the third tilt will be played with Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster next Wednesday evening.

Little sunshine lights this tough road the Utzmen must travel within the next seven days. Gettysburg and F. and M. have both chalked up decisive victories over the Cardinal and Gray thus far in the campaign and only an upset can bring wins for the local passers.

The Cardinal Crusaders have yet to meet the Ursinus Bears, but the Collegeville five boasts of a 19 to 16 triumph over Hen Bream's Bullets.

In a game played February 8 in the Allentown High gym, the Muhlenberg quintet dropped a 40 to 29 decision to the Gettysburg team. Shover Barr's Blue and White clad boys from F. and M. easily won from the Cardinal and Gray, 42 to 30, when the two teams met here on January 18.

After next Wednesday's tilt with the Lancaster collegians, but one league fray remains to be played, this being with Lebanon Valley in Lebanon on February 29.

Freshman Passers Down Lehigh, 33-28

Cardinal and Gray Yearlings Win Second Tilt of Season

Muhlenberg's freshmen captured their second victory of the present season on Monday night when they sent the Lehigh yearlings down to defeat by the score 33 to 28.

Coach Gutteron's team lost a close 14 to 13 verdict last Saturday night to the East Ends quintet of the Class A City League. Summaries:

Mules Score Thrilling 23-21 Victory Over Engineers In Monday Night Tilt; Lafayette Wins Game At Easton, 30-28

Local Quintet Tallies 2nd Triumph Over Bethlehem Team

CRUSADERS RUN WILD AGAINST READING FOE

Muhlenberg's basketball team won their biggest victory of the season last Saturday when they completely swamped Albright's quintet by the score of 40 to 19 in a league tilt played in the Allentown High school gymnasium.

The victory was a complete upset since the Reading collegians had been beaten but twice during the season and had chalked up a 37 to 28 win over the Mules last month.

Gene Grossman led the scoring for the local five with no less than seven field goals and two fouls giving him sixteen points for the evening. Thirteen of these were tallied during the first half. It was the inspired playing of the entire Cardinal and Gray team, however, that meant victory.

In less than ten seconds after the opening tap-off, Willie Laing sent the ball through the cords to start 'Berg off on a wild scoring spree. After ten minutes of play, Muhlenberg led by a score of 9 to 2, but the Lions soon brought the count to 9 to 6, the closest they came to the locals all evening.

Three long field goals in a row by Grossman, all from mid-court, sent the Mules far ahead again, and at half time the Crusaders led by a score of 22 to 8.

With the start of the second half Kohler took over the spectacular shooting job for Muhlenberg, dropping in three field goals from mid-court in the first five minutes of the second half. At one stage early in the second half the Mules had a commanding 32 to 10 lead, but Albright added five points on its total here. Summary:

LEHIGH GAME

Outscoring their opponents, 18 to 5, in the second half after Lehigh had run up a 16 to 5 advantage in the opening period, Johnny Utz's Cardinal and Gray quintet eked out a 23 to 21 victory over the Engineers on Monday night, to win their most thrilling game of the season. The tilt was played in the "Little Palestra" of the Allentown High school.

The battle was hotly contested throughout the forty minutes of play and so keen did the rivalry become, that hand-to-hand combats broke out at the start of the second half. Muhlenberg's triumph was its second this month over the Bethlehem collegians, the score of the first encounter being 40 to 36.

The visitors jumped into an early lead and seemed headed for an easy victory as the half ended with Lehigh out in front, 16 to 5. With the start of the second half, things appeared even more dismal for the locals when the Engineers ran the count to 18 to 5.

However, at this point Gene Grossman, who had started the fray, was sent back into the lineup and the whole team began a wild scoring spree, the second the Utzmen have staged within the past week. The Mules pulled within one point of the Lehigh passers and when Thomas was fouled, he knotted the count with a good throw from the charity line.

With the score tied at 21-all and the spectators in an uproar, Jim Kohler sent the crowd home happy when he caged the winning goal in the last minute of play. It was this former South Whitehall lad who threw in the winning goal against Lebanon Valley when the latter quintet played here two weeks ago.

The victory over Lehigh was the fourth of the season for the Mules and their second in a row. Summary:

Little Mules To Play Wyomissing Tech Five

Only one cage game is scheduled this week for Coach Gutteron's Little Mules, this being listed for Saturday night as a preliminary to the Ursinus varsity tilt in the Allentown High school gymnasium. The Wyomissing Polytechnic Institute, of Reading, will be the frosh opponents this week-end and indications point to another tough one for the Mule yearlings.

A week from Saturday the Cardinal and Gray five has a return engagement with the Reading quintet in the latter city.

With but two minutes to play and the score 30-28, Lafayette took possession of the ball and the Leopards succeeded in keeping it away from the Mules, with the exception of one intercepted pass, after which the ball was quickly recovered. As a result the two-point margin meant victory.

"Willie" Laing and "Jim" Kohler were leading scorers for the Mules while Grossman tallied 7 points from his guard position. Wild and Wolf scored 14 points between themselves to lead the winners. Summary:

Rev. Paul Reumann Speaks In Chapel

Gospel Is "Good News" For All Mankind, Pastor Says

Recalling that the meaning of "Gospel" is "good news," the Rev. Paul Reumann, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Lansdale, on Sunday told a large congregation in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel that clergymen should call themselves "ministers of the good news" rather than "ministers of the gospel."

"We must impress upon our people," he said, "that the Gospel is the good news not only for an individual but good news for all of mankind."

Contrasting "gospel" and "gossip" he said that the latter meant "bad news" and that Christians should forsake spreading gossip and should, instead, circulate the gospel.

Just as it is the duty of newspapers to tell the news of the day whether it is good or bad, just so, he said, it is the duty of church people to spread the good news or the gospel.

There are four outstanding types of good news that are universal, he pointed out, naming them as the good that can be found in every man, the fact that man can be changed, that nothing can hurt man but himself and that death takes nothing from man.

The musical portion of the program included an anthem by the chapel choir, "Jehovah Reigns," by Whitford, and organ selections by Dr. Harold K. Marks. Dr. Marks played "Pax Vobiscum" by Edmundson, "The Angelus" by Kreckel, and "Magnificat" by Claussmann.

Only one change of any importance took place last week in the standing of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball League. Muhlenberg's victory over Albright on Saturday enabled the Utmen to break the last-place tie with Lebanon Valley and take sole possession of sixth place.

Franklin and Marshall virtually clinched the 1936 title when they defeated the Gettysburg quintet on the latter's floor last Wednesday night by the score of 37 to 32. It was the first time the Bullets suffered a loss at home in thirty-five games and in four and one-half years.

Gettysburg is favored to win over the Mules tonight when the latter plays on the Battlefield floor. Should Ursinus also lose to Albright, the Collegeville five will remain just one half game in front of the Cardinal and Gray. A win for Muhlenberg over Ursinus on Saturday night would then boost the Utmen to fifth place.

CARDINALS GIVEN DEBATE CUP

Above are seen Theodore Scheifele (right) and John W. Dry (center), freshman members of the Cardinals non-fraternity debate team, receiving the intramural cup from Richard G. Miller '36, president of the Forensic Council. The award was made at last Wednesday's student body meeting. Scheifele and Dry last month were given the decision over the Mules, another non-fraternity club, in a debate on the question of embargo enforcements against Italy.

Senior Class Elects New Officers Today

The senior class will meet today following the assembly period in the Science Hall to elect new officers for the second semester. Warren Schlegel, retiring president, will be in charge of the meeting.

The following members were nominated for the offices at last Wednesday's session: President—Joseph L. Schantz and Charles H. Kline, Jr.; vice-president, Franklin Marsteller and Julius J. Kish; secretary, Clarence Ritter.

BOARD OF CONTROL MAINTAINS SECRECY

Utz might be retained as athletic director to serve out the last year of his three-year contract.

None of the committee would say this week which course they would pursue. It is altogether likely that neither of these possibilities would be acted upon.

One thing almost certain to happen at the next meeting will be the report of a group from the athletic board who visited within the past two weeks nationally known football coaches in an effort to learn what would be the ideal athletic set-up for a small college like Muhlenberg.

Among the coaches sought for their opinion and who advanced names logical for Muhlenberg's choice were Lou Little of Columbia, Dick Harlow of Harvard, Glenn "Pop" Warner of Temple, H. O. "Fritz" Crisler of Princeton, Dr. Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh, and Alonzo Stagg, of the College of the Pacific.

Juniors Nominate For New Class Officers

Meeting last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall after the student body session, the junior class nominated the following for offices in the second semester: President, Frederick A. Dry; vice-president, George S. Boyer, Dale Posey, and Arthur Greene; secretary, Gordon Treisbach, George Machajdik, Lawrence Reese, William Rogers, and Joseph Santopoli.

The election will take place this morning following the assembly program in the Science Hall.

Sell Insurance

THE BEST BUSINESS CAREER is what every ambitious senior is thinking about at the present time. Life insurance is one of the best, one of the most desirable, and one of the most satisfactory as a permanent calling.

In assets and volume of business, Life Insurance is one of the three leading businesses of this country, yet the field is comparatively under-developed. Only 7 per cent of the economic value of human life in United States is covered by Life Insurance. This gives an idea of the big field still to be worked, especially business insurance for firms and corporations, and for the pensioning of private citizens not included in the Social Security Act.

As to remuneration, reports of College graduates who have entered business indicated that Life Insurance is at the very top as a source of income. Now is the time for you to consider what you are going to do after graduation. If you are ambitious and willing to work hard and are interested to know about Life Insurance, address or phone

Forensic Speakers Drop Decision To Lehigh U. Debaters

Varsity Teams Argue Supreme Court Question in Bethlehem

DEBATE AGAIN TONIGHT OVER RADIO AT 9:30

Muhlenberg's forensic speakers participated Monday night in their first debate off the campus this season and dropped a critic judge's decision to Lehigh university on the question "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional."

Coach Everitt's team, upholding the affirmative side of the argument, was composed of James Coyne and Herman Heim. Speakers for Lehigh were Daniel Q. Marshall and Norman Morse. Critic judge was David H. Randall, Bethlehem High school debate coach.

Tonight the local negative team will take part in the second half of the dual meet with Lehigh, the debate to be broadcast over Allentown's radio station WCBA-WSAN. Muhlenberg speakers will be John P. Stump and George S. Boyer, with Israel A. S. Yost as alternate.

The debate will start at 9:30 o'clock when the two schools will again argue the Supreme Court question. These same two forensic societies met last year on the air.

Rev. Cressman Giving Lectures At Hazleton

Chaplain Harry P. C. Cressman is this winter delivering the course of lectures sponsored annually by the Public Affairs committee of the Young Women's Christian Association in Hazleton. The lectures, given on three consecutive weeks, were started last Thursday evening.

The subjects for the three lectures are as follows: "Individualism—an Anachronism?", "Peace—a Mirage?" and "Nationalism—an Ideal?" In his address tomorrow evening Chaplain Cressman will give an analysis and evaluation of different schemes for the maintenance of world peace and for the limitation of armaments and control of munitions with war profits.

Noted Illustrator Of Dogs Entertains

Morgan Dennis Appears Here for Wednesday Assembly Program

Muhlenberg "went to the dogs" last Wednesday when Morgan Dennis, noted illustrator of canine idiosyncrasies lectured before the student body.

Mr. Dennis, a former newspaperman, began to study etching after suppressing for many years the interest he had accumulated from contact with the art department of his paper. It was by a mere accident that he discovered the public's interest in dog etchings. Thereafter he concentrated his talents in this direction until it has brought him world-wide recognition.

He is known to many as "Dennis, the dog man." Two of his creations, the pair of scotties popularized by the Texaco Company, and the scottie and West Highland terrier used as a trademark for "Black and White", a well known product have increased his fame with every printing.

At an informal talk after the illustrated lecture, Mr. Dennis spoke of his method in securing action, lighting effects, and ideas. His interest has also led him to attempt to understand the thoughts entering a dog's mind as evidenced by a recent article in the Saturday Evening Post.

Tells Of Problems Offered By Japan

Large Congregation Present to Hear Missionary Speak

One of the largest congregations to ever attend a vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel was present last Sunday afternoon to hear the Rev. Dr. Edward Horn, professor in the Lutheran Missionary seminary in Tokyo, Japan, give an address on "The Status and Major Problems of Christianity in Japan". Dr. Horn was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1907.

Home on furlough from the mission fields, Dr. Horn, a brother of Dean Robert C. Horn, and one of the outstanding mission workers in the Lutheran church, painted a concise picture of the status of Christianity and its problems in Japan.

While the Christian movement in Japan is comparatively young, he said, it is moving forward very rapidly. It was not until 1876, he said, that proscription against Christians was rescinded so that missionaries could have legal protection, and it was not until 1890 that a constitution was adopted that guaranteed freedom of religious faith.

"Even though the militaristic Japan is hostile to a religion that teaches freedom of thought, brotherhood and international spirit, there are still many openings which could not be found before today," Dr. Horn said.

The influence of the Christian movement today is greater than

JULIUS J. KISH

Members of the senior class met last Wednesday to elect the four men who will guide the destinies of the group for the remainder of their collegiate and graduate days.

The life officers named at that time are as follows: President, Charles H. Kline, Jr., Allentown; vice-president, Julius J. Kish, McAdoo; secretary, Clarence H. Ritter, Allentown; treasurer, Donald A. Hausman, Allentown. Hausman held his post during the four years of class organization.

Retiring officers of the 1936 class are: President, Warren C. Schlegel; vice-president, William Pfeiffer; secretary, Norton Behney.

A report read by Donald A. Hausman revealed a balance in the class treasury of $86.66 after all expenses for the Senior Ball had been paid. Approximately $100 will be added as a profit on the 1936 Ciarla.

A motion was made at last week's meeting to give $50 of this amount to the college as a parting gift from the graduating class and the remainder to be used for a class party this spring.

This motion was defeated, however, and a new one passed whereby the class will present half of its balance as a gift to the college with the other half to be used in the manner first suggested.

In commenting on the Senior Ball held last month, Chairman Kline reported a ticket sale amounting to $152.50. Class dues collected this year totaled $202.50.

Pre-Medicos Hear Dr. J. M. Rosenthal

Noted Toxicologist Tells of Work as Investigator of Crimes

"The Toxicologist Takes the Stand" was the subject of Dr. J. M. Rosenthal's address before the college Pre-Medical society at its regular meeting held last Thursday evening in the Science building. The speaker is now employed in this city.

During the talk, Dr. Rosenthal reviewed his years of experience in the Medical Examiner's office of New York City. During this period he was assigned to the investigation of all deaths not resulting from natural causes which brought him to the witness stand in many publicized murder cases.

It was evident from the speaker's words that his case studies in toxicology many times shattered the plans for so-called perfect crimes. Dr. Rosenthal told of the hundreds of scientific methods and tests used to baffle the poison murderer. With the aid of these the most carefully planned foul act is revealed to the detective bureau, leading to the ultimate punishment of the master minds.

Alumni 'Big Five' Cagers in Charity Game With A. H. S.

Muhlenberg students and Allentown residents will have an opportunity on Monday evening, March 9, to witness in the Little Palestra of the Allentown High school what might be termed the city's 1935 "dream game".

It is on this occasion that one of the greatest basketball teams ever to sport the Cardinal and Gray colors will again be assembled to play last year's state high school champions of Allentown High coached by J. Birney Crum '23.

The entire receipts of this charity game are to be used toward the purchase of a suitable memorial to the late James "Brey" Brennan, for many years one of the leading sportsmen of Allentown who died recently.

On that Muhlenberg alumni team of last year, better known as the "Big Five", will be Arthur "Legs" Leibensperger, lanky center; Gene Lepore and Lou Cuchran,

REV. LINDENMUTH WILL PREACH HERE SUNDAY

The Rev. Dr. A. W. Lindenmuth, pastor of St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, this city, will occupy the pulpit at the vesper service on Sunday afternoon in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

He is a graduate of Muhlenberg in the class of 1902 and of the Philadelphia Seminary, 1905. In the same year he was the recipient of an A.M. degree from Muhlenberg and in 1913 he received his doctor's degree from Potomac University. The various pastorates which he served include, Amityville-Friedensburg parish; St. James, Pottstown; and from 1914 to the present he was pastor of St. Stephen's, Allentown.

M.C.A. Group Plans Dance For April 12

Association Will Also Sponsor Deputation Teams and Lectures

Increased activity in the Muhlenberg Christian Association during the second semester is revealed in plans made last week by the M. C. A. members meeting in the Chaplain's office.

The organization of Deputation teams, the holding of a dance, and the sponsoring of another series of lectures by Dr. John V. Shankweiler, are listed on the program of events planned to start immediately.

The Deputation teams, first organized by the Cabinet here last year, have been formed again and are expected to start conducting evening services in local churches within the next week.

Frederick Gregorius, chairman of the social committee, has announced Friday, April 17, as the date for the annual M. C. A. dance. The affair will probably be held in the Commons. Preliminary arrangements were made to hold the dance at an earlier date, but the members have postponed it until after the Lenten season.

Of major interest to the student body in general is the announcement of the lectures to be given again this year by Dr. Shankweiler, head of the biology department. These illustrated talks were begun last winter and will be continued under the general topic "The Biology of Sex". The dates for the lectures will be made known later by Theodore L. Fischer, chairman of the education committee.

Frosh Debaters Meet Prep School Speakers

The freshman debate team will open its 1936 season tomorrow night when they meet Allentown Prep school's speakers on the question "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional"

Members of Muhlenberg's team, representing the affirmative side, will be Theodore Scheifele, John Dry, and Emmanuel Hoover. The debate is to start at 8 o'clock with the decision to be given by a critic judge.

Student Council To Discuss Treasurer's Fee Friday Morning

Basketball Deficit Continues To Grow

Loss of $271.97 Recorded To Date on Cage Season

With the 1936 basketball schedule more than two-thirds completed a financial loss of $271.97 is recorded from the fourteen games played up to and including the Ursinus engagement last Saturday night.

The financial reports, printed elsewhere in this issue, are based upon the statements published by the athletic committee treasurer after each game.

This huge deficit which appears will mount even higher in the remainder of the season is a major problem before the college athletic committee for it means that baseball or track will probably have to be eliminated from the spring sports schedule.

Only five of the first fourteen games played show a profit, this amounting to $78.80. Deficits, resulting from the remaining nine engagements, totaled $350.77.

A $25 guarantee from the Allentown-Freshman game, in which there were no expenses, and a profit of $6.50 realized in the Tamaqua High-Freshman tilt add a $31.50 sum on the blue side of the ledger. Combining this amount with the general account leaves a total loss thus far of $240.47 on both varsity and freshman games.

Since a minimum budget of only $300 is provided for baseball and the same amount for track it is most likely that one of these sports

Pre-Law Club Plans Joint Symposium

Phi Alpha Theta to Join With John Marshall Society

Robert Prutzman, vice-president of the John Marshall Pre-law club, discussed "Legal Ethics" at a meeting of the society held last Wednesday afternoon, in the Seminar room of the library. During the speech Mr. Prutzman emphasized the high morals necessary to uphold the standards of the profession.

A committee composed of Edward Schifreen, Herbert Haas, and Richard Rauch was appointed by the president, Donald Hausman, to confer with representatives of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary historical fraternity, concerning a student symposium to be held at some future date.

Geza Bolez, chairman of the program committee, will soon announce a speaker for the coming meeting to be held next Wednesday at 3:15 o'clock. Meetings with outside speakers are open to the student body.

Dr. Shankweiler Speaks To Alpha Kappa Alpha

"A Biologist Looks at Life" was the subject of Dr. John V. Shankweiler's address given last Thursday evening before the Alpha Kappa Alpha philosophical fraternity meeting at the home of the Rev. Russell W. Stine, 2116 Allen street. George R. Koehler, president of Alpha chapter, presided.

ORATORY CONTEST WILL LIKELY BE POSTPONED

Student Council met Monday morning to discuss the advisability of paying the student body treasurer an annual salary, but the members deferred action on the matter until they meet again on Friday morning of this week at 11 o'clock.

George R. Koehler, president of the Council, suggested that no action be taken at Monday's session since not all the members were present. He is anxious to have all eleven representatives in attendance before definite action is taken.

The proposal to give the student treasurer an annual fee of $50 was made at student body meeting on February 5. The motion met with considerable opposition at that time and it was declared "out of order" by President Koehler since

Frederick Dry To Head Junior Class

Prom Committee Announces $84.75 Deficit on Dance

How to obtain $84.75 from somewhere is the problem now facing the Junior class. This figure was announced at last Wednesday's class meeting as the financial loss on the annual Prom February 14.

A committee composed of Charles Garretson, Dean Zweier, and Dale Posey has been appointed to investigate ways and means of making up the deficit. This group is expected to make its report at the next class meeting when an itemized account of the Prom expenses will probably be completed.

The possibility of borrowing the money needed from the Student Loan Fund was given a jolt when Treasurer Oscar F. Bernheim ruled that no money could be drawn from this fund to wipe out the deficit. The assessment of class members will likely be the procedure followed.

Second semester officers elected at last week's meeting are: President, Frederick A. Dry; vice-president, George S. Boyer; secretary, George Machajdik. The latter was re-elected while Dean Zweier is serving four years as class treasurer. Alvin Butz and Donald Fry were named monitors.

Retiring officers include John P. Stump, president, and Frederick A. Dry, vice-president, elected to the presidency.

Another meeting of the class is not likely to be held until the committee is ready to make a financial report.

Class Meetings

In the three upper classes especially there is a sad neglect on the part of the class to attend their respective meetings. This widespread inactivity is not conducive to the best administration of class projects and it stifles any small amount of class spirit that might be realized from a positive class interest.

Fortunately there usually seems to be a small group of capable individuals who plan and execute successfully the banquets, dances, and publications of a class. For instance, as the year draws to a close, probably no senior class has ever been in a better financial condition than the present one. The comparatively few members who have attended the meetings the past four years, elected the officers, served on staffs or committees are responsible for this fine record.

The majority, who are invariably the first to criticize, will probably be the first to attend any banquet that may be given by means of the money accumulated through the work of its active members.

Student government on our campus could be more influential than it has been if it were not for this "laissez-faire" attitude on the part of a great number. Perhaps that condition will not be overcome until some unprofitable class venture or misappropriation will result in an assessment instead of a bill-of-fare. Then there will be standing room only.

Collegiate Communism

In his address last week on "Communism—A World Menace," Dr. Haas has outlined a problem that necessitates thought and action on the part of college students. Recent investigation by government agents reveal that communistic propaganda and strength has increased alarmingly in our country. This radical element can be expected to penetrate further in proportion to our economic troubles, chiefly unemployment. Poverty and desperation provide the fertile field for propagandists, and about this phase of the situation, we, as college students, can do little.

However, the most discouraging condition in connection with this radical agitation has been the demonstration by thousands of college students throughout the land against our economic system, the oath of allegiance, and the Constitution. It is most disgusting to American students, proud and appreciative of the liberty and justice of which no other people can boast today.

A bloodless purge is needed in the form of a one-way passport for these cheap tin horns who prefer the system of any foreign country. They are disloyal to a government and an economic system which permits the son of a thrifty American worker to enjoy a college education, something which has not entered the dream stage in Europe. They would present a sorry picture indeed in their "ideal lands". The college campus would be replaced with a concentration camp, soap boxes by treadmills, textbooks by state propaganda, and dances, by military maneuvers.

Track or Baseball

With each succeeding week of the basketball season the college's spring athletic program is coming more and more into danger as the result of financial losses now being incurred from the cage games.

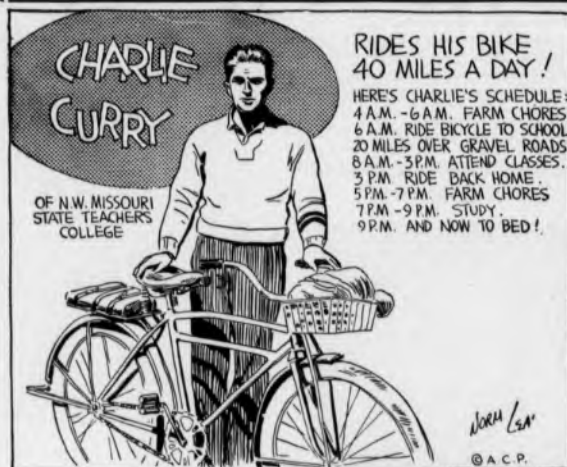

The financial report of the athletic committee issued earlier this month suggested that either baseball or track be eliminated from the spring sports program unless the basketball season showed an unusual profit. This move became almost a necessity when the 1935 football season brought a deficit of over $600.

While the record of the present basketball team is none too good, the poor attendance cannot alone be attributed to this. Extremely unfavorable weather conditions have added their bit to the discouraging attendance. Snow or rain have fallen on few evenings when games were scheduled, but streets and sidewalks have been covered with icy coatings during the greater part of the season to hinder pedestrians who would otherwise turn out for the contests.

The management of athletics here, financial and otherwise, is solely in the hands of the athletic committee and it is our purpose only to suggest a possible solution. Should either baseball or track have to be dropped, we feel it is the students' right to voice opinions as to which should be retained this spring.

Several points seem to make track the more logical to

There is less expense involved in this undertaking than in a baseball program, it provides a better opportunity for intercollegiate competition and is not hampered to any great extent by the spring weather. These alone appear definitely in favor of keeping this sport if one of the two must be eliminated.

Power Through Humility

The late King George of England was without a doubt the best known and the most popular of world figures of his day. He was the ruler of the British Empire. Approximately one-fourth of the population of the world owed allegiance to him. He was respected and loved throughout the Empire, indeed, throughout the world. That fact was proved by the wide celebration of his silver jubilee. If anything more were necessary to show his self-effacing and unassuming manner, it was evident through the stirring days of the celebration in his bearing and his addresses.

One of the reassuring things the King said on that occasion was, "I dedicate myself anew to your service." The time was, and it has not altogether passed, when monarchs expected to be served. They were drunk with a sense of power. They boldly championed the doctrine of the divine right of kings. They wanted their subjects to know that with them alone rested all authority.

That King George and Queen Mary, in connection with the celebration, should have made an unannounced tour through the less desirable sections of London was in keeping with their spirit of services and with their desire to identify themselves with all their subjects. There is so much pride and display of power and ostentation, usually where there is least ground for it, that the majority were heartily glad for this voluntary pledge of service from the late honored occupant of one of the world's few remaining thrones.

It would thus appear that the less the desire to rule and the greater the desire to serve, the more kindly will be all human relationships. The motto of the newly-crowned King is, "Ich dien," "I serve."

Novelty Exhibits Shown In Lobby Of Library

A novelty among art exhibitions is a series of plates showing the many steps necessary for the completion of a Japanese wood-block print, now on display in the lobby of the library. The prints, used to make the famous "Wave" by Hiroshige, have been loaned to the library by Dr. Preston A. Barba, member of the German department.

Each print is made from a separate wood block which, when placed on the preceding block, adds the desired change of color and effect. This process is continued until the final print is produced.

The water-color painting on the easel in the library is the work of William J. Roberts, a former student of the Allentown High school. At present he is a student of Art Education at the Kutztown State Teachers' college.

Mr. Roberts' painting shows a fine technique and softness of color, almost giving the effect of a pastel drawing. His work has been exhibited in Allentown and also in various exhibitions in Scranton and Wilkes-Barre.

INTRAMURAL SEASON TO OPEN MARCH 9

Nine Teams Likely To Enter League Competition This Year; Basketball To Start With Close Of Varsity Schedule

Cage Tilts Will Be Played on Prep School Floor

TEAM MANAGERS ASKED TO POST 1936 ENTRIES

Muhlenberg will open another intramural season within the next twelve days according to an announcement made this week by William S. "Bill" Ritter, head of the physical education department. The first games of basketball are to begin on Monday, March 9, although the complete schedule has not yet been made up. As is the custom two games will be played each day on the Allentown Prep school floor, the first at 4:30 p'clock in the afternoon and the second in the evening at 6:30.

Nine teams are expected to be entered in the race again this year. Manager Ritter is anxious to have all team managers report to him as soon as possible in order to have the schedule completed.

Last spring's intramural trophy went to Theta Kappa Nu for the second consecutive year. The T. K. N. boys accumulated 275.5 points during the playing season. The Cardinals, a non-fraternity group, were runners-up with a total of 259.5 points. Five clubs each came through the basketball season with a total of 60 points indicating the close rivalry that existed during that time. The Philos were not entered in the cage competition last year and it is doubtful whether that team will be in the running next month when the race starts. The final standing last spring and the positions the clubs will likely hold this year follow:

Team	Pts.
Theta Kappa Nu	275.5
Cardinals	259.5
Non-fraternity	249
Phi Kappa Tau	226.5
Alpha Tau Omega	224.5
Delta Theta	156.5
Theta Upsilon Omega	130
Philos	127
Phi Epsilon Pi	82.5

Cardinal And Gray Plays F.&M. Quintet

Utzmen Meet Lebanon Valley Friday; Penn A. C. Here Monday

One home game and two engagements on foreign courts are listed for the Cardinal and Gray basketball teams within the next week.

Tonight Coach Utz will take his passers to Lancaster for a return tilt with Franklin and Marshall's league leading five. The Mules take to the road again Friday night to play Lebanon Valley, the cellar occupant, in the Lebanon High school gym.

The single engagement in the "Little Palestra" of the Allentown High school will be with the fast-stepping Penn A. C. quintet which trounced the Cardinal Crusaders last month at Philadelphia by the score of 68 to 22. This engagement was not scheduled at the start of the season, but was added to the cage card after the game last month.

Only a surprising upset can give the Mules a triumph over Coach Barr's basketballers at Lancaster tonight. In the first game with the Blue and White in this city the Lancaster collegians administered a 42 to 30 defeat to Coach Utz's team.

3 Games Remain On Frosh Cage Schedule

Three games remain on the freshman cage schedule this season, two being listed as home engagements with another at Reading.

Friday night of this week the Little Mules meet the Wyomissing Polytechnic Institute five in a return tilt at Reading for the one played here last Saturday evening prior to the Ursinus varsity game.

Next Monday night the yearlings play the Penn A. C. reserves before the Mule varsity stacks up against the Philadelphia quintet. The concluding game of the season finds Coach Gutteron's boys meeting the Medico five of the Battery B. division.

Mules Lose Three Tilts To Ursinus, Gettysburg Cagers

Utzmen Twice Beaten Out by Bears on One-Point Decisions

CRUSADERS DROP GAME ON BATTLEFIELD, 50-29

The 1936 basketball team will long remember its games this season with Ursinus.

Twice within three days the Cardinal and Gray met the Collegeville Bears and on both occasions the Mules were handed one-point defeats. The latest setback came Monday night at Collegeville where the Utzmen dropped a 34 to 33 decision.

It was Coach Hashagen's quintet that rallied last Saturday night to eke out a 39-38 win over the Mules.

In both tilts the local five led at half-time. Saturday night the Utzmen had a 13-point lead while on Monday they saw a 7-point advantage go into thin air.

With five minutes to go in the last half of Monday's game, the Mules were leading, 32 to 27. At this point Tworzydlo made good a foul shot and Calvert followed with two baskets to tie the count. Costello then shot what proved to be the winning goal in the last minute of play. A foul shot by "Tommy" Thomas made a Muhlenberg victory so near and yet so far away. Summary:

URSINUS GAME (home)

Johnny Utz's five lost another heart-breaker last Saturday when the Ursinus Bears rallied to overcome a 13-point lead held by the Cardinal and Gray to finally win out by the score of 39 to 38. The game was played in the Allentown High gymnasium.

Muhlenberg jumped into the lead early and held a 9 to 5 advantage at the end of the first period. By half-time that lead had expanded to 26-13. But in the third quarter the invading Bears outscored the Mules, 8 to 3, and kept gaining until seven minutes before the end of the game, the Cardinal and Gray had but a 3-point edge. Summary:

GETTYSBURG GAME

The Cardinal and Gray quintet played twenty minutes of fine basketball against Gettysburg on the latter's floor last Wednesday night, but the second half of the fray was another story.

Held on even terms during the first half of the tilt the highly-rated Bullets were just able to eke out a 21 to 20 advantage when the first gun was fired. However, with the start of the second half the Mules fell far behind as Coach Bream's boys spurred to win out by the wide margin of 50 to 29.

The Bullets' big margin was partly due to their excellent foul shooting. The home team members stepped to the charity line no less than twenty-three times during the evening to make good on eighteen occasions. On the other hand the local five could tally but seven points out of eighteen attempts. Fish, Gettysburg, forward, made good on nine out of eleven free tosses. Summary:

Freshmen Defeat Wyomissing Tech

Led by Lee Dietrich, former Allentown High basketballer, who tallied six field goals, the Little Mules captured their third victory of the season last Saturday when they defeated the Wyomissing Polytechnic Institute from Reading by the score of 37 to 22.

Coach Gutteron's passers jumped into an early lead at the start of the fray and were never seriously threatened by the visitors. The game was a preliminary to the varsity tilt with Ursinus. Summary:

POSTPONE MEETING

A meeting of the Stroudsburg Alumni Association, scheduled to be held last Friday evening, has been postponed until immediately after Easter. Unfavorable weather conditions caused the meeting to be cancelled at this time. Alumni desiring more information about the place and date are asked to communicate with the Rev. P. N. Wohlens, of Stroudsburg.

SHAFFER-ERWIN

Miss Lucy J. Erwin and Dr. Floyd W. Shafer of Gilbert, were married Tuesday afternoon of last week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Erwin, 537 Center street, Bethlehem. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Smith, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed church at Gilbert.

Dr. Shafer is a graduate of Muhlenberg, class of 1928 and Temple University Medical school and has been practicing for several years in Gilbert, where the couple will reside.

The bride was graduated from Liberty High school and from Hood college.

GRADUATED IN 1931

Ellwood W. Schlottter, resident of Bethlehem, was graduated from Muhlenberg in 1931 instead of 1919 as was published in last week's issue.

Buddhism, he said, has copied Christianity in that it has installed organs, pews and hymns, after the Christian fashion.

He spoke of the influence Christianity has had on the education, art and music and general life of Japan.

Dr. Horn asked for a continued interest in the mission program, pointing out that mission workers are just beginning to see the fruits of their work and must carry on until Japan is Christianized.

The vested choir, under the direction of Dr. Marks, sang "When the Day of Toil is Done", a composition by Nevin. For his organ numbers Dr. Marks played "Vesper Hymn" by Truette, "Air" by Mattheson, and "Andantino" by Franck.

For the fifth consecutive week the standing in the Eastern Pennsylvania cage league remains unchanged. Franklin and Marshall's hitherto unbeaten five was given a complete surprise at Reading on Monday night when the Albright Lions roared to a 37-34 triumph over the Nevonians.

Johnny Utz's Mules had a fine chance to pass Ursinus and go into fifth position last Saturday night when they met the Bears in this city. However, the Cardinal and Gray virtually threw away a 13-point lead held at half-time and dropped a 39 to 38 decision to Coach Hashagen's quintet.

One of the most interesting games scheduled for this week is the Ursinus-Gettysburg tilt on the latter court Friday night. The Bears are one of two league teams boasting a victory over the Bullets and will be out to repeat the performance.

Three meals a day can't produce maximum physical and mental efficiency, say Yale physiologists. They recommend more frequent and more moderate feedings.

Fifteen Frosh Report For Newspaper Work

Unusual interest in news reporting for The Muhlenberg Weekly was shown last week when no less than fifteen freshmen reported for staff membership. This was the largest group reporting for the news department in the past six years.

The group includes: George Joseph, Gerard Kloss, Theodore Scheifele, Paul Ziegler, Noble Fister, Philip Parkinson, and Allen Boyle, all of Allentown; Carl Becker, Denver; Warren Hodgkinson, Coxsackie, N. Y.; Vernon Andrews, Northampton; Russell Zimmerman, Mechanicsburg; Howard Goheen, Lehigh; Llewellyn Kemmerle, Bethlehem; Clifford Klick, Kutztown; Howard Bock, Hazleton.

PROF. SIMPSON SPEAKER FOR WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

The Women's Auxiliary of the college held its February meeting yesterday afternoon in St. John's Lutheran church school auditorium, South Fifth street. The assembly was addressed by Prof. Stephen G. Out They Go Chapel Hill, N. C. (ACP)—Eighteen University of North Carolina students, including Don Jackson, outstanding backfield man of the 1935 football team, have been indefinitely suspended by the student council.

Seventeen of the students were suspended for alleged cheating, but Jackson's dismissal came as the result of alleged misconduct.

The charges, which were brought by the council against other students in addition to the 18 dismissed, involve an organized "racket" whereby a small coterie supplied advance copies of examination questions and prepared themes for fixed charges.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO MEET FRIDAY MORNING

an amendment to the student body constitution is necessary before such procedure can be taken.

A two weeks' notice is required of such a change in the constitution before the student body may vote for or against the measure. The motion made earlier this month was to make this year's treasurer eligible to receive the fee should such be granted. However, there is little likelihood that this will be done since the 1935-36 student body budget was adopted last October.

Council has decided to award $25 to the Mask and Dagger club should this year's Intercollegiate Oratorical Union contest be postponed. Dr. John D. M. Brown, English professor in charge of oratory work here, is doubtful if the 1936 contest will be held and the amount in the student budget for this purpose will then go to the dramatic club.

David T. Smith, chairman of the student body dance committee has announced Friday, May 29, as a tentative date for the annual function.

Man's History And Progress Shown In Talking Pictures

'The Human Adventure' Now Being Given at High School

PRODUCTION IS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED BY DEAN

The attention of students and faculty members has been directed upon "The Human Adventure," an eight-reel talking picture sketching the rise of man from savagery to civilization being shown today and tomorrow in the Allentown High school auditorium.

The presentation in this city is sponsored by the Allentown school district and has the personal recommendation of Dean Robert C. Horn.

The first showing of the picture will be made at the high school this afternoon immediately after dismissal of classes. Tonight and tomorrow night the feature will begin at 8 o'clock. Price of admission will be 25 cents.

The movie is a pictorial version paralleling "The Outline of History." It was three years in the making under the scientific supervision of the late Dr. James H. Breasted, archaeologist and historian, and late director of the Oriental Institute.

Special planes and cameramen were employed to bring to the screen for the first time the record of man's progress. Tracing the rise of civilization from its cradle, the epic transports the audience through the lands of Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Anatolia, Iraq, and Persia, stopping long enough at each place to show expeditions at work and their discoveries.

The institute which collected the necessary data is the largest archaeological organization in the world and the only laboratory for the study of what Dr. Breasted had described as "the most remarkable process known to us in the universe; the rise of man from savagery to civilization."

Two separate trips from Chicago to the near East were necessary to the filming of the story. More than 32,000 feet of negative were exposed for this showing and much of the film was made from

Rev. Horn To Speak In April Assembly

Missionary Will Fill Date Vacated by Lantz April 8

The Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn, '07, guest preacher for the community vesper service here on February 16, will return to the campus next month it was learned this week when the announcement was made of a change in the assembly program for April 8.

The program originally scheduled for that date was to be an illustrated lecture by Thomas B. Lantz, superintendent of public recreation in Reading. Mr. Lantz was to speak on "Youth Movements in Germany" from which country he recently returned.

The securing of Dr. Horn, brother of Dean Robert C. Horn, to fill the open date, brings to the campus one of the best informed men of the day as regards present-day problems in the Orient. He is now on a year's furlough from the missionary field in Japan.

When Dr. Horn appears here next month he will speak on the topic "Social and Economic Conditions Affecting the Political Policies of Japan." The morning's program will be conducted as an open forum under the sponsorship of the Muhlenberg Christian Association Cabinet. The speaker will first give his main address and then answer questions from the audience.

He expects to spend the entire day on the campus and will be glad to meet for discussion with any individual or group desiring more details on the different phases of Japanese life. Groups or individuals wishing such appointments are asked to list their names and hour desired for conference with Chaplain Harry P. C. Cressman.

One-Act Comedy on Assembly Program

Dramatic Club To Present "Box and Cox" This Morning

Mask and Dagger will make its second appearance of the year today when the college thespians present the one-act comedy skit "Box and Cox" during the assembly program in the Science Hall this morning at 11 o'clock.

Members of the cast for today's presentation are Warren Hodgkinson, playing the part of "Mrs. Bouncer"; Charles Diehl, who portrays the character of "John Box"; and Herbert Haas, a journeyman hatter.

The play is an old English skit written by J. Maddison Morton and brings to the foreground many humorous situations in the antics of Box and Cox. It was first produced in London in 1847 and is still a part of the repertoire of the leading Gilbert and Sullivan opera company in London.

The local cast has been directed by Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department.

Dr. Fritsch Writes For Weekly Church Paper

Detailed studies dealing with the Old Testament and prepared by the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of Greek and the English Bible, appear in the two current issues of the Presbyterian weekly magazine. The first article was written for the February 27 issue with Part II to appear in the church paper this week.

The two articles are included under the general topic "Jehovah Remembers" and are a resume of Bible conference addresses given by Dr. Fritsch last August at Stony Brook, Long Island. The studies tell of the meanings of the names of Zacharias, Elisabeth, John, and Jesus as related to the Benedictus.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

The college Pre-Medical society will hold its bi-monthly meeting this evening in the Science Hall at 8 o'clock. The treasurer requests that all second semester dues be paid before or at the meeting.

Guest speaker for the evening is to be Dr. Alexander Peters, Lehigh county coroner. His subject will be "Phases of Immunology."

Lutheran Students Denounce Race Hatred at Conference

Agitation against and antipathy to peoples of different races and creeds were put to shame by delegates attending the 17th annual conference of the North Atlantic Region of the Lutheran Students' Association of America held on the campus of Gettysburg college last Friday and Saturday.

Aversion to the Jewish race and antagonism as regards the negro population in this country were strongly denounced and urgent pleas were made by the Lutheran students to show more consideration for these factions.

Representing Muhlenberg at the convention were Julius J. Kish,

"The House in Order," written by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, is the play chosen by the Mask and Dagger club for its second semester presentation according to an announcement made this week by Joseph L. Schantz, president of the theatrical society.

The production will be given in the Allentown High school auditorium with the tentative date set for May 7. The play is to be presented only one night and will be sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the college.

Fourteen members are to be included in the cast, four of whom will have female parts. Individual try-outs for the ten male roles will be held tomorrow afternoon in the English office on the third floor of the Administration building from 1:15 to 5 o'clock. Selection of the cast is to be made by Mrs. Robert C. Conklin, who will direct the play.

Each student will receive one free ticket to the performance as was done last December when the

Elect Hoover Head Of Freshman Class

Student Council Forced To Act When Members Differ on Legality

On the campus but five months such pressing problems as parliamentary procedure and class elections are already causing plenty of trouble for members of the class of '39.

After much uncertainty concerning the legality of nominations and the proper procedure for holding an election the freshmen have at last named officers for the second semester. These men are: President, Emmanuel Hoover; vice-president, John Dry; secretary, John McKee; treasurer, Anthony Trufolo.

Nominations for the new men were made at a class meeting held February 20. However, no member of Student Council attended the session and when President Joseph McGinley ruled out certain nominations, it was feared that the meeting would be declared illegal and a new one would have to be held.

The trouble arose when President McGinley ruled that no more than four students could be nom-

LIBRARY PRIVILEGE

An explanation of his notice in regard to library stack privileges is forthcoming from President John A. W. Haas. Students are not denied permission to enter the stacks as might be inferred from the notice posted on the library bulletin board. In cases of absolute necessity students will be given access to the volumes providing they first obtain a permit from the professor for whose course they desire to use the books. In this event that professor will be held responsible for any lost volumes. The notice was given this interpretation by the President.

Will Not Sponsor Oratorical Contest

Dramatic Club Given $25 Fee When Annual Event Is Postponed

Definite announcement was made this week of the postponement of the annual Intercollegiate Oratorical Union contest which was to have been held on the campus of Gettysburg college, March 7.

With this decision Student Council at its meeting last Friday voted to transfer the oratorical fee of $25 in the student budget to the Mask and Dagger dramatic club.

Alvin H. Butz, junior class member who in January was chosen to represent Muhlenberg in the intercollegiate contest, attended the meeting of Council last week and asked that a part of the $25 be given to this year's representatives in recognition of their work since the meet had been called off.

Walter H. Guigley '36, won second place in the college contest in January and was to act as business representative to Gettysburg.

Council decided, however, to give the full sum of $25 to Mask and Dagger and a committee was appointed by President Koehler to select suitable awards for both Butz and Guigley. Earl A. Koch was named chairman of this committee.

Frosh Publication Appears on Campus

Current Topics Discussed in First Issue of New Paper

"A NEW EXPERIMENT"

With each issue of "The Freshman Writer" during the remainder of the semester The Muhlenberg Weekly editorial staff will select and publish that article in the pamphlet which seems to have the most reader interest for students on this campus. The first article appears in today's paper on page 2. It was written by Raymond Bressler and is entitled "A New Experiment."

A new era in the college English course was evidenced last week when the first copy of "The Freshman Writer" made its appearance on the campus.

The publication, to be issued every two weeks, is a project sponsored by English 102 under the direction of Dr. Robert C. Conklin. Included in the paper are themes written by members of the English class dealing with topics of current interest to college students.

The initial copy of the paper consists of six pages and contains five articles written by members of the class. On page 1 are listed the names of the editorial committee of the publication and a short introduction explaining the purpose.

Basketball Games To Open Intramural Season Next Week

Only Six Fraternity Teams Have Entered Race This Year

TILTS WILL BE PLAYED ON PREP SCHOOL FLOOR

INTRAMURAL RULES

Rules and regulations governing eligibility of students for participation in intramural games are to be found on page 3. For further interpretations team managers are asked to consult with Supervisor Ritter.

The college's 11th annual intramural season, scheduled to begin next Monday, may resolve itself into fraternity competition only this year unless some non-fraternity groups are formed within the next four days.

Up to the present time only the six campus fraternities have reported to William "Bill" Ritter, supervisor of the program, for entrance in this spring's competition.

"It is doubtful if any non-fraternity teams will be entered this year," Ritter stated recently in commenting on the 1936 program. This is partly due to the large number of "non-frats" being excused from gym classes to participate in band and choir activities. Enrollment in the physical education course is required to be eligible for competition in intramural games.

The six fraternities, listed according to their 1935 positions, will be Theta Kappa Nu, Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Tau Omega Delta Theta, Theta Upsilon Omega, and Phi Epsilon Pi. If no other groups are organized, the playing schedule will start off to include only this sextet.

Any group of twenty students may apply for membership and will be taken into the schedule as a non-fraternity organization. Fraternity teams need not register twenty men, although they must have a sufficient number of men to play all the games.

The intramural sports program will open as usual with the playing of the regular basketball schedule this month to be followed in

Hygiene Questions Uncover Material for New Textbook

Tradition has prompted members of each graduating class to leave a parting gift to the college upon the completion of their four-year courses. But perhaps this year's freshman group will establish a precedent by already making its contribution in the form of a new hygiene text. We said only "perhaps."

That a new and original text could be prepared by the frosh will not be disputed after glancing at a few of the answers given to questions in their final exam of the first semester.

It is, however, doubtful if the new volume will be used next year. Dr. John V. Shankweiler already

Ernest Seegers Named Treasurer of Athletic Society

Election of two new officers and the re-election of two others was the principal item of business done by the Varsity "M" club at its meeting held last Thursday morning.

The new men elected are Earl A. Koch '36, president, and Ernest F. Seegers '36, treasurer. Alfred Geschel '36, and Albert Herzenberg '36, were re-elected vice-president and secretary respectively. Koch won his "M" as a member of the varsity tennis team of which he was playng-manager last year.

Reports of the treasurer showed a sum of $24 in the treasury. Twenty-one dollars was realized from the 1935 field book while an additional $3 profit was made on the annual dance in the first semester.

The two retiring officers of the club are George R. Koehler '36, president, and Theodore L. Fischer '36, treasurer.

Choristers At Coplay Church Sunday Night

The college choir will present its fifth concert of the second semester on Sunday evening when the choristers, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, appear in St. John's Lutheran church, Coplay, to sing at the vesper service. This will be the second time the choir has sung before the Coplay congregation, the group having appeared there two years ago. Pastor of the church is the Rev. Alfred A. Koch '25.

Another large congregation heard the vested chorus sing last Sunday evening in the Spinners-town Lutheran Church of which the Rev. Henry M. Kisler '27, is the pastor.

CHAPLAIN CRESSMAN TO GIVE FINAL LECTURE

Prof. Harry P. C. Cressman, college chaplain, will tomorrow night present the third and final lecture in the series being sponsored by the Public Affairs Committee of the Hazleton Y. W. C. A. The topic upon which Chaplain Cressman is to speak is "Nationalism—an Ideal?"

He will discuss nationalism, pro and con, as a political philosophy and its logical outcome as manifested in the programs of nations striving at present for world mastery. His talk will also include an evaluation of nationalism as a promoter of national welfare.

Meeting in the second half of the dual engagement on the Moravian campus tomorrow night will be the local negative team and the affirmative speakers of the Bethlehem school. Muhlenberg will be represented by John P. Stump and Israel A. S. Yost.

The entire Cardinal and Gray squad appeared in a practice debate yesterday before a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of this city. The speakers were divided into teams and argued the Supreme Court question. An open forum was held following the main discussion.

Coch Everitt's negative speakers met the affirmative team from Lehigh university last Wednesday night in the first radio debate of the season. The two schools argued the Supreme Court question, but no decision was given at that time. The result will be made known as soon as all voting cards are returned by the "listeners-in."

Council Votes To Abolish Salaries Of Student Officers

Student Body Will Vote on Proposed Amendment May 13

ORATORICAL WINNERS TO BE GIVEN AWARDS

A proposed amendment to the student body constitution which allows no remuneration to be given to student body officers, starting next year, was unanimously adopted by Student Council at its meeting last Friday morning. No further action will be taken until May 13, when the proposal will be voted on at the general student body meeting.

At their session last week Council members defeated the motion made at student body meeting on February 12 to pay the student body treasurer an annual fee of $50 starting this year. They then proceeded to adopt the amendment which now awaits the decision of the student body.

If adopted the amendment will read as follows:

"Beginning the scholastic year 1936-37 no student body officer shall receive any remuneration for his services to the student body."

Should this amendment be voted into the constitution it will automatically eliminate paragraph E. of Article IV which follows:

"The regularly elected and inaugurated secretary shall receive from the student body treasury fifty dollars as a remuneration, provided he faithfully and untiringly performs the duties prescribed in this constitution and these by-laws. This money shall be paid at the close of his term of office."

George R. Koehler, president of Council, appointed Earl A. Koch '36, chairman of a committee to choose suitable gifts to be awarded Alvin H. Butz '37, and Walter H. Guigley '36, Muhlenberg's representatives in the annual Intercollegiate Oratorical Union contest. This meeting was to have been held at Gettysburg on March 7, but has been definitely postponed this spring.

President Koehler announced the next meeting of Council for March 9. At this time Dean Robert C. Horn will confer with the body for the nomination of student officers to serve during 1936-37. These nominations will be made known at the next student body meeting on April 29.

Debaters To Meet Moravian Speakers

Dual Engagement Tomorrow Night on Supreme Court Topic

Muhlenberg's debaters will tomorrow evening participate in their second radio argument in as many weeks when an affirmative team, composed of James Coyne and Herman Heim, is to meet Moravian's negative speakers on the question "Resolved that Congress Should Be Empowered to Override by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional." The debate will go on the air over radio stations WCBA-WSAN at 9:30 o'clock.

Meeting in the second half of the dual engagement on the Moravian campus tomorrow night will be the local negative team and the affirmative speakers of the Bethlehem school. Muhlenberg will be represented by John P. Stump and Israel A. S. Yost.

The entire Cardinal and Gray squad appeared in a practice debate yesterday before a meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of this city. The speakers were divided into teams and argued the Supreme Court question. An open forum was held following the main discussion.

Coch Everitt's negative speakers met the affirmative team from Lehigh university last Wednesday night in the first radio debate of the season. The two schools argued the Supreme Court question, but no decision was given at that time. The result will be made known as soon as all voting cards are returned by the "listeners-in."

Intramural Games

Another intramural season will open next Monday. The number of teams entering the race this year are considerably less than have competed in past seasons. There are two principal reasons for this condition.

First, the spring varsity sports prohibit many dormitory athletes from competing in the intramural program. This is a hindrance to non-fraternity groups which must depend to a large extent on the dormitory residents for players. Perhaps some non-fraternity team will be organized if varsity baseball or track are eliminated from the college program this spring.

The second reason for the lack of more teams seems to arise from the fact that many students are being excused from classes in physical education in order to sing in the choir and play in the band. That such a ruling exists should not cause any confusion on the part of the students although this has been a troublesome problem for the past two years.

That students must take the required course in physical education to be eligible for intramural games is definitely stated in the freshman handbook. The new men are told this each September by the physical education director. But already there are some who are arguing for entrance in the spring program although they have not been enrolled in gym.

Excuses for choir and band members from gym were granted two years ago by the administration when these organizations pleaded that the time required for their activities prevented them from attending physical education work. But these certain students seem to find time for intramural competition. They argue that intramurals cover only a small part of the year while gym is continuous.

Their arguments, however, are illogical, for students taking part in intramural games are excused from gym classes during the season. If they have two extra hours each week for exercise during the spring sports, they surely must have those two extra hours for gym work the remainder of the year.

A Step Forward

After an exhaustive study of the subject, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the railroads to reduce the basic passenger rate from 3.6 cents per mile to two cents per mile, and to discontinue the surcharge in connection with Pullman service. With the exception of the Baltimore and Ohio, the other great Eastern railroads have maintained that any reduction in rates will seriously impair revenues.

The Southern and Western rails have had the low rates in effect with substantial success. They report a constant increase in passenger traffic that more than offsets the loss in revenue due to lower rates. In other words, they have not only made it possible for more people to enjoy the safest and most luxurious method of travel, but have increased their profits at the same time.

Bus competition in the South and West has decreased considerably and in some parts has been eliminated because of this foresighted policy. In the East, where the rails have maintained the higher rates, bus transportation has been very damaging to passenger revenue.

There are few who will not agree that the only incentive in travelling by bus is the saving over the rail rates, for the railroad affords by far the more comfortable, safe, and dependable service.

If passenger rail traffic is increased appreciably by the establishment of the new rate, besides improving the financial position of the roads, a by-product will undoubtedly be the lessening highway congestion with a consequent decrease in motor accidents. If the Commission could now find some practical way to take freight off the highways and put it back on the rails the situation would be improved to an even greater extent.

Through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation our government has loaned millions of dollars to the railroads for the past four years, the years during which the already over-capitalized roads could not borrow from private sources. The Interstate Commerce Commission is constantly investigating methods to cut their high operating expenses and increase revenues. It is realized that the prosperity of railroads will reflect itself in the nation's business, for they are the largest single employers of labor, pay high wages, and are the best customers of our heavy goods industries.

Frosh Tells of Public School Experiment in Class Newspaper

(Raymond Bressler '39)

An experiment that may result in many important changes in the public school system is now under way in New York. From the city's seven hundred thousand elementary school children fifty rapid learners and 175 slow learners have been selected.

The two groups are to be separated and then distinguished in an effort to give to each child the material he or she can handle most effectively. The pace at which each child learns will not be slowed down by others in the group.

For admittance into the fast-learning group, 600 applied, but only 50 were chosen. Only one in 40 adults has, according to the tests, the native intelligence of the least able of these 50 children.

The experiment is an attempt to break the lock-step in American education. The average child (another seldom seen figure) has dominated instruction in this country. The upper and lower thirds have been chained to this imaginary middle third. The lag thus placed on the brighter students may not be observed by the outsider, but it is very clear to all teachers.

The movement to individualize instruction and to provide challenging material to bright students had its origin in the private universities and colleges. Probably the first to establish such a system was Swarthmore College. Years ago it established "honor courses", and since that time nearly every university has made similar attempts to encourage students of unusual ability to test their mental power to capacity.

Under the University of Chicago's new plan—allowing a student to proceed as rapidly as he is able—one young man seems likely to complete a four years' course in one year.

Although this may seem too shockingly intelligent, it indicates the success of the university's effort to break down the factory method too often found in higher education.

As the call is ever more insistent for trained leadership, these experiments from the elementary grades up show the advance American education has made in its attempt to meet the need.

Thus a new education is coming to life. This new education is struggling desperately to personalize our schools on the basis of the individual differences found in every student.

CAMPUS CHATTER

A bus stops. A man jumps out and runs across the street in front of a street car. The street car stops. The man gets in and dashes up and down the aisle. He hops off the car and runs back to the bus. The bus proceeds down Chew street until the next trolley is reached. The very queer procedure is then duplicated. And so on down the city's streets.

Fraternity initiation? No. Lost a wallet? No. Nutz? No. You see the man was Dr. Brown performing in the above described manner because he was looking for "Foggy" Hodgkinson, the wayward frosh. "Foggy" had a part in the play to be presented by the 'Berg dramatic artists—but he went downtown and forgot about the play, hence the Prof. was on the hunt.

"Oh, well," sighed the stylish gal as she heard a loud snap in the vicinity of her new reducing girdle, "they said it would reduce the hips, or bust."

Muhlenberg now has a chance to jump into national prominence by instituting a crew. We've always had the man-power and we can always borrow a boat or two. But we never had the water. Now it's possible to swim from the dorms to the Ad building. In fact, the federal government is thinking of sending ocean vessels right on up to the library. It is reported that several freshmen were lost in the hole between the chapel and the Ad building this week.

Nature in the raw is seldom mild. That famous statement was given another example when early risers on the campus discovered a large, ring-necked pheasant lying dead on the snow in front of the chapel last week. The bird had either been shot or attacked by dogs. It gives us a picture of what the wild life has to endure in this weather.

There is many a surprised face in the library, these days, as those who had hitherto enjoyed stack privileges are informed that they can no longer use the stacks—"by the official edict". Thus passes one of the last strongholds of the day students for quiet nooks for study.

And then there is the story that came from Duquesne, about the poultryman who crossed his hens with parrots to save time. Whereas he used to have to hunt for eggs, now the hens walk up to him and say, "Hank, I just laid an egg. Go get it."

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill—uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

Utzmen Twice Threaten Lead of Pennacs; 2nd Half Clinches Tilt

FLYING DUTCHMEN WIN TO ENTER SIXTH PLACE

Muhlenberg's varsity and freshman five were scheduled to play two games in the "Little Palestra" of the Allentown High school Monday night with the fast Penn A. C. quintet as the big attraction of the season. However, it was the college band that stole the show for the Philadelphia basketballers arrived two hours late for the court tilt and the Cardinal and Gray musicians were given a fine chance to present a mid-winter concert.

Once the Pennacs did arrive it did not take them long to make their presence felt. For the second time this season they laced Johnny Utz's cohorts to the tune of 50 to 26. At Philadelphia in January the Mules also went down to a crushing defeat by the score of 68 to 22.

Delayed by a driving snowstorm and forced to get out and push their machine over the Lehigh mountain on their way to this city, the visitors finally managed to reach the High school gym to start off the freshman game at 9:30 o'clock. Approximately one half hour after this the majority of fans had expected the varsity tilt to be over. The latter was completed about 11:30.

Muhlenberg was ahead but once during the varsity engagement. At that time the locals held a 4 to 3 lead as the result of field goals by Grossman and Kohler after the Pennacs had taken a 3-point lead on fouls.

Before long, however, the visitors moved into an 18 to 9 lead although the Utzmen threatened to knot the count when Gene Grossman sank four consecutive goals. At this point the first half ended with the Philadelphia outfit in front, 22 to 15.

The visitors left it be known at the start of the second half that they were out to win the ball game and tallied nineteen points before the Mules scored a shot. Holding a 41 to 15 advantage, the Pennacs coasted to victory. Summary:

"Flying Dutchmen" shoved the Cardinal and Gray into the cellar and entrenched themselves in sixth place. The two teams have been fighting to keep out of last place all season. The Mules have but two wins to show against ten defeats. Lebanon Valley's record is 2 and 9 with one game with Albright to be played Saturday night.

Paul Billett, individual high scoring leader of the league, added more points to his large total during the evening when he caged eight field goals and shot six fouls for twenty-two points. Aungst, Lebanon Valley pivot man, rang up ten points for himself during the fray.

Gene Grossman, Mule guard, again stole the scoring honors for the local team when he put six in from the floor for an even dozen points.

Playing by both teams was ragged throughout the evening. Only one referee was on the floor to supervise the game which at times threatened to go beyond control of the lone official. Summary:

Cardinal And Gray Basketeers To End Season This Week

Play Last Home Game Tonight With Leopard Quintet

ARRANGE CHARITY TILT WITH ST. THOMAS FIVE

The curtain will fall on another chapter in Muhlenberg's basketball history on Friday night when the Mules bring their regular schedule to a close in a game with the Bucknell Bisons at Lewisburg. Johnny Utz's quintet plays its final home game tonight against Lafayette.

Although the Bucknell tilt is the last on the 1936 card, the Cardinal and Gray passers are to play St. Thomas in a charity game Friday evening, March 13, for the benefit of the Wilkes-Barre Lions' club. The game is to be played in the Wilkes-Barre armory. Proceeds of the fray will be used for a scholarship fund to assist deserving high school students in that city to secure a college education.

The Cardinal Crusaders are seeking revenge tonight for a 33 to 28 defeat handed them by Lafayette at Easton last month. That game, lost by a two-point margin, was close throughout and another tight battle is almost certain for tonight.

Another count is to be settled when the Mule eagers journey to Bucknell on Friday. The score read 39-all at the end of the regulation game played in the Allentown High "Little Palestra" on January 10, with the Bisons winning out 45 to 41 in one extra period. The Utzmen still have this sorry defeat fresh in their minds and will be out to even the count.

As a preliminary to the Lafayette game tonight, the local freshman team is scheduled to meet the Battery B Medicos in a game starting at 7:30 o'clock in the Allentown High gymnasium.

mark. They kept that margin as the second half started and coasted to an easy victory.

"Tommy" Thomas set the pace for the Cardinal and Gray when he caged six goals and a foul toss to garner thirteen points. Laing and Grossman each tallied six points for the locals.

Paul Wenrich former Hershey High lad, led the attack with Martin for the winners, each gathering ten points. Woody Sponaugle played a fine game on the offense and guarded faultlessly. Summary:

Want To Play Intramurals? Here Are Eligibility Rules

1. A player can represent only one club. If he changes his club during the season, a written notice must be sent to the general manager during the first week of arranged schedule by both clubs involved. The man making such a change cannot again change back to the club that he left during that (season) term. One change according to rulings per school year.
2. All students participating in the intramural games must take the full year's work in physical education.
3. Any man, having won his varsity letter in any sport and is still eligible for that sport, is ineligible for intramural competition in that particular sport.
4. Any man who, in trying out for a varsity team, is retained after the final cut in the squad, is made ineligible.
5. Freshmen will be eligible at all times providing they are taking the physical education work.

Johnny Utz's basketball team was the first and the last in closing its 1936 playing schedule in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League.

The Cardinal and Gray passers played their twelfth and final league tilt last Saturday evening with Lebanon Valley. When the Annville collegians emerged with a 49 to 36 triumph they jumped into sixth place and the Mules are now in the cellar position, the first in many years of cage competition that local teams have occupied the bottom.

The Mules will perhaps have a chance to share their uncherished position before the league season ends, however. The Albright Lions meet Lebanon Valley in the closing game Saturday night and should the Reading five come through with a victory, the Annville basketballers will have to be satisfied to drop into the cellar with Johnny Utz's boys.

Alumni Quintet To Play High School

Teams Meet Monday Night for Charity Game in "Little Palestra"

What would be the result if Muhlenberg's "Big Five" met Allentown High's championship team? That was the question asked last year by many followers of both these basketball clubs.

The best answer will be given Monday night, when the 1935 Cardinal and Gray five meets the Canary and Blue quintet in the "Little Palestra" of the city school.

The game has been scheduled as a charity tilt, the proceeds of which are to be used for the purchase of a suitable memorial to the late James "Brey" Brennan, one of Allentown's leading sportsmen until his death a few months ago.

The local quintet, coached last year by Johnny Utz, came through with 14 wins out of 19 engagements. The Allentown High passers, under the guiding hand of J. Birney Crum '23, also established an enviable record and finally won the State scholastic championship.

The fray is scheduled to start after the playing of a preliminary between the Temperance team of the Class A city league and the Freihofer Bakers of the Industrial league. This will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

In the Muhlenberg alumni lineup will be Gene Lepore and Lou Cuchran, forwards; Arthur "Legs" Leibensperger, center; Joe Rodgers and Joe Skrovaneck, guards. On the sidelines, ready for reserve duty will be "Tommy" Thomas, "Punchy" Laing, and Gene Grossman, three members of this year's Cardinal and Gray five.

Included in the high school lineup will be Lee Dietrich, regular guard for the Little Mules this season. Big Karl Meyers, who began the season here as regular center for the frosh five, will be Little Mules Also Win Over Wyomissing Quintet at Reading

The Little Mules scored their third consecutive victory Monday night when they turned back the Penn A. C. Reserves in the Allentown High school gym by the score of 22 to 19. Penn A. C. led by a 7-4 advantage at half-time. The game was preliminary to the Penn A. C. varsity contest.

The tilt was nip and tuck throughout. Near the close of the game Melick dropped a long one to put the yearlings ahead. Tracy and Heffner followed with goals, to put the contest on ice.

Due to bad weather conditions the Penn A. C. teams arrived late and consequently the periods were shortened.

Playing one of the best games of the season, the Muhlenberg freshman five won over the Wyomissing Prep school, last Saturday night, in the Prep school gym at Reading by the score of 28 to 15. At the end of the half the score stood 10 to 8 in favor of the Little Mules. This game marked the second win the frosh have scored over Wyomissing Prep within a week period. Saturday night a week ago the Gutteron five defeated the Poly team by a 37-22 score.

Receives Recognition In Field Of Art Work

Recognition of his fine art work in the field of commercial advertising has been accorded Harold A. Bowman '31, by "Printers Ink" and "Advertising and Selling", two trade magazines in their February issues.

Mr. Bowman recently created an advertisement that he entered in a competition sponsored by the Walker Engraving Company of New York. His advertisement was chosen among the twelve best of the hundreds submitted, by a board of distinguished judges.

The advertisement, reproduced in full page form in both the magazines, points to the value of pictures and, appropriately enough for February publication, is centered about a historical theme, Washington's crossing the Delaware.

Commenting on the work of Mr. Bowman, both magazines say:

"His advertisement was chosen among the twelve best by the judges of the Walker competition. Graduate of Muhlenberg '31 and New York School of Fine and Applied Arts '34. At 26, holds the responsible position of production manager at Kimball, Hubbard and Powell, Inc. Apparently knows history and its place in advertising."

The advertisement reproduces the famous painting of Washington crossing the Delaware and points to the great lesson in history that is taught by the painting.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR MAY CLASS REUNIONS

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for the annual class reunions to be held in May in connection with the alumni day activities. Preliminary arrangements have been made by all the classes scheduled to meet this spring according to the Dix plan.

The class of 1907 will hold a reunion out of order this year owing to the fact that the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn, a member of that group, is now in this country on a missionary furlough from Japan. He is planning to attend the function.

Next year the regular schedule of meetings will be resumed with the classes of '06, '07, '08, and '09 holding reunions.

CALLED TO BETHLEHEM

The Rev. William C. Berkemeyer, Muhlenberg graduate in 1929 will be installed as pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, at the morning service of the congregation on Sunday, March 15. The Rev. Mr. Berkemeyer succeeds to the pulpit, the Rev. Dr. Preston A. Laury, member of the class of '89, who tendered his resignation in January.

Freshmen Will Debate Two Teams This Week

Muhlenberg's freshman debate team will participate in two engagements this week. Forensic speakers from the Shippensburg State Teachers' College will come to the campus this evening while the frosh are scheduled to meet Allentown Prep school tomorrow night.

In the debate this evening, starting at 8 o'clock, Theodore Scheifele, John Dry and Emmanuel Hoover will uphold the affirmative side of the question "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

Against Prep school tomorrow night, the local speakers will argue the negative side of the same question. This debate is to be held in the Prep school auditorium. Decisions will be given by a critic judge in both meetings.

VESPER SPEAKER

REV. H. I. AULENBACH

Guest preacher for the vesper service this Sunday in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel will be the Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, pastor of St. Andrew's Reformed Church, Lancaster, in 1924.

The Rev. Mr. Aulenbach is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall college, class of '21. He was graduated with a B.D. from the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church, Lancaster, in 1924.

His first pastorate was Salem Reformed Church, Campbelltown, which he served until 1927. From that year to 1931, he was pastor of the First Reformed Church, Berwick, and in February, 1931, he was appointed to serve his present pastorate.

Besides being active within his own denomination, the Rev. Mr. Aulenbach is active in the Allentown Kiwanis Club, is a member of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A., and president of the Ministerial League of this city during 1935-36.

Wherever the thrilling drama has been shown it has met with success. At the University of Pennsylvania museum over 6,000 people witnessed the matinee while 2,100 persons attended five performances at the University of Iowa. In writing the story of "The Human Adventure," Charles Breasted's purpose has been to make a specialized subject as intelligible and fascinating to the lay public as to the young people in the schools and colleges.

To attain this purpose, the late author narrates a description of the work and observations from the screen in terms chosen to be lucid and readily understandable. An introductory talk by the author and director of the film will be given from the screen to sketch roughly a background for the audience.

Probability That Spring Sports Will Not Be Abandoned

College Athletic Committee Takes No Action on Program

COMPETITION OPEN TO FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

No action against the continuance of spring sports at Muhlenberg was taken by the college athletic committee at its meeting held last Thursday night at the Americus hotel. It is assumed that the spring sports program will progress as scheduled. This assumption includes varsity baseball, track and tennis.

Rumors had spread on the campus to the effect that the college would not be able to afford the expense of a sports program this spring, but announcement has been made that a schedule is being completed by the athletic committee which will include all varsity sports.

Another element which adds interest to the problem is the new conference ruling which makes it possible for freshmen to participate in all varsity spring sports. This fact opens a hitherto closed source of material for the coaches and should stimulate greater interest in the spring program.

There is a possibility, however, that the track and tennis schedules may be skeletonized because of the current financial condition caused by basketball deficits.

Last year marked the first track season in several years which saw a full Cardinal and Gray team on the cinder paths, competing in dual as well as the larger association meets. It is hoped that a continuance of this policy will bring college track teams to Muhlenberg this season for dual track and field meets.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has Initiation For 10 Men

Ten students were initiated into Psi chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, at a meeting of the society held Monday afternoon in Dr. Boyer's office on the second floor of the Administration building. The ceremony was followed in the evening with a banquet at the Americus hotel in this city.

The new members are: Franklin D. Marsteller, Eugene G. Schneek, Donald A. Feyrer, Floyd A. Schlosser, Woodrow W. Wendling, Donald A. Noll, Ernest A. Knauss, Francis E. Gaumer, Charles F. Diehl, and Melville Schmoeyer.

Win Debates From Moravian Speakers

Varsity Debaters Gain Dual Decisions Over Bethlehem Teams

Muhlenberg's debaters scored a dual victory over the Moravian speakers last Thursday evening when the two schools met to argue the question: "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

The local negative team composed of John Stump and Israel Yost invaded the Bethlehem campus to bring back a critic judge's decision over Moravian's affirmative team.

The affirmative speakers, James Coyne and Herman Heim, met the visitors' negative team in the assembly room of the administration building on the local campus. Decision here was also by a critic judge.

Moravian's affirmative speakers were Stephen Byrne and Phillip MacLeod while the negative representatives were Marvin Weidner and Robert Lukens.

The subject for this year is "The Clergyman in the Plays of Shakespeare". Essays are to be completed by May 1 and the winner will be made known at the commencement exercises June 1. Students are asked to consult Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, for further information.

Seniors Establish Alumni Fee Of $20

1936 Class to Have Permanent Fund After Graduation

With slightly less than three months of college life remaining for them, members of the present senior class met last Friday morning in one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings held during the past four years.

The seniors have good reasons to be optimistic and enthusiastic for they have nearly $100 in their treasury to be used up within the next few weeks in whatever manner they see fit. The class has a cash balance of $86.66 to which will be added an additional sum from last year's Claria when these accounts are collected.

Upon the recommendation of Clarence Ritter, secretary, the seniors voted to set aside $20 to be used as an alumni secretary's fee for notifying members of the 1936 class of reunions and college functions once they are no longer on the campus. This will be established as a revolving fund and each year when the present seniors return for class reunions, the members will be asked to contribute to a collection to reimburse the fund.

The amount voted will be deposited with Dr. John V. Shankweiler, present alumni treasurer, and can be used only for the benefit of the 1936 class upon the approval of the life president and secretary of the group. Charles H. Kline, Jr., and Clarence Ritter have been elected to these respective offices.

Voting on the question of whether the class should hold a banquet or a clam-bake at the end of the college year, the members decided in favor of the latter to be planned for some time in May.

After deducting $20 for the alumni secretary's fee and an ad-

College Gets $1000 From Norton Will

Muhlenberg Given Bequest
As Part of Trust Fund

Announcement was made this week that the college is to receive $1000 as a participant in the distribution of a trust fund created by the will of Mrs. Margie S. Norton, who died July 30, 1925, and who was the widow of Charles D. Norton, a wealthy coal operator of Philadelphia.

No definite statement has been made as to how or when the college will receive the bequest.

Ada Norton Jamison, a daughter of Mrs. Norton, who was made the life beneficiary of the trust, died last November 12. She had the power of appointment over the fund and directed its many bequests.

The fund, amounting in principal to $552,312.35 and income of $7,857.39, was adjudicated in the Philadelphia Orphans court last Saturday.

The largest bequest was made to the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men, $100,000; among others included in the beneficiaries are the Mt. Airy Lutheran Theological Seminary, $40,000; Lutheran Church of the Holy Communion, Philadelphia $60,000; American Bible Society, $1,000; Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., $2500; Roanoke college, Roanoke, Va., $5000.

Fraternities Plan New Sports League For Spring Months

Pool, Ping-Pong, and Pinochle
To Be Played by Groups

DISCUSS PURCHASE OF NEW SCHOLARSHIP CUP

Fraternity relationships on Muhlenberg's campus were knitted closer together this week when the announcement was made of plans to form an interfraternity league to include games in pool, ping-pong, and pinochle.

Plans for organization were discussed last Thursday night when the Interfraternity Council held a meeting at the Alpha Tau Omega house on Chew street. Dean Zweier, who proposed the formation of the league, was named chairman of a committee to arrange the schedule and have games started as soon as possible.

The new indoor sports organization will in no way conflict with present intramural competition which includes both fraternity and non-fraternity groups.

Chairman Zweier expects to meet with representatives from each campus fraternity this week to draw up a schedule of games to be played yet this spring.

A discussion on the possible purchase of a new scholarship cup resulted in the appointment of David Booth as a committee of one to secure price lists and investigate funds available for the trophy. Booth, treasurer of the Council, reported $7.50 in the treasury which will probably be used as a partial payment on a new cup. The assessment of each house to make up the remainder of the money necessary is most likely the procedure to be followed if a new cup is bought.

No trophy has been given since the first semester of 1934 when Phi Kappa Tau won permanent possession of the coveted award. The fraternity won the cup at that time for having established the best scholarship rating for the second semester of the college year 1933-34.

LUTHERAN ENROLLMENT SHOWS INCREASE OF 21

Twenty different religious denominations are represented on the campus in the present academic year according to statistics released recently by Registrar Benfer.

This year's figures reveal an increase of four over those listed during the term 1934-35. The additional denominations recorded are Methodist Episcopal, Church of God, Greek Orthodox, and First Brethren.

Lutheran, Reformed, and Catholic students have the greatest number with nearly 300 being listed under these religions alone. Twelve have registered as undecided.

In the present student body of 418 members, eight less than last year, there are 211 Lutherans showing an increase of 21 over last year. There is a decrease of 16 Reformed students which now number 46, while the Catholic and Hebrew representations show a decrease of ten and eight respectively.

The complete table of denominations represented is listed below. Special students are not included.

Phi Alpha Theta Pays Honor to Writer of Book on Oglethorpe

Dr. Amos A. Ettinger, graduate in the class of 1921, became an honorary member of Kappa chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, last Thursday evening when the national history fraternity held a special initiation ceremony and meeting at the Americus hotel in this city.

The honored graduate, author of the recently completed biography on the life and work of James Oglethorpe, was also guest speaker for the fraternity's meeting, using as his subject, "The Art of Biography". In his address he told of the evolution of biography from "Plutarch's Lives" to Freeman's "Robert E. Lee".

Dr. Ettinger received his A.B. degree from Muhlenberg, being valedictorian of his graduating class. He was awarded a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania and a Ph.D. degree from Oxford university. He is the son of Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean emeritus.

Present at last week's meeting were Drs. Henry R. Mueller, James E. Swain, and Joseph S. Jackson. Undergraduate members attending included Robert C. Decker, Karl Lehr, Warren C. Schlegel, John Whittaker, and Ernest F. Seegers.

10 Students Offer Blood Transfusions

Muhlenberg Men Answer
Call from Local Hospital

Within the past two weeks calls for volunteers to offer blood for transfusions at the Allentown hospital were responded to by Muhlenberg students. The first call was made February 25 and the other on March 1.

Eight students, including six freshmen, one sophomore and one junior, reported for the first test at the hospital. Wahl Pfeifer, '39, was selected because he had type 2 blood. The others who volunteered were Claude Figgis, Oaklie Blair, Andrew Gadek, Carlton Wermuth, William Melick, Jack Blair, and Paul Peters.

An appeal made by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Schaeffer, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran Church, during Sunday night's service of the congregation, was answered by two students who were Frederick Schonenberg and Arnold Spohn, both freshmen.

Although tests revealed that a type 4 blood was required, Schonenberg, who qualified for the transfusion, was not needed because the hospital had procured another before him. However, the Rev. Mr. Schaeffer was grateful for the immediate response of the students.

CONGRATULATIONS

Coach Johnny Utz became the father of his first born, a boy, weighing seven pounds and twelve ounces, born at 6:05 a. m., Wednesday, at the Allentown hospital. Mother and child are doing fine.

The baby boy will be named John Ludwig, Jr. Mrs. Utz was formerly of Catasauqua where she was educated and was a popular member of the girls' basketball team.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Convention Will Be Held Here April 29

Chapters of National Organization Plan Sessions in Hotel Traylor

PHILOSOPHICAL GROUPS TO AWARD ESSAY PRIZE

Alpha Kappa Alpha's four chapters which comprise the present national philosophical fraternity will hold their annual convention in this city on Wednesday, April 29, as guests of Alpha chapter, the local society.

The announcement of holding the national convention here this spring was made by George Koehler, president of Alpha chapter, following a meeting of the local fraternity held at the home of the Rev. Russell W. Stine, 2116 Allen street, last Thursday evening.

The affair next month is to be held at the Hotel Traylor on Hamilton street with business sessions being planned for both the afternoon and evening. A model initiation ceremony will be held in the evening just prior to the dinner meeting. Representatives from the four chapters including Cedar Crest, Gettysburg, Moravian and Muhlenberg will comprise the degree team. A number of prominent speakers will be secured to address the group in the evening.

Plans are also being formulated by the national organization for sponsoring an essay contest this spring. The best paper written on the topic "The Practical Value of Philosophy" will be read at the convention here next month.

A prize of $10 will be given to the best essay submitted before the convention with a similar sum to be awarded for the best essay in each of the four colleges. A silver loving cup will be given the school submitting the best paper. Permanent possession of the trophy may be had by winning the cup three consecutive times.

The Rev. Mr. Stine addressed Alpha chapter members at their meeting in his home last week. His talk, given on "Sciences and Art", was followed by an open forum discussion.

Comedy Entertains Student Assembly

Mask and Dagger Presents
One-Act Play in Science Hall

Taking both male and female roles, a three-member cast under the direction of Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, presented "Box and Cox" in the Science Hall auditorium last Wednesday morning.

Starring in the female role, Warren Hodgkinson, gave cause for rounds of merriment and laughter. Charles Diehl and Herbert Haas shared the male lead, unraveling a complicated plot in which they had both unsuspectingly rented the same room from a designing English boarding house mistress.

The play will also be presented at several neighboring high schools in the near future under the sponsorship of Registrar Harry A. Benfer.

Plans are progressing for the presentation in May of "The House in Order", a three-act play by Piners, by the Mask and Dagger club. Last week's comedy was a one-act presentation.

Pre-Law Club Members Hear Judge Henninger

James F. Henninger '21 judge of the Lehigh county courts, addressed the John Marshall Pre-Law club last Wednesday afternoon in the assembly room of the Administration building. The meeting was open to students and faculty members.

Judge Henninger spoke on the necessity for preserving the constitution of the United States and mentioned the recent attacks on this document. The speaker urged college students of today "to stand squarely behind the Constitution".

A Proposed Amendment

The proposed amendment to the student body constitution which would allow no remuneration to be given to any student body officers in future years, was adopted by the Student Council at a recent meeting. This is a step forward to avoid future controversy on a question which has aroused much discussion. At their session the previous week, Council members defeated the motion made at student body meeting to pay the student body treasurer an annual fee of $50 beginning this year.

In previous years the secretary of the student body received fifty dollars for his services. Without belittling the duties of this position, it does not seem logical that the secretary should receive compensation while the rest of the officers do not. If any one ought to be paid, it would seem more logical that the president should be the one, upon whose shoulders falls most of the responsibility for the proper functioning of that body. If the previous motion to reward the treasurer for his duties had been passed, then the next step would be to pay the other two officers; nor would it have been unfair.

Since the duties of Student Council officers do not involve more work than a responsible position in any other student organization on the campus, even though directly accountable to the students, wholesale remuneration appears unwise. There can be no doubt as to the prudence of Student Council's action.

A Communist Speaks

It would be humorous to question Stalin as to whether the Russian government would allow Herbert Hoover to proclaim his capitalistic doctrines over its broadcasting network, or whether they would allow Franklin D. Roosevelt to speak for his party and the New Deal. Nevertheless the Columbia Broadcasting system allowed Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party, to speak over a nation-wide hook-up on the need for Communism in our country. This action a few days ago has stirred considerable controversy.

The principle of freedom of speech is the paramount issue in a question such as this. From a political point of view it would be unwise for either of our major parties to denounce the granting of radio facilities to the Communist, and probably for that reason there has been very little comment on the part of Republican or Democratic heads. However, the Republican leaders have pointed out that, with a few minor changes, the speech made by Mr. Browder is very similar to the utterance of Secretary Ickes and Dr. Tugwell on certain occasions.

The communist official's remarks were very palatable to the sentiments of the masses. He argued against labor-saving machinery, against the Duponts, Mellons and the Rockefellers, and stoutly put his party on record as in favor of fair prices for the farmer, a job at union wages for every worker, and equal rights for Negroes. It is far less difficult, and brings much more applause to deride a few successful men as the cause of our complicated economic plight, rather than to attempt to explain to the people the intricacies of our economic system and the principles involved. Mr. Browder insisted that "Wall Street has strengthened its rule" under President Roosevelt, which will come as a surprise to many. He asked for the support of the toiling people and asserted most seriously "that after a majority gives more power to the Communist program we can completely abolish poverty in two months."

In theory, the principle of free speech is vital and necessary in our country. A question arises in a practical application such as this. The trouble is not however, with the doctrine of free speech, but whether the rank and file is sufficiently informed on these matters to be subjected to the honey words of a radical whose voice may be good but whose economics is bad. If they were well educated and logical thinkers, these speeches would do more than anything else to reaffirm their belief in our institutions. Otherwise, and what is more likely, they will only stimulate class prejudice and becloud the real issues.

American Nations

For many years North, Central and South America have been drawing closer together, and it is a good sign that there is general approval all the way down to Cape Horn in the plan of the United States to work with the Latin American countries in regard to neutrality legislation and affairs.

Another conference, such as we have had in past years, is to be held in Buenos Aires. The slogan of our own Government that "in union there is strength" works to perfection when all the Americas get together to keep out of European messes. The Americans are a force not likely to be trifled with to any extent.

The present demands for big increases in appropriations for the Army, Navy and Air forces are being supplemented—as usual—by talk of the dangers that threaten us from Japan. That is one of the old rackets to get the bills through. But there is a general feeling in Washington that if the Europeans start in to extend the borders and scope of the Italian-Ethiopian party that the American nations will know enough to send regrets. Let us hope that it is true, as a Senator said, "that we aren't as green as we were in 1917."

The Lenten Season

It was altogether fitting and proper that students in a Christian institution should have assembled in the college chapel this month to receive the sacrament of Holy Communion marking the opening of another Lenten season.

It is during this season that peoples the world over meditate upon the "Prince of Peace" who was sent on earth that this world might be saved. People in the time of Christ were confronted with problems which to them seemed to equal in magnitude those facing us in the present.

We have built a world in which peoples and nations have become increasingly dependent but without the loyalties which enable people to live together with mutual good will and mutual advantage. So long as nations persist in misunderstanding each other's motives and in misrepresenting each other, peace cannot come. So long as nations fail to recognize that the welfare of the world is bound up with the welfare of the nations that compose the world, peace cannot come any more than health can come to the body when the hand or the foot is infected. So long as nations fail to recognize that to disregard the welfare of any nation is to threaten the welfare of every nation, peace cannot come. Any social order that is bad for any group proves at length bad for every group.

All great cultural values, literature, music, science, art, are international. Selfish nationalism is as much out of place in the Twentieth Century as is a tallow candle or an oxcart, and must be overcome if civilization is to endure. Steam made possible the British Empire. The building of railroads made possible the American Republic. The cable, the wireless, the radio, the airplane make possible and therefore make inevitable a world civilization or else catastrophe.

Out of the pile emerged first an arm, then a leg and finally the form of Joe Osman arose from the debris. OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco

("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product. All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

PLAN SPRING GRID DRILLS NEXT MONTH

Athletic Committee Undecided Who Will Have Charge of Football Work; Expect Decision on Coach This Week

April Work-outs Expected to Deal Only With Fundamentals

WILL START WORK ON FIELD IN NEAR FUTURE

Spring football practice will again be held this year on the local campus. This announcement was made following a meeting of the college athletic committee on Thursday night at the Americus hotel.

This decision marks the return to a custom from which the college departed last year when no spring practice was held for the grid squad. In previous years the practice was a customary procedure.

There still remains an important question to be decided by the committee, however. This question concerns who the coach will be under whom the practice will be held. To date this decision has not been made although committee action is expected the latter part of this week. Coach Johnny Utz is still under contract for another year at Muhlenberg. It is known, however, that several prominent coaches are under consideration as possible choices for the position of head coach should Utz no longer be connected with the college.

The football drills will start as soon as the ground is in fit condition for practice purposes. This will probably be in the latter part of April, according to the athletic committee.

In former years the spring seasons were used to drill the squad on fundamentals such as blocking, kicking, passing and ball carrying. The period is also used to learn plays which will be employed the following fall in intercollegiate competition.

It is with the view in mind of bettering the Muhlenberg athletic situation that the committee has authorized spring practice. By this means more time will be available next fall for perfection of plays and team drills.

Utzmen End Season With 48-28 Defeat By Bucknell Five

Cardinal and Gray Downs Lafayette in Last Home Game

MULES STAVE OFF LATE THREAT BY LEOPARDS

The Cardinal and Gray basketballers ended their regular playing season last Friday night when they dropped a 48 to 28 decision to the Bucknell passers in a game played at Lewisburg. The defeat marked the second time within two months that the Bisons downed the Mules. Meeting at the Allentown High school gym in January the Lewisburg five won out, 45 to 41, in an extra period.

Last Friday's game was all Bucknell and no thought was given to need for an extra period. After scoring the first goal of the evening to assume a 2 to 0 lead, the Utzmen fell behind and faced a 27 to 14 deficit at half-time.

The second half was almost an exact duplicate although the home team was held to 21 points while the Mules gathered another 14. The Cardinal Crusaders outscored Bucknell, 10 to 6, in the matter of foul goals. Summary:

LAFAYETTE GAME

A thrill-maddened crowd saw the 1936 Cardinal and Gray basketball team close its home season with a tight 35-34 victory, last Wednesday night, over Lafayette on the Allentown High school court.

The contest kept the spectators on edge from start to finish as first one, and then the other, of the two teams pushed out ahead by a few points. Although Muhlenberg led by a 19-13 score at the end of the first half, the Leopards

Intramural Season Opens With Basketball Games This Week

Six fraternity and three non-fraternity teams have entered the lists as possible winners of the silver loving cup, emblematic of intramural sports supremacy.

The three non-fraternity teams entered, and their managers, are: Non-fraternity, "Bill" Hunsicker; Cardinals, Randall Zerbe; and the Grays, John Martin. These three teams entered last week and will provide competition for the fraternity teams.

Following the completion of the basketball schedule the program swings into volley ball, playground and tennis matches. The concluding sports event of the intramural season will be the annual track and field meet, to be held on the college athletic field. The schedule follows:

ran up 21 points against the Cardinal Crusaders' 16 during the second half. The five-point margin the Eastonians were able to amass was not enough, however, to offset the first half advantage of the locals, who took the game on a narrow, one-point margin.

Gene Grossman, the Cardinal scoring machine, looped five field goals and two fouls through the meshes to become high scorer for Muhlenberg with 12 points. Tommy Thomas followed with four field goals and two fouls for a ten point score. Neither of these lads however could beat Saurman, of Lafayette, who piled seven fouls on top of three field goals to take the scoring honors for the evening.

The Wednesday night tilt evened up the score as the Mules lost, by a small margin, to the Leopards earlier in the season, at Easton.

The victory also served as a celebration in honor of the coach having become a proud father not many hours before the game started. The summary:

Lancaster Five Downs Gettysburg to Gain League Championship

Gettysburg	9	3	.750

Drexel	6	6	.500

Muhlenberg	2	10	.167
Lebanon Valley	2	10	.167

A new champion has been crowned in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball League. When Franklin and Marshall defeated Gettysburg at Lancaster last Friday evening, the Blue and White eliminated any possibility of the Bullets tying for first place and clinched the title for the season just ended.

Not since the organization of the Eastern League back in 1932 has any member team been able to keep Gettysburg from taking the championship until this year when the Lancaster collegians turned the trick.

F. and M. suffered but one defeat all season, that being a 37 to 34 upset handed Shober Barr's five by Albright a few weeks ago. It was also the Franklin and Marshall quintet that gave Gettysburg its first home-floor loss in four and one-half years.

Johnny Utz's Mules turned in one of the worst cage records in the history of the local school and have to be satisfied to share last place with the "Flying Dutchmen" from Lebanon Valley. The latter were pushed into the cellar last Saturday night when they dropped a 46 to 40 verdict to Albright.

Post Season Tilt For Cardinal-Gray

Mule Quintet Will Face St. Thomas Five Friday

The 1935-36 basketball season will close on Friday night at the Armory in Wilkes-Barre, when the Cardinal and Gray oppose the St. Thomas quintet of Scranton. This game, which closes the season for both teams, will be played for the benefit of the Lions' club Scholarship Fund, established to aid needy students. The game will also mark the renewal of athletic relationships between the two schools who last opposed each other in 1932 with Muhlenberg losing 46-29.

The "Tomcats", led by Coach Jack Harding, will put an exceptionally strong team on the floor. They have won 11 out of their 14 games played so far and are determined to add another victory to their total when they meet the Mules on Friday night.

Among the teams they have defeated are LaSalle, Catholic University, Youngstown, West Chester, L. I. U. and Westminster. The Mules have improved with every game and will be out to close their season with a victory.

The probable St. Thomas lineup will be as follows: Karlonis and Coleman at forward, Bowman at the pivot position with Chick Harte and Tom Kelly at guards. Possible switch may find "Les" Dickman starting at one of the forward posts.

Alumni Quintet Loses To Scholastic Champs

Last year's state basketball champions of the Allentown High school proved their right to the title when they outplayed the 1935 Muhlenberg varsity "Big Five," on Monday night in the High school "little palestra", by the score of 42 to 36 to win the Brey Brennan Memorial Fund game.

The Muhlenberg varsity of yesterday, second place winners in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate basketball race,—were unable to cut down the 23 to 13 lead established by the scholastics in the first half. The game was fast throughout, but it was at times apparent that the two teams had not played together, as complete units, for some time.

Gene Lepore led the scoring with 14 points while "Copper" McFadden trailed closely with 12 points. The Cardinal and Gray representatives included Lepore, Cuchran, Thomas, Leibensperger, Rodgers, Skrovaneck, Laing and Grossman.

Coroner Addresses Pre-Medical Group

Members Hear Dr. Peters Speak on Immunology at Meeting

In anticipation of the coming spring, Dr. Alexander M. Peters, Allentown physician and Lehigh County coroner, spoke to the pre-medical last Wednesday evening, on hay fever and asthma in respect to the field of immunology.

A member of the staff of the Allentown hospital, and professor of pediatrics at the Allentown hospital nurses' college, Dr. Peters brought out interesting phases of an embryo subject that is rapidly assuming importance.

Hay fever and asthma, he pointed out, are caused by insidious, minute particles in the air. Ordinary house dust, the dander from various domestic animals and fowls, in addition to the pollens from grasses, trees and shrubbery are causative factors in hay fever. Exhaustive tests and patience in ferreting out and avoiding the causes are the only treatments.

Plans are being made for the program to be held next Wednesday. Announcement of the speaker will be posted on the bulletin board.

The Oxford Union style of debate, first introduced at Oxford University, is attracting increasing attention in the United States. Swarthmore College was the first school to introduce the system into American intercollegiate debating.

Keeping pace with their varsity brothers, the freshman debaters also came through with two victories scored last week over Allentown Preparatory school and the Shippensburg State Teachers College.

Speaking for the negative team last Wednesday night, George Ostheimer and John Stump won a critic judge's decision over the Shippensburg affirmative team. Kenneth Koch '32, served as judge with Herman L. Heim '38, being chairman for the evening. Stump, a junior, teamed with Ostheimer, when the other freshman speaker was unable to attend.

Two parts of a dual debate with Prep school were held Tuesday and Thursday nights with the local speakers winning both decisions. Theodore Scheifele, Emmanuel Hoover, and John Dry spoke for Muhlenberg. The Supreme Court question was used throughout the week.

Old Books Now On Display In Library

Volumes Printed in This City in Early 19th Century

A display of books printed in this city in the early part of the Nineteenth century are now on display in the college library where they were arranged for exhibition by Helen R. Richards, assistant librarian.

One of the oldest volumes, "Haus und Kurst-Buch", a treatise on home economics, was printed in 1819, while the German prayer book "Gebet Buch" bears the date of 1822. Published in 1839 and of special interest to pre-law students is "The First and Second Trial of John Fries" which contains data of a trial for high treason.

A small book of value to students of church history is entitled "The Reuniting of the Lutheran and Reformed Religions", printed in 1826.

Among those on display is a biographical work of George Washington and his wife, Martha, bearing the title "A Tribute to the

For centuries the world has gone to the Near East for its flavors and aromas and spices.

Turkish tobacco is expensive. The import duty alone is 35 cents a pound. But no other place except Turkey and Greece can raise tobacco of this particular aroma and flavor.

This Turkish tobacco, blended with our own American tobaccos in the correct proportions to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco, helps to make Chesterfields outstanding for mildness and for better taste.

Varsity Speakers Win Crest Debate

Local Negative Team Given Decision in Assembly Program

Muhlenberg's debate team scored a big victory over one of its neighboring rivals last Wednesday morning when the Cardinal and Gray speakers gained a 3 to 0 decision from Cedar Crest, the debate having been the feature of the assembly period.

The question argued by the two schools was: "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

Miss Emily Tweedale and Miss Adele Eskin were members of Cedar Crest's affirmative team while John Stump and Israel Yost upheld the negative side for the winners.

Three members of the local Science department, chosen by Cedar Crest, acted as judges. They were Dr. George H. Brandes, Dr. John C. Keller, and Dr. Ira F. Zartman. Chairman for the morning was Richard G. Miller '36.

SENIOR GYM WORK

All members of the senior class in good standing with the department of physical education will be excused from further work in that department after the Easter recess according to an announcement made by William H. Ritter, supervisor. Seniors having conditions from past semesters will be required to complete their work before graduation.

Seniors Have Good Financial Reports

Statement Covering 4 Years Shows Class Kept Out of "Red"

If anyone thinks a financial depression has existed for the past five or six years, members of the senior class will promptly inform them otherwise for during that time the class to be graduated this spring has experienced the most successful financial prosperity.

To be more specific from the fall of 1932 up to the present time, the seniors have gone into debt but once. This setback came last year when expenditures totalled $21.05 more than the receipts. However, the class was never really in debt at any time since balances from the previous two years wiped out the 1934-35 loss.

So good has been the financial situation of the 1936 group that a

Dr. Samuel Trexler Writes Of Muhlenberg College In 1890's

A new volume from the pen of the Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, class of '96, just issued by G. P. Putnam's Sons, and bearing the title "Out of Thirty-five Years" has come to the attention of church workers and ministers. Its "jacket"—a thing attractive in itself—bears the words of commendation by Dr. Paul Scherer, Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

In the book the Rev. Dr. Trexler pays tribute to "Muhlenberg in the 1890's" in the following words:

"My entry into a larger life came when I went to Muhlenberg College at Allentown. It is a testimony to the personalities with whom I came in contact that this freedom for a young man at the age of fourteen was not abused. With President Theodore L. Seip, who in all his comings and goings was a Christian gentleman, as well as with the professors, one form-

The band will be under the joint direction of Prof. Henry A. Soltys and Robert H. Peters '37, the latter of whom is student director.

Soloists on the morning's program will be Ernest A. Knauss '37, who will play on the tuba "Samsonian Polka", a selection by McQuaide, and Lawrence Reese '37, to be heard in a saxophone number "Nola", by Felix Arndt.

A varied program has been arranged by Prof. Soltys which will include not only the usual light numbers, but also selections from famous symphonies and operas.

The "Phedre Overture", by Jules Massenet, to be heard this morning, was composed for a one-act play by Swinburne based upon the ancient Greek Myth "Phaedra and Hippolytus". In Sibelius' "Finlandia" is heard the composer's interpretation of the life and struggles of people in his native Finland.

Nominations for student body officers for next year is the major item of business to come before Student Council when it meets next Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the assembly room of the Administration building.

War Danger Not Serious at Present Time, Says Swain

European Conditions, However, Are Similar to Those of 1914

HITLER'S STAND STEALS SHOW FROM MUSSOLINI

"There is little possibility of a general outbreak of a European war at the present time", declared Dr. James Edgar Swain, professor of history, in a recent interview with a staff reporter of The Muhlenberg Weekly. While it is unlikely that hostilities will arise out of present situations, yet the conditions are virtually the same as those which existed in 1914, the professor pointed out.

In giving his views of the embroiled European situation, stirred up by the movement of Hitler into the Rhineland, Dr. Swain emphasized the fact that Germany has sent troops into a territory that was to have been demilitarized under the Locarno Pact. This Pact was an exchange of good-will on the part of France, Germany, Italy, England, and Belgium, under the Versailles treaty, by which these countries agreed to maintain certain territory "unarmed".

"Germany's occupation of this territory is not altogether unexpected", said the professor, "since Hitler has always objected to the unfairness of the Versailles treaty and has promised his people to regain the territory and prestige of Germany".

The Saar Plebiscite, the increasing of the army from 100,000 to 600,000, together with the increased building of airplanes and the navy are all indications of his disapproval of the treaty's terms.

Poland Involved

Furthermore, it is the conjecture of many authorities that Hitler has made a secret agreement with

Dispels War Fears

DR. JAMES E. SWAIN

Poland in which the latter will give back to Germany the land she lost there in return for which Germany is to aid Poland in gaining part of Lithuania and Ukraine. In addition, England, in order to gain Germany's support of oil sanctions against Mussolini, has allowed Hitler to increase his navy to within 35 per cent of Great Britain's.

To further add to the complicated situation, Dr. Swain pointed out indications that perhaps Hitler and Mussolini have also come to agreements on certain matters.

"Mussolini is anxious to have the spotlight turned from him since the League of Nations has new worries with Germany", declared Dr. Swain. It would seem that a new alliance is slowly forming, having as its members Germany, Italy, Poland, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Japan.

In opposition to this supposed League, France is in the center of things. She has bargained with

Add Three Courses In 1936 Catalogue

History, Math, and English Departments Offer New Work

Three new academic subjects to be given in the various departments of the college for the 1936-37 term are listed in the 1936 catalogue published last month.

The new courses are being given in the History, Mathematics, and English departments.

For Pennsylvania students desiring to learn more about their native state Dr. Henry R. Mueller, head of the history department, is offering a course in the History of Pennsylvania. In addition to a study of the founding and advancement of the Commonwealth, the work will include an analysis of the physiographic, political, economic, and social factors that entered into the State's development.

The Theory of Equations is the new topic to be presented in the mathematics work and will be taught by Prof. Truman Koehler. The course, based on the book written by Dickson, will deal only with the first part of this inclusive subject.

In the English department a new phase of European literature will be offered under Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of that department. In past years the course consisted only of a study of the chief European drama, but starting next fall it will include the outstanding foreign dramatists and novelists of the present-day with both readings and discussions.

Further information on the work can be obtained from the department supervisors.

MINISTERIAL AID

All students receiving financial aid from the committee on Ministerial Education of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania will meet with the representative of the committee on Monday afternoon, March 23, between 3 and 4:30 o'clock to receive their grants. Cards signed by the pastor of the congregation to which the student has been assigned are to be presented at this time.

Law, History Clubs Plan Joint Meeting

Phi Alpha Theta Will Hold Symposium With Legal Group

Tentative plans for holding a student symposium were made last Friday at a joint meeting of representatives from the John Marshall Pre-law club and the Phi Alpha Theta honorary history fraternity.

The two subjects suggested for discussion are "Future of the College Student" and "The College Graduate in the Professional World".

These topics will be presented before the law group for approval at its next meeting. The committee will then confer with Phi Alpha Theta members to arrange final plans.

Both organizations joining this year for the discussion also sponsored a similar program last spring, the topic being "The College Student and the World Today".

Fraternity Members Given Sash Regalia

Members of Alpha Epsilon circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity, met last Thursday night and received sash regalia which they are privileged to wear at all formal functions. The sashes are made of the three colors, white, blue, and black, symbolic of the fraternities ideals.

Is Academic Freedom In Danger?

Academic freedom has become a controversial subject. The stress of the times, the smoldering conflict between individualism and socialism or capitalism and communism, and the muddy thinking of a very small number of teachers have centered the wrath of society on the large body of conservative educators.

Oaths of fealty to the Constitution have been required from scores of teachers in public schools, particularly in New England. Vox pop columns of the larger newspapers are filled with the complaints of young men and women who protest because they "must be careful what they say." In university circles the case of Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, has aroused great interest. Mr. Frank was indicted by his capitalistic board of trustees for too frequent dabbling in politics; in answer he was able to prove that during his stay at Wisconsin he has delivered fewer speeches than his staid confrere, Nicholas Murray Butler, and that of his 10,000 students perhaps 150 are Leftists, including only 15 to 24 avowed communists. In the small denominational college the obligations of the faculty, including chapel attendance and panegyrics on the lives of the saints, are clearly set forth.

First of all, What is academic freedom? Gerald Chittenden, writing in "Scribner's" for February defines it "as the right of a teacher to say what he thinks." But all freedom is limited and no right can exist unless it is balanced by a duty. Mr. Chittenden decides that the teacher's duty is to the society of his own time and country and that criticism is synonymous with his responsibility.

This definitely and fairly limits the freedom of the teacher. His right is not to set himself up as a prophet, with the hope of guiding a change to its end, but his right is to criticize the change as it occurs. Mr. Chittenden says, "His responsibility is to evaluate what has been and is being done; when he tries to start anything, he is out of his province." This evaluation should be neither constructive nor destructive, but judicial. Too often the reputation of a pedagogue depends upon his ability to destroy with sensational harangues rather than to discuss with cool logic.

With the proper duty of the teacher in mind it is obvious that his freedom has not been seriously impaired by any restraints imposed up to this time by the less thoughtful portion of the parents supporting the American school system. But this group is in the majority and constitutes a real menace to the future of academic freedom. Suppose that within his evaluative function the educator enlightens young people on an economic theory opposed to capitalism, pointing out its strong and weak points and the reasons therefor. It is clear that, with the American tendency to cut the whole hog or none, the public school board or college board of trustees can easily become alarmed and penalize the teacher for heresy and cant. What happens under an attitude of this kind is exemplified by the disheartening condition of education in Italy and Germany today, where the future of dictatorship is seen to lie in the regimentation of youth and the complete control of the content, method, and presentation of the educational program.

The ensuing months will tell whether this danger will be felt in America. If those non-educators organizing the system, personnel and thought of our schools extend their authority any further, academic freedom will be ruled out of existence.

You Have To Be A King

A short time ago the King of England visited sections of a London slum district. Later he inspected the newest and most luxurious ocean liner, the "Queen Mary", which has just been completed. After the inspection trip he passed the remark as to "how one could reconcile a system that produces such extremes of luxury and wretchedness". Since then he has been lauded on both sides of the Atlantic for the social interest he has taken in his people.

A similar situation presents a disgusting picture in our country. Three years ago the American people, despairing in the depths of the worst depression this country has ever known, elevated a man to the highest office in the land who inspired in them a degree of confidence, spoke in a clear, calm manner, and offered a constructive program. Only a fool will refuse to admit that conditions are substantially better today; corporation profits, wages, and other economic barometers along with a more optimistic attitude attest to the fact.

Throughout these years, President Roosevelt has repeatedly declared, and has based a large part of his program on the contention, that great wealth and extreme poverty cannot exist simultaneously if we expect our system to survive many years. He has made definite efforts to displace slums with suitable homes for the poorer classes. In fact, Mayor LaGuardia recently made the statement that under the Roosevelt administration more slums have been converted into decent living quarters in New York City than has been accomplished in the last twelve years. Yet today our President is being ridiculed by many small critics for his interest in the more unfortunate class of society. From press to pulpit he is being denounced as un-American and radical for doing the things which a polo playing king talks about.

A College Student's Creed

1. That America is still a good country and that my fellow Americans are good people to whom I owe my best loyalties and devoted services.

2. That democracy as represented by the English-speaking peoples is the best form of government which the human mind has yet devised, and that, while by no means a perfect thing, it still deserves my allegiance and support as it seeks to attain the greatest good for the greatest number without destroying the essential freedom of the individual.

3. That any efforts to array the masses and the classes against each other belong to the counsel of folly and, if persisted in, will only serve to destroy many of the finer things of our common life without increasing the sum total of human happiness.

4. That from the beginning of time it has been a part of the divine economy that the rich and the poor shall meet together and that, in the light of the analogy of history, all efforts to find a formula for the artificial distribution of possessions fail to take into account fundamental human variations in personality, genius, intellect, and taste, and are therefore abortive, tragic, futile.

5. That hard work is life's finest inspiration and that an exaggerated spirit of paternalism in either government or industry will in the end make parasites of human beings, destroy self-respect in the individual, and break down that joy in achievement which is the stimulus to every worthwhile pattern of living.

6. That my country cannot hope to survive on a policy either of ignoring the poor or of soaking the rich and that it is therefore my duty to work to the end that social sympathies shall be developed among all of our people and that capital and labor shall become partners in a vast adventure which shall hope to provide, understandingly, a decent support for all, together with a standard of living which shall make the lives of our people reasonably secure and happily contented.

7. That war is still the master crime of the ages but that its causation is inherent in the spirit of an imperfect human society motivated by greed, fear, and the quest for power. Therefore, I will use all of my influence in helping to build a world consciousness against war, but shall enroll in no movement which shall limit my freedom of conscience or action in any crisis which may confront my nation either at home or abroad.

8. That the building of stronger moral stamina among individuals and nations is the most urgent need of the present moment and that to me, as an educated human being, the development of finer ethical standards for myself and for my fellows comes as an imperative challenge to the best powers that I possess.

9. That civilization and culture may be temporarily threatened and set back but that their power of resistance is too great to make it thinkable that their essentially permanent values can ever be destroyed. Therefore confidently and patiently, I shall invest my personal powers in their upbuilding and support, shall at all times refuse to be beguiled by the passions of the mob or the catch-phrases of the politicians, shall do my own thinking and reserve to myself that freedom of action which belongs to the individual in a democracy, and shall pray God to bring peace to all the people of my beloved country.—President Charles J. Smith, Roanoke College, The Brakety-Ack, January 16, 1936.

CAMPUS CHATTER

"Giddyap" Gadek and Frosh Blair didn't seem to mind the rain a bit on Wednesday afternoon as they horsed about the campus in the rear of the dormitories. The boys were playing a fast game of cowboys and Indians. Gadek had a stick which he used as a gun to shoot at Blair, meanwhile hiding behind the refuse burner and dump heap. Later the stick became a bat and Gadek a batter as Blair burned a couple of fast tomato cans over the plate. Still later a bit of milk bottle tossing was engaged in. All in all it shows that spring is sending a couple of advance influences among the underclassmen.

Bowling may be included among the sports on the campus if the system originated by Jaffee is accepted. Instead of using pins Jaffee uses Coco Cola bottles, which he sets up on one side of the college store. He then rolls a couple of discarded lunch bags into a roll and uses it for a ball. No strikes have been recorded as yet, but Jaffee is persistent.

The writer of this column was attacked by "Bull" Boyer and "Ocey" Dry last week because of a little insertion we had in the column concerning the two lads. What is more the attack was not merely verbal, the two ruffians set upon the poor columnist in a physical fashion and about half the freshman class stood by and cheered them on. We are contemplating having the duo arrested for "aggravated assault and battery with malice aforethought and intent to kill."

Hear Rev. Williams On Divine Intimacy

Vesper Speaker Pleads for Closer Relationship to God

Declaring that most people live in "the vestibule of religion" because they haven't gone into the heart of Christianity, the Rev. Walter L. Williams, pastor of Friedens Lutheran church, last Sunday afternoon preached on the theme, "Divine Intimacy" at the community vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel. The Lenten season, he said, calls on us to go from the vestibule into the sanctuary of closer intimacy and deeper fellowship with Christ. The Rev. Mr. Williams said that in the present concepts of religion there is not enough testimony on the real pleasures of Christianity. True discipleship, he said, demands knowing Christ intimately.

To know Christ, the clergyman said, means to know God, to know Jesus both as the saviour of the world and as a personal saviour, and to catch a new vision of life.

The church, he said, has scored its greatest triumphs in its darkest hours but, to score those triumphs, it must stand firm and preach the gospel of Christ as the hope of the world and must have in its membership men and women who know and understand and live Christ's way of life.

The service was in charge of the Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, the Rev. Russell Stine and the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch.

Show Photographs In Library Exhibit

Rare Examples Have Skillful Lighting Effects, Perspective

An interesting and unique exhibition of photography is now being shown in the lobby of the library. The photographs come from the White studios in New York City and have been loaned to the college by Dr. Howland, head of the Fine Arts Department of Lehigh University where the exhibition was recently held.

These photographs are rare examples showing many unusual subjects with skillful lighting effects and clever perspective; for example, the mast of a ship taken from below, looking upwards; the pipes and pedals of a pipe organ; a pair of old shoes and a shaving brush and razor, as well as some picturesque indoor scenes and shadow pictures.

In past exhibits the pictures have proven of real value to students interested in photography. Due to lack of space all of the photographs are unable to be shown but anyone interested in seeing them can do so by contacting Miss Helen Richards, assistant librarian.

Varsity Nine Will Open 1936 Season Against Lafayette Tossers At Easton; First Home Tilt With Temple April 26

Lebanon Valley Only New Team on Schedule Although Wet Grounds Caused Postponement of Drexel Engagement in 1935

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE NOT DECIDED ON COACH

After several weeks of doubt as to whether or not baseball would be played here this spring, the college athletic committee has taken a favorable attitude toward the continuance of the sport and has announced a schedule of ten games for the Cardinal and Gray tossers.

Five of the tilts are to be played on the local diamond while the other five will be away from home. One new team, Lebanon Valley, appears on the 1936 card to take the place of Swarthmore which has been dropped. The renewal of baseball relations with the Annville school will be made on Saturday afternoon, May 16, when the "Flying Dutchmen" come here to meet the Mules. The Lebanon team has not been encountered on the diamond since 1927.

Drexel is also another team to be met for the first time in a number of years although the Philadelphia club was scheduled to meet the local nine last spring. Rain and wet grounds caused the postponement of this game in 1935 as happened with the Penn State engagement. The Nittany Lions are to be met again this year at State College on May 27.

Just when practice for this year's nine will begin and who will coach the team are matters yet to be decided by the athletic committee. Members of the board would not say this week who would be in charge and until this is definitely known the opening date for workouts will be unannounced.

Question Of Coach Remains Undecided

Expect New Mentor to Be Announced Within Next Week

The all-important question as to who will be Muhlenberg's new athletic coach still remains problematical.

Committee action was expected last week but did not materialize. The decision will have to be made in the very near future, however, because of the necessity of naming a director for the spring football practice.

The committee has remained quiet on the situation but campus conversation has centered for the past few weeks on the probabilities of the new coach.

The only fact known is that Coach Utz has another year to run on his present contract.

Mule Courtmen Will Meet St. Thomas Five

The St. Thomas charity basketball game originally scheduled for last Friday night, was postponed because of flood conditions in Wilkes-Barre and will be played tonight.

The contest which stacks the Muhlenberg quintet against the St. Thomas five of Scranton, is being played for the benefit of the Lion's Club Scholarship Fund, established to aid needy students. The tilt will be the last appearance of both teams for the season.

It's No Mistake

New York (ACP) Two slang phrases of the hour—"Oh, yeah?" and "He can take it"—were lauded by Robert Gordon Anderson, author and newspaperman, in a recent address to Hunter college students.

"Oh, yeah?" is not ridiculous, "Anderson said. "It is tragic in its implications. It is as eloquent of world weariness as the bitterest cry of the disillusioned from Ecclesiastes down to Dreiser and Lewis.

"It bristles with challenge, as the young men cry: 'Why have you slain our illusions?'

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste—"A LIGHT SMOKE."

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Varsity Debaters Meet With Success In Week's Schedule

Win Dual Meet from Susquehanna; Split In Another With Dickinson

ARGUE SUPREME COURT QUESTION BEFORE CLUB

Three victories against one defeat was the record established last week by the varsity debate squad while a fifth engagement was a non-decision affair.

The question used for debate throughout the week was: "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

Invading the campus of Susquehanna University last Tuesday evening, the negative team, composed of John Stump and Israel Yost, defeated Susquehanna's affirmative by the unanimous decision of three judges. James Coyne and Alvin Butz, affirmative speakers, won the second half of the dual meet here the same evening with the Selinsgrove negative squad.

Wednesday evening saw the local team engaging in another dual meet with Dickinson college. The Muhlenberg negative team scored a victory over the affirmative speakers in a debate held in the assembly room of the administration building. Critic judge for the evening was Prof. Woodrow DeLawter of the Allentown Prep school.

The only loss of the week was suffered at Carlisle when James Coyne and Alvin Butz, affirmative speakers for 'Berg, were defeated by Dickinson's negative squad composed of W. C. McCamant and R. McK. Glass. This was a 2 to 1 decision.

The one non-decision meet was held last Thursday evening with Wagner college from Long Island. The negative team of John Stump and Israel Yost spoke for Muhlenberg, the affair being held on the Senior Class Head Names Committees

Members Look Forward to Commencement Week Activities

Senior class members saw shadows cast by coming events last Friday morning when President Charles H. Kline, Jr., announced the committees to arrange for Commencement Week and to choose a suitable parting gift for the college.

The 1936 boys were made more jubilant when Treasurer Donald A. Hausman reported the treasurer has been swelled to $162.14 as the result of Clara accounts collected amounting to $75.29. When outstanding class dues of $33.50 are collected the seniors will have a fund of nearly $200.

The committees appointed last week are:

Class Day—Donald A. Hausman, Henry C. Wagner, Julius J. Kish, Morton Sher, Karl Lehr, Walter M. Abele, and Louis Varichio.

Class Gift—Clarence H. Ritter, Earl A. Koch, Theodore L. Fischer, Alfred Geschel, and Edward T. Horn, Jr.

Announcements—Bernard Blackman, Albert P. Herzenberg, Joseph S. Schantz, and Joseph Keiper.

The tentative date set for the class clam-bake is May 27, but the place is yet to be decided. Members of the committee arranging for this event are: Leonard Hodgkinson, James Turrell, George Koehler, David T. Smith, David Booth, and Warren Schlegel.

VERDI'S OPERA SCORES FOR COLLEGE LIBRARY

Musical scores of Verdi's opera "La Traviata" have been loaned to the college library for use by students who anticipate attending the performance when it is given in this city next month. The presentation will take place Friday, April 24, at the Lyric theater on North Sixth street.

Keep Off Campus

With the soft condition of the campus caused by the thawing of the ground this spring, Dean Robert C. Horn calls the attention of all students to rules 4 and 5 of Article VI of the Student Body by-laws to the constitution.

Rule 4—Cutting the front campus is forbidden at all times.

Rule 5—Cutting the rear campus shall be prohibited from February 15 to April 15 inclusive.

The students are also requested to refrain from the playing of all sports on the campus until after the 15th of next month.

M.C.A. Plans Dance In College Library

Morton Towle's Orchestra to Play for Affair April 17

The first student dance on the campus this year is being planned for Friday evening, April 17, by the Muhlenberg Christian Association. The social affair that night is to be held on the third floor of the college library.

An announcement made several weeks ago stated tentative arrangements to hold the dance in the Commons, but the library has been decided upon as more suitable for the occasion.

The M. C. A. committee, headed by Frederick Gregorius '37, has secured the services of Morton Towle's orchestra of this city, for the evening. Admission to the dance will be made upon the presentation of a student athletic ticket. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Other members serving on the committee with Mr. Gregorius are Alvin Roy, Norton Behney, and Francis Knouss.

Definite plans have also been made for the M. C. A. Cabinet to hold its annual retreat this spring at Paradise Falls. The date for this affair will be announced following the next meeting on April 20.

College Choir To Appear At Denver

Special Program to be Given There by Choristers Friday Night

An innovation to the programs being given this semester by the college choir will be made Friday evening when the choristers, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, will present a concert in the Denver High school auditorium in Lancaster county.

A special program requiring one full hour for its presentation has been arranged by Dr. Marks. Both a capella and accompanied numbers are to be sung by the choir while Richard G. Miller '36, will be heard in two tenor solos.

The Denver program is being sponsored by the Young Women's Bible class of St. John's Lutheran church of that place. Pastor of the congregation is the Rev. Wallace R. Knerr, Muhlenberg graduate in 1913.

No vesper program has been planned for the musicians on next

More than half of this number are preparing for teaching, medicine, or the ministry which professions are the three first selections of students according to registration. Fifty-four are still undecided.

The new figures reveal 96 registered for teaching, a decrease of 4 below the previous enrollment. Medicine has shown an increase of one, while the number of theological students has dropped from 76 to 63. The professions of law and

J. Middleton Murry Speaks on Today's Assembly Program

Noted Author, Lecturer to Tell of Shakespeare's Writing

OUTSTANDING FOR WORK IN LITERARY FIELDS

Muhlenberg students and faculty members are looking forward to today's assembly program as one of the best of the year when J. Middleton Murry, English author, critic, and lecturer, will appear in the Science Hall auditorium this morning at 11 o'clock to speak on the subject "Shakespeare's Greatest Play".

Middleton Murry, now in his middle forties, is a remarkably brilliant man, who occupies a somewhat isolated position in the literary world. He made a name for himself as a student at Christ's hospital and at Oxford, to which he won various scholarships. "Through them," he says, "I was able to escape from the depressive corner of South London, where I was born."

As the husband of Katherine Mansfield, and the friend of D. H. Lawrence, (Murry is the "Dear M.M." of so many of Lawrence's letters) he is particularly well known in the literary world. During many years preceding Lawrence's death, the two were most intimate friends, and critics of one another's work.

Since founding a literary magazine at Oxford, where he attended Brasenose college, Murry has been an important figure in English letters. By the time the war ended, he held a prominent position in the world of literary criticism. His reputation was chiefly gained through his work for the Times and the Nation, and later, the magazine "Athenaeum" which he edited. Mr. Murry has described the "Athenaeum" as "the leading 'high-brow' journal of the time." It expired, however, in the course of time, and Murry then left Eng-

Julian Named Coach as Utz Resigns After Three Years

Former Bucknell Star Will Direct Muhlenberg Athletics

SPRING GRID PRACTICE TO START THIS MONTH

A new athletic regime will begin for Muhlenberg this month when Alvin F. "Doggie" Julian, prominently known coach, comes here on Monday to lead the destinies of Cardinal and Gray teams for the next year.

Simultaneous with the announcement last week of Coach Utz's resignation as coach, the college athletic committee issued the statement that Julian had been given a one-year contract to coach the three major sports of football, basketball, and baseball.

The new mentor is planning to move to Allentown on Saturday from Ashland where for three years he was athletic coach of the high school. With his family he will reside in this city at 430 North Twenty-second street.

His duties this spring, will consist only of directing football practice while other coaches will be employed for baseball and track.

Successful Career

Julian, after a five-year interim, returns to college coaching next fall with an unusual and versatile background of success in sports.

Four Students In Chimes Club Play

Mask and Dagger Players in Cedar Crest Show This Week

Four Muhlenberg students will appear in the Cedar Crest's Chimes club play to be given tomorrow night and Friday in the Civic Little theater of this city.

Lacking men to cast in the masculine roles of Phillip Barry's "You and I" the Chimes club, headed by Evelyn A. Brong, called upon Muhlenberg and the Mask and Dagger Dramatic club supplied its talented thespians to aid in the production.

Members of the Chimes club in the cast include Ruth Bigelow of Maplewood, N. J.; Dorothy Gingrich, Pottstown and Ruth Parmet of this city. The local players are Joseph Schantz, William Pfeifer, Robert Schenck and Paul Heffner.

The play is directed by Miss Agnes Howe, drama instructor at Cedar Crest.

Students wishing to attend the performance may secure tickets from Mrs. Florence Keller or from any member of the cast for 50 cents.

"Johnny" to Finish Services With Cage Game Tomorrow

WILL COMPLETE WORK FOR MASTER'S DEGREE

John L. Utz has resigned his position as head coach of the Cardinal and Gray athletic teams.

Ever since the close of the disastrous football season last fall, rumors have been afloat that Johnny would not return to the campus next year as head coach. With the conclusion of another poor season in basketball the rumors assumed more definite proportions, but Utz had planned to hold off his resignation until the cage game was played with St. Thomas.

When this post-season charity tilt was twice called off due to flood conditions at Wilkes-Barre, Utz came out with his statement. Although another year remains of Utz's contract to coach here, a satisfactory arrangement has been

English Head Speaks To Alpha Kappa Alpha

Members of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national philosophical fraternity, had as their guest speaker last Thursday evening Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, who spoke on "The Origin of Languages". The club met at the home of the Rev. Russell W. Stine, who served refreshments following the meeting.

The fraternity will convene again on Thursday night, April 2, the speaker to be Dr. James Edgar Swain, professor of history. His subject will be "The Philosophy of History".

Raging Susquehanna Holds Students in Stricken Area

That "the longest way around is the shortest way home" may be true in some cases, but you will have a hard time convincing six Muhlenberg students that the old adage holds any weight.

When the six students left the campus last Wednesday afternoon they had little forethought of the predicament they would meet before returning to Allentown the following day.

Three members of the party caught in the flood area at Harrisburg were members of Muhlenberg's debate squad who were scheduled to meet Dickinson at Carlisle on Wednesday evening. Alvin H. Butz and Herman Heim, riding with James Coyne in the

Forensic Teams Have Debate Friday Night

Two forensic tilts are scheduled for the varsity debate squad within the next week. Friday evening of this week the affirmative speakers meet the negative team of the Stroudsburg State Teachers' College on the latter's campus. The question will be "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

The Supreme Court argument will again be used next Tuesday night when the Gettysburg negative speakers come here to meet Muhlenberg's affirmative team. Two speakers will be used by the teams in each of the debates.

College Band Plays On Radio Tonight

Musicians to Present Concert Over WCBA at 8 O'clock

Following close upon its spring concert given last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium, the college band will again be heard this week when the musicians stage a radio broadcast to-night from 8 to 8:30 o'clock.

For this half-hour concert the band, under the direction of Prof. Henry A. Soltys, will be assembled in the display room of the large hall at 943 Hamilton street and will be the main feature of the regular Wednesday night American Legion Post program.

Broadcasts over Allentown's station WCBA are being made from this building every day this week in connection with the Kitchen Style Show being held at that place. The room is located on the east side of the Rialto theater.

Dr. Carl W. Boyer, professor of education, regular announcer for the Legion Post programs each week, will again be in charge of tonight's broadcast.

Tentative arrangements are being made for a broadcast this spring over radio station WCAU in Philadelphia.

Officers of the band are as follows: Prof. Henry A. Soltys, bandmaster; Dr. George H. Brandes, faculty adviser; Robert H. Peters, student director; Rollin G. Shaffer, drum major; Charles M. Kern, assistant student director; Homer A. Yiengst, librarian.

M. C. A. Opens Drive Here Tomorrow for Church Missions

A campaign, sponsored nationally by the Lutheran Student Association of America, will be started on the local campus tomorrow by the Muhlenberg Christian Association to raise a fund for Lutheran missionaries to Ukraine.

The M. C. A. organization is to conduct the campaign here for a period of one week during which time the members will attempt to raise the sum of $15.

One member from each of the four classes has been named to College To Sponsor Sub-Freshman Day Program April 25

Invitations Now Being Sent to Students in 250 High Schools

BASEBALL GAME WITH TEMPLE IN AFTERNOON

Invitations have been extended to students in 250 high schools in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey in anticipation of Muhlenberg's third annual sub-freshman day program to be held here Saturday, April 25.

Included on the big program of events being arranged by Registrar Benfer will be a student dramatic production, concerts by the college choir and band, class room demonstrations, library exhibits, and a tour of all the campus buildings.

In an effort to bring to the campus that day the largest group of prospective students since the start of sub-freshman activity here three years ago, the college Registrar has sent posters and placards to high schools throughout the three states named above and will forward special information about Muhlenberg to all seniors when student lists are returned from the scholastic institutions.

In addition to this advance publicity, the spring number of the alumni quarterly bulletin will also widely advertise the event.

One of the main attractions on the program next month will come in the afternoon when Temple University's baseball team will meet the Cardinal and Gray nine on the local diamond.

Last spring's entertainment for the student gathering was marred somewhat by a steady rain which fell throughout the day, resulting in the Muhlenberg-Drexel game being cancelled altogether. With more favorable weather conditions prevailing this year, the college hopes to stage an even bigger program than was planned last May.

FRESHMAN CLASS WILL MEET TOMORROW AT 11

The decision as to whether the freshman class is to hold a banquet a dance, or both will most likely be made tomorrow morning when the first-year men are to hold a meeting in the Science Hall auditorium at 11 o'clock. Emmanuel Hoover, president of the group, urges all frosh to attend the meeting.

A. K. A. Will Award Philosophy Prizes

National Winner to Receive Cup at Convention Next Month

Rules and regulations governing the philosophical essays to be submitted next month for the Alpha Kappa Alpha awards have been announced by the committee in charge of the work.

Definite plans for the contest were formulated this month at a meeting of Alpha chapter, the local fraternity group. Prizes of $10 each are to be offered for the best essay submitted by each of the four colleges which at present comprise the national fraternity.

From this group of writings another selection will be made whereby the best paper from all four schools will be chosen. The colleges entering are Moravian, Gettysburg, Cedar Crest, and Muhlenberg.

The essays are to be written upon the subject "The Practical Value of Philosophy" and are to contain a minimum of 3500 words. To that chapter submitting the best paper a silver-loving cup will be awarded, permanent possession of which may be had by winning the trophy three consecutive times.

All papers must be received by Miss Mary Hurdell, of Cedar Crest, on or before April 24. The winners will probably be made known when the national convention meets in this city on Wednesday, April 29, at the Hotel Traylor on Hamilton street.

Muhlenberg's president, Dr. John A. W. Haas, is national vice-president of Alpha Kappa Alpha.

A New Leader Comes

To Muhlenberg's campus this month will come a new coach to guide the athletic destinies of the college for the next year.

Probably no other leader of sports here has received a greater welcome than awaits Alvin Julian, better known as "Doggie", when he sets foot upon the campus next Monday to take charge of spring football practice, his first official duty.

The new mentor comes here with a fine record behind him in college, professional, and high school athletics. Nor has his success been due to any large extent in having a wealth of material with which to work. His eleven which won the state scholastic football title last fall represented one of the smallest high schools in Pennsylvania.

Upon a closer examination of his successful records is found his ability to handle players and an equal ability to make his boys love the game in which they are competing. Coupled with this quality of leadership are sincerity, loyalty, and firmness.

Three coaches have guided Cardinal and Gray teams within the past four years. The failure of two of these men was due to various circumstances, some their own misjudgments of which all persons are guilty, while other hindrances came from outside sources.

It is "Doggie" Julian to whom we look to cope equally with all problems. He has done it before with marked success and he will know when to apply the "iron hand" in the future.

Clergymen, educators, and sportsmen alike have termed Muhlenberg's new coach a "gentleman and a fine fellow who knows how to play fair."

"Weekly" Not Napping

When city papers appeared last Wednesday morning carrying the news of Julian's appointment as athletic coach here, many students expected to read the news in the college paper which was issued that same day. When the story did not appear in the Weekly these students expressed no little surprise over the situation.

The editorial staff of the paper feels some explanation is due for not having the details in print.

Throughout the whole process of planning a new athletic set-up for Muhlenberg, members of the college athletic committee requested the student paper to await word from them before publishing any kind of stories. Ever since last fall the Weekly has cooperated with the athletic board in this matter.

Though the Weekly had been given the story of a new coach and Utz's resignation the week previous to its publication, the committee still asked the college paper to wait until given official notice to release the story.

When the release appeared in other city papers last week and the Weekly had not been told to go ahead, athletic committee members denied they had given out any story for publication even though all papers stated that the news had been given officially by the board members.

Neither Utz's resignation nor Julian's contract had reached the group when newspapers broke the story last Wednesday. Since the college paper was sent to press a day ahead of the publication date, it was impossible at the last minute to reprint the edition.

The committee members have expressed gratitude to the editorial staff in complying with their wishes not to release the story until official word came from them.

College Placement

Reports from large universities point to greater possibilities of employment for graduates than at any time since 1930. This condition, long hoped for, will undoubtedly reflect itself in the smaller collegiate institutions also. It is welcome news to both college students and those contemplating enrollment next year.

The inability of college graduates to secure positions the past six years has caused many to question the value of a college education and has consequently been a substantial cause for the drop in enrollments. A considerable stimulation in the employment of college men will do much to eradicate this objection.

Small institutions often maintain higher scholastic standards and afford better training than the factory-type of university. Yet their graduates are handicapped in comparison to the graduate of a large university in respect to gaining employment due to the lack of an active placement bureau. If college men are to be offered the opportunities they deserve, a current knowledge of available employment and contact with personnel directors are necessary. Since the day is yet distant when commencement day will find the halls crowded with employers again, all colleges, large and small, should make provisions for an effective placement bureau.

CAMPUS CAMERA

CAMPUS CHATTER

Congratulations are in order for Charlie Mauch. He is the first Muhlenberg student this year who has received a proposal from a girl. The momentous document arrived last week by mail. The girl makes no bones about the matter but comes out right bold with the offer, yes sir. Next question: "Will you accept, Charlie?"

It looked like the beginning of spring football training when "Scraper" Farrell and some of the boys were pushing "Ed" Smith's car to the dorms, after said car had flooded.

THE "WRECK HALL"

What could be sweeter or more divine,
When for a mere two hours you wait in line,
Only to find that the balls are shot,
The sticks are cracked, the table is rot,
The rack is nowhere to be found,
The chalk is dust in a tiny mound,
The table rolls like the briny sea,
While you fret in muted agony,
So away, away, to a game of checks,
Only to find still greater wrecks,
Checkers strewn all over the floor,
'Neath table or case, behind each door,
When finally you have them all in line,
There are more of the red than the other kind,
The chairs are warped and woefully bent,
Missing of legs and backs that have went,
But stay, my friend, why mumble so,
After all there's yet a radio,
Static, static, a feeble groan,
That is this radio's melodious tone,
No music, checks, or game of French,
There's still a snooze on the "Wreck" hall bench,
Egad! man, what wobbles so,
I guess it's home for sleep I'll go,
So, disregarding all this fazz,
The moral of my story is,
Mid classroom, library and glistening walls,
Be it ever so humble, I'll take the "wreck" hall.

Joe McGinley has a beauty he has been telling the boys. He says that as he and his girl were riding in a car he casually mentioned the fact that kissing was the language of love. He also informs that the girl then asked, "Why don't you say something?" Ah yes, this leap year stuff!

It is reported that Feinberg was kicked out of a downtown theatre because he yelled too loudly that he wanted to see Mickey Mouse.

The prize boner this week takes the cup off the campus. It is hereby awarded to the girl who accompanied Fritz Loris on a date last week. It seems that the boys and girls were discussing baseball in general. This particular friend of Loris's after listening silently for a while, popped up, "I believe that the Connecticut Yankees are going to start their spring practice soon, aren't they?"

FORMER BUCKNELL STAR NAMED ATHLETIC COACH

His great record reached a new peak last fall when he coached Ashland High school to the state scholastic football championship. In the nine years he tutored football teams in collegiate, scholastic and professional football, he achieved 93 victories against 30 defeats and five ties for the high winning average of .756.

He launched his coaching career at Schuylkill College, now Albright College, in 1925, and remained there six years, during which the Lions gained 35 triumphs against 17 defeats and two ties. He concluded his term there in 1930 with his best year in collegiate competition.

That fall the Lions, then representing Albright College, startled the nation by holding to a tie a Western Maryland eleven that had been undefeated in 22 successive games and was then the only remaining unbeaten, untied machine in the east. He won seven games, lost one and tied one just before he turned in his resignation to Albright College in that final season.

Goes to Ashland

He was out of the coaching game the following two years, then accepted a post at Ashland High school. His record there over the past three years has been most remarkable with 32 victories and only three defeats. Last fall he led Ashland through an undefeated season and captured the state schoolboy crown when his youngsters defeated Altoona High, 6 to 2, in the P. I. A. A. finals at Altoona. Since then he has been deluged with offers from other schools. He turned down a chance to become the assistant football coach at George Washington university.

Meanwhile the new Muhlenberg mentor has been very successful as a coach of professional football and only last fall led the Reading Keys to claim the mythical independent championship of Pennsylvania. The Keys, under his handling, finally broke the domination of the Shenandoah Presidents, who had been considered the best independent pro eleven in the state for half a dozen years. He coached the Keys for three years and produced a record of 26 victories, 10 losses and three ties. Julian also coached the East Ends, a Reading amateur team, two seasons.

Starred at Reading High Julian's outstanding sports career started at Reading High school where he was a varsity performer in four different forms of athletics. As an athlete, he gained his greatest distinction at Bucknell College when given honorable mention by the late Walter Camp in his All-American selections. He played end in high school and college football and, after graduation, performed for two seasons with the famous Pottsville Maroons, considered the national professional champions. Julian also won varsity letters at Bucknell in basketball and baseball.

BUSY SEASON FOR TENNIS, TRACK TEAMS

Netmen Have Thirteen Matches Listed For April And May; Cinder Artists To Compete In Relay Carnival April 25

Three Other Field Meets on Schedule for Mule Trackmen

NET TEAM TO PLAY ON OAKMONT CLUB COURTS

A full program of spring sports was assured the college this year with the announcement recently of the 1936 tennis and track schedules. Thirteen tennis matches, four track and field meets, a 10-game baseball schedule, along with football practice will produce plenty of activity on the campus within the next two months.

Seven of the net matches will be played on foreign courts while the remaining six are to be staged at the Oakmont tennis club as home engagements.

The racquetballers, coached by Dr. John V. Shankweiler, open their season Friday, April 10, playing Haverford on the latter's courts. Other schools to be met next month include Lehigh, Albright, Ursinus, Lebanon Valley, and Lafayette. During May the netmen team up with Moravian, Franklin and Marshall, Swarthmore, Temple, Dickinson, Villanova, and Gettysburg.

For all trips away from home, the tennis team will travel in two seven-passenger taxicabs which are being used for the first time this season.

Playing manager of the squad this spring will be Albert Herzenberg '36, with his assistant being Dean Zweier '37.

Four Track Meets

Turning to the program arranged for the track and field artists are found four meets, three of which will be run off in May. The Mules will compete in their first meet at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival in Philadelphia on April 25.

The following Friday, May 1, the first home meet in several years will find St. Joseph's, of Philadelphia, opposing the Cardinal and Gray on the local track. May 9 will find a full team representing 'Berg at the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association track and field meet to be held at Dickinson. The Mules will close their season with entries in the Middle Atlantic States track and field meet to be held May 16 on as yet an unknown campus.

In conjunction with the schedule the announcement was also made that Richard Heckman '37 had been elected as the 1936 varsity track manager.

Last year marked the return of Muhlenberg to intercollegiate track and field competition with a full team. For several years before the Cardinal and Gray had only been represented by a few men who entered association meets. Last season, however, a full team was organized which competed in a dual meet at St. Joseph's college, Philadelphia; a triangular meet at Haverford, which also included Juniata; the Central Pennsylvania track and field meet, at Lancaster; and the Middle Atlantic championships, at Lehigh.

Coach Utz came to Muhlenberg in the spring of 1933 to succeed George R. Holstrom '23, and directed football practice of that semester. In the fall with Al Kreuz, as assistant coach, Alan Young as freshman coach, the varsity team coached by Utz won six games and lost three, beating among other teams Lehigh and Penn State.

The basketball team and the baseball team of 1933-34 were equally successful. On the basis of the records of the three major sport teams, Coach Utz who held a one-year contract, was given a three-year contract in the spring of 1934.

Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Theta lead the race at present with 35 points each although the Phi Kappa Tau and Non-Fraternity fives show a better record with no defeats, but have played one less game.

For the second consecutive week Phi Epsilon Pi forfeited a cage game, this time to the Grays, a non-fraternity team. The tilt was scheduled for last Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. As a result the Grays were handed 10 easy points while 25 were deducted from the Phieps who now have a 35-point deficit to overcome.

receive donations for this work from their respective classmen. These students are Walter Guigley, senior; Israel A. S. Yost, junior; Luther Behler, sophomore; Russell Zimmerman, freshman.

To further enlighten student bodies at American colleges and universities of the missionary activities in Ukraine, the National Council of the Lutheran Student Association has prepared pamphlets telling how thousands of persons in that district are turning to the Lutheran church for pastors and funds needed to organize congregations.

Through the money thus raised the European country is preparing men for the ministry in an effort to further Christianize its growing population.

Seniors of Alpha Epsilon Circle Eligible for Awards

Members of the senior class affiliated with Alpha Epsilon Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity, have the opportunity to apply for scholarship awards if they plan to continue their college career after graduation here in June.

In data sent last week to the secretary of Alpha Epsilon Circle by Prof. J. G. Quick, of the University of Pittsburgh, the conditions under which the scholarships will be awarded are explained in full.

Applications for all such scholarships are to be returned to Prof. Quick by April 20.

An applicant must be a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and a senior regularly enrolled for a bachelor's degree at Muhlenberg. He must be prepared to enter upon a definite course of graduate study at any recognized institution of learning in the United States or some other country, beginning in the fall after the award has been announced. There are no restrictions as to the number of applicants from any one Circle.

Formal application blanks with additional information can be secured from Richard G. Miller, secretary of the local Circle of O. D. K. At the present time eleven seniors are eligible to apply for the awards on Muhlenberg's campus.

Dr. S. M. Uhler Speaks To Pre-Medical Club

Speaking on the subject, "Preparation for a Medical Career," Dr. S. Mann Uhler, Allentown physician, addressed the college Pre-medical society last Wednesday evening in the Science building.

Dr. Uhler asserted that knowledge of science and art, experience, and personality were the three requisites for the prospective doctor.

Plans were made at the business meeting, presided over by Edward T. Horn, Jr., to visit the Allentown State hospital on April 1. Prospective members of the freshman class were the guests of the Pre-medicos.

Four Schools Attend Lehigh Public Forum

George S. Boyer, junior class member, represented Muhlenberg at a public forum held last Wednesday evening in Packer auditorium, at Lehigh university. The subject discussed was that of the Supreme Court of the United States and various proposals now being advanced to limit the power of that body.

The general background of the subject was presented by the Lehigh speaker. The Lafayette representative argued both sides of the proposal to require the court to have a two-thirds vote on declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional. The student from Rutgers discussed the advisability of leaving decisions as to the constitutionality of congressional legislation to a referendum of the people. The proposal of electing justices to the court for ten-year terms was argued by Mr. Boyer. A discussion on the subject from the floor followed the formal presentations.

Arrange New Date For Charity Game

Mule Quintet Will Conclude Basketball Season Tomorrow

For the third time the college basketball team was frustrated last Saturday in its effort to wind up the 1936 cage season.

Friday, the 13th of this month, was the date set for the post-season charity tilt with St. Thomas college of Scranton. Perhaps the date had something to do with the unlucky trend of events since three times the game was postponed due to high water and flood conditions in Wilkes-Barre where the teams are to play.

The next date, which might almost be called a tentative one, is tomorrow night. If flood victims, driven from their homes by the high water, are removed from the armory at Wilkes-Barre by tomorrow, the game is certain to be played.

Coach Utz held the final workouts of the season this week and has announced his starting line-up to include Laing and Kern at forwards, Thomas at center, with Grossman and Keleher at the guard positions.

Not since 1932 has a Cardinal and Gray basketball team met St. Thomas on the wooden floor. That year Coach Holstrom's five lost to the Tomcats in a game at Scranton.

DEAN HORN SPEAKS AT MEETING IN BETHLEHEM

Dean Robert C. Horn was one of the speakers at the March meeting of the Lehigh Valley Classical League held the 14th of this month at the Moravian College for Women in Bethlehem. Dean Horn spoke on "Provisioning the Greeks at Troy".

Other numbers on the program included a dramatization of "The Bore" by four Cedar Crest students and an illustrated lecture by Dr. A. S. Cooley of the Moravian school.

J. MIDDLETON MURRY IN ASSEMBLY TODAY land to take his invalid wife abroad in the hope that her recovery might be effected. When Katherine Mansfield died in 1923, Murry back once more in England, founded the periodical "Adelphi" and is still editing it at the present time.

Middleton Murry's work is decidedly that of an intellectual. Coincidental with the development of his literary work, has come the development of a very clear and well determined philosophy which Mr. Murry asserts is essential to the mental life of a sound-minded critic. Among his philosophical works two of the best known are "The Evolution of an Intellectual" and "Jesus, Man of Genius", both explanatory of Murry's concept of concrete human values, and the necessity of personal evolution as a result of what he terms "life-exploration". Most popular of his critical writings are "Dostoevski", "Aspects of Literature", "Keats and Shakespeare", "Countries of the Mind", "The Things We Are" and "Still Life" are his two novels.

While he is not particularly fond of reminiscences of the famous people, he numbers among his friends, such as Thomas Hardy, Arnold Bennett, H. G. Wells, Virginia Woolf, T. S. Eliot, John Galsworthy, and a legion of others. Mr. Murry is able to speak with authority and understanding of most of the great figures in modern English letters. He has much of importance to say regarding D. H. Lawrence, one of his closest friends, who was understood better, perhaps, by Murry than by any other critic or acquaintance.

As a speaker Mr. Murry has won a notable reputation. He was appointed Clark lecturer at Cambridge University in 1924. All of his lectures abroad have been eminently successful, famous for their careful preparation and the broad range of the interesting material he presents.

43 Players Report To "Doggie" Julian For Grid Practice

New Mentor to Drill Large Squad for Six Weeks

TWENTY-TWO FRESHMEN SWELL VARSITY RANKS

A promising and enthusiastic squad of forty-three football players greeted Head Coach Alvin "Doggie" Julian on Monday afternoon when the new Cardinal and Gray mentor took over his official duties here.

The squad is one of the largest in Muhlenberg's history and is a decided boost over that of last fall when Johnny Utz, recently resigned, had but twenty-nine men to start off the season. Add to this the fact that only six of last year's varsity will be graduated in June and you have a bright outlook for September of 1936.

Julian's contract required him to start spring drills today, but "Doggie" was so anxious to get on the job that he moved to Allentown last Saturday and got a two-day jump on his agreement. This extra time will be put to good use since the Easter recess breaks into the middle of the training period for the gridmen.

Although no assistant coach has been named, and probably won't be until next fall, Coach Julian has secured the service of Charles Evanovsky, last year's frosh leader, to assist him in the work for the next six weeks.

For the first week Julian will devote the practices to fundamentals and the slight line and back-field shifts which he has used so successfully in past years.

Of the forty-three uniforms that were issued last week, twenty-two went to members of last season's freshman eleven. Every member of last year's varsity squad also checked in with Trainer Renwick for equipment.

The varsity lettermen on hand Monday for duty were Eddie "Scrappier" Farrell, William Laing, backs; Grant Brown, Evan Bartleson, ends; Lloyd Zimmerman, Milton Bloom, tackles; Henry Satsky, guard; Art Green, center, and Tom Kennedy, center. Five of those

Lecturer Tells Of Shakespeare's Art

Middleton Murry Describes "Antony and Cleopatra" Drama

The play "Antony and Cleopatra" was declared to be Shakespeare's greatest by J. Middleton Murry, noted English author, critic, and lecturer who spoke during the Wednesday morning assembly period here last week.

The production was not Shakespeare's greatest from the standpoint of impressive on the stage, for this has definitely been proven otherwise, but its style and technique are superior to that of his other plays, the speaker said.

In the scene of Cleopatra and Dolabella, in which the former gives a description of dead Antony, Mr. Murry pointed out that Shakespeare's genius in representing Cleopatra as a child and a woman, a super-human and a human. The triumph of art is revealed in Cleopatra's rejection of reality. The word "royal" plays an important part in this scene. It crams the sense of the super-human into the play; it brings about a conflict between dreams and the actual, between a trance and waking.

Another scene described by Mr. Murry was what he called the last

Mule Gridders May Play Fordham in '37

Muhlenberg and Fordham will likely meet on the gridiron again in the fall of 1937.

Announcement of an invitation coming from the New York school for Muhlenberg to reserve a date for the Rams in 1937 was made this week by members of the college athletic committee. The latter put the matter up to "Doggie" Julian, Cardinal and Gray coach. The new mentor had no objections whatsoever to the game being scheduled.

The Mules under Johnny Utz played Coach Crowley's eleven in New York City in 1933 and returned again last fall for a game at the Polo Grounds.

No date has been set for the 1937 engagement.

Physic Head Says Condition Just Right For Deluge

Criminals may not always get away with a "perfect crime", but to Jupiter Pluvius goes the credit for staging the "perfect storm" this spring. As a result of the deluge millions of damage was done and many lives lost.

It was these circumstances which prompted Dr. Ira F. Zartman, head of the Physics department, to explain the following reasons for the flood to a reporter of The Muhlenberg Weekly.

"The large amount of snow melting in New York and northern Pennsylvania was the basis for this inundation," said Dr. Zartman. "In addition, we have just passed through that period of the year

Bucknell Asks For Fraternity League Cage Loop Position

Lewisburg School Seeks to Become East Penna. Member

It was "winners pay" when Franklin and Marshall college entertained the other six members of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball Conference at the Hotel Brunswick in Lancaster last Saturday.

Since the organization of the cage loop four years ago it has been an annual custom for the team winning the title to act as host for the other schools at the close of the season. Heretofore Gettysburg has always "paid the penalty" for becoming champions, but last month saw Shober Barr's five clinch the toga.

Bucknell university applied for membership in the league and representatives present took the application under consideration before coming to any definite conclusion.

Coach John Shober Barr was presented with the championship trophy for his team's 1936 performance in winning the title.

Henry Bream, of Gettysburg college, was named president, Walter Halas, of Drexel Institute, was elected vice president, and W. J. Stevens, of Drexel, secretary-treasurer.

Snyder Reports Camp Miller Flooded With Slight Damage

Welcome news has come for those students who each spring look forward to attending the summer season at Camp Miller at Shawnee-on-Delaware, conducted annually by the Youth Activities committee of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

In a letter sent within the past week by LeRoi E. Snyder, camp director and Muhlenberg's field secretary, is given a brief description of the high water at Camp Miller and definite assurance that no great damage has resulted in that area. Part of the letter reads as follows:

"The camp at the peak of the flood had about five to six feet of water in the Junior division, and I was certainly afraid that the bunkhouses would be swept away. The Mess Hall and Senior camp did not get more than a good bath. After the water receded, our entire camp was really not damaged with the exception of a huge amount of debris and soil tossed over the campus. It was really something short of a miracle that our Junior cabins were not carried away."

Muhlenberg men have figured prominently in affairs of the camp during the past several years. Last summer nineteen students and alumni of the college were employed there, while sixteen were members of the staff the previous year. Mr. Snyder himself is a member of the class of 1931.

Teams participating will consist of three men each for ping-pong and pool, while four will be entered for pinocle.

Ernest Gamble Trio To Play Today For Assembly Program

Vocal, Instrumental Artists Will Present Varied Concert

MUSICAL COMPANY HAS MADE EUROPEAN TOURS

A musical program by the Ernest Gamble Concert party will be the feature of this morning's assembly program in the Science Hall auditorium.

The concert will bring to Muhlenberg's campus a musical trio which has become an institution in the world of music. It has made fifteen transcontinental tours and is the only American company to tour both Northern Africa and Europe. It has visited the West Indies and Central America five seasons. The programs given by the party range from semi-popular to classical, assuring the average listener of an interesting and educational concert.

The personnel of the trio consists of Ernest Gamble, distinguished basso; Miss Emma Zuern, prima donna soprano; and Miss Verna Leone Page, concert violinist.

Mr. Gamble has achieved a position among the foremost concert singers and has filled over 3000 appointments. His first studies were with Whitney Mockridge, then with Alfred Blume, Henry Wood and Alberto Randegger in London; with the great maestro, Sbriglia, teacher of the brothers De Reszke, Plancon and Nordica, in Paris, and later with Georg Ferguson in Berlin.

Miss Zuern is gifted with a beautiful lyric coloratura soprano voice of exquisite quality and freshness. Her repertoire includes airs from Mozart's "Magic Flute," from "Lakme," "Mignon," and "Don Pasquale."

In the person of Miss Page is one of the few women violinists who has achieved a great popularity with the public. She possesses a rarely precious old Cremona violin made by the master workman, Januarius Gagliano, in the year 1736. Her studies were with Jacobsohn of Chicago, Max Bendix, Alois Trinka and Michael Banner of New York, and with the great Carl Halir of Berlin.

Freshman Class To Dine, But No Dance

President Hoover Names New Committee to Plan Function

To dine or to dance? That was the question—and the freshman class has decided to dine.

At a meeting held several weeks ago the frosh planned to hold a dinner-dance some time this spring. When class finances allowed only funds for one or the other the class held another session last week.

President Emmanuel Hoover explained the situation and asked for a vote on which function the first-year men would prefer. The majority of those present cast their ballot for a banquet.

The date and place for holding the affair will be announced in the near future when a committee has made its report.

Members of the group appointed to make arrangements include: Frank Tracy, chairman; John Dry, Max Maranuk, Anthony Trufolo, and Whitson Seaman.

Dr. Corbiere Speaker For Two Conferences

Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere, professor of romance languages, spoke recently at two meetings held at Easton and in this city.

Using for his topic "The Poetry of the Troubadours", Dr. Corbiere spoke in French to the Easton chapter of L'Alliance Française on Tuesday, March 17, the meeting being held at Lafayette college. He is vice-president of the society.

On the evening of March 23, the professor addressed the Cedar Crest International Club at its dinner-meeting in the Roma restaurant, this city. He spoke on "Rome and the Ruins of the Forum."

Change Members In Mask-Dagger Cast

Two Cedar Crest Students Given Parts for Production

Two changes in the female cast for the Mask and Dagger play to be given next month were announced this week by Joseph L. Schantz, president of the theatrical society.

Miss Irene Thompson and Miss Emily Tweedale, both students at Cedar Crest college, are the new members secured to play in Sir Arthur Pinero's production "His House in Order".

Miss Thompson will take the part of Mlle. Thomé which was to have been played by Miss Myra Bury, while the character Lady Ridgeley, originally assigned to Mrs. Marian Bordner, will be taken by Miss Tweedale. The changes were made necessary when Miss Bury was taken suddenly ill and when Mrs. Bordner changed her residence from this city.

The other two women in the play will be Miss Dorothea Wilker and Miss Irene Peter, both Allentown residents. Ten Muhlenberg students will have male parts.

The play will be given May 7 in the Allentown High school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary of the college.

Students may secure their free ticket from Mrs. Keller at Dr. Wright's office in the Administration building.

LeRoi Snyder Speaks For Theological Club

"Churches today need a definite program to bring young people into the church and to hold them there," said LeRoi Snyder, field secretary of the college, in an address to the Pre-theological club meeting Monday evening in the library.

Mr. Snyder spoke on "Youth Problems the Church Must Face" and pointed out the competition given the Church today by the laboratory man and the craze for educational degrees.

The evening's devotional service was in charge of Charles Harris '39, with a feature of the program being selections sung by a quartet composed of Luther Bealer, William Coleman, Rollin Shaffer, and Herman Heim.

Pre-Medical Club To Visit State Hospital

Under the supervision of Dr. John V. Shankweiler, adviser, the college Pre-medical society will this afternoon make a tour of the Allentown State hospital. Members of the society will leave the campus at 12:45 o'clock and expect to reach the hospital by 1:30 P. M.

Come Early And Avoid The Rush

The Veterans of Future Wars, an organization inaugurated two weeks ago by a serious group of satirists at Princeton, is sweeping the camp of the land. The expressed purpose of the movement is to agitate for the payment by the government of a $1000 bonus to each potential fighter in our next war. Their platform is built around one contention that, inasmuch as the coming war will deprive the most deserving veterans of future wars of their bonus by causing their sudden and complete demise, the bonus must be paid now.

It has also been suggested that free tuition and maintenance of future veterans while at college be demanded, along with peace risk insurance and a reasonable cash allowance in case of injury in civil pursuits. A great quantity and variety of medals will also be requested.

Already the organization has two affiliate chapters. The co-eds have formed an Association of Gold Star Mothers of the Veterans of Future Wars, and declare that they should immediately be sent to Europe to view the future graves of their future sons. And the student publication editors have combined an Association of Foreign Correspondents of Future Wars for the purpose of training its members "in the writing of atrocity stories and garbled war dispatches."

Organizations of this kind, if they maintain active agitation and are launched successfully throughout our colleges, can aid in reminding legislation and the public of the tremendous losses of war, whether won or lost.

The ritual can be comparatively simple. The chapter may rise and observe a minute of silence for America's "future war dead", after which the following new song of the organization "Over Here" should be chanted.

Over Here

"Fall in line—fall in line,
Now's the time—and now's the time,
To collect our bonus
That Franklin D. will loan us,
So we won't fight him over here.

So raise your beers and give three cheers
For the war that's coming to keep us hummin',
And we won't be there, 'til it's over
Over here.

Face about—face about,
Here us shout—hear us shout
For that dear old bonus
Franklin D. will loan us,
And the Gold Star Mothers
Will moan us—over here.

So ship ahoy, soldier boy,
The guns are poppin' to keep things hoppin',
And we'll be here
When they're fighting over there.

The Good And Evil

There is nothing like an emergency to bring out both the best and the worst in human nature.

During the recent flood disasters some sections of the country have been fortunate in witnessing the remarkable demonstration of the best type of qualities—unselfishness, whole-hearted co-operation, splendid philanthropies, and a general spirit of "help others first".

In other areas, however, epidemics of looting have been reported, necessitating the active protection of National Guardsmen to stamp out thievery among flood-wrecked homes.

Probably the worst evil arose in one of the largest Eastern cities where puny criminals resorted to what must be the lowest form of racketeering—the solicitation of funds, ostensibly for flood victims, but actually diverted to the personal use of the conscienceless "confidence men".

What Students Are Thinking

Courses dealing with young people's courtship, engagement and marriage problems should be given a place in the college curriculum, declare students in Lutheran church colleges. That such matters should be discussed frankly in student forums on the college campus was also the opinion expressed by delegates of the Lutheran Students' Union of Norwegian Lutheran Church colleges and nurses' training schools, which met in convention at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, a few weeks ago.

Out of 191 Lutheran college students who answered questionnaires issued in connection with one of the student discussion panels of the convention program, 180 freely admitted that they hope and plan for a home and children of their own. Only seventeen of eighty-eight girls would choose a career in preference to early marriage. More girls than men approve of "dutch" dating (sharing of financial burdens during courtship), and the majority of both sexes insisted that college romances do not interfere to a serious degree with studies.

In listing the qualities they consider most important in their ideal man, the majority of girls in each college marked good looks and athletic ability as of least consideration, while ideals, morality, Christian stand, intelligence and financial stability were ranked high. Companionableness and high ideals were named above vivacity and sex appeal as attributes of the "ideal girl" in the Church colleges. Ninety-three per cent of the young men interviewed stated an emphatic "yes" to the question, "Do you mind if 'your girl' smokes?" Three-fourths of both girls and men reported that they make their love affairs a matter of prayer to God.

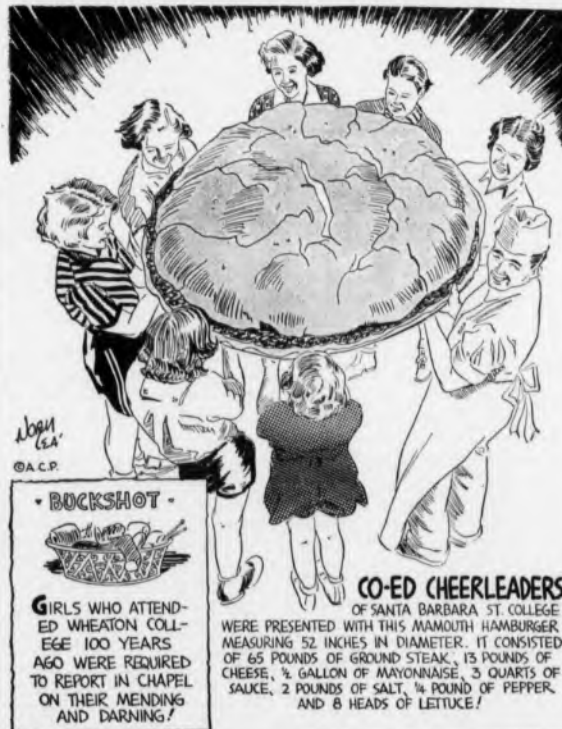

In Retrospect

The American zest for drama has shown itself again with the recent floods. Radio broadcasts have afforded play-by-play descriptions of man's futile attempts to save life and property, and the newspapers have exploited the catastrophe. The economic pursuits of sections of our country have been seriously disrupted with losses of millions of dollars, and scores are dead. The devastating waters have caused a serious loss to society. All this is no credit to a country which prides itself on its technical enlightenment.

Floods of this proportion occur only every two or three decades. In the interim, the voices of a few far-sighted individuals point to the value of preparing for these probable conditions. However, building and preparing for an emergency that might not have to be met for years has little political value, therefore our government undertakes little of this work. Thus today, in the midst of rehabilitation, it must be admitted that if but one-tenth of the millions this flood will cost were used in the application of the science of flood prevention, much of the present widespread devastation would not be with us.

If the floods have taught us anything, it is the need of something more than a dam here and a storage reservoir there. We must think of drainage areas embracing the whole country. Unless this is done, a cyclic recurrence of disaster can be expected. Along with engineering, statesmanship and creative thinking are demanded. What might have been accomplished if only a small part of the hundreds of millions expended on the public works program had been utilized in solving the problems of floods!

Rev. Beck To Deliver Chapel Sermon Sunday

The Rev. Charles G. Beck, pastor of Holy Spirit Church, Reading, will be the guest preacher at the vesper service this Sunday in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel.

The Rev. Mr. Beck is a graduate of Muhlenberg in the class of 1898. While here he was a member of the Euterpean Literary Society, the Franklin Literary Association, the Missionary and Augsburg societies, the press association, and the senior German society.

Upon graduation from the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, in 1901, the Rev. Mr. Beck was appointed pastor of a congregation in Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia. Other parishes which he served include the Church of the Redeemer, Montreal, Canada; and St. Peter's Church, North Wales, Pa. He has been serving his present pastorate since 1921.

CRIMINOLOGY STUDENTS HEAR DONALD V. HOCK

Donald V. Hock '32, addressed the criminology class last Wednesday afternoon in Prof. Bowman's room of the Administration building. Using as his subject "Crime", Mr. Hock related many interesting experiences he had during his four months period as a volunteer lawyer in Philadelphia.

"Criminals, like the poor, will always be with us," he asserted. The speaker placed a great part of the blame for the prodigious crime rate upon the indifference of the church and the inefficient penal institutions.

States sending men this year which were not represented in the enrollment for the last term include Massachusetts, Iowa, and Delaware.

CAMPUS CHATTER

Al Snyder and his companion put their girls in their places last week. The two young men had two young women out on dates. Came the time for the transportation to take place. The car happened to have a rumble seat so the young gentlemen very calmly solved the problem by telling the girls to sit in the rumble seat while they occupied the front seat. Snyder couldn't figure out why he should catch a cold.

Last Wednesday afternoon the dormitory boys decided to put on a little water fight. By the time the fracas was over the arcade and surrounding territory looked like it did a few weeks ago when the melting snow turned the campus into a Venice.

Ostheimer received a free haircut last week in the dorms when several of the boys jumped him, and after having blindfolded him, administered an irregular tonsorial treatment. The result is that Ostheimer now has the collegiate whiffle.

The postal department seemed to be composed of trusting souls when it entrusted the Cedar Crest mail to the Muhlenberg mail boxes last Wednesday. By some mistake the mail from the institution on the other side of the valley was misdirected to our campus.

Paules and Gadek pulled the sympathy stunt last Tuesday afternoon. Paules lay along Liberty street as though injured, resting his head on Gadek's arm, both attempting to attract the attention of passing motorists. P. S.—The attempt failed.

Special flash! Mauch did not accept—so he says.

"Some shot, huh!" remarked "Tee-Dee" Simpson as he bounced a book off Joe Santopoli's head in English Fiction class last Thursday.

The advent of spring has made itself felt on the campus beyond a doubt. Morty Sher had half the student body watching him perform with a few choice dance steps behind the tennis courts on the grass last Thursday. Quite a number of the boys have also been getting colds for themselves by flopping about on their stomachs under shade trees on the back campus.

WHO KNOWS?

Where can a man buy a cap for his knee?
Or a key to the lock of his hair?
Can his eyes be called an academy
Because there are pupils there?
In the crown of his head what gems are found?
Who travels the bridge of his nose?
Can he use when singling the roof of his mouth,
The nails on his hands and his toes?
Can the crook of his elbows be sent to jail?
If so, what did he do?
How does he sharpen his shoulder blades?
I'll be hanged if I know, do you?
Can he sit in the shade of the palms of his hands?
Or beat the drum of his ear?
Does the calf of his leg eat the corn on his toes?
If so, why not grow corn on the ear?

—Author Unknown.

Freshmen Joseph and Windus report that they have a secret language by means of which they are able to converse under the very nose of a professor.

And who made that crack, in the store, the other day that, "Two pints make one caviar"?

Dr. Wright isn't the only faculty member who is being carefully observed by the students. It is reported that Professor Zartman cleared his throat exactly 72 times during a physics lecture last week.

Another familiar phase of Muhlenberg life repeated yearly may be observed between 1 o'clock and the ringing of the 1:15 class bell every Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday in the frosh locker room. At that time there gathers a group of serious-looking and sombre young men to pour over mysterious papers and books with wierd symbols. There are anxious looks and frequent requests for the time of day. Small groups of two and three cluster about one individual who seems to have a powerful paper. As the bell rings they snatch their books, put away the papers, and slowly wend their way through the musty halls to the temple where Dean Horn holds forth with his first year Greek class.

Fraternity Row

PHI KAPPA TAU

High tribute and esteem were paid to Dr. W. H. Shideler, one of the honored founders of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, when fourteen chapters in Eastern Pennsylvania met last Saturday for their annual Founders' Day banquet at the Hotel Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Resident and graduate members attending numbered 180, with the local chapter having fifty-six men present including alumni. Eta won the laurels for having the largest representation of any one chapter. They were followed closely by Alpha Iota chapter, of the University of Pennsylvania, which group acted as hosts along with the fraternity alumni association of Philadelphia.

Three of the five speakers for the evening were also Eta men including Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Past Grand President; Leonard M. Utz '19, and Melville J. Boyer '16, both of whom are Past Grand Councilors.

Saturday's event marked the 30th anniversary of the founding of the national fraternity at Miami university in Oxford, Ohio.

THETA KAPPA NU

The chapter started play in the ping-pong tournament last Friday.

Bernard Blackman spent the week-end at West Chester State Teachers' college, attending a formal dinner-dance.

Brothers Pharo, Windus, Thomas and Stanick braved the state police cordons in order to survey the flood area in and about Wilkes-Barre.

Plans have been completed for the annual Spring Formal dinner-dance to be held at the Hotel Traylor on May 8 with "Bud" Rader's orchestra.

The mothers' club will hold a benefit movie performance at one of the local theatres in the near future.

THETA UPSILON OMEGA

The T. U. O. debate team, composed of Brothers Goheen, Scheifele, and Stewart defeated the Allentown Prep School team in two engagements last week.

Godfrey Muth and his orchestra, have been engaged to play for the Spring Formal which is to be held May 16.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The renovation of the chapter house has been completed and was ready for the convocation of provinces 14, 15 and 19 of Alpha Tau Omega held at Lehigh last week-end. A number of delegates were guests at the local chapter house.

Brothers Bartleson and Horn represented the chapter on the convocation committee.

The following men were admitted to membership at the last initiation: Donald A. Hausman '36, Paul McGinley '38, Joseph Osman '38, Charles Herwig '38 and Carroll Leefeldt '39.

Paul Billet, flashy forward of the Lebanon Valley five, topped the title this year with a total of 121 points to lead Morris, Gettysburg guard, by four counters.

Gene Grossman high scoring member of the Cardinal and Gray machine, clinched fourth place in the league scoring, being topped only by Billet, Morris, and Woody Sponaugle, of Franklin and Marshall. The local courtman gathered 111 points. Tommy Thomas finished in ninth place.

Jack Fish, Gettysburg forward who took individual honors last year in nosing out "Legs" Leibensperger, came in fifth this season, having a total of 105. The summaries follow:

FRESHMEN ELIGIBLE

Baseball, tennis, and track veterans of past seasons may have to step up the pace a bit this spring to hold their positions should any freshman class members show promise of making the grade in these three sports.

At a meeting last year of the Eastern Pennsylvania Athletic Association it was decided to allow freshmen to compete in spring sports starting this year. The ruling will be a boost to Muhlenberg's 1936 sports program since spring football practice in addition to those mentioned above will draw heavily on available material.

43 PLAYERS REPORT TO "DOGGIE" JULIAN

Fraternity And Non-Fraternity Fives In Crucial Battle For First Place This Week; Alpha Tau Omega Holds 2nd

Leaders Meeting On Friday Each Have Five Victories

INTRAMURAL CAGERS TO END SEASON TUESDAY

The strong Non-Fraternity quintet and the Phi Kappa Tau five lead the intramural basketball race as the result of eight games having been played last week. Both the leaders have been undefeated in five starts and consequently hold fifty points. Alpha Tau Omega with five points less, is the present holder of second place. Delta Theta and the Grays are co-holders of third place with forty points each.

As a result of the first-place deadlock between the Non-Frats and the Phi Taus the game played between these two teams this Friday should hold unusual interest. If Phi Kappa Tau is defeated on Friday it will probably have to fight for second place with the A. T. O. in the last intramural basketball game of the season next Tuesday evening.

Games to be played Thursday and Friday of this week are:

THURSDAY—

4:30—Grays vs. Theta Upsilon Omega.
6:30—Theta Kappa Nu vs. Delta Theta.

FRIDAY—

4:30—Cardinals vs. Alpha Tau Omega.
6:30—Non-Fraternity vs. Phi Kappa Tau.

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

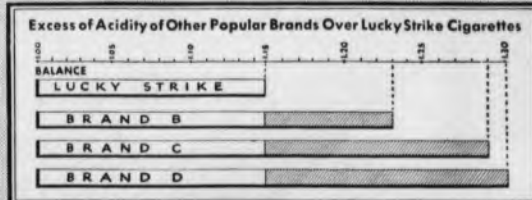

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

Three weeks from today the team opens its season with Lafayette. Following are the men who reported in response to the first call:

supper of Antony. Here loyalty and royalty play a most important part. Enobarbus' loyalty to Antony is of the greatest, while the royalty in Antony makes the latter's servants kings.

Shakespeare's purpose, declared Murry, may have been to convince us of Antony's royalty. That is the motive force of the play and its structure is in poetry, for by poetry we are convinced of the sovereignty of nature.

Unlike Antony, Cleopatra was neither royal nor loyal until the former died. If she wasn't a queen before his death, she certainly became one afterward. Her attitude towards the whole situation was altered.

Lastly, the speaker pointed out the fact that the art of this play was not deliberate, but happened through the inspiration of a creative genius immersed in the realm of fantasy.

Not even Phi Beta Kappa headquarters know the official grip of that organization.

known as the vernal equinox. This time of the year, when the sun apparently crosses the celestial equator, is characterized by excessive and usually continued rainfall". Dr. Zartman himself has investigated these seasonal rains for years and says that they are sure to happen.

Explaining several other factors which were involved in the chain of circumstances that led to the flood, Dr. Zartman related that a storm which had started in Texas moved to the northeast. A flow of warm air, rushing in from the Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic, because of the moving storm, was expanded and condensed by the collision with a wedge of cold air flowing southward from Canada. Extremely low temperatures from the north sent out a frigid current which formed a second wedge of cold air.

"The cold northwest winds mixed with the warmer breezes from the Atlantic; moisture was precipitated and as long as the winds kept coming rain continued. The rain fell when heavy snows were melting in the highest ranges, and the soil had nearly reached the saturation point.

Pres. Haas Reviews New Ethics Volume

College Head Comments Text Written on "Christian Ethics"

One of the latest works from the scholarly pen of President John A. W. Haas is his review of "Christian Ethics," written by Dr. John Michael Reu, professor at Wartburg seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, in conjunction with Dr. Paul H. Buehring, professor at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio.

President Haas states that the volume can be made a good basis for research and study in Christian Ethics and commends it to the thorough study of all professors of ethics in Lutheran seminaries. His comments are as follow:

"Whenever Doctor Reu publishes a book we always expect a very scholarly and a very thorough piece of work. We are not disappointed in this expectation in his new CHRISTIAN ETHICS. He has written all of the book except chapters on "Social Relationships," which have been written by Professor Buehring. The whole publication is a very fine presentation of ethical thought from the Lutheran point of view. In the introduction Doctor Reu has traced the concept of the ethical and its confessional of character, as well as its history, down to the present. He has mentioned also some of the philosophical literature on ethics coming down to present authors.

"The plan of the book is to describe the origin, the preservation

Dr. Horn Tells of Mission Work In "Changed Japan"

Says Mental Revolution Has Made Japanese Critical

SEES WIDE EXPANSION IN RELIGIOUS FIELDS

"Outspoken criticism of the West by Japan has replaced extravagant admiration of Occidental peoples with the result that the Japanese are now trying to impose their national and social ideals on others," declared the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn in his address before the student body in the Science Hall auditorium here Monday morning.

The Rev. Mr. Horn, a Muhlenberg graduate in the class of 1907, has been heard in numerous speaking engagements while in this country on a year's furlough from his missionary work in Japan. He appeared on the campus in February as guest preacher for one of the community vesper services. He is the father of Edward T. Horn, Jr., a member of the senior class.

In his talks here this week, the mission worker told of the changes

Explains Present-Day Trends As Regards Bible Prophecies

That the action of Hitler and Mussolini in European affairs is fast helping to fulfill Biblical prophecies is the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Robert R. "Today many people are interested in prophecy; others pay no attention whatever to the subject. We may study history and in our

A FRESHMAN TALKS

These "musical portraits" were produced skillfully and beautifully by the trio, which consisted of Ernest Gamble, the famous basso; Miss Emma Zuern, concert soprano; and Miss Verna Page, noted violinist.

The program included "Carmena" by H. Lane Wilson; "Zigeunerweisen" by Pablo Sarasate; "The Hanging of Danny Deever", by Walter Damrosch; "The Sleigh" by Richard Kuntz; "Still Wie Die Nacht" by Carl Bohm; "Indian Lament" by Dvorak-Kreisler; Toreador's Song from "Carmen" by Georges Bizet; "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly" by Giacomo Puccini.

What Has Happened?

Members of the student body were little stirred by the appearance here some weeks ago of J. Middleton Murry, one of today's outstanding critics of Shakespeare's works.

Not more than half of the students turned out to hear the noted author during the Wednesday assembly hour. It is safe to say that half of those who were present brought away with them little enlightenment upon the great English writer.

The exact reason for a growing lack of interest in lectures and discussions of this type will probably not be found until the new order of things, coming from the recent depression, has established itself in history.

It is the contention of some persons that the wrong impression of literary works is conveyed upon students at too early an age. Because of the unfavorable impression that may be created by immature study of Shylock's character, school authorities in New York have withdrawn the "Merchant of Venice" from the Shakespearean works available to school children.

There are those who will be shocked by this move. They contend that Shakespeare is above criticism and reproach. These supporters of the Great Bard need have no more fears than those who feel injured because of the exaggerated portrayal of the play's villain. There are few children in this land who will read Shakespeare unless forced to do so. For that matter there are not so many of their elders left who peruse the exquisite lines of blank verse.

More Foolishness

With the Hauptman publicity having taken somewhat of a back seat as the result of the German's execution in New Jersey last week, followers of newspapers and other periodicals are again confronted with the next important news item of the day—the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Ever since the controversy started, numerous reports have been made by both sides as to which army was making the biggest gains. First Italy held the upper hand; then Ethiopia made a brave stand somewhere in the hills.

Just last week the Italian high command reported that 7000 Ethiopian soldiers were killed in the great battle that raged there when 50,000 of the Emperor's own bodyguard attempted to stem the steady advance of a conquering host.

Most of these 7000 dead were heads of families. Few of those who died did not have dependents. Life was as sweet to the half savages of Ethiopian sands and plains as it is to any of those who seek and desire war. There is little glory in the killing of 7000 human beings.

The battle was fought on April 1, All Fools Day.

The Traffic Problem

There is a campaign under way to gain the active interest of every college and every undergraduate in an effort to establish permanent traffic control. The traffic accident toll is a national problem which deserves serious thought on the part of every student. It has annually grown more serious, and since drivers from 18 to 24 are involved in more than one-quarter of all fatal accidents, a great responsibility rests with us. We cannot ignore our own share in creating the problem.

The manner in which the individual student discharges his obligations to society is a test as to whether the American college has made him conscious of the principles of good citizenship and good government. As a driver on the campus and away from it he should follow the rules of safe and sensible driving. Unfortunately, the average student believes that speed and recklessness are requisites of the up-to-the-minute collegian.

Certain students drive around our campus in such a way that one questions their intelligence, and ability to operate a vehicle. Student Council has passed regulations concerning driving around the campus, but their enforcement has been humorous. Perhaps if action was taken on the camp through the land to revoke licenses on clear evidence of incapacity, as is provided on our campus from time to time, a constructive step would be made toward a national traffic control program.

City Accountant Talks Before Business Club

Roy L. Campbell, member of the firm of Campbell and Carr, certified Public Accountants in this city, addressed a meeting of the Muhlenberg Business Association held last Friday evening at the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity house.

In the business meeting following the address, a banquet committee composed of James Turrel, chairman, Henry Wagner, and Andrew Fioravanti was appointed to report at the next session. At the conclusion of the business, refreshments were served by the social committee.

evening at Collegeville. The question used was "Resolved that Congress Should Have Control of Intra-state Commerce." Speakers for Muhlenberg were Israel Yost, George Boyer and James Coyne. A critic judge gave the decision.

Friday evening saw the University of Pennsylvania Evening School invade the local campus to win over the Cardinal and Gray speakers. The negative side was upheld by the Penn debaters, while 'Berg carried the affirmative argument. Attorney Edwin Kline, of this city, gave the critic decision. Speakers for Muhlenberg were Donald Schlicher, Israel Yost, and Herman Heim.

Hausman; Eveline, his wife, Warren Schlegel; Lili, his daughter, Eugene Schneck; Dr. Richard Frisch, a physician, Hermann Doepfer; Assessor Hastig, Frederick Dry; Antonie, a servant, Charles Naugle.

After the presentation of the plays, a dance will be held with music furnished by the male and female chorus of the Liederkrantz, of which Prof. John Birmelin, the noted Pennsylvania dialect poet, is director.

One of the two comedies will be presented on the eve of "Damenabend" of the Deutscher Verein on April 27. To this presentation, the local organization will invite the German department of Cedar Crest College.

The other play will be given on sub-freshman day, April 25, in the Science Hall auditorium.

The two productions are under the direction of Dr. Preston A. Barba and Dr. Harry H. Reichard, members of the German department.

EXPLAINS TRENDS IN BIBLE PROPHECIES

implication that we may thus avoid the mistakes of the past and insure future happiness.

"With God, the future is as the past; the end is as clearly marked as the beginning. If there is any such thing as prophecy at all, it must originate in Him and be revealed by Him to those who are in the secret of the Lord. In Genesis 18:17 God asks, 'Shall I hide from Abraham the thing which I do?' He then proceeds to reveal to Abraham the coming destruction of Sodom. In Genesis 15:13 He reveals to him the future experiences of the Hebrew people in Egypt years before the event. In Deuteronomy 28-30 we find the whole history of Israel pre-written; one of the most remarkable pieces of literature in the Word and the world. We read of the captivities, of the siege of Jerusalem by the Romans. In chapter 29 there is a true description of the devastated appearance of Palestine under the Turks, followed in chapter 30 by the declaration that the Hebrew people would be gathered by the Lord from all the nations. There is every reason to believe that what is happening in Palestine today is related to this prophecy. One may believe that Hitler's attitude towards the Jew may be hastening this process. This phase of the subject is especially interesting to the writer who has seen this movement under way himself.

"The fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, written centuries before the crucifixion, portrays that incident very vividly. We are indeed impressed with the many details of the passion of Jesus as they were related to the Old Testament Messianic passages. In fact, the phrase which connects the Old and New Testaments is that which appears in the opening chapters of Matthew's Gospel, 'That it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet.' It is the study of the prophecy and its fulfillment which has led most Hebrew Christians to accept Jesus as the Messiah and their Saviour.

"The New Testament is also filled with prophecy; in fact we do not have enough space at our disposal to treat it adequately. Even as He is ascending into heaven (Acts 1:10-11) two men, clothed in white, declare that in the same manner in which the Apostles had seen Him go into heaven, He should come so again. It was for this reason that they returned to Jerusalem with joy. The prophet Zechariah, 14:4 says that in that day His feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives whence He ascended.

"Much of Jesus' teaching concerns the condition in the world when He shall come again. As it was in the days of Noah and of Lot, so shall it be in the coming of the Son of Man (Luke 17), corruption and violence marking both periods. Our newspapers are the best evidence of the truth of this prophecy. In Luke 21 Jesus says that in that day there shall be upon the earth distress of nations with perplexities (Greek, no way out), men's hearts failing them because of the fear of the things coming to the earth. Then to those who are in the secret He says that they shall not talk depression, but that they shall lift up their heads, for the redemption is drawing nigh.

"There are frightful times ahead, the like of which the world has never seen. There will be tribulations in many forms, after the Christians have been taken out of the world (I Thess. 4:17). Then without hindrance, but for a limited time, the Man of Sin, the wicked One, the Spirit of Lawlessness, the Anti-Christ, Satan incarnate will be revealed (2 Thess. 2:3-8). Because this person knows that his time is short, he will bring upon the earth such carnage that we shudder to read of it. All the instruments and weapons for that great day are now being prepared.

"Now let us read what Mr. H. L. Mencken, recently wrote: 'The silence of the theologians is one of the credible phenomena of these dangerous days. All that I desire to point out is that the New Testament offers precise and elaborate specifications of the events preceding the inevitable end of the world, and that a fair reading of the Scriptures must lead any rational man to conclude that the events are now on us.' What a pity that a man of the world sees what many church folk fail to realize. Modernism, apostasy, humanisms, and cults are eating the life and heart out of Christianity. Instead of the family altar we find the bridge-table in our homes; instead of the prayer meeting it is the minstrel show in our churches; instead of evangelistic and revival meetings we prefer church-suppers and pageants. Surely Jesus realized the terrible significance of His question when He asked 'When the Son of Man comes will He find the Faith on the earth?'

Meanwhile we are in a day when the church is lukewarm and statistics (Rev. 3:17) are trusted in so often, yet those who love His appearing (Tim. 4:8) remember that God has appointed a receiver for this bankrupt world, even Jesus, Who is the only hope for this distressed world. How many of us are dissatisfied with the results of peace conferences and disarmament attempts? However, a Bible student cannot be disappointed. He knows that we are living in the days of which the prophet spoke—when man shall cry safety and peace, but there is no peace. No there is no peace between man and man until there is peace between man and God. But who of our statesmen ever think of that? What gathering of representatives of the nations is ever opened with prayer? Hence, no results. But one day the Prince of Peace is coming to rule over the nations with a rod of iron as a benevolent dictator—King of kings and Lord of lords."

THE BIG PARADE

Slowly, slowly, grimly,
A somber cavalcade,
In the last parade of students
Your name will never fade.

Dark, impressive, silent,
Saddest of sad, intense,
Ad finitum, forgotten,
This, our recompense.

You are the line we'll join one day
In timid, fearful state,
Despondent, dejected, deflated,
Mastered by our fate.

Shuffling of feet, a sweaty heat,
The somber line marches on,
Fearful eyes, a sorry surprise,
The posting list has come.

NON-FRAT CAGERS CLINCH CHAMPIONSHIP

Non-Fraternity Five Holds Position After Winning Crucial League Battle; Phi Kappa Tau Assured of 2nd Place

Theta Upsilon Omega Wins First Game From Grays

3 TEAMS IN DEADLOCK FOR 3RD PLACE HONORS

The Non-Fraternity basketball team virtually clinched the championship of the intramural cage league last Friday evening when it won the crucial battle from Phi Kappa Tau by the score of 33 to 21.

As a result of their triumph over the Phi Taus, the Non-Frat cagemen took undisputed possession of first place in the league standing and appear almost certain to end the season with eight consecutive victories and no defeats.

The leaders were scheduled to meet Delta Theta fraternity yesterday with a win for the Non-Frats an almost certainty. Phi Kappa Tau is definitely assured of second place and should the Non-Frats lose their final tilt, the Phi Taus could tie for first by downing Alpha Tau Omega.

A glance at the results of last week's games shows that the A. T. O. passers dropped from second place to a three-way tie for third position as the result of losing games to the Grays and the Cardinals, two non-fraternity groups. Other clubs in third place with 55 points include Delta Theta and the Grays.

A two-way deadlock exists for fourth place between Theta Kappa Nu and the Cardinals.

Theta Upsilon Omega appears destined to fifth position while Phi Epsilon Pi will close the season with a minus score as the result of two forfeits. Last week's summaries:

Gutteron Cuts Nine To 21 For Season

Cardinal and Gray Tossers Prepare for Lafayette Game April 22

Coach Gutteron has cut the Cardinal and Gray baseball squad to twenty-one men to represent Muhlenberg in the coming season. The cut was made last Friday and became effective Monday afternoon.

The team is fast getting into shape for its season's opener when it travels to Easton on April 22 to meet Lafayette.

Last year the season was likewise opened with Lafayette and the result was a 13-11 victory for the team coached by Johnny Utz. In a return encounter, however, the Mules were turned back by a 6 to 1 score. "Doc" Kern pitched in both the Lafayette contests last year and there seems to be a strong probability that he will again be on the mound April 22.

The home opener will find Temple sending its nine to Allentown on Saturday, April 25 to oppose the locals in the Sub-Freshman day attraction.

The twenty-one men retained on the squad are: Korenko, Green, Tracy, Dietrich, Poust, Nosal, J. Blair, Kern, Hunsicker, Bartleson, Sell, Warner, Wermuth, Farrell, E. Miller, Gibson, Cochrane, Dawe, Doepper, Rogers, and Matusa.

Intramural Sports To Continue After Easter

Intramural contests in playground ball, volley-ball, and tennis will begin either April 20 or the 27, it has been announced by William S. Ritter, physical education supervisor in charge of the program.

Just which Monday the games will start is problematical, says Ritter, since one of the nine teams now entered may drop out of the league for the remainder of the season. Four weeks and two days are required for the later spring sports, but this time is shortened should only eight teams finish the schedule.

The annual intramural track and field meet is to be run off at the conclusion of the other sports.

19 Candidates Out For Track Season

Coach Renwick Needs Men to Complete Penn Relay Team

Groups of men slowly running around the track and other groups practicing sprint starts illustrate the fact that Cardinal and Gray athletes are preparing for the current cinder season.

Nineteen men have thus far reported to Coach "Scotty" Renwick with the majority of these candidates being freshmen runners. These men cannot compete in the Penn Relays, to be held at the University of Pennsylvania on April 25, but are training for the various other meets which allow freshmen to run with the varsity. Because of a new conference ruling the first-year men are eligible to compete, as varsity members, in conference track and field meets this year.

Thus far only two upper-classmen have reported for the relay team. Edward S. Horn and James Ware are the two men eligible to run in the Penn meet. However it is necessary to name four men on the team proper and one alternate, by April 13. Consequently Coach Renwick has sent out a call for upper-classmen who run the quarter-mile, the relay distance. When the full number has reported "Scotty" will make his choice and name the team to represent Muhlenberg at Philadelphia.

A scarcity of men for the field events is apparent as one glances over the list of track candidates. Last year the same difficulty faced the team in its campaign. It is hoped that more men will report for these events as spring football has taken away several who would have appeared in the weight and jumping events. At the present time the squad lacks candidates for the pole vault, high jump, broad jump, javelin-throw, discus throw and shotput.

Following is the current track roster. In the dashes; Whitson Seaman, Charles Barrie, Louis Ewaldt, Stauffer Heffner, Mark Potteiger, Charles Harris, DeWitt DeLawter, Fred Schonenberg, and Paul Keller. The middle-distance

Netmen Open Season Friday

Seven of the eight tennis players pictured above with their coach, Dr. John V. Shankweiler, will again be available for court service this year, giving Muhlenberg's net enthusiasts something to talk about.

Only William Young (second from right) will be missing from the squad this season. Young was graduated last spring. The netmen's 1935 record of nine victories out of twelve engagements should be ample warning to Cardinal and Gray opponents this spring.

The racquetmen open their season Friday of this week meeting Haverford on the latter's courts. The Mules had little trouble winning, 7 to 2, last year from the Main Liners.

Ernest Seegers, Charles Kline, Theodore Fischer, Dr. Shankweiler, coach; Dean Zweier, assistant manager; Francis Knouss, (William Young '35), Earl Koch.

In addition to this group of players, Coach Shankweiler will have available for service Donald Pichaske and Donald Redden, two promising sophomores, and Thomas Hartman, senior. Freshmen are also eligible to compete in varsity matches this spring.

DR. HAAS SPEAKER FOR COMMENCEMENT

For oratorical contest, the winners of which will be announced on commencement day.

In the late afternoon of the same day the senior class-day activities are to be held in the college grove, corner of Twenty-third and Liberty streets. The annual student body dance is scheduled to take place at Dorney Park in the evening.

Saturday morning will find Muhlenberg alumni convening on the campus for their annual session, with the Lafayette baseball game being the afternoon feature.

For the second consecutive year the baccalaureate sermon is to be preached by one other than Dr. Haas. Speaking here for that occasion on Sunday afternoon, May 31, will be the Rev. Dr. E. E. Fischer, professor of Ethics at the Lutheran Theological seminary in Philadelphia.

The seniors will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises the following morning.

Last year's address was given by Dr. George B. Cutten, president of Colgate university. Guest speaker for the baccalaureate service was the Rev. Dr. G. Harold Kinard, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, this city.

men are George Ostheimer, Russell Zimmerman, William Fluck, James Ware, Theodore Scheifele and Arnold Spohn. The distance men thus far reported are Luther Vogel and William Griffin. The hurdle events number Samuel Henken and Ed Horn.

Writer Warns Mules Will Need Watching on Gridiron in 1936

That the appointment of Alvin "Doggie" Julian as athletic coach has aroused the interest of sports writers throughout Pennsylvania is evidenced in an article which recently appeared in a Harrisburg newspaper. Following is the comment coming from a columnist on the editorial staff of the city publication:

"I just want to go on record as warning two good friends of mine, Hen Bream (Gettysburg) and Alan Holman (F. and M.) that they will have their work cut out for them next fall when their teams take the field against the Muhlenberg Mules. The reason? None other than Alvin "Doggie" Julian, who has taken over the reins at the Allentown college succeeding Johnny Utz, former University of Pennsylvania luminary. Julian goes to Muhlenberg with a world of coaching experience, experience gained at several high schools and colleges where his teams were always among the leaders. No matter what material Julian has, his teams always are full of fight and give a fine account of themselves no matter what the odds are against them.

"Doggie" starts at Muhlenberg with everything to win and very little to lose, for the last few years at Allentown have been very lean ones in as far as football is concerned. But to get back to the original thought. Take care Hen and Alan, this man Julian will have a good team, a fighting team. As far as systems are concerned, well, Doggie uses a mixture of several. He uses an unbalanced line with a box in the backfield. The rear two men in the backfield do not shift, but the front two do from the short side to the long side of the line. Doggie goes for a lot of close reverses and has his backs handling the ball quite a bit in the backfield. Besides having a thorough knowledge of football Doggie brings to the Allentown institution a vast amount of experience as a basketball and baseball player and coach. After graduating from Bucknell in 1923 he played professional baseball and when I tell you that his home town is Reading, Pennsylvania you will know why the young fellow also can handle himself on a basket ball court. Doggie's appointment as coach at Muhlenberg is a popular move and is well taken by the many friends of his in this vicinity."

Julian Keeps Big Grid Squad On Job

Football Head Allows Little Spare Time in Drills

Drills, drills, and more drills seem to be the keynote on the football field at present where forty-three aspirants for Cardinal and Gray uniforms are learning fundamentals and shifts plus much conditioning work, under Head Coach "Doggie" Julian who is being assisted by "Charlie" Evanovsky, last year's freshman mentor.

During the past week the line-men have been concentrating on quick pull-outs which will be used next fall for interfering on end runs and on various other line shifts. The backfield has been specializing on backfield shifts and fundamental plays. The whole squad has been taking sessions with the tackling dummy, live-tackling, basic blocking work and dummy scrimmage. To say the least the boys are being kept hard at work, even going so far as to have a long session last Saturday afternoon. Scrimmage will come into its own this week after the candidates have been whipped into suitable physical condition.

Before practice began Julian pointed out to the squad members the necessity of everyone strictly observing the training rules and cooperating with the staff on all points. The training rules include going to bed at 11 o'clock and abstinence from smoking plus "no dates" during week-days. It has been noticed that the team is shaping up very quickly under this hard but necessary training.

The first day of practice drew a large crowd of spectators from the city and outlying vicinities. Among those present were J. Birney Crum and "Tom" Brennan of the Allentown High school coaching staff, both former Muhlenberg men, and also Glen Harmeson, Lehigh grid mentor.

Reading Pastor Is Speaker In Chapel

Rev. Charles Beck Has Palm Sunday Theme for Sermon

Drawing upon Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem for his background, the Rev. Charles G. Beck, pastor of the Holy Spirit Evangelical Lutheran church, Reading, last Sunday pointed to Christ's mastery and His meekness in his sermon at the community vespers in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel.

"If we are meek," the Reading clergyman said, "we will raise up a new world order that will bring men to God and happiness to men."

He said that the three important truths shown by the triumphal entry were that Christ had mastery over men, complete control of human goods and mastery over beasts. By His example He taught men to be meek, the clergyman said, but not to be meek in the sense of letting others tyrannize over them.

Because the chapel choir was in Philadelphia, broadcasting over station WCAU, the choir of St. Stephen's Lutheran church, directed by Ralph Kemmerer, was in charge of the musical portion of the service. The choir sang "Rejoice Greatly," by Gadsby. Mr. Kemmerer played "In the Cathedral," by Piere; "Fanfare," by Purcell; "Stabat Mater," by Edmundson, and Bach's Chorale in D Minor.

President John A. W. Haas, the Rev. Robert R. Fritsch and the Rev. Harry P. Cressman were in charge of the service.

and the consummation of the Christian life. Beginning with the foundation of life in creation, Doctor Reu has written a most notable chapter on "Conscience," which is correct both psychologically and scripturally. His description of the state of sin, as well as the restoration of the spiritual life, is according to the best Lutheran ethical tradition, and does not depart from the sound foundation of such writers as Harless. In the preservation and the development of the Christian life he stresses daily contrition and faith, the use of means of grace, the use of prayer, the warfare against the enemies of spiritual life, as well as the just place of asceticism. He continues showing the development of the Christian life in its relation to God, to men, as founded on the example of Jesus, and as maintained in cross and affliction, and in the fulfillment of man's earthly calling.

"Professor Buehring begins with some general principles of 'Social Relationships,' and then discusses very fully the family, the church, the state, the brotherhood of man, social intercourse, labor and property, and the occupations of man. His work is very clear and very fair in every respect.

"Doctor Reu completes the book with the consummation of the Christian life, in preparation for blessed death, the consummation of the soul in the intermediate state, and the final consummation of body and soul in eternal life. There is added a very full and thorough bibliography, coming down to the present. This bibliography with a careful index, is in itself worth the whole book. The bibliography not only indicates the different authors and their books, but also gives page references. It is the most excellent and thorough piece of work and shows fine scholarship."

COLLEGIATE ODDITIES

Professors, College, Or Just So Much Nonsense! Frosh Wonders

"After reading the title it is very evident as to just how I feel about college. If anybody ever had any reason to feel disgusted about anything it's I.

"I started the freshman term determined to make good or else? The 'else' part should be underscored because I'm not committing myself concerning the second semester. I'm beginning to believe that it's brawn instead of brain that means the difference between passing or flunking a course. Why is it that a football player is just passed with a D while some poor sucker (if I may use the term) labors earnestly for an unencouraging C?

Theme writing is another unencouraging process. I sit down and produce two pages of scribbled thoughts so related as to form a theme. I then neatly assemble and arrange these thoughts. After final analysis I copy the theme on nice, clean white paper with fairly intelligent penmanship. While sitting back in a soft chair I once again scan my theme. Carefully, I fold the papers, sign my name, and feel confident of at least a B. All this occupied about two hours of my time. Monday morning arrives. I slowly open my returned theme and fix my eyes upon a beautifully written D. And mind you, that beautifully constructed D was created in a barn color—red. I feel certain that not only Spanish bulls are enraged at the sight of red. However, maybe the professor was right in his grading. Personally, I doubt it, and this is why. That same, very same, theme was handed in at Lehigh University. Contrary to my English professor's beliefs, that theme was graded a B. Then, too, every English professor has his own opinions, and so I continue to labor in vain to create my themes. After getting a half-dozen D's or E's I stop being a fool. After making

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

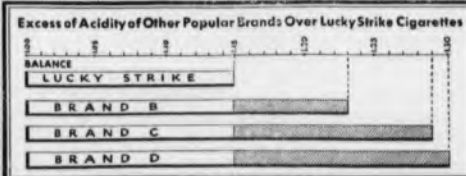

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

Seventeen Classes To Hold Reunions On Campus May 30

Alumni Groups Plan Meetings in City on Memorial Day

1911 CLASS TO OBSERVE SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Seventeen classes have made arrangements to hold reunion meetings during commencement week with many of this number planning for their members to stay the entire week-end and be on hand when President Haas closes his career with the principal address at the sixty-ninth annual commencement, Monday morning, June 1.

Alumni Day will be held Memorial Day, May 30, and will also mark the closing week-end of the active service of Dr. Haas as president of the college after thirty-two years of service in that capacity.

Using the Dix plan of reunions there will be four groups meeting in joint session; five classes will be observing special anniversaries; and several classes will meet again as they have done annually.

The class of 1907 has pushed up its reunion to this year because the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn, a member of the class, is at present in this country on sabbatical leave from Japan where he is a Lutheran missionary. The class of 1906 will be celebrating its thirtieth anniversary and the youngest group will be the class of 1934, observing its second anniversary.

Prof. Fasig announced the following list of correspondents who are making the arrangements for the Dix groupings and individual class reunions: 1873, the Rev. William H. Myers, Reading; George F. Kribbs, Kissimmee, Fla.; the Rev. Jesse S. Erb, Palmerton; 1874, Dr. Monroe T. Kuntz, Mulberry, Ind.; William A. Lichtenwalner, Los Angeles, Calif. Golden anniversary of 1886, the Rev. J. H. Weidlich, Sellersville.

When the four chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national philosophical fraternity, meet in this city next Wednesday for their fourth bi-annual convention it will mark the sixth year since the organization of the society on Muhlenberg's campus. Conference sessions will be held during the afternoon and evening at the Hotel Traylor.

A resume of the history of Alpha Kappa Alpha is of considerable interest to Muhlenberg students since it was on the local campus that the fraternity had its inception with Alpha chapter being founded here.

It was in the spring of 1928 that a number of men gathered for informal discussions of a few problems of philosophy. Their aim was to discuss these problems from a student's point of view. The meetings proved attractive and

For the benefit of the more than 200 prospective students who are expected on the campus tomorrow as Muhlenberg college's guests for the third annual Sub-Freshman day The Weekly presents a resume of events which have been planned for this occasion.

The college authorities also take this opportunity of calling upon the students for their cooperation and assistance.

The places and times of the departmental demonstrations and other events is listed herewith. Limited time forces the college authorities to see that things are kept moving at an even tempo to avoid any conflict of time schedules which at most can only be approximate.

After registration at the Registrar's office, where the guests will receive a "welcome" card, the first general assembly will be held in the stately Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel. Dr. Harold K. Debaters Win First On Southern Tour

Gain Unanimous Verdict at Washington College; Two Non-Decision

Approximately ten hours after leaving the local campus last Monday morning Coach Everitt's varsity debate squad had registered its opening forensic triumph in its first engagement on the southern tour.

The initial victory was garnered at the expense of Washington college in Chestertown, Md., where John Stump and Herman Heim, Muhlenberg's "negative" speakers, won the unanimous decision of three judges. The question used was "Resolved, that Congress Should Be Empowered to Over-ride by a Two-thirds Vote Decisions of the United States Supreme Court Declaring Acts of Congress Unconstitutional".

A non-decision debate was held Tuesday with Western Maryland at Westminster while the concluding meeting was with the University of Richmond on the Richmond campus last evening. Wednesday, an open date on the schedule, was spent in Washington, D. C.

Other speakers making the trip in addition to Stump and Heim are George Boyer and James Coyne. The party was to arrive in Allentown some time this afternoon.

Haas In Chapel Talk Hits School Systems

Dishonesty in examinations and lack of student morale are the two greatest defects in America's present-day school system, declared President Haas in his Tuesday morning chapel address on "World Youth Movements of Today".

The nature-seeking youth, regimental youth movements, peace movements and the work of communistic groups, are only adding to present world chaos instead of helping to find satisfactory solutions, Dr. Haas said.

CRIMINOLOGY STUDENTS INSPECT PENITENTIARY

Thirty-three members of Prof. Bowman's two criminology classes visited the Pinehurst School for the feeble-minded last Wednesday. Leaving the college at 9 o'clock they motored to Spring City where they spent the morning inspecting Pinehurst. In the afternoon the students were escorted around Gratersford Eastern Penitentiary.

Exhibit Works Of Muhlenberg Grads In College Library

Who Are Alumni
Members

SHOW FIRSTS, LASTS OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

An interesting library exhibit has been prepared for Sub-Freshman day by Miss Helen R. Richards, assistant librarian, who has collected all the books in the college library written by graduates of this institution.

There are fifty-four books in all, written by thirty-one authors, the majority of whom are ministers. These writers represent twenty-four classes from 1869 to 1930. Most of the books cover religious topics, but there are a few interesting exceptions. Among these tomes is a portfolio of original musical compositions, a biography, a history of Muhlenberg College, a treatise on psychology, a book on Einstein's Theory, and a volume of poems.

One interesting point of this exhibit will be "firsts and lasts". Here the first "Weekly" published in 1893 will be viewed alongside the last one. The first Clara (1893) may be compared with the 1936 version. The first catalogue of Muhlenberg College, put out in 1892, may be seen alongside the latest one.

The following list is incomplete to the extent that it does not contain all books written by the authors, nor any written by members of the college faculty:

Prof. Revere F. Weidner, '69: An Introduction to Dogmatic Theology based on Luthardt, Theologia or the Doctrine of God based on Luthardt, Biblical Theology of the New Testament (2 vols.), Theological Encyclopedia (2 vols.).

The Rev. Dr. Jeremiah H. Ohl, '71: School and Parish Hymnal and Service Book, A Portfolio of Original Compositions.

President Haas Will Again
Give Function for Musicians

Members of the college choir with their director, Dr. Harold K. Marks, will be repaid for an extensive concert season next Thursday evening when the choristers are to be the guests of President John A. W. Haas at a banquet in the Hotel Americus of this city.

This will mark the third annual function of its kind offered the musicians by the retiring president and will be the last given by him as active head of the college.

Three more engagements remain on the schedule, two of which will be filled this Sunday when the songsters travel to Lebanon and Harrisburg. The choir will leave the campus at noon Sunday and arrive in Lebanon in time for a concert at 3 o'clock in Salem Lutheran church of which the Rev. Charles R. Keiter '08, is pastor.

The party will then journey on to Harrisburg to sing in Messiah Lutheran church where the congregations of five Lutheran churches in the city and vicinity are uniting for a joint service, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Pastor of the host church is the Rev. Chester S. Simonton.

The year's concluding concert is to be sung at Trinity Lutheran Church, Kutztown, on May 4. The choir will appear there as the evening feature of the spring meeting of the Reading Conference.

LIBRARY WORK PAINTED BY ALLENTOWN WOMEN

The portrait on exhibition in the library is the work of Mrs. Charles B. Young, Turner street, Allentown. Mrs. Young is a graduate of Syracuse university and has studied at the Art Students League in New York City and the Grand Chaumiere in Paris. She has painted and exhibited in Indianapolis, Ind., Pittsburgh, Charlotte, N. C., Michigan and New Jersey.

Welcome The Sub-Freshmen

One of the largest throngs to ever assemble on Muhlenberg's campus is expected here tomorrow when the College will act as host to several hundred high school students, their parents, and visitors at the third annual Sub-Freshman day event.

Among this group of young men visiting the campus will be many who plan to make this their home for the next four years. Without a doubt these students are going to be treated to rare and interesting specimens, demonstrations, and exhibitions. They are going to see and hear of the practical advantages of a college education.

It is the sincere hope of everyone that no note of disillusionment shall come at the end of their four years of work regardless of what college or university they finally accept to become their Alma Mater.

One of the main preventatives for anything of this nature is getting a right start at the outset of a college career. Every student coming to Muhlenberg's campus tomorrow will in a sense begin his college life and it is for this reason that the men now marching under the Cardinal and Gray colors should do their utmost to extend a hearty welcome to the visitors.

If the students and if their parents or friends receive that cordial greeting from Muhlenberg's faculty, administration, and student body it will go a long way in convincing the guests that Muhlenberg offers not only fine educational facilities, but maintains a staff of fine social beings as well.

Make our visitors feel that this is their home tomorrow.

Less Eloquence, Better Action

Youth, particularly collegiate youth in whose hands supposedly future leadership will rest, today should take—if never before—an active interest in national affairs which often directly affect their future. Previously, the college man could look forward with ease to a comfortable position in his chosen field, but his plight for the past six years is well known to us all.

In this respect, President Roosevelt's recent Baltimore speech, primarily addressed to youth, should be examined. In it the president again described a possible "finer America that is to be" wherein poverty and involuntary unemployment will be abolished. Class hatreds will be dissipated and the future generations may enjoy the "abundant life" on a scale which cannot be described in terms of past experience.

These visionary ideals, couched in the President's superior style of expression undoubtedly captured the imagination of the majority of young people. Probably it is with similar hazy but attractive suggestions that cause our foreign companions to be content with a brown or black shirt, a gun, and a flag. No one attempts to deny that economic security and "the greatest good for the greatest number" are desirable goals, and in this direction our nation has taken huge strides. Yet the minority, possessing more intellectual powers of analysis and reason, justly demand more than constant pictures of this future millennium.

The problem today is one of means, not of ends. Youth should demand constructive action on such problems as currency stabilization, balancing the budget, curtailing bureaucracy, and a program of cooperation with industry rather than the constant haranguing and threats for political advantage. Only in a wide realization and adjustment of our basic economic problems can the present administration or any other provide the "abundant life" we all hope for,—never by misleading political strategy and celestial panaceas.

mittee to secure awards for the seven senior members of the M. C. A. In addition to Coleman and Guigley, the men eligible for the awards are Julius J. Kish, retiring president; Theodore L. Fischer, retiring vice-president; Joseph Schantz, George R. Koehler, and Norton Behney. Guigley is retiring treasurer while Gregorius served as secretary during the present year.

The organization voted to purchase a dinner gong for the Commons dining hall as a substitute for the "glass-tapping" methods now employed. Mr. Kish was selected to carry out this action by the group.

Announcement was made for the annual retreat to Paradise Falls on May 8, 9, and 10.

Student Ages Have Range of 20 Yrs.

397 Enrolled Are Between 17 and 23, Figures Reveal

Ages for students on Muhlenberg's campus range from 16 years to 35 in the statistics prepared in the office of Registrar Benfer.

The ages of 18, 19, and 20 are predominant with 277 students being listed in this grouping alone. Three freshmen are recorded at 16 years while the oldest is a senior at 35.

In the present student body of 418, eight less than last year, there are 105 students aged 18, while ninety, aged 19, have the second largest number. Between the ages of 17 and 23 there are 397 students enrolled. Twenty was the leading age during the 1934-35 term.

The complete table of ages represented on the campus follows:

profitable, the discussions frequently being carried beyond the midnight hour. A list of the topics of that first year indicates such problems as: What Do I Know About Matter? What Do I Know About the Learning Process? What Do I Know About God? What Do I Know About Beauty?

No organization was proposed, there were no officers, and no committees. The meetings were open to the student body as a whole and approximately twenty interested men constituted the group known as the Philosophy Club.

The following year the same kind of an informal group met. The interest of the men centered for a number of months in social questions: Prohibition, Capitalism, Communism and Political Theories.

In the year 1929-30 members of the Club became interested in developing an organization. Philosophic discussions were, for the time, put aside. Contacts were made with men of similar interests at Moravian college for men. By early spring of 1930, largely under the direction of Stanley V. Printz, '30, and Chaplain Cressman, a constitution was framed and adopted.

A ritual was prepared by Prof. Russell W. Stine. The first convention was held in the Hotel Americus on May 23, 1930. The first National officers were: Prof. Stine, president; H. Roland Weaver, vice-president; Chaplain Harry Cressman, secretary; Dr. William N. Schwarze, treasurer; Stanley Printz, historian.

In the spring of 1931 the fraternity added Gamma chapter to its role by initiating The Sages, a long established philosophic fraternity at Gettysburg.

The second convention was held in May of 1932 at Hershey Inn, Hershey. Amendments to the constitution were adopted in accordance with the growing experience of the groups.

In the fall of 1933, the fourth chapter was added as Delta at Cedar Crest college. The third convention was held in Harrisburg in April, 1934. Muhlenberg is now honored by holding three offices in the National fraternity: Dr. Haas, vice-president; Prof. Stine, secretary; Prof. Knouss, National committee.

The Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel

The Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. George Hartzell and is a memorial to her parents. The building was dedicated at commencement in 1931. The architect is Frank R. Watson of Philadelphia, Ruhe and Lange of this city, associates.

The chapel seats seven hundred persons. It is typical and representative of the best in Lutheran church architecture, appointments and furnishings. This is necessary for the development of a fine, aesthetic sense, as well as for the development of a beautiful and impressive worship. The influence of such a college chapel goes far beyond the limits of the college; it educates the leaders of Church and state, and stimulates the whole Church toward a finer type of Church architecture.

The Skinner organ is the gift of the Women's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg college in honor of its late president, Mrs. George K. Mosser. There are three manuals, a pedal keyboard, chimes, forty stops, and 2442 pipes. The organ is notable for its richness and beauty of tone. The individual stops, in themselves beautiful and brilliant, have a distinctive character and are coordinated in an artistic manner so as to produce an ensemble of great power and dignity. The acoustic properties and the ideal location of the organ make it possible to produce the finest tonal effects.

Friends, alumni, and class groups have shared in providing suitable and harmonious equipment, such as the altar, reredos, windows, stalls, pulpit, lectern, and pews. The building is a memorial chapel.

The entrance porch gives in its ornament a summary of the significant themes more fully developed in the building itself. The essential christian character of the edifice is expressed by the cross above the central door-way. This is flanked by two angel figures on the portals, bearing the book of Scripture and the chalice, representing the Word and Sacraments. A large boss on one side has the Luther Rose; and that on the opposite side has the seal of the United Congregations, whose call brought Muhlenberg to America. The six shields above the porch contain emblems of the Christian Graces (Faith, Hope and Charity) and the Christian Duties (Education, Missions and Worship). High above the porch and crowning the great mullions of the west window are heroic figures of Luther and Melancthon.

As one enters, his attention is directed at once to the Chancel opposite him, to the altar, reredos, and windows. The reredos and windows are the work of the D'Ascenzo studios in Philadelphia. The impressive interior perspective of the chapel focuses in an architectural composition of lofty dimensions. At the base is the marble altar, above which is a richly developed reredos of carved wood. In the panels of this is painted a brilliant altar piece depicting the Te Deum, the figure of the Kingly Christ praised by the Church Militant and the Church Triumphant. The entire composition is crowned by five great windows containing figures representing our Lord's command to the Disciples, "Go Ye into all the World".

In choosing the themes and the symbolism for the interior of the chapel, altar piece and windows, the attempt has been made to portray the history of the Christian church. The development of the historic details was planned by the Rev. Dr. Luther Reed, of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy. Because of its character as the chapel of an institution which equips men for Christian Leadership, it seemed appropriate to employ a symbolism expressive of great personalities and great movements in Church history, emphasizing the special contribution of the Lutheran Church.

Beginning with the altar and immediately above it, the plan unfolds chronologically in a double series of figures in the aisle windows, with corresponding heraldic and other designs in the medallions of the clerestory windows above them, on both sides of the building, until the entrance porch at the west end is reached. The reredos above the altar, in addition to the figure of Our Lord, contains statues of the four Evangelists.

The windows in the chancel contain the following figures, representing the Early and Mediaeval Church: St. Peter, the outstanding leader of the Apostles after the Evangelists. St. Paul, the Missionary and Author, on the opposite side of the building. Irenaeus, the great witness at the end of the second century, originally from Asia Minor, but dying as Bishop of Lyons.

Tertullian, the first great Latin writer, and representative of the African Church. The nave represents the particular contribution of the Lutheran Church in the form of typical personalities. On the Gospel side are the following figures, representative of the Reformation and European Lutheranism: Melancthon, the colleague of Luther and pre-eminent scholar of the Reformation.

Bugenhagen, another professor in the University of Wittenberg, and the organizer of the Reformation in North Germany and Denmark. Olavus Petri, the great Reformer of the Church in Sweden.

Chemnitz, the representative theologian of the late Confessional Period in the sixteenth Century. Spenser, the recognized leader of the Pietistic Movement centering in Halle in the seventeenth century. Bach, the eminent musician, the greatest representative of Lutheranism in the Arts.

The Epistle side shows the development of the American Lutheran Church, with the following representative personalities: Peter Muhlenberg, preacher and soldier, a national figure, as Revolutionary General, and the leader of early English Lutheranism. Conrad Weiser, the Indian Interpreter of Colonial Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Virginia, and father-in-law of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg.

Justus Falckner, the first Lutheran clergyman ordained in America. Krauth, the most eminent theologian of his time in the American Lutheran Church. Passavant, editor, philanthropist and church leader, founder of hospitals and deaconess institutions. Haas, teacher, author and churchman whose presidency of Muhlenberg college has covered more than a quarter of a century of remarkable development.

The clerestory windows contain seals in the upper part and symbols in the lower part appropriate to the figure in the corresponding aisle windows, suggestive of the history of Lutheranism in America and Europe.

Melancthon is suggested by the University of Wittenberg and the Augsburg Conference as well as by the books and lamp, and the symbol of Nurnberg. This city and the city of Magdeburg of the next window were representative cities in the formative period of the Reformation.

The next window, corresponding to the picture of Bugenhagen, contains the seals of Denmark and Norway, and commemorates the spread of the Reformation through these countries. The church building suggests the constructive work of Bugenhagen in organizing the church.

There is no stained glass window above the aisle window of Olavus Petri; when this window is placed it will commemorate the spread of the Reformation in Sweden. The seals of Saxony and Brunswick on the next window commemorate their connection with Chemnitz; it was in Brunswick that Chemnitz lived and died. The design of the lyre is intended to suggest some of the hymn writers of the church, particularly Paul Gerhardt.

Halle and Frankfurt, commemorated by their seals in the next window, are closely connected with the life and activity of Spenser. The orphan child and the East Indian suggest missions and the work of mercy developed by the pietistic movement. This will be the theme of this window when it is put in place.

There is no clerestory window above the window representing Bach. On the other side, the first window commemorates the Muhlenbergs. The seal of St. John's Church, Philadelphia, suggests Peter Muhlenberg, who so dramatically threw off his gown in the pulpit and revealed the uniform of an officer of the Revolutionary Army, the friend of Washington, one of the two Pennsylvanians whose statues are in the Hall of Fame in Washington. The seal of the House of Representatives suggests Frederick Augustus Muhlenberg, President of the Pennsylvania Convention which ratified the Federal Constitution, and speaker of the first House of Representatives. The Trappe Church commemorates Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, known as the Patriarch of the Lutheran Church of America, educated at Gottingen and Halle. The willow branches suggest Gotthilf Henry Ernest Muhlenberg, a prominent Lutheran clergyman in Lancaster, but best known as a botanist. This window commemorates Henry Melchior Muhlenberg and three of his distinguished sons.

The second window commemorates Conrad Weiser, whose daughter Anna Maria became the wife of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg. The seals of Pennsylvania and Virginia indicate some of the spheres of activity of Conrad Weiser as Indian interpreter. The symbols of the log cabin and the Indian convey a clear message.

The next window, above the portrait of Justus Falckner, contains seals and symbols suggestive of his work. The seals are the Falckner arms and Colonial New York. The church of Gloria Dei is where he was ordained. The other symbol is the seal of Germantown with the date 1691.

Seals of the University of Pennsylvania and of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia indicate the places of Dr. Krauth's activity; while the fields of his activity are indicated by the books and the words Theology and Philosophy.

The stained glass window above the Passavant window is not yet in place. When this window is given, the seals of the hospital at Milwaukee and Thiel College will indicate the places of Dr. Passavant's activity; while the spheres of his activity will be indicated by the symbols of a deaconess, and a traveling parson to symbolize home missions.

There is no clerestory window above the figure of Dr. Haas. The west window illustrates spheres of Christian Service today, particularly for educated men. This balances the window at the east end with its commission "Go Ye into all the World", and definitely strikes the note of the present day. Four human figures bear symbols representing medicine and teaching, theology and literature, law and business, science and fine arts. The names are in Latin.

At the west end of the nave two large shields below the window over the main entrance contain carved emblems expressive of the Lutheran Reformation and of the American Church respectively. The one on the Gospel, or Reformation side, bears the seal of the City of Augsburg and the date 1530, the year of the Augsburg Confession; the shield on the Epistle, or American Church side, contains a symbol with Muhlenberg's motto, "Ecclesia Plantanda".

As one leaves the building, he should turn towards it for a moment to enjoy the beautiful exterior of this fine Gothic structure; and he should take one more look at the figures of Luther and Melancthon.

Continuing their dizzy pace, the Non-Fraternity basketball team ended the season on the evening of April 7 to end the intramural playing without a single defeat. Their final victory was scored over Delta Theta by the score of 36 to 29.

By virtue of this triumph, the Non-Frat cagers gained a total of 80 points for the season to finish ahead of Phi Kappa Tau which gathered 75. The Phi Tau passers won seven out of eight starts, the only loss being to the league champions.

In clinching the cage championship this year, the Non-Frats ended the season with twenty more points than were needed last year to finish first. At the end of the 1935 games five teams were deadlocked, each having a total of 60 points. The quintet included Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Kappa Nu, Delta Theta, Non-Fraternity, and the Cardinals.

Cardinal And Gray Nine Wallops Two Lafayette Twirlers For 10 Safe Blows As Kern Chalks Up Initial Triumph

Matusa and Hunsicker Lead Local Hitters in Easton Fray

THREE-RUN BARRAGE IN SIXTH CLINCHES TILT

"Bill" Gutteron's nine opened its 1936 season on Wednesday afternoon at Easton with a smashing 6 to 2 victory over the Lafayette college tossers.

The score was tied at 1-all until the beginning of the sixth when Muhlenberg pushed over three runs to establish the winning margin. Most of the scoring was done in the sixth as the Leopards brought in their second run in this inning.

Harry "Doc" Kern pitched the entire game for the Mules, registering seven strike-outs and getting one hit. The Lafayette pitchers were able to garner five strike-outs between them.

There were no home runs nor three-base hits throughout the game. Baldwin of Lafayette took the hitting honors of the game with a brace of two-baggers. Another Leopard player, Steinhardt, accounted for a two-base hit while Hunsicker and Farrell of the locals also knocked out doubles. Matusa led in the number of hits with three while Hunsicker had two.

Muhlenberg left seven men on bases, Lafayette left none. Kern gave four men free tickets to first while Baldwin walked four, and Strohemman two. Lafayette sent three men to bases through Mule errors while the Leopards were guilty of eight miscues. Lineups and summary:

Track Team To Run At Relay Carnival

Renwick Taking Five Runners for Franklin Field Events

The 1936 edition of the Cardinal and Gray track team makes its initial bow of the season today when it takes part in the Penn Relays being run today and tomorrow at Franklin field, Philadelphia. The Muhlenberg relay team is scheduled to participate in the class B intercollegiate run today and the Middle Atlantic relay event tomorrow. The team will remain in Philadelphia overnight.

Coach Renwick has named the starters as Henry Gutekunst, Bill Laing, Grant Brown and Israel Yost. James Ware will be the alternate. The position each man is to run in the meet has not been decided and will not be announced until just before the starting gun. The Penn Relay carnival had its beginning back in the '90's and today will bring approximately 3000 athletes to Philadelphia from all parts of the country. The track upon which the events will be staged is a new one and cost approximately $6,500 to build. National stars such as Gene Venzke, Eulace Peacock and Jesse Owens will take part in the carnival.

Next week Scotty will start getting his full team in shape for the dual meet with St. Joseph's college of Philadelphia. Last year in the first initial dual since 1932 for the Mules, the locals dropped an 84-43 encounter to the Hawks at Philadelphia. A better story is expected this year with the season-old men back and a large number of freshmen available under the new freshman eligibility ruling.

Mule Netmen Drop Opener To Lehigh

Engineers Flash Form to Down Cardinal and Gray; Score, 8 to 1

Going up against what will probably be their stiffest opposition of the season, Muhlenberg's varsity netmen last Saturday dropped their initial match to Lehigh, the games being played in Bethlehem. The Cardinal and Gray racquetballers were able to win but one match out of the nine played. In this engagement Jim Seegers defeated Zell of Lehigh, 1-6, 6-4, 8-6.

This afternoon the courtmen journey to Reading to meet Albright's 1936 tennis edition while tomorrow the busy Mules play the Ursinus netmen at Collegeville. The locals registered 8-1 and 6-1 triumphs respectively over these schools last spring.

Summaries of the Lehigh match are as follows:

Singles:
Dietz, Lehigh defeated Herzberg, Muhlenberg, 6-3, 6-1.
Gerlach, Lehigh, defeated Koch, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-3.
Hoppock, Lehigh, defeated Hartman, Muhlenberg, 6-2, 6-1.

Dean Horn Speaks To Honorary Clubs

Alpha Kappa Alpha and Eta Sigma Phi Hear of Ancient Art

Dean Robert C. Horn addressed members of Alpha Kappa Alpha and Eta Sigma Phi, philosophical and classical societies respectively, on the subject, "Ancient Art" at a joint meeting of the two fraternities at the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house, Liberty street, last Thursday evening.

Discussing Egyptian, Greek and Roman art, Dr. Horn described vividly the characteristics of the sculpture and architecture of these early peoples. He pointed out that in the pyramid and temple, mathematical accuracy and massiveness were the chief aims. The early sculpture was stiff and awkward, without any sense of perspective. Later on, however, gracefulness and skill dominated throughout.

The Romans were influenced by the Etruscans and Greeks. They introduced a new form of sculpture, namely the historical form—instead of idealizing they presented characters as they actually appeared.

Weekly Staff Holds Elections; New Men Take Office Today

Carl J. Hessinger Will Head Business Office Coming Year

Alvin Butz Chosen Editor;
George Machajdik To Be
Managing Editor

MILLER, SEEGER AND KEIPER RETIRING HEADS

Alvin H. Butz, Jr., '37, was elected to the office of editor-in-chief of The Muhlenberg Weekly at the annual staff elections held last week. Carl J. Hessinger '37 will head the business office during the coming school year as the result of his election as business manager. The position of managing editor will be filled by George Machajdik '37, during the 1936-37 term.

The three newly-elected officers took active charge of their various offices last week and will put out the remaining Weekly editions this year, in accordance with the usual custom of the staff in previous years. Junior and senior members of both the editorial and business staffs were eligible to vote for the candidates for election.

The election marked the second time in the history of the newspaper that the members of the staff alone voted for their various officers. Last year the student body passed the amendment which gave the staff the right to assume full management of the student publication with the supervision of the faculty adviser, Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere. The retiring members of the staff this spring are the first men to have been elected under the new system. In former years the election was thrown open to the vote of the entire student body.

Mr. Butz is a graduate of the Allentown High school, class of 1933. At Muhlenberg he has engaged in debating and oratory, also holding membership in the Alpha

Sub-Freshman Day Proclaimed Success

Department Demonstrations Are Popular With High School Guests

Approximately 200 High school seniors and prospective Muhlenberg students visited the campus on Saturday, the date of the annual sub-freshman day demonstration. The program began at 9:15 A. M. in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel where an assembly was held, following registration at the college office. The remainder of the morning was spent in making the rounds of the various classrooms in the administration building where each department put on a demonstration for the visitors.

Before lunch the various groups visited the library to view a display of Muhlenbergiana and then went to the Science auditorium where several talks were given and the German department presented a short comedy skit in German.

The science department did its part by providing a variety of interesting experiments and demonstrations for the sub-freshmen. The several museums of the building were open and the exhibits on display. The group later observed the baseball game between Temple and Muhlenberg.

NEW WEEKLY OFFICERS

CARL J. HESSINGER

ALVIN H. BUTZ

Above are pictured two of the newly-elected officers of The Muhlenberg Weekly. Alvin H. Butz, Jr., '37, has been elected editor-in-chief and Carl J. W. Hessinger, '37, business manager. The new managing editor is George Machajdik '37. These men will serve for the remainder of the year and during the 1936-37 term.

Spring Production Recalls Memories

Professors Barba and Marks Had Leads in 1906 Pinero Play

The spring production of Mask and Dagger brings memories of 1906 when Professors Barba and Marks, then student thespians, took part in another of Pinero's play, "The Magistrate." This farce was presented in the Lyric theatre by the old Muhlenberg Dramatic Association which scored a triumph with the aforementioned professors playing the leading roles.

The present production, Pinero's "His House in Order", is one of the eminent English playwright's ten best plays. In 1906 the play opened simultaneously in London and New York, being the hit of Broadway that season. Pinero's work may rightly be considered as opening a new era of freedom in modern English drama. The theme of "His House in Order" like most of the themes of Pinero's social comedies is a human, domestic problem with the attendant complications.

Pinero's plays will always be remembered for their excellent characterizations. They strike deeply into current social problems, many times bringing sympathy to those deserving. Many who laughed with Pinero in his brilliant forces were ill prepared for his challenging strong dramas. Another of his plays, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was produced by the Civic Little Theatre, a local dramatic group, two seasons ago.

I. N. A. Convention At U. Of Delaware

Richard G. Miller and George Machajdik To Represent "Weekly" Staff

Two members of The Muhlenberg Weekly editorial staff have been named as delegates to represent the local campus publication at the spring convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States on the Delaware university campus Friday and Saturday of this week.

The students who will make the trip are Richard G. Miller '36, retiring editor-in-chief, and George Machajdik '37, newly-elected managing editor for next year.

The outstanding feature of the convention, other than the formal banquet and addresses by noted journalists, will be the presentation of Ibsen's immortal drama "Peer Gynt", by the 52 Players, noted in the East as a Little Theatre group. The play has been prepared especially for this performance by Dr. C. R. Kase, director of dramatics at the University of Delaware.

Following morning, afternoon, and evening sessions both Friday and Saturday, the convention will be brought to a close at the Saturday evening meeting in the form of banquet and dance. Well-known newspapermen to be heard during the conference have been announced as follows:

William L. Mapel, Laura Lee, Tom Daly, Leigh Mitchell Hodges, Wm. Sykes, R. R. Robertson, W. B. Littell and Walter Dent Smith.

Prep Head Addresses Students In Chapel

Using the violin as a comparison, Prof. Louis Hackemann of Allentown Preparatory school gave an interesting talk on the leading of a harmonious life, in Thursday's chapel period.

Beginning with the E string, Prof. Hackemann suggested that, this, although comparatively easy to learn, has its pitfalls and means work instead of all play to succeed. Recreation was introduced as the second string, this however must be reckoned with when playing the first string because good work and recreation cannot be separated. The third string, classed as affection was depicted as quality. Bringing affliction in as the fourth string, Prof. Hackemann referred it to quality which, he said, is always important to us. Closing with a fifth "melody", the "basis of society", which he called religion, Headmaster Hackemann stressed the fact that without religion we will live an unbalanced life, devoid of the steady influence of belief in God.

Dr. John A. W. Haas Scholarship Founded

A new scholarship for Muhlenberg students has come into being as the result of a meeting held by the Alumni Fund Council last week. The council decided to place the money it has collected this year into a scholarship fund to be known as the Dr. John A. W. Haas Scholarship, in honor of our retiring president, who is completing his thirty-second year of service here.

The scholarship will be awarded annually by a committee of the faculty to a man considered most worthy after a study of the man's work during his first three years of work here.

The Alumni Fund Council has been operating for the past five years and has as its purpose the use of money collected from the alumni to further worthy causes on the campus.

The president of the council is William S. Hudders; the secretary, Donald P. Miller; the treasurer, Richard P. Betz; and the alumni director, Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig.

The Rev. P. Morentz To Be Vesper Speaker

The Rev. Paul I. Morentz, Lutheran missionary to the Jews, will speak on "Searching the Scriptures," when he occupies the pulpit in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel on Sunday afternoon in the regular vesper service. During the past five years the missionary has delivered some five hundred lectures on the Old Testament.

The vesper speaker was born in Russia of strict Jewish parents. About thirty years ago, however, he was converted to Christianity and last year celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary in the Lutheran ministry. His primary education was obtained in Russian and Hebrew schools. He attended High school at Pittsburgh, Thiel college, the Chicago seminary and did graduate work at both the Chicago seminary and the University of Chicago. The Rev. Mr. Morentz has his offices in the Muhlenberg building, Philadelphia.

GAIN IN ATTENDANCE AT LECTURES ON SEX

The Biology of Sex lectures sponsored by the M. C. A. and given by Dr. John V. Shankweiler, head of the Biology department, are gaining popularity as the lectures continue. The attendance increased from about fifty the first week to approximately seventy-five the second week.

This year the lectures are held in a small classroom on the third floor of the Science building. Another innovation this year is that the department is showing microscopic slides upon screens to illustrate the lectures.

Sympathy

The staff of The Muhlenberg Weekly joins with the student body in expressing the deepest feelings of sympathy to Dr. and Mrs. Preston Barba on their recent loss.

Revision Of Point System Considered By Campus Circle

Tapping Ceremony To Take Place in Chapel Period, May 15

APPLICANTS TO SUBMIT QUALIFICATION BLANKS

As a token of high honor and esteem for his many years of service to the college and for his support of its fraternal organizations, President John A. W. Haas has been invited to be the guest of honor at the annual spring initiation ceremony and banquet of Alpha Epsilon circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity. The tentative date set for the function is Friday evening, May 22, at a place yet to be chosen.

Dr. Haas, who will retire as active president of the college on June 1, has been a member of this honorary campus group for the past six years and as a fitting close to its year's work, the Circle has announced this event in honor of Muhlenberg's head.

The annual spring "tapping" ceremony is to take place during the chapel period on Friday, May 15, two days following spring campus elections.

At a meeting of the Circle held last week, a revision of the O. D. K. point system was presented by David Booth, chairman of a committee on that work. Under the new arrangements points are to be awarded for every campus office or position, a practice which heretofore was not carried out.

It was also suggested that blanks be prepared for all future applicants who will need only to check their activities as listed on the sheet. These marked activities will then require the signature of the faculty supervisor of that particular club or society.

This system will go into effect

Alpha Kappa Alpha To Convene Today

Fourth Bi-annual Convention Will Be Held At Hotel Taylor

The fourth bi-annual convention of Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary fraternity in Philosophy, will be held today at the Hotel Taylor.

The call to order will be preceded by a brief meeting of the National Council. From 3:30 to 5:30 a business session of the convention will be held, with reports of the national officers and of the chapters. After a brief intermission, a model initiation will be held with a number of Muhlenberg and Gettysburg men being inducted into the fraternity.

A dinner will be served at 6:30 after which there will be a number of informal speeches by professors affiliated with the fraternity, and by the presidents of the chapters. A second business session will follow with the election of officers for the coming biennium.

Adit

With this issue of The Muhlenberg Weekly a new staff takes up the editorial pen with the hope that it may measure up to the high standards of the retiring officers. Realizing the responsibilities of its position, the new staff will not purpose so much as to make drastic improvements in the publication, but to maintain the quality of the preceding staff. Should it be successful in this respect, it will feel that it has done its duty.

An undertaking of this sort, however, is not dependent upon the staff alone, but also upon the whole-hearted support of the administration and leaders of student organizations. Up to the present cooperation with the staff on the part of the above mentioned has been exceedingly satisfactory, and we hope that it may continue so in the future.

With the aim to present to the student body a paper of which it can be justly proud, we will proceed on our way, trying to do our best and to give our utmost to the cause.

The Old Order Changeth

That the athletic situation at Muhlenberg has turned over a new leaf is evidenced by a hitherto dampened but now revived athletic spirit both among the students and the athletes on the campus. For the past several weeks the football squad has been engaged in spring training and those past weeks have seen an entirely new attitude on the gridiron front. The sessions are really practice periods devoted to football and not casual exercise. New methods of training and the manner in which these methods are being presented are bound to produce at least a fighting team. The student perhaps has no right to expect a victory over Army in the fall, but he does have a right to see a squad take the field against a big-time outfit with the will to win and the spirit to make it evident. With this attitude instilled in the players, victories will take care of themselves.

Several self-styled stars of last year's squad failed to recognize this spring that things no longer are as they were. These gentlemen now have the privilege of observing this fact from a point outside the limits of the squad. There is work to be done and it cannot be accomplished unless discipline is exercised. In all fairness it must be admitted that the players as a whole are heartily in favor of the new order and are giving it the kind of support which will make it successful. Talk is cheap, but we believe that it will be backed up by the showing our teams will make this spring and in the fall.

The Three Dictators

The Turkish dictator, taking a leaf from the Hitler note book has ordered troops into the demilitarized Dardanelles and Mussolini is reported as saying the situation is "equally as serious as Germany's violation of the Locarno pact."

The future must decide the seriousness of Hitler's Rhineland re-occupation. Certainly the present situation is not alarming. France has moved her troops forward into the fortified lines but there is little reason to believe that anything more serious than this will develop for the present. Hitler may therefore be said to be getting away with it. Mussolini in both the military sense and the diplomatic is getting away with the Ethiopian situation and if the record of two dictators means anything, the third dictator, Kemal Ataturk will get away with his violation, too.

Communications

I have just read the freshman masterpiece "Professors, College, Or Just So Much Nonsense! Frosh Wonders", as found in the April 8th issue. As an upper-classman, I do not wish to divulge my class affiliation, might I ask, not only do the frosh wonder, but I and many of my class-mates, also wonder. We have been subjected to similar instances, a bit longer than has the frosh author, and we too have come to the same conclusion.

Reference was made to the athletes, and might I advise the freshman responsible for the article in question, that if he is a student of but ordinary intellectual powers, and exhibits no exceptional intelligence in his classroom the only way to get along is to indulge in a bit of handshaking and bull throwing, to try to earn a varsity letter in some sport, and proudly exhibit his letter to the susceptible professors, and earn his A or B. However, please do not misinterpret this statement, I am not ridiculing the athletes—more power to them—but I personally do not see the cause for partiality. And there is no denying that this condition does exist. It is all too evident; not only on the Muhlenberg campus but on many others.

Another condition which we have noticed, is that of a student pursuing more than one course in the same department (for instance two or three courses in the English Department). We all know that the teachers of one department have their offices in the same room. Between them, there seems to be a gentleman's agreement to mark the student with one mark, no matter how low, in all of his subjects in that department. I personally have experienced this, ever since I have attended Muhlenberg. Sad, isn't it?

In conclusion, I wish to state that this is not the work of a crank, but of a person who wishes to bring some things to light and if possible to give them a good airing—to blow away the stench of these proceedings.

LIBERTY LEAGUE HAS MUHLENBERG ON LIST

Authority and Liberty

The following is an article from the pen of President John A. W. Haas as it appeared in the April 16th issue of The Lutheran, volume eighteen, number twenty-one:

AUTHORITY AND LIBERTY

It is a common opinion among many people that authority and liberty are altogether opposed to each other. Where authority reigns, liberty is supposed to be absent, and where liberty exists authority is held to be abrogated. That they cannot live together is the largely prevalent view. Where authority rules it is conceived to cover the whole realm of life. Liberty seems to demand that it shall not be limited by authority. Can there not be limited liberty? But even if we must admit that both authority and liberty have their boundaries in life, this admission does not solve the question. Where shall we find this solution? Where it reaches its highest significance, namely, in religion.

The contest between authority and liberty is most acute in religious thought and life. When youth comes to the period of seeking its own solution of life's highest problems, and of setting its independent attitude to inherited dogma of faith and moral principles in life, it is liable to reject all claims of authority. In this rejection all value of history and all past experiences of mankind are set aside in the ferment and ebullience of adolescence. But there is a great self-deception in the idea that we are free from all authority in our so-called independence of thought. Upon closer examination it will be found that either consciously or unconsciously we mostly follow some authority. The only question is whether we choose a reliable or an unreliable authority. In our inexperience we may adhere to false conceptions. The opposition to the old and the search after the novel, is not always safe.

Liberty can never be purely individualistic. It must be social if unnecessary conflicts are to be avoided, and the rights of all to be respected. In the same way in religion both thought and life must be social. From social sources we obtain our ideas of religion, although they must be individually appropriated. Now from what social source shall we obtain our religion in such a manner as to reconcile authority and liberty?

The Roman Catholic conception centers authority in the church. It is the organization of the church that controls all thought and life. The infallible voice of the Holy Spirit finds utterance through the infallible decrees of the pope. The difficulty in this position is that history contradicts the inerrancy of papal decrees. And, in addition, tion, the whole intellect must surrender itself to the church. Real liberty is eliminated in the religious conceptions and ideas. Acceptance of the church's dogmas is absolutely required in all spheres of thought and life.

But it may be objected that even in Protestantism the adherence to certain articles of faith and views of life is asked for. Some churches stress the faith more and others the life. Some allow great freedom of thought, and, on the other hand, are very legalistic and Puritanic in the demands of what is considered to be the consistent Christian life. Where, as in our Lutheran Church, there is evangelical liberty of life, there is strong confessionalism. We want adherence to our accepted creeds.

Is there then no liberty anywhere? Are all ruling religious societies authoritarian? Is there no reconciliation between authority and liberty to be found anywhere? The unity of authority and liberty is to be found whenever the voice of the church rests upon the authority of God's revelation. The obedience of faith in Christ and His service is real and perfect freedom. His truth makes us free in Him the Son. The authority of revelation is the authority of the liberating and sanctifying Holy Spirit. If we accept and live in the Spirit we feel no subjection. The religion of the Spirit guides through an inviting, and not an oppressive, authority into the liberty of the children of God. We find our highest and best self through the personality of Jesus Christ, and His mastership makes us free disciples from all that enslaves us. Sin and evil are overcome, misleading human opinions are conquered, the world and its interests no longer bind us. The only way of having an authority that liberates is found in Him Who is the Way, the Truth and the Life.

CAMPUS CHATTER

A new wonder man has been discovered at Muhlenberg. Believe it or not, Bernie Blackman made a date for the M. C. A. dance; ran three blocks to the dorms; shaved; bathed; dressed; bought a pack of cigarettes; picked up his date about 10 blocks away; and arrived at the hop; all in 25 minutes. Said Bernie, "Only a man with four years of experience at Muhlenberg could do that."

The following is an extract from Prof. Jackson's farewell speech to one of Dr. Swain's classes whom he had been instructing in Dr. Swain's absence.

"You will probably be very glad to hear that Dr. Swain will be back soon. And will I be MORE than glad! My, what a class!"

Mask and Dagger Society to Produce "His House in Order"

THREE COLLEGES WILL HAVE MEMBERS IN PLAY

With the dress rehearsal of the Mask and Dagger production "His House in Order" scheduled for tonight, much interest is being shown in the play to be presented in the High school auditorium tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Brown, Muhlenberg dramatic authority is highly optimistic over the scheduled performance, while Mrs. Robert Conklin, dramatic coach is well pleased with the rehearsals of her combined Cedar Crest-Muhlenberg cast.

This production will bring together an exceptionally fine cast. Miss Dorothea Wilker, daughter of Dr. Conrad Wilker, pastor of St. Michael's Lutheran Church will play the role of the impulsive misunderstood second wife, Nina, who triumphs over her persecutors in the final act. Miss Wilker is well known on the local stage having starred in the Cedar Crest productions of "The Cradle Song" and "Gloconda" and a Mask and Dagger performance of "Like Falling Leaves". The aristocratic proud Ridgelys will be impersonated by Emily Tweedale of the Chimes Club, Cedar Crest, Irene Peters of Lebanon Valley college dramatic club who was seen last fall in "Laff That Off", and Frederick Gregorius and Phil Parkinson of Muhlenberg. Gregorius also played a leading role in "Laff That Off". Filmer Jesson, the old unsympathetic husband will be played by Herbert Haas who made such a hit in "Box and Cox" this spring, while the important role of the understanding brother, Hilary Jesson will be in the capable hands of Wahl Pfeiffer who took part in amateur theatricals in Western Pennsylvania. Joseph Osman a member of the Mask and Dagger, has taken part in the Civic Little Theatre tournament and will participate.

NOTICE

Every student organization of the campus is being asked to take part in the Alumni Day parade, May 30, which will be in honor of Dr. John A. W. Haas who retires from active duty at the close of the college year. The alumni secretary and the registrar are desirous of making this parade a most representative gathering of students and organizations to pay homage to Dr. Haas.

Student clubs and fraternities are asked to make their own plans about the parade which will be around the campus. Every organization should be represented in some way—either by a float, costumes, banners or some other means—use your ingenuity.

All organization heads or some one delegated to the post as parade chairman is requested to register his organization with the registrar. The person signing will be responsible for his organization's representation in the parade. Register immediately, please, with the registrar. Let's make this a banner event for Dr. Haas.

Muhlenberg Weekly Offer Unanimously Accepted By Group

Machajdik and Miller Give Invite at Delaware Meeting of Body

LEHIGH WINS ALL CUPS IN THREE DEPARTMENTS

For the second time within three years Muhlenberg's campus has been chosen for one of the semi-annual conventions of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic states. Extending an invitation for the fall convocation here, along with two other members of the group, The Muhlenberg Weekly offer was unanimously accepted by more than 100 delegates who attended the spring meeting held last Friday and Saturday at Delaware University in Newark.

It was in the spring of 1933 that the intercollegiate newspapermen last visited the local school for one of their conferences. Conventions since that time have been held at Stevens Institute, Ursinus, University of Pittsburgh, and Delaware University. Bids for the next press convocation were also made by Alfred university and Drexel Institute.

Members of The Weekly staff who represented the paper at the Delaware meeting and who gave the invitation for the fall conference were Richard G. Miller, retiring editor-in-chief, and George Machajdik, new managing editor. Russell H. Derr, senior, also made the trip.

All three silver loving cups for the editorial, news and make-up, and advertising contests went to Lehigh university. In the general news competition Lehigh was tied for first with Temple university, but the former was given possession.

FINAL CHOIR CONCERT GIVEN AT CONFERENCE

The concluding concert of the season for the chapel choir was presented when the Reading Conference met at Trinity Lutheran church, Kutztown, on Monday, May 4. Unity vs. Sectionalism

With the election of student body officers a week off, the question arises in the mind of almost every student as to who will fill the positions of the retiring heads.

To some it seems to be a matter of speculation—the entire proposition lying in the hands of fate. To others of a more conservative view, it is a matter which depends not on the social prestige of the individual nor on his affiliations with various campus organizations, but his ability to devote his time and effort in the interests of the entire student body.

The group, however, which demands most of the attention of thoughtful students, is that one which purposes to push a man into office regardless of his qualifications of holding such a position. A number of factions are found in this group, namely the fraternity, non-fraternity, and dormitory students. During the ensuing week, probably a group of non-fraternity men will get together and decide to support a certain nominee for each office. Then, too, the fraternities may form a clique and, by means of a gentlemen's agreement, decide on their choices. The same thing may happen with the dormitory students. Instead of the student body, going to the meeting and voting as a unit, it will cast a ballot in favor of him who satisfies a particular faction.

The real issue is unity vs. sectionalism—to put Muhlenberg first or a particular faction first, for it all amounts to the same thing. It is certainly a regrettable thing to think that college students cannot think for themselves when it comes to such a situation. It is natural that groups with the same interests should stick together, but it is a grievous error to elect one into office just because the certain organization desires it.

The First Week

The new staff of The Weekly has arrived at the end of the first two weeks of its activity. The first week fell upon us with vengeance. With a late issue preceding the election it was a real job to get our task done on time. But what we wish to deal with in this editorial is the element of criticism. It's the same old story. Those who don't know, act as if they do, while those who do know, offer really helpful criticism. It is concerning the first group we write. Weekly staffs in the past have undergone the same fire. Former Muhlenberg coaches knew the public lash. Even the faculty has not been immune. So who are we to resent the criticism of the undergraduates? All that we ask is that our critics make themselves helpful and in doing so they will be most welcome.

There is a certain class of people which aviators call "armchair flyers". This class is not peculiar to aviation. The side-line coach is a popular figure in the athletic contest. What would happen if the players were to give up their places to the helpful boys on the side-lines is another story.

We don't wish to infer that there has been much adverse criticism concerning our paper. On the contrary while the new staff waited for the avalanche to fall it barely dislodged a few pebbles which clattered harmlessly by. So let it be with future avalanches.

The Weekly has a box in the college post office. That box was placed there for the convenience of the students who wish to make use of their paper. We will appreciate either news or helpful criticism which may be offered and may we conclude with a cordial "thank you" to those who have helped us over the bumps.

Rev. Morentz Speaker At Community Service

Showing that the point of view taken by the Jewish people in regards to the scriptures is inconsistent, Rev. Paul I. Morentz, a member of the Lutheran Committee on Jewish missions, spoke Sunday afternoon at the community vesper service held in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel at the college.

The Christian leader among the Jews, who based his sermon on the theme "Searching the Scriptures" showed that the practice of investigation into the Great Book makes one think more of eternal life. He urged that the Christians look upon Christ as their salvation and not as a mythical being. "Religion without Christ and eternal life is no religion worthwhile" said Rev. Morentz.

"The Lord is My Strength" was the anthem presented by the Chapel Choir under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks. Assisting in the devotional service were: Dr. John A. W. Haas, Rev. Russell Stine, and Rev. Harry C. Cressman.

Chapel Attendance Is Discussed By Speaker

On Tuesday, April 28, the speaker in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel was Leroi E. Snyder, Field Secretary for Muhlenberg college and also the head of Camp Miller, Lutheran summer camp for boys. Not long graduated from Muhlenberg, Mr. Snyder discussed a question which recurrently faces each student: "Why go to chapel?"

The speaker said that we should strive to be a unified whole and that in worship we find the one means of pulling the strands of our life together. Mr. Snyder suggested that just as old time religion meetings were called "recolleagues", so we should make religious services a time for "re-collecting" the fragmentary bits of our life. He pointed out that Jesus realized this tendency in life when he asked, "Wilt thou be whole?" The chapel speaker declared that most influences tend to pull us apart and that college life tends to do the same thing. He concluded that in religion we find one of the few things that brings us back to a balanced existence.

PRE-LEGAL BODY HEARS FORMER STATE SENATOR

Henry L. Snyder, former state senator, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the John Marshall Pre-Legal club held last Thursday evening in the Administration building. Senator Snyder spoke on the subject, "The State Legislature."

In a business meeting preceding the address the club decided to drop plans for an "Ausflug" because of the expense involved. It was instead decided that the organization should have an outing at a place and time as yet undecided.

The meeting was in charge of president Donald Hausman. The election of officers will be held at the next regular meeting.

Sophomores Nominate For Ciarla Officers

The sophomore class assembled last Wednesday morning in the Science Hall auditorium for the purpose of nominating officers for the 1938 Ciarla.

Joseph Osman and Herman Heim were nominated for the position of editor-in-chief. The latter, however, declined his nomination in favor of Osman.

Other nominees are James Harps and Charles Kern for business manager; and Richard Bausch and Donald Pichaske for advertising manager.

By virtue of his being the sole nominee, Osman automatically becomes editor-in-chief. The other officers will be known after the elections tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the chemistry lecture room.

A. P. S. ENGLISH HEAD ADDRESSES AUXILIARY

Prof. Waller, head of the English department at Allentown Preparatory school, spoke on "An Instructor looks at Education," at a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the college held last week at Prep school. Plans were also completed at that time for the presentation of "His House in Order", by the Mask and Dagger club of the college on May 7, in the Allentown High school auditorium.

tomorrow because the final arrangements for the class to be held May 8 will be made at the meeting. Class members are asked to write their names on a slip of paper together with a statement as to whether or not they intend to go to the banquet. This slip of paper is to be given either to one of the class officers or to Frank Tracy, the chairman of the committee. This is important as the committee cannot make proper arrangements for the banquet unless it knows how many of the class will attend.

PENN A. C. DEFEATS MULES 17-5

Pennacs Reach Cardinal And Gray Nine For 17 Hits And As Many Runs In Game Played On Phillies' Field

Kern and Sell Hold Mound for Locals Against Philadelphians

NOSAL CONNECTS FOR TWO-BAGGER IN NINTH

Once again the hostile bat swung freely as the Penn Athletic Club baseball team turned back the Cardinal and Gray nine by a 17-5 score in a game played at the Phillies' ball park in Philadelphia last Saturday.

Two pitchers were used by the locals in a vain endeavor to check the powerful Pennac hitting. Harry "Doc" Kern started the game on the mound for the Mules but was replaced in the fourth with the score standing 8 to 0 against Muhlenberg, six of these runs having been scored in the fourth. Sell, sophomore relief pitcher, fared no better. In the seventh errors and hits advanced the Philadelphians seven more runs.

Joe Nosal, junior, center fielder, led the Cardinal and Gray hitting attack with a double in the ninth which brought in two of the three runs garnered by Muhlenberg in the final frame.

Bill McGill, Penn A. C. center fielder, took the hitting honors for the day with a home run in the second, off Kern. The circuit drive netted two runs.

The Pennacs also used two pitchers; Kent Woelfel and Al Herman. These two moundmen kept the Mules well under control in the early innings.

St. Joseph's Wins Track Meet 72-53

Gutekunst Captures Two Firsts in First Home Dual Meet in Recent Years

Despite the fact that both teams were practically even in the number of first places won, the St. Joseph's Hawks defeated the Cardinal and Gray trackman last Thursday by the score of 72-53. The difference in the score was the result of the number of second and third places secured by the visiting cinder men. The Cardinal and Gray trackmen were especially strong in the dashes and shorter runs but the lack of material for the mile and longer events caused their downfall. It was in these events that the trackmen representing St. Joe's secured many of their points. Nevertheless the competition was keen and the dual meet, the first home meet in several years was very successful.

Although the track itself was slow, the time for the events was much better than that of last year's meet at Philadelphia. Gutekunst and Gibson both managed to secure two first places for the Cardinal and Gray, while Tom Riley and Capt. Farley each garnered two first places for St. Joseph's in various events.

The summaries of the meet are as follows:

Shotput—Won by Tom Riley, St. Joseph's; second, Groff, Muhlenberg; third, H. Riley, St. Joseph's. Distance, 41 feet.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Capt. Farley, St. Joseph's; second, Oakes, St. Joseph's; third, Horn Muhlenberg. Time 17 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Capt. Farley, St. Joseph's; second, Fleming, St. Joseph's; third, Oakes, St. Joseph's. Time 27.3 seconds.

Three base hits—Eddows, Home run—McGill. Stolen base—French 3; Eddows, Tracy and Gutekunst.

Double plays—Callaghan (unassisted); Silson to Callaghan to Carlsen.

Left on bases—Muhlenberg, 10; Penn A. C., 16. Base on balls—off Woelfel, 3; Kern, 3; Sell, 2; Herman, 3. Struck out by Woelfel, 2; Kern, 1; Sell, 2; Herman, 2. Hits off Kern, 7 in 1-3-5 innings; off Woelfel, 6 in 6 innings; off Sell, 10 in 1-3-5 innings; off Herman, 4 in 3-5 innings. Hit by pitcher—by Sell (Harwi, Herman); K. in, Kern, 1 (French, Herman (Dietrich)). Winning pitcher—Woelfel. Losing pitcher—Kern. Umpires—Coffee and Doyle. Time of game 2:25.

Mask And Dagger Comedy Is Enjoyed By Large Audience

"His House In Order" Given in High School Auditorium

LARGE CAST PRESENTS SIR PINERO'S FARCE

Friends of the Mask and Dagger club filled the Allentown High school auditorium last Thursday evening to see the club's spring production "His House in Order", by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. Enthusiasm in the club's work has increased enormously since their reorganization this year. It was necessary to secure the high school auditorium to accommodate the large audience.

Each part was capably handled by the cast of fourteen, the audience at times breaking into spontaneous applause in recognition of the fine acting.

The Mask and Dagger club is especially thankful for the excellent assistance given by Dorothea Wilker and Irene Peters of this city, Emily Tweedale and Irene Thompson of Cedar Crest, and Vincent Roggeveen of Allentown Prep school.

Stage furnishings were in charge of John Heyl, a Muhlenberg alumnus, and were secured from Benesch Furniture store of this city.

Makeup was in charge of another Muhlenberg graduate, Luther Wenner, with Dorothea Wilker assisting.

Dresses of the 1910 period were lent to the cast by members of the Muhlenberg Ladies' Auxiliary. Roth, the costumer, outfitted the men in the cast.

Production was in charge of Mrs. Robert Conklin, who ably coached the actors and actresses in the work for the past season.

John Stump, treasurer, who was elected to that position at the beginning of the present semester, serves until the elections of the second semester of next term.

When the group assembled at the park grounds, two teams were selected by Warren Schlegel and Karl Lehr to play softball. After playing nine innings, Lehr's proteges won by a score of 15-12.

During the course of the picnic, the senior members of the organization, and Dr. Preston A. Barba and Dr. Harry H. Reichard spoke briefly concerning the past and future condition of the club.

Contracts for this yearly publication will be let as soon as advisable. The remainder of the Ciarla staff will be appointed soon by the editor and the business manager.

Successful Season For Chapel Choir To End on May 31

Singers Traveled Seventeen Times and Gave Two Broadcasts

NINE MEMBERS TO BE LOST BY GRADUATION

Classed by many noted men as the outstanding choral group in the east, for the presentation of sacred music, the college chapel choir will bring its successful season to a close with the baccalaureate service on May 31.

With the exception of two Sundays when the choir broadcasted over Station WCAU, Philadelphia and the trip to Lebanon and Harrisburg, the choristers have been present at every service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel for the community vesper services.

In the first semester the choir made six trips and sang to 1642 people, while the second semester found the schedule much more extensive with 11 trips, singing to 3758 people. Some of the outstanding trips taken were Trenton and Camden, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Lebanon and Harrisburg.

The choir will lose by graduation: Karl Reinhard and Richard G. Miller, first tenors; Ralph Ebert and Theodore Fisher, second tenors; George Ostermayer and William Coleman, first bass; and Russell Derr, Joseph Schantz, William Pfeifer, second bass.

The group has done fine work under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks and has received many notable commendations from every city in which it sang. Manager Theodore Fischer has done excellent work in the business end of the choir. Newly-elected Manager Harry A. Curl promises a continuation of the same type of work next year.

By reason of the territory the organization covers and the many various groups it comes in contact with, the choir has become one of the best agents of the school in a publicity sense. In addition to their usual Sunday services at home the body has gained wide recognition throughout the state for the excellence of its work.

Pre-Medicos Hear Dr. Edward Bauer

Jefferson Professor Speaks to Group on "Socialization of Medicine"

Adding another name to the long list of noted medical men that have visited the Pre-Medical club, Dr. Edward L. Bauer, professor of pediatrics at Jefferson Medical college of Philadelphia, spoke to that group on Wednesday, May 6. Dr. Bauer's lecture was considered one of the season's highlights inasmuch as Dr. Bauer is highly rated in his field, having charge of the pediatrics department at Jefferson Medical college. His subject was, "Socialization of Medicine."

Several months ago the Pre-medical club journeyed to Jefferson Medical college to familiarize the members with the requirements of medical colleges. It has been the custom of the Pre-medical club under the faculty supervision of Dr. John V. Shankweiler to invite eminent members of the medical profession to speak to them and discuss the problems of the student planning to enter medical college. Many of the problems that confront the pre-medicos are solved in the conferences.

The Pre-medical club has been especially active on the campus aiding its members in the preparation for their chosen professions.

A Revival

The recent success of the Mask and Dagger's production, "His House in Order", marked the revival of a distinctly worth-while movement on the campus. Hand in hand with the presentation of Piner's farce goes the announcement that the local chapter of a national dramatic fraternity is being once more put into active operation.

It is not until something unusual is done that the student body will take notice of and recognize the work of fellow students. When the curtain arose for "His House in Order" in the Allentown High school auditorium it was the outward display of that which took months of painstaking effort to produce. Long rehearsals, untiring practice and work on mechanical difficulties were the basic foundations upon which the completed presentation was built. All of this labor was unsung and quietly gone about but the results were worth the effort.

There was a time when the Mask and Dagger was one of the most active organizations at Muhlenberg. It was not only a well-known group on the campus but it had a reputation in the city which rivaled any other dramatic body, some of them with much larger membership than our club could lay claim to. In those days the announcement of a new Mask and Dagger production was enough to cause that production to become the center of dramatic interest in the Lehigh valley. It is earnestly hoped that the present revival of dramatic interest will not be short-lived but will continue in a strong fashion.

The Handwriting on The Wall

As the League of Nations convened months ago, member countries were confronted with the strange handwriting on the wall, only in this case it knew what the writing signified. It was not heard and in time what resulted?—the fall of this marvelous covenant.

This was coincident with the fall of Addis Ababa. Into a war-torn, primitive country, the Italians have brought what they call civilization. No longer does the traditional line rule, but the machine, steel, and radio have the upper-hand. Il Duce says that "Ethiopia is Italian because of the civilization which triumphs over barbarities, justice which triumphs over cruel whims and redemption of miseries which triumphs over slavery."

Was it civilization which sent hordes of helpless Ethiopians to their death? Was it justice in bombing peaceful hospitals and villages, and laying waste a barren country? As to the redemption of miseries, is it guaranteed that the Ethiopians will be a free people?

It is not only Il Duce who has participated in such warfare, but many another nation sent armies into the field years ago on similar raids.

Thus we find ourselves not concerned with Addis Ababa, but with Geneva, where western idealism has founded the League of Nations—an idealism which yet has to work itself into something practical.

Geneva is a symbol of collective protection. The primary purpose of the League is for the nations to band together to protect anyone of their number against aggressors. Ethiopia was a member, and the League failed. But why has it failed? Merely because of the fact that Geneva cannot rise above Paris and London, which are grounded upon oppressions and hypocrisies similar to Il Duce's. In this case, idealism proved to be a dangerous thing for it has been betrayed as it often has before.

Communications

Allow me to go on record as the first person to knock the new coach. In spite of his zealous efforts to encourage all manner of candidates for the varsity eleven, Mr. Julian has completely neglected the aspirants to the one position which attracts the most students. He drills the centers, puts in hour after hour teaching the guards and tackles how to pull out of the line and run interference, and spares nothing in instructing the backs and ends in the finer points of the passing game; but what—I ask you—just what attention has he given to the fine crew of remote-control quarterbacks, to which the greater part of us belong. There are plenty of blackboard lectures, pep talks and even an occasional letter for the players, but not a word for the Monday morning signal-barkers. To make matters worse, many of our best men are seniors and have reshaped their last game for their Alma Mater. Those remaining in school are sadly out of practice, for the basketball season, which usually offers an off-season diversion, somehow, this year, did not inspire very much second-guessing. And to complete the picture of an utterly dismal situation we are obliged to admit that many of us are badly out of shape, having fallen into the habit of good diction and lost that rasping voice, which is indispensable to a top-notch kibitzer.

Yet there is still hope that by next fall some of the quicker freshmen will have developed into able replacements for our waning ranks. In order to assure this, perhaps it would be advisable to give a course of instruction, a sort of spring training, in the fundamentals of grandstand coaching. They could be sent letters presenting problems such as this:

"Your team has just lost the ball on downs within seven inches of the goal. You have just passed some very disparaging remarks concerning Mr. S-----, halfback, who carried the ball on the last play, when you happen to glance about you and notice six or seven nasty looking gentlemen, whose countenances indicate that they would enjoy acting as pallbearers at your funeral. Your pal next to you, nudges you and says, 'That's S-----'s brother', indicating one of the more ferocious of the aforesaid gentlemen.

How much will you pay for the hot dog which you fetch at this point, barring accidents?"

Then, if this method should fail, we have only one course to follow. We shall have to, as a last resort, go out among this year's high school graduates and (perish the thought) recruit men.

CAMPUS CHATTER

Another one of the hidden features at 'Berg is that ambitious sophomore who sleeps all day. Practising, he claims, so that he will be in good shape for his nightly sleep.

WHAT'S THE NAME OF THAT SONG?

On your marks, get ready, go,
The ref threw up the ball,
With fists a' swinging, and feet a' flinging,
It was a lively free for all
58, 69, both teams off sides,
But the safety man was too late,
For as the runners swung into the final lap,
The cleanup man slid safely across home plate,
Biff, boff, a punch to the jaw,
And three more to the head,
When the halfback failed on the final yard,
He wished that he were dead,
Dribble, dribble, a pass to Jones,
But a tackle cut him short,
And as he squirmed and grabbed for the headlock grip,
He was deluged with many a snort,
Foul on Murphy, yelled the ump,
Casey toed the line,
The ball sailed thru the stringy hoop,
The score stood nine to nine,
Not so fast, said Captain Jim,
The track meet shall be ours,
The ball came back, he tore around end,
Then dreamed of stars and flowers,
As the pitcher wound and hurled the ball,
There was a terrific din,
But the game broke up, they fell in line,
'Cause Bill Ritter was walking in.

ATTORNEY HOCK SPEAKS TO JOURNALISM CLASS

Attorney Donald V. Hock addressed Prof. Simpson's journalism class on the subject of "Libel" on Tuesday, May 5. After defining libel as "a malicious publication intended to blacken the character of any person in the public eye," Attorney Hock stressed the various legal implications of this offense.

He illustrated his viewpoint by giving examples from present day newspapers and commented on the manner in which they had committed this offense. These examples proved highly interesting and beneficial to students of Journalism pointing out how easily this offense might be committed unknowingly.

The speech was appreciated by the students, and Prof. Simpson extended a vote of thanks to this prominent young attorney who is an alumnus of Muhlenberg.

Mules Continue Losing Streak As Dragon Nine Takes Early Lead To Easily Win Philadelphia Contest

Max Warner and Eddie Farrell Each Collect Two Hits Off Bintzer

MUHLBERG SCORES IN THIRD, SIXTH INNINGS

The losing streak became much broader last Saturday when the Drexel nine defeated the Mules on Drexel field by a big 13-2 score.

The Dragons breathed fire and smoke right into the eyes of Gutteron's tossers in the initial inning to emerge from the fray with a four run lead.

Max Warner, diminutive Cardinal and Gray catcher, and Eddie "Scraper" Farrell, Mule third sacker, led the hitting for the locals with two apiece. All of these hits were made off Bintzer.

Harry "Doc" Kern had the pitching assignment for Muhlenberg and stuck to the mound for the duration of the game in spite of the barrage thrown about him.

The Philadelphians used two pitchers to gain their victory. Russ Bintzer, the starting pitcher, began to weaken in the sixth and was replaced by Jan Coltart. While he was in Bintzer kept nine 'Berg hits well scattered.

The first Cardinal and Gray run was scored in the third on Hunsicker's double and Kern's triple. The second and final Mule tally was garnered in the sixth on Nosal's triple and Farrell's single.

Baseball Team to Oppose Nine From Bethlehem This Afternoon

Two Defeats Spoil Record of Tennis Team In Past Week

Victories Over Local Team Scored By F. and M. and Swarthmore

SEEGERS UNDEFEATED THUS FAR THIS YEAR

A sad story must be told of the past week's tennis results. Two matches were played and both resulted in losses.

Last Friday the Cardinal and Gray courtmen opposed Swarthmore on the Oakmont Tennis club courts and came off with a 6-3 loss. 'Berg won only two of the singles matches and one doubles.

On Wednesday, May 6, the Cardinal and Gray lost a heart-breaking match to the courtsters of Franklin and Marshall by the close score of 5-4 on the local courts. The Nevonians were the first team to administer a losing dose to the Mules since Lehigh defeated them on April 18. The match was hard-fought to the very end. With the score at 4-all and one doubles match to be played, the F. and M. team composed of Hughes and Schleegeer staged a final rally to win from Koch and Seegers.

Rain spoiled one of the scheduled matches for the tennis team. Due to muddy courts, the game with Moravian at Bethlehem, Monday, May 4, was postponed indefinitely. Earlier in the season the game with Haverford was postponed for the same reason.

Jim Seegers continued his unbroken chain of victories with wins in both matches. Earl Koch, number 2 player, has only been defeated once thus far.

The summaries:

Swarthmore Singles

Albertson, Swarthmore, defeated Herzenberg, 6-4; 6-3.
Koch, Muhlenberg, defeated Whyte, 6-3; 6-3.
Hutson, Swarthmore, defeated Hartman, 6-4; 6-0.
Turner, Swarthmore, defeated Fischer, 6-1; 6-4.
Seegers, Muhlenberg, defeated Macy, 6-8; 6-4.
Doriss, Swarthmore, defeated Knauss, 7-5; 6-2.

Doubles

Herzenberg and Fischer, Muhlenberg, defeated Albertson and Doriss, 6-3, 6-4.
Whyte and Turner, Swarthmore, defeated Koch and Seegers, 6-1; 6-3.

Tennis Team To Play Dickinson on Monday

Completing the four home game series, the varsity racquetters will oppose the Dickinson team Friday afternoon, May 15, on the Oakmont tennis courts. This match should not prove itself a walk away for the local team, as the Carlisle team has retained most of their last season's material.

Again leaving Allentown on Saturday, May 16, the Cardinal and Gray will oppose the strong courtmen from Rutgers on the Rutgers campus at New Brunswick. Stiff opposition is expected by the locals, who are upholding an exceptional record for the season. Also the closeness to Friday's game may have its effects.

On Monday afternoon, May 18, they will return to Allentown to be matched against the Villanova courtmen. This will take place on the Oakmont courts.

Pre-Theological Club Hears President Haas

Speaking on the subject, "Essentials of a Real Pastor and Minister of Christ", Dr. John A. W. Haas addressed the Pre-Theological Club last Wednesday evening in the Administration auditorium at their last meeting for the current school year.

Outlining the essential things for future pastors, Dr. Haas stressed the need of prayer and meditation while still in college. "Prayer, meditation and temptation are the makings of a real minister of the Gospel", said the speaker. Speaking from years of experience, President Haas placed the necessary facts before the group for a successful life in the Seminary and encouraged a great deal of reading, both in studying and broadening the mind.

Dr. Haas spoke about the person's attitude when he is placed in the field. "Be a pastor to your people; visit them often and pray with them always, leaving the Word of God with them."

The speaker concluded his interesting talk by citing several experiences in his life as a pastor.

In the election of officers for next year Rollin Shaffer '37 was chosen president, Alfred Long '38 vice-president and Donald Pichaske '38 secretary.

CHAPEL SPEAKER LAUDS CHRISTIAN HOME LIFE

A plea for the development of a Christian home was the keynote of Rev. H. F. Herrmann's address at the Mother's Day vesper service in the college chapel last Sunday afternoon.

Speaking on "A Support for the People and the Land", the speaker cited that the two fundamental foundations for a nation were a Christian home and an unflinching obedience to one's parents.

Rev. Herrmann, president of the German Conference, stated that only when the spirit of Mother's Day becomes the spirit of every day can a nation be a success and that blessed indeed is the man who has honored his father and mother and has parents worthy of that honor.

Alpha Epsilon Circle, Muhlenberg chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, conducted its spring tapping ceremony last Friday morning in the Science auditorium and accepted six of the most outstanding men on Muhlenberg's campus into its organization as pledges.

The new pledges and their activities were: William Laing, president of the student body, and athletics; George Legg, baseball manager, and vice president of the student body; Rollin Shaffer, editor of the Ciarla, and scholarship; Alvin Roy, business manager of the Ciarla; William Griffin, secretary of the student body; George Machajdik, managing editor of The Muhlenberg Weekly, and scholarship.

Pre-Legals Elect Herbert Haas Head

Complete Plans Are Laid For Next Year; Mock Trial is Planned

Herbert Haas was elected president of the John Marshall Pre-legal club, at a meeting held last Thursday evening, at the A. T. O. house. The other officers elected were: Richard Rausch, vice-president; and Francis Knouss, secretary-treasurer.

The retiring president, Donald A. Hausman, revealed that the financial standing of the club was in good condition, and he urged the members to continue to strive for a greater pre-legal organization.

Among the activities for next year a suggestion was made to present a mock trial before the student body.

In conclusion, Dr. Henry R. Mueller, faculty adviser of the club, summarized briefly the growth of the club from its founding in 1933 until the present time.

SENIOR NOTICE

George Legg Will Be Vice-President During Next Term

William P. Griffin Chosen Secretary; George S. Boyer, Treasurer

NO PAY IN FUTURE FOR STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

By an over-whelming majority, William "Punchy" Laing '37, of Grantwood, New Jersey, was chosen president of the student body for next year in the elections held last Wednesday morning in the Science auditorium. Laing, a member of the 'Berg football, basketball and track team, succeeds George "Jiggs" Koehler as head of the Student council. Other men who were elected were: George Legg '37, of Paterson, New Jersey, as vice-president; William P. Griffin, '37, of Stonington, Conn., as secretary and George S. Boyer '37, of Allentown as treasurer. Merritt O. Frankenfield was elected head cheerleader with Michael J. Mylymuk and Carroll Hudders as his assistants.

The amendment which was proposed—that from the beginning of the 1936-1937 scholastic year, no student body officer shall receive any remuneration for his service to the student body—received a landslide majority.

Electric mantel clocks were given to Alvin H. Butz '37, and Walter H. Guigley '36, first and second place winners in the annual oratorical contest to represent Muhlenberg in the state contest.

Mid much heckling and noise, the treasurer read his report which showed a large balance. By a motion the money will be turned over to the Student Loan Fund for future use.

David Smith, chairman of the committee on the Student Body dance, gave some instructions concerning the dance which will be held May 29th at Dorney Park with Piff Moore and his Castle Gardeners.

Retiring officers of the Student Body are: George Koehler, '36, president; James Turell, vice-president; David Smith, treasurer.

Student Amendment

When the student body assembled last Wednesday morning and passed the amendment which stopped remuneration for student offices it made a wise move. The amendment was aimed specifically at the office of secretary of the student body. If one will remember, the amendment was first suggested when, in a previous general student meeting, a motion was made to create a salary for the student treasurer. In the ensuing discussion the facts were brought to light and it was learned that the student body officers in question did not accomplish any more work than did the like officers of many of our fraternities and clubs, who are not paid at all. The position of secretary of the student body was purely a "gravy job" and it did not require a long period of time for the students to see through the mist.

The position itself should be sufficient remuneration without pay being added. If recognition is to be desired then we have the student council keys which are quite properly awarded to the officers in appreciation of their work.

This movement will also have a lot to do in eliminating the undesirable type of politics aimed at the goal of a position paying for a negligible amount of work done.

A Conflict

Years ago, and it may still be in effect at the present time, there was a conflict between ancient and modern books—between the classical and the more liberal type. People would readily sacrifice the masterpieces of the ancients for "Gulliver's Travels" and the like.

Although this conflict is still in vogue today, it may be interesting to note that the situation is not so much a battle between the ancient and the modern books, but a battle in which both are threatened by modern inventions, notably the films and the radio.

It is not imperative or in any way a genuine probability that books will lose the battle. Sinclair Lewis, in an address before the American Booksellers' Association, bade the book dealers take heart, for although present conditions do not provide for a wide distribution of books—which may be due to the fact that popular taste has been too much influenced by best-sellers—still there is an open market for good books.

The wide sale of "Anthony Adverse" well illustrates the above point. There may be some who will not agree, saying that some of the modern novels are long and drawn-out affairs, too much for the individual to digest. Mr. Lewis, however, says that although they are "inferentially long, they can easily be skimmed or skipped."

As to the question of the films and radio replacing books, Mr. Lewis says, "I do not believe that the public will always be satisfied with the glaring screen or that they will forever prefer the unctuous verbal caresses of radio announcers to the many-colored pages of Dickens."

Although the author may be right in his conjecture, it is readily recognized that the screen and the book are not so antagonistic as one would suppose. If people read less, it may be due to some other reasons.

It is interesting to note, however, the pleasing note which Mr. Lewis strikes. It shows that people are still willing to read books despite the other conflicting interests which modernism presents.

EXPLANATION

Considerable comment was caused by the article entitled "Communications," which appeared in this space last week. Criticism of the article was particularly sharp from selective quarters. The Weekly wishes it to be understood that "Communications" was absolutely not a crack at Coach Julian. The article was a light satire on the Monday morning quarterback. It was written by a member of the class in journalism and enjoyed so much by that group that it was used in The Weekly.

Communications

The majority of students at Muhlenberg are those who have come from strictly orthodox Lutheran homes. They are inclined to be rather studious and rather dull. In the dormitories they are known as the theologs. Their greatest pleasure is derived from little jokes which they have among themselves, while scurrying to class or eating at the commons. Each Sunday people come to visit them in highly and carefully shined automobiles and while grouped around the embarrassed student they discuss the relative merits of other students who have shocked them on previous visits. Their studies are carefully prepared each day and their greatest dissipation is a jaunt to the 19th street theater to see a picture which they vehemently declare is strictly educational but secretly hope is not.

The second type is the lazy student. He does as little work as possible and always takes the maximum amount of cuts. He picks his way slowly and carefully across the campus to classes, slumps in a chair and wearily takes a few notes so that the ire of the professor will not be aroused.

This second specimen may or may not be intelligent, but he is always lazy. He refuses to go to a dance, because it is too much trouble to get dressed. He rooms on the first floor so he won't have to walk up one or two flights of stairs. His parents prod him weekly with letters, but he refuses to attempt getting better marks.

The third type is the hell-raiser. He never does any studying except once in a while to cram for an exam. He is always creating a disturbance in the dormitories by smashing things, or yelling at the top of his lungs early in the morning or late at night. He cordially dispises the other two types and never misses an opportunity to say so. The administration calls him to the office regularly each week and his parents lecture diligently but to no avail.

Every night he's either out carousing around or else in a bull session somewhere loudly repeating for the hundredth time his opinion and exploits with fellow students.

MAX MARANUK.

CREST PROFESSOR IS SPEAKER AT VESPERS

Showing that rural terminology in industrial centers is detrimental to church attendance, the Rev. Charles Bornman, Professor of sociology at Cedar Crest college preached on the theme "The Church and Community", at the community vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel last Sunday.

The speaker cited the gap between city and country churches as a direct cause in the loss of membership. Many city residents, he pointed out, come from rural sections and cannot feel at home.

"God," Professor Bornman said, "has a message both for the rural and metropolitan centers."

The chapel choir directed by Dr. Harold K. Marks sang "Hymn To Night," by Beethoven.

A short meeting of the freshman class was held last Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock to discuss plans for its part in the parade for Dr. John A. W. Haas.

The following committee was named; Charles Barrie, chairman, Samuel Snavely, Philip Blum, Gerald Kloss, Max Maranuk and John McKee, ex-officio.

It seems that a basketball dispute was at the bottom of the recent Tracy-Heffner quarrel.

Wermuth can no longer keep up his incessant flow of chatter. His new activity is keeping his hair from falling out. He should see Fry for advice.

Professor Zartman was lecturing on the structure of atoms. The period was drawing well nigh to a close, when Henry Walter asked just how atomic structure was determined.

"Well, now, that's a long story," said the professor.
"Please don't bother, professor," interrupted Walter, with an expectant look at the clock.

Does anyone know just what Kemmerle means by his "In case of accident or SERIOUS death"?

There was a terrific racket in the locker room. Everyone was excited. Some of the boys were just too stunned to move; others were carrying in water to revive those who had fainted. Klick had bought a pack of cigarettes and was calmly distributing them to the boys.

In explaining the number of calories needed to properly nourish the human body, Dr. Shankweiler once told the freshmen, "And always remember that it's not the beer in itself which is fattening; but it's what you eat when you drink the beer."

In trying to draw an analogy to the theory of ionization, Prof. Knauss asked his freshman physics class, "Supposing a man would step up and hand you a lot of money, all in dollar bills. What would that suggest to you?"

The class replied in unison, "It would suggest to us that he had no 'sense'."

LET HIM RAVE

It can't be defined, I'm not pessimistically inclined.
But since I've been so submissive and meek,
I've meditated, contemplated, and debated,
How will I ever pass Greek?

My comprehension was low, mental faculties slow,
I was told it was time to choose,
So feeling drastic, I turned to a classic,
Boy, I must have been extremely loose.

Ever since it started, I wished I had parted,
But I was stuck in this ever-widening chasm,
I became characteristic of a weirdly mystic,
I was living in an unearthly spasm.

Murder is tame, and hanging is lame,
Compared to this nemesis of my soul,
I would gladly undergo all tortures and woe,
To depart from this awful hole.

Such manners, ts, ts, ts. Unmindful of conventional actions or proper etiquette, Prof. Homer Knauss strolled up Hamilton St. one Saturday evening, coatless and with his shirt sleeves rolled up, accompanied by his fiancée. At least (judging by his happy, pacific countenance) he seemed to be enjoying himself.

Another Muhlenberg contribution to the hall of fame. Buddy Bergenstock was the only one able to blow all the candles out with one puff at a recent birthday party, which just goes to prove the truthfulness of the old saying "small but mighty".

Snyder Elected Head Of Alpha Kappa Alpha

Other officers elected are George Machajdik, vice-president; Alvin H. Butz, Jr., secretary, and Lawrence M. Reese, treasurer.

M. B. A. Elects New Officers At Banquet

The Muhlenberg Business association held its annual banquet on Thursday evening, May 14, at the New Shankweiler hotel. The annual function was attended by approximately twenty-five members who are anticipating entering the business profession. The speaker was Prof. Roland F. Hartman, instructor in business at the college. During the course of the evening the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: president, Thomas T. Kennedy; vice-president, Merritt O. Frankenfield; and secretary-treasurer, Herman E. Doepper. David Booth is the retiring president.

GETTYSBURG PITCHER DISPLAYS FINE FORM

The second of two shutouts was administered to the baseball nine on Saturday when it lost an 8 to 0 contest to Lebanon Valley on Muhlenberg's field. For four innings both teams appeared unbeatable but at that time the Cardinal and Gray began dropping into the error habit.

The Flying Dutchmen got one in the fifth and sixth, two in the seventh and four in the eighth. It was in the eighth that "Doc" Kern, Mule starting pitcher, had to be replaced by Harold Sell. 'Berg's catcher was also replaced by Gutekunst in the eighth, because of a split finger.

The Gutteron-coached infield looked bad on several occasions, due to faulty ball-handling.

Another close game went on the boards as a defeat last Thursday at the hands of Gettysburg, when John Deardorff, the Gettysburg freshman twirler, shut out Gutteron's men without a hit or run. Gettysburg won the game 2 to 0, scoring both its runs on Muhlenberg errors.

Bartleson was assigned to the mound for Muhlenberg and throughout the game kept pace with the Gettysburg flinger. He silenced all the big guns of the visitors by allowing but three scattered singles and striking out eight batters, but errors by his teammates caused his downfall.

For five innings the game progressed very rapidly with neither pitcher being in trouble at any time but in the sixth after two men were out, Yevak, Gettysburg outfielder singled, stole second and went to third on Weems' sacrifice. He then scored the first run when Hunsicker muffed Raymond's fly. In the ninth inning Weems hit to Bartleson but was safe when Bartleson threw wild to first. Weems then went to second on the overthrow from where he scored on O'Neil's long fly. Meanwhile Deardorff handcuffed the Cardinal and Gray batters to complete a no-hit no-run game.

With only two more outs needed to make the game official, the "Mule" nine came off without a victory over Lehigh last Wednesday afternoon on the college diamond. Although leading by the score of 10 to 9, a cloud-burst brought the game to an abrupt end. Harold Sell, starting pitcher for Muhlenberg was knocked out of the box in the first inning of the shortened ball game with the Engineers collecting five runs, one being a home run by Pennauchi. Coach Bill Gutteron then placed Harry "Doc" Kern on the mound for 'Berg. Kern held the Lehighians to four runs.

Muhlenberg's rally came in the third when with the bases loaded, Imbt of Lehigh walked Farrell, forcing a run. Then Maxie Warner, catcher for 'Berg, slammed a hit over second, scoring two runs.

Lehigh did little in their half of the fourth, and then the Mulemen

Temple and Dickinson Taken by Mules on Rebound From Swarthmore Defeat

RUTGERS TEAM EASILY DEFEATS LOCALS 8-1

The Cardinal and Gray netmen won two and lost one during the past week of play.

On Saturday the racquetters dropped an 8 to 1 contest at New Brunswick to the Rutgers courtsters. Herzenberg was the only Muhl player to win his match.

On Friday, May 15, the Mules polished off Dickinson by a 6-3 score. Although the score was not close the matches were hard-fought throughout. "Jim" Seegers, after winning eight straight matches finally went down to defeat under the torrid volleyings from Wertz of Dickinson.

The Crusaders brought their list of victories to six when they de-took up their scoring streak where they had left off in the third, this time from Lincoln, a new pitcher for Lehigh. A single by Green, a triple by Dietrich, who was out trying to steal home, a single by Matusa, and a single by Hunsicker put the Mules ahead. But the weatherman didn't hold off long enough, for rain began falling in torrents leaving the predicament of one out and two on base for the Gutteron proteges.

Varsity Racquetters Will Complete Season

The varsity tennis team is completing its season with two games this week. On Monday the racquetters stacked up against Villanova, on the Oakmont courts. The Mules took last year's contest by a narrow 5-4 margin.

The concluding tilt will be staged today away from home when the Cardinal and Gray opposes Gettysburg. Last season's scores show a 7 to 2 balance in favor of Muhlenberg's victorious courtmen. However the Villanovians promise to offer stiff opposition.

In two, Phi Kappa Tau retained their top position in the intramural race. Non-Frats held on to second place while A. T. O. advanced to third place in nosing out the Delts. As the Delts were dropping into fourth place T. K. N. garnered 40 points to slide ahead of T. U. O. for fifth position. The latter managed to stay in sixth place while the Cards vacated the cellar, making room for the Grays who dropped three places.

Monday

The Cards went on a hitting spree to trounce the Non-Frats 34-19 in playground ball. A. T. O. also had quite a slugfest in beating T. U. O. P. K. T. won from T. K. N. in three torrid volley ball games 12-15, 15-10, 15-7, while the Grays forfeited their volley ball game to the Delts. The Delts beat the Grays 6-4 in tennis while T. K. N. won easily from P. K. T. 6-2.

Tuesday

The Delts beat the Grays 14-5 in playground ball while P. K. T.

Track Team Withdraws From Middle Atlantic

The Cardinal and Gray track team did not run at Swarthmore last week-end. Gutekunst, who pulled a muscle in the qualifying heat at Dickinson, was considered as the only Muhlenberg entrant likely to place. His injury, plus several other factors, made it advisable to cancel the 'Berg entries. The team will not engage in any more meets this year.

The cinder artists participated in one dual meet with St. Joseph's college at home and were entered in the Penn relay carnival at Philadelphia.

won from T. K. N. 16-8. A. T. O. beat T. U. O. 15-4, 12-15, 15-8 and the Cards beat the Non-Frats 15-12, 14-16, 15-4. The Non-Frats beat the Cards 6-4 in their tennis match while A. T. O. won from T. U. O. 6-2.

Thursday

T. U. O. had things their own way in trouncing the Non-Frats 20-12 in play-ground ball. T. K. N. lost to the Cards 15-11, 9-15, 16-14, in a close volley ball match while A. T. O. won from the Grays 11-15, 15-3, 15-10. There were no tennis matches played on Thursday.

Friday

The Grays dealt out a terrific lacing to A. T. O. in beating them 30-13 in play-ground ball while T. K. N., in another massacre, trounced the Cards 30-5. The Non-Frats won another close volley ball match by taking the measure of T. U. O. 15-7, 14-16, 15-9, and made it two straight over the fratmen by eking out a narrow 7-5 win on the court.

Cardinal And Gray
To Play Two GamesLehigh and Penn A. C. Next
On Schedule For Hard-Luck Mules

Out to redeem themselves after the no-hit, no-run defeat which they received from the Gettysburg nine, Bill Gutteron's ball heavers will be hot after victories when they meet Lehigh and Penn A. C. this week.

Although they have lost four games in a row and did not garner a single hit off Gettysburg's twirler, the 'Berg outfit has proven that it has punch and batting power. In the game against Lehigh last week, which was called off on account of rain, the Mules went on a hitting spree that scored ten runs in two innings.

Last year Lehigh defeated Muhlenberg by a 12-9 count, but later in the season 'Berg wreaked vengeance with a 5-4 win. She also dropped a close 2-1 decision to Penn A. C.; the Philadelphians repeated this year by trouncing the locals 17-5.

The Mules will meet the Engineers at Bethlehem today. The Penn A. C. team opposes Muhlenberg in Allentown on Saturday.

As yet Coach Gutteron has not decided who his hurlers will be. Otherwise the lineup is quite certain: Warner, catcher; Green, second base; Dietrich, first base; Nosal, center field; Farrell, third base; Korenko, shortstop; Matusa, left field; Hunsicker, right field.

Eta Sigma Phi HeadClassical Society is Guest of
Dr. Ettinger at Banquet

George Machajdik, '37, was elected president of Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, at a banquet tendered the organization by Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean emeritus, at the Americus hotel last Wednesday evening. The other newly-elected officers, who will serve during the 1936-37 term are: Rollin Shaffer '37, vice-president; and Robert Prutzman '37, secretary-treasurer.

The banquet marked the last meeting of the local chapter for the current year. Through the munificence of Dr. Ettinger, the banquet has become an annual affair.

After the banquet, the honorary members, which include Dr. Ettinger, Dr. Robert C. Horn, Dr. Harry H. Reichard, Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, and the Rev. Russell W. Stine, gave short addresses relative to the classics. The graduating members also spoke briefly.

The evening's program was brought to a close with the installation of the new officers by Phares O. Reitz, retiring president, and with the singing of the Alma Mater.

WPA will build a $54,000 stadium and athletic field for Emporia State Teachers' College.

20 Classes Gather Under "Dix" Plan To Renew Old Ties

Week-end Celebrations Give Opportunities to Renew Forgotten Bonds

TWO GRADUATED GROUPS HOLD SPECIAL REUNION

Reunions of 20 classes under the Dix grouping were held Friday evening throughout the hotels of the city. Outstanding among the reunions was that of "The Golden Keymen", the class of 1886, which was attended by seven members.

According to the Dix groupings the classes of 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894 met at the Hotel Traylor on Friday, May 29. A special reunion of the classes 1906-07 was held on Saturday, May 30, at the Hotel Traylor. The special reunion was held in order to have present the Rev. Edward T. Horn '07, brother of Dean Robert C. Horn and whose son Edward T. Jr., is valedictorian of this year's graduating class, who is on a furlough from his duties as a missionary in Japan. According to Dix grouping the classes of 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913 held a reunion on Friday, May 29, at the Lehigh Country club. The class of 1911 is celebrating their silver anniversary. A special reunion of the class of 1916 was held. Following the Dix plan the classes of 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 held a reunion on Friday, May 29, at the Elks club. The "two year olds," class of '34, held a reunion. Gordon O. Feller and Luther Wenner arranged the affair.

The Dix plan calls for a reunion of the classes of 1872, 1873, 1874, 1875; 1872 and 1875 have no survivors, the class of 1873 has three men while the class of 1874 numbers two survivors. At the time this paper went to press no definite plans had been formulated.

Five Men Elected To Student Council

Ed Schifreen Is Named Chairman of Freshman Tribunal

Frederick Dry, John Stump, Joseph Santopoli, Randall Zerbe and Thomas Kennedy were the five men elected to the student council by the non-fraternity group at its meeting on May 20.

George "Jiggs" Koehler, president of the student council announced that Edward Schifreen would be the chairman of the freshman tribunal. The other members of the tribunal will be appointed before school closes.

The next meeting of the council will be held in September when the new president, William Laing, will take over the reins. At that meeting the tentative budget for 1936-1937 will be submitted.

Seven Alumni Receive Golden "50-Year" Keys

The following members of the class of 1886 were presented with golden keys, emblematic of their having graduated from Muhlenberg fifty years ago, at the anniversary meeting held on Friday, May 29th, at the Hotel Traylor: the Rev. Charles W. Jefferis, Pen Argyl; the Rev. Edwin F. Keever, D.D., Wilmington, N. C.; Dr. Elmer P. Kohler, Cambridge, Mass.; the Rev. John F. Nicholas, D.D., Graniteville, Vt.; Elmer O. Reyer, Esq., Northampton; the Rev. Nelson F. Schmidt, Schwenksville, Pa.; the Rev. John H. Waidelich, Sellersville.

Session of Summer School For 1936 To Be Opened June 8

Special Session June 8 to 26 for Make Up Work Requirements

TWENTY FACULTY MEN WILL OFFER COURSES

The 1936 special session of summer school under the direction of Dr. I. M. Wright will open on June 8, for a period of three weeks. The regular summer session opens on June 29 for a period of six weeks. Twenty members of the regular college faculty will offer courses.

During the last few years the summer sessions have enlarged in great numbers. Under the able direction of Dr. Wright the school has become one of the finest in the east.

There will be courses in Elementary Education, Dr. Boyer, organic chemistry, Drs. Brandes and Keller; biology under Dr. John V. Shankweiler and Prof. Miller.

The work is planned to help those who wish to work off some of the college requirements or to make up existing deficiencies. All courses carry full college credit. Students will register for each course with the professor with whom they wish to do work.

A social program which should prove most interesting, is being planned by Mrs. Florence Keller. The T. U. O. fraternity house will be open for the full twelve weeks for women students. The T. K. N. fraternity house will be the residence for men students.

Dr. Fischer Gives Baccalaureate Talk

Mt. Airy Professor Has Son in Graduating Class

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Rev. Professor Emil E. Fischer, D.D., of Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel on Sunday afternoon. Professor Fischer's son, Theodore, is a member of the graduating class.

The text and resume of Dr. Fischer's sermon appear below.

II Cor. 12:9. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

"It is the second part of this text—that the power of Christ may rest upon me—which gives significance to the first. To glory in one's infirmities is neither virtuous nor meritorious. As a matter of fact, it is usually the mark of a sickly, morbid or self-centered soul, with a perverted view of life and an undeserved claim upon the world's sympathy. We soon grow weary of those who take a keen delight in talking about their troubles, about the handicaps which have stood in the way of their progress, or about the opportunities which never came to them. Often one detects beneath it all a bid for sympathy, a desire to justify

Retiring President

THE REV. DR. JOHN A. W. HAAS

Commencement Address

Members of the Class of 1936 and friends of Muhlenberg College:

On the night of the 22nd of June, 1904, 32 years ago, it was my privilege to assume the presidency of Muhlenberg college. Some of the policies which I then outlined have either proved wrong through change of conditions; or failed of accomplishment. Whatever progress has been made is largely due to the understanding and cooperation of the Trustees, the faculty, the church, the alumni, the Woman's Auxiliary, and the people of Allentown. But we have not met to laud what has been done, but to make a critical review, which can also serve as a motto for the graduating class. My subject is "THE BEST IS BAD ENOUGH"—why have I chosen it?

Accomplishment Incomplete

It was my privilege some years ago to make the acquaintance of a gentleman, who manufactured the delicate scales for chemical laboratories, and testing machines. These scales and machines must be very finely adjusted, and they must be exceedingly accurate to answer their purposes. The chemical scales are enclosed in a glass case and some of the very minute weights are handled by forceps. When I saw some of the work which was done in the establishment of this gentleman I said to him "What fine work you are doing; it must be a great satisfaction to turn out such excellent scientific material". He answered me curtly "the best is bad enough". This motto impressed itself upon my mind and heart as of great value and worth in measuring all human attainments.

It is well for you, members of the Class of 1936, who are about to graduate, to remember that whatever you may have accomplished according to your several capacities and talents, if carefully scanned, dare not be a mere satisfaction for you to rest upon. If you have really lived up to your best possibility, and not rested complacently by living along the line of least resistance, even then the best that you have accomplished will appear to you more and more as incomplete, and in the light of ideal attainment bad enough. It is to be hoped that as you go out, either to advance study, or directly into some profession or occupation, you may profess with you the conception and the ideal, that the very best which you can do is far from perfect. Again and again college men and women, after they have left the academic halls and are thrown into the contacts with men and women in making a living, accept the prevalent practices of business or profession, instead of testing themselves by the implied or expressed codes of morals in their various vocations. I appeal to you to make the vocations into which you enter better by striving for the highest ideals, and feeling that your best endeavors and deeds are bad enough. It is to be hoped that you will not be completely enslaved by the tasks of your occupation, but that you will seek to keep on cultivating your mind and heart and to become not mere trained performers of certain acts but cultured people with a taste and a desire for all fine and high things in every sphere of knowledge and of life. The very feeling of your imperfections, the knowledge that the best is bad enough, will be a strong motive to make you greater personalities and finer characters than you are today.

Great Men Dissatisfied

The great and outstanding men of thought and genius have always been dissatisfied after accomplishing what the judgment of men has considered a great and noble work. Authors of high type frequently feel disgusted even after they have written their best books. William James confessed to this after the publication of his great volumes on psychology. When Tennyson had completed his marvelous poem MAUDE, which he considered his greatest work, he reacted with a sense of weariness and almost futility. Beethoven submitted some of his musical compositions to Papa Haydn. But Haydn did not correct much of Beethoven's work, and consequently Beethoven was not satisfied. Evidently Haydn at once realized the greatness of Beethoven, but Beethoven was still not satisfied with his best compositions. Among the painters of the Renaissance one of the greatest was Leonardo de Vinci. He constantly kept on experimenting and trying. We will possess his drawings which he made and erased, ever seeking, ever testing, never completely satisfied, for he was a scientific experimenter. On the walls of a refectory in a cloister in Milan he painted the great and noted painting of the Lord's Last Supper. Again and again his painting on this wall has had to be re-touched, and the very best that de Vinci produced was bad enough. There is no great architect, even including Bramante and Michael Angelo who did not feel the defects of the best work attempted. There is no perfect building and no perfect structure. The very best in style and execution is bad enough. Goethe said we can only know a small angle of truth, and never the complete circle. He confessed that it nearly broke his heart that we cannot know anything rightly. Only small minds

Dr. Haas Retires As College Celebrates 69th Commencement

Three New Alumni Clubs Are Formed

Eight Organizations Recently Held Meetings and Elected Officers

There has been unusual activity in Muhlenberg alumni organizations recently with eight groups holding meetings and three new clubs being formed in Harrisburg, Stroudsburg and Allentown.

Nine alumni were present at the organization of the new Harrisburg alumni club which they hope will soon have thirty members. The charter president is Dr. Robert R. Abernethy, '23, superintendent of Harrisburg schools. While Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig, alumni secretary attended this meeting, Registrar Benfer and Coach Julian represented Muhlenberg at a dinner meeting of the Monroe County alumni club at Stroudsburg. Rev. P. M. Wohlson, '09 was elected president.

The new alumni club in Allentown includes both men and women graduates. It held its initial gathering in the Americus hotel with J. Birney Crum introducing the main speaker and new football coach, Alvin "Doggie" Julian.

Noted Leader Will Be Rehrig Speaker

The Rev. Prof. Brown, of Union Seminary, Will Assume Lectureship

Announcement has been made that the Rehrig lecturer for the coming school year will be the Rev. Prof. William Adams Brown, of Union Theological Seminary, in New York City.

The speaker will use the general theme of "Questions of Personal Religion" during the series. The college has been extremely fortunate in securing the services of this well-known leader.

The Wilson M. Rehrig lectureship was established by the bequest of Rev. W. M. Rehrig, Ph.D., of the class of '79, for the purpose of making possible lectures on the "Evidences of Christianity."

Dr. Fritsch Plans To Give Summer Lectures

As is his usual custom, the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, professor of English Bible, will give a series of lectures this summer in addition to attending several Bible conferences. Dr. Fritsch began his lectures at Bethlehem on May 14 and will conclude with four lectures in Philadelphia in the middle of September. He received invitations for fifteen conferences this summer but was able to accept only nine of them.

HONORARY DEGREES

Six honorary degrees were granted to outstanding professional men today during the commencement exercises. The men and their degrees are given below:
LL.D., Mr. George Miller, '87.
A. E. D., Dr. Luther D. Reed.
Pd.D., Supt. Samuel Farsold.
D.D., Dr. William C. Schaeffer.
D.D., Rev. Charles Grant, '11.
L.H.D., Dr. John A. W. Haas.

Responsible For Great Steps Making For Progress of Institution

HONORED IN EXERCISES WITH L. H. D. DEGREE

Few indeed are the college presidents who can look back upon a period of thirty-two years as head of one institution. Dr. John A. W. Haas, who officially retired as head of Muhlenberg this morning at the sixty-ninth commencement exercises, has presided over the destinies of Muhlenberg for that period of time.

Assuming charge of his duties in 1904, when he was in the early prime of life, he can now look back with satisfaction to the many years of service to this institution.

In 1904, when Dr. Haas came here from a pastorate in New York city, the college was still located at Fifth and Walnut streets, housed in an antiquated building, with a campus less than a city block.

As Dr. Haas has grown, so has the college. In 1904-05 the new property was valued at about $500,000.00; today it is worth over $2,500,000.00. At the former date there were only the administration building, Berks and

Speakers Compete In Junior Contest

Five Orations Delivered in Competition for Prizes

The Junior Oratorical Contest was held last Friday morning in the old chapel in the Administration building. The winner was awarded the Clemmie J. Ulrich oratorical prize of $25. A second Junior oratorical prize given by the class of 1908 was awarded to the second best speaker. Both these awards were made at commencement today.

The entrants for the contests with their subjects were: J. Creighton Christman, "Millions for Crime, Pennies for Prevention;" M. James Coyne, "Who Pays the Bill?"; Francis T. Knouss, "Seeing Red?"; John P. Stump, "Are We a Lost Generation?"; Israel A. S. Yost, "The Dedication of Life."

The judges were: Attorney Kenneth Koch, Dr. Paul Miller and George M. Sowers '22.

1937 Ciarla Proves To Be A Big Success

The 1937 Ciarla arrived and was distributed last Monday at noon. The edition is based on a historical background which traces the history of the college and its presidents from its foundation in 1848. Rollin G. Shaffer was the editor-in-chief, Alvin Roy, business manager and Merritt O. Frankenfield, advertising manager. A large staff helped in making the Ciarla one of the finest ever produced. Credit is here to be given to Harry A. Curl for his skillful and patient work in making the copies of the "Alma Mater" and "Fair Muhlenberg".

The Past

Thirty-two years ago a new president assumed control of Muhlenberg college. That was in 1904. The institution was located in the downtown section of the city, close by the present armory. One building took care of the needs of the Allentown Seminary, then the name of the college. The classes were, of course, very small compared to the present numbers and the faculty was in accord with the small student body. During that time only the classical course was offered by the institution at Fourth and Walnut streets. It is both amusing and interesting to hear the old graduates tell of the "good old days." But as we listen we realize that behind all their fun in student life was a life of comparative hardship in comparison to the student world as we now know it. Subjects were attacked with pitifully inadequate amounts of apparatus to aid in the demonstrations; this was especially true in the scientific subjects. But from those humble surroundings emerged men who took leading places in the intellectual life of our country. Already at that time the gaze of our president would be directed toward the west end of the city where, in his imagination, he saw springing into prominence the buildings of the Muhlenberg-to-be. Amid his early days of hardship and struggle all was lightened and eased by the imagination which laid the foundations of our present school.

The Present

And now we hurdle to the present scene of Muhlenberg. The early hopes of Dr. Haas were backed up with the ambition and untiring effort which produced the results we call our Alma Mater. The college was transferred to the present site and the administration building arose from the once barren fields. Dormitory buildings followed and the college became worthy of the name. And finally the big building program was affected which gave us our splendidly equipped new buildings. Over four hundred students daily pass through the corridors and halls of seven different buildings, teeming with student activity. A faculty of over thirty well-trained and qualified men guides the scholastic destinies of the high school graduate and molds the intellectual life of the college student. Examples of their work are leading the business, professional and literary life of our day. But while all this transpires our beloved president firmly yet kindly manipulates the reins. We only see him occasionally as he delivers his inspiring messages from the pulpit of our beautiful chapel, but we feel his influence in the pulse and throb of the college. And today we pause to bid him farewell and to sincerely wish him the happiest of years as the twilight of life approaches.

The Future

The future looms bright with promising prospects. As we have looked behind and at the present we now turn to the horizon and see the possibilities of yet a greater Muhlenberg. A new gymnasium and a stadium are included in the hopes of today which we believe will some day materialize into the realities of tomorrow.

Announcement has just been made that Dean Horn will serve as acting president until the successor to Dr. Haas is elected. We are sure that under his capable leadership the college will continue to advance in prestige and in its value to the men who further their education within its walls.

Cardinal And Gray Defeats Engineers In Eleven Innings

Nittany Lions Turn Back Locals By 6-4 Score

PENNACS MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT OVER MULES

Coach Gutteron's tossers lost two games last week and won one. Penn A. C. defeated the Mules 15-6, on the local diamond and Penn State eked out a 6-4 victory at State College. The lone victory was registered in Bethlehem when the Mules defeated the Lehigh Engineers in 11 innings, 10-9.

Last Tuesday the Cardinal and Gray traveled to State College and were defeated by the Nittany Lions 6-4. Gutekunst, the first man up for the Mules, smashed a home run into centerfield to give the locals a one run lead, but from then on until the eighth inning, Ford, the Penn State twirler, pitched airtight ball. In the eighth inning, however, he weakened and before he was replaced by Smith, three runners had crossed the plate. However the Lions scored five runs in the first three innings, enough to win their sixth consecutive victory, the eleventh win of the season.

rest contented with their work, and go about with an expanded chest measure.

Best Ideal Difficult

It is very hard, under present conditions and in the present status of affairs, in the world of thought, in society, in government, in political life, and even in ecclesiastical affairs to try and maintain the best ideal defective as it may be. An English philosopher has well characterized some of the influences to which young men and young women today are subject in the following words: "One of the outstanding developments of the post-war years has been a revolt against sophistication and a romantic cult of the primitive. The post-war repudiation of the traditional discipline in conduct has been accompanied by a repudiation of traditional disciplines in art. Negroes and jazz, the emanation of negroes, the jungle and the Ju-Ju of Epstein's statues, the emanation of the jungle and the Ju-Ju, the music of Stravinsky and the pictures of the Surrealists are acclaimed just because they are not in the classical tradition; because they do not embody the traditional aesthetic virtues, the virtues of clarity and poise and studied beauty of form."

STERNER BATTING .380

Lloyd Sterner, class of 1935 and former 'Berg baseball player, is batting an average of .380 for the Dayton club of the Middle Atlantic League, to which team he was farmed by the Allentown Brooks, with whom he has a contract.

Again the same author says:

"The phenomenon of school-girls jettisoning their gods is only one expression of a deliberate cult of childishness in thought and expression, in music, morals and art. We talk in words of one syllable from a deliberate limited vocabulary, produce deliberately neo-primitive pictures and statues, croon nigger songs without tune or sense, as we gently direct one another to and fro in dances which, needing neither skill nor vitality, are equally lacking in gusto and in grace. We tear over the earth's surface along roads of brick-box straightness, past houses of brick-box dimensions, in order to arrive in record time at places in which we shall do nothing at all. Our novels are concerned with the activities, physiological and psychological, of those parts of our organism which we share with animals, children and savages, and devote the often not inconsiderable intelligence of their authors to represent human beings as creatures devoid of intelligence, whose actions are motivated from the solar plexus rather than from the brain. "A glaring example of such literature is "Anthony Adverse".

Struggle Is Hard

When in addition to these phenomena we begin to realize the present situation in institutions of higher learning, and in the world outside, it becomes still more clear how hard we must struggle to strive for the best. In the claim of academic freedom there has been mingled an attitude of cynical and supercilious rejection of high moral principles and of religious truth. The very foundations of anything supernatural are undermined, and with this process of sapping there also go radical theories of society and government that bode ill for the steady development of the American conception of sound and progressive government. I need but for a moment to call your attention to the glaring evils of political life in which so many men, who have started with high ideals become contaminated, and even interfere with the proper conduct of justice. There is a very average life of the great mass of people who are caught up and enslaved by material interests and by a life on the surface of things. The world is full of efforts to destroy freedom not only in the European dictatorships, but also in the whole conduct of human life. There is an increasing limitation of personal liberty, and a constantly growing regimentation in every sphere of life. In part this tendency has brought about the low morals and practices in modern life. In the churches also we find much worldliness, much contradiction of the great source of truth and revelation through speculative modernism, much engagement in mere social projects apart from the spiritual emphasis, and much negligence in the carrying out of the spiritual task of the Church. In many quarters its purity has been defiled, and its ideal has been forgotten. But let me not be understood as undervaluing much noble and self-sacrificing labor carried on by many humble ministers and devoted people. After all the church functions more efficiently for the common good than the State with its constant encroachment on personal rights. But how shall colleges meet these conditions, and preserve their integrity?

Poor Use of Language

In a Phi Beta Kappa address delivered nearly a hundred years ago by Ralph Waldo Emerson there occur these significant words, which we do well to mark today: "Colleges, in like manner, have their indispensable office,—to teach elements. But they can only highly serve us, when they aim not to drill, but to create; when they gather from far every ray of various genius to their hospitable halls, and, by the concentrated fires, set the hearts of their youth on flame." What noble and significant words! They still beckon us on. It should be the function of the college and those who live within its walls, to be stimulated to highest creative possibility. Unfortunately, however, colleges are still compelled to use drills which have been neglected in the education that should prepare for college. In our American system we are always building story upon story in the educational structure without re-examining the foundation. Expansion and inflation is an American habit. Much that we do fails to rest on a solid basis. We Americans are very poorly drilled in language and we are not at all language-minded. No people use their own language so poorly as we Americans do. Consequently the college, which should lead into the genius and culture of different nations and peoples, and try to give an answer to confused problems at home, frequently spends its time in the drab drill of grammatical structure that should have been complete before college entrance. There are many fundamental facts that ought to have been acquired before students come to college so that the college might develop more thorough methods of study, larger imagination, and creative work. But all too frequently colleges must labor to teach those who enter it proper methods of study and concentration upon work. These are some of the great hindrances which today prevent colleges from attaining somewhat to the ideal which Emerson has so well stated. Nevertheless they must labor on, although they feel that they are hampered even in the imperfect realization of the best. So many people are crowding into colleges under the plea of the widest democratic education, who ought to be debarred or eliminated at an early period. The colleges still suffer from the indigestion of indigestible students, and therefore they have constant stomach trouble. But they are supposed to suffer this stomach trouble for the sake of finances. Colleges are also expected, because of the desire of their alumni and friends to put on successful and triumphant athletic shows in order to give to the spectators a thrill of action and play. It is a sad thing that the athletic successes and crowds of an institution are more advertised and estimated by alumni, than the attainments of scholarship among graduates who make high records for themselves in study and research.

Moral Ideals Lacking

The fires of which Emerson speaks will never be lighted in human hearts through academic study which fails in moral ideals. In many places there is no emphasis upon moral culture and moral guidance during college days. The small colleges, and especially the church-related colleges, are striving hard to inculcate high ideals and practices, but they are constantly met in opposition by the lack of strong standards in families from which students come, and in the general practice of society. It is a constant fight to try to approximate to the best in personal life under the temptations and the counter-pressure of modern conditions. Therefore, if we do not attain what we desire in sending out all graduates with the highest kind of character we do not beg for an excuse, but we ask that facts be considered, while we labor on in the contest of trying to re-shape habits already set into better moral molds. The college must build upon foundations laid, and often it finds very poor foundations. The present attitude in many homes is one of indulgence and control by sons and daughters, instead of guidance into a good and happy life, which our ancestors understood and practiced better than we do. Fortunately many young people are wiser in their use of unrestrained liberty than the laissez-faire practice of their parents might lead us to expect.

one's lack of achievement, or even an element of self-pity, the last refuge of the timid and defeated soul.

Paul gloried in his infirmities, but for no morbid, sentimental or apologetic reason. He had a purpose and his only intent in speaking as he did was to reveal that purpose. For him his infirmities had cleared the atmosphere and had enabled him to discard all half-truths and subtle rationalizations and discover the source of true power. He gloried in infirmities that the power of Christ might rest upon him. It is this Christ who can undergird life and establish it upon a firm foundation even in the midst of this change, keeping it sane and strong."

The heart must be sacred fires. A psychologist has lately written a book, after examining thousands of cases, in which he claims that a sound religion is a necessity for a sane and happy human life. It is a strange experience that in many cases neither the home nor the school, nor at times even the church, have kindled the fire of a religious and spiritual life. Many students think it strange that there should be daily worship in college; they have come from homes, even homes of professing Christians and church-members, where there is never a word of prayer heard in the family circle. The college which desires not only to give instruction in religion, but to foster worship has a tremendous task over against the religious indifference which it finds on the part of many students, an indifference which has been brought about by the prior neglect in home, and school, and church, to develop the habits of worship. God has become a mere word and not a living presence, in whom we live and move, and have our being. There is no hidden life through Christ in God. I am putting all these facts squarely before you not to serve as an alibi in acknowledging where the college has failed, but to make you realize the task which is before a college president in a church college. I am making no complaint but only facing the facts and reality, and hoping that my successor will be able to bring the college closer to the realization of the best even though it be bad. I hope to live and see a truly greater Muhlenberg. My task has been underground endeavoring to lay sound and strong foundations. May the coming years show a vital growth in even more thorough scholarship, in finer culture, in deeper morals, and in a more intensive religion.

DR. HAAS RETIRES AS COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Rhodes' halls, and the power house with the chemical laboratory. In 1905 the president's house was built. Today the buildings include the Allentown Preparatory school, the Commons, treasurer's home, science building, library, the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel, Luther League hall, and other sections of the dormitories.

The endowment has increased from $170,000.00 to nearly $939,000.00. The faculty has been enlarged from 10 to 37. In the Extension school, which was begun in 1915, there are now over 900 students. Muhlenberg ranks third in the State in the number of women and men in extension school. The influence of the college in the cultural and educational work of the community has vastly increased. In the earlier period, a graduating class of thirty was large; now about a hundred are graduated at each commencement.

EXTENSION HONORS

Five students are graduating with honors from the Extension School at the commencement exercises this morning. They are Ella Brennan, Shenandoah; Catherine C. Keating, Mahanoy City; Gladys W. Montgomery, Lansford; Edith M. Laricks, Freeland; and Mary F. Schaller, Hazleton.

Muhlenberg has met with the approval of a large number of standardizing agencies and is now a member of the Association of American Colleges, and the Association of the Middle Atlantic States; it is also on the approved list of the Association of American universities.

This brief sketch will give some idea of the growth of Muhlenberg in the last thirty-two years, while under the guidance of Dr. Haas. Space does not permit us to go into details, but it is hoped that the readers may gain some impression of the wonderful work done by our retiring president.
